Teneriffe Linens

Linen is pre-historic. We read of "People and Fine Linen" in the Bible, which is proof of its existence in the reign of Pharaoh. It is not generally known that Fine Hand Drawn "Taoro" Linens of Teneriffe Islands, are not costlier than other fine linens, but the atmosphere and water of these islands render them unmatchable. Besides the exquisite patterns and styles of the beautiful Thread Drawn Work are exclusive, and cannot be duplicated.

The Christmas dinner table looks twice as appetizing when the linen is white as snow with Teneriffe Hand Made Linen. Fair always picks the best, and you have the choice of the best here, and marvellously cheap :—

TO INVADE PANAMA

3,000 Soldiers Said to Have Left Cartagena for This Purpose.

CRUISER ATLANTA IS SENT

Brother Jonathan on the Alert to Moves of Colombians—U.S. Naval Officials, However, Decline to Admit Knowledge of Warlike Operations—More Yankee Herrings Across Scent of U.S. Intentions.

Colon, Dec. 8.—A rumor is in circulation here to the effect that 3,000 soldiers have left Cartagena for the purpose of invading the Isthmus. No details are known, and the rumor could not be confirmed last night. It probably had its source in Port Limon, Costa Rica, where it was brought by steamer from Cartagena. The only possible means of approaching Panama is by narrow and difficult mountain passes through the Indian country. The United States cruiser Atlanta is now off the Indian coast.

HERRINGS ACROSS THE SCENT.

Yankee Warlike Intentions Veiled Under Covers of Colombians' March.

Washington, Dec. 8.—The despatch of the United States cruiser Atlanta to the Gulf of Darien is of great importance and interest in connection with the rumor from Colon of the departure of the Colombian soldiers for the Isthmus of Panama. The gulf is about 180 miles east of Colon, and the cruise in those waters will enable the Atlanta's commander to keep in close touch with the developments at Cartagena, from which place it is rumored that soldiers are to march. United States naval officials decline to say whether the despatch of the Atlanta is the result of any intimations of war-like operations on the part of Colombia. Nevertheless the departure of the vessel is regarded as significant, indicating the intention of the United States to be on the alert. To the Colombians in Washington the reports from Colon produced a mystifying effect. They will not say whether they believe the rumors or not. The Colombians believe there are 8,000 or more soldiers at Cartagena and the various points along the sea coast available for an invasion of the Isthmus.

Have a Full Statement.

The Commissioners from the Department of Bolivar, who came to Washington to learn the American attitude respecting the Isthmus, will leave New York for Colombia Saturday. They will sail for Cartagena. They have secured a full statement of the condition of affairs.

The Associated Press correspondence from Colon, giving an account of events on the Isthmus of Panama at the time of the revolution, was eagerly read by Gen. Reyes and his associates here. Gen. Reyes said last night that the acts of Col. Torres in accepting money for embarking his troops is now under inquiry in Cartagena.

The Panama Treaty.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Official information of the ratification of the Junta of Panama of the Isthmian Canal treaty has been received by the United States Administration, and the President will send to the Senate the treaty for ratification by that body.

BODIES WASHED ASHORE.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 8.—The vessel which was wrecked on Ferryland Head, near Cape Race, during a furious storm at midnight Friday last, proves to be the Danish schooner Sigrid Petersen, from Alicante, Spain, for St. John's. Her crew of five persons perished and their bodies were washed ashore.

Alaska Award Pleases President.

Washington, Dec. 8. — President Roosevelt in his annual message to Congress, after recounting the steps that led to the formation of the Alaskan Tribunal, said the result is satisfactory in every way. It is of great material advantage to our people in the Far Northwest. It has removed from the field of discussion and possible danger a question liable to become more acutely accentuated with each passing year. Finally, it has furnished a signal proof of the fairness and good will with which two friendly nations can approach and determine issues involving national sovereignty, and by their nature incapable of submission to a third power for adjudication. The award is self-executing on the vital points.

Killed By Trained Lions.

Dessau, Duchy of Anhalt, Germany, Dec. 8.—Frau Fischer, a lion tamer, was yesterday trying to make a lion spring through a hoop and struck him with a whip, whereupon he leaped upon her and disembowelled her at one stroke. The woman shrieked once and the three other lions joined in the attack and fought among themselves for fragments of her flesh. There was a frightful panic among the spectators and many were injured.

OTONABEE RESIDENT HAS PASSED AWAY.

Death of Mr. John Cleghorn Sunday —The Funeral Arrangements.

The sad death of Mr. John Cleghorn, of Otonabee, occurred on Sunday last, after an illness of about three weeks from Bronchitis. He was in his 73rd year and was born in Scotland, coming to Canada in the fifties and taking a position with the W. A. Scott lumber firm. Later he purchased a farm in Otonabee, Lot 25, Con. 10, and was a successful agriculturiste. Besides a widow there survive him three sons, William, Peter and Robert, all at home, and Mrs. Joshua Chambers, of Otonabee. Mrs. Cleghorn was twice married and Mrs. Jas. France and Mrs. Wm. Hatherly of Otonabee, are daughters. The late John Cleghorn was for many years a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and friends who admired his many sterling qualities will learn with regret of his death.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.30 from the homestead, Otonabee, to Little Lake cemetery, service being held at the residence at 1.30.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The report that is being so assiduously circulated around town by interested parties that the Otonabee Power Co. and the Peterborough Light & Power Co. have amalgamated and are all one, is absolutely false and untrue in every particular.

The Otonabee Power Co. have never at any time in their history, in any way, shape or form, offered to sell out or amalgamate with any company, least of all the Peterborough Light & Power Co., being perfectly satisfied that we would receive a loyal support from every citizen having the present as well as the future welfare of Peterborough at heart. The Otonabee Power Co. has come to stay, and therefore ask the people to stay with the company that broke the monopoly, and we will stay with you.

Handsome Mining Company Office.

The new Peterborough office of the Stony Pass Mining Company, situated in the Bradburn Block, corner of George and Simcoe streets, is now completely furnished and equipped in an up-to-date and prosperous manner, with Mr. Robert Harrison as manager. The location selected is one of the most desirable in town, being right in the business centre, convenient and easy of access. The removal of the Eastern Branch Office of the company from Pittsburg to Peterborough, has been under consideration for some time, and the decision was consummated shortly after Mr. Robert Harrison's visit of investigation to the mines in Colorado, about two months ago. The stock holders of the Stony Pass Company, feel highly pleased with the very thorough and efficient manner Mr. Harrison performed his duties. Mr. A. A. Brown, of Silverton, Colorado, superintendent and general manager, has been in town for the past few weeks assisting Mr. Harrison in opening the new office and preparing for investors.

HOSPITALS TO TREAT CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

If the Council will Accept the Proposals Made Last Night.

St. Joseph's Hospital will Take Diphtheria Patients for $1,500 per year—Nicholls Hospital will Deal With Scarlet Fever

At the meeting of the Town Council last night two communications were received, one from the Secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Board and the other from Sister Agatha, of St. Joseph's Hospital. These communications contained propositions, the acceptance of which by the town, would provide for the care of contagious disease patients by these hospitals. The matter is one of special importance to the town, and the letters containing the proposals are published below. They were both referred to the Committee of the Whole to deal with.

The local Board of Health forwarded a letter from Sister M. Agatha, of St. Joseph's Hospital, in which the following proposition was made: That for a grant of $1500 this hospital will receive for treatment all cases of diphtheria in indigent patients that may seek admission for the year ending Nov. 1, 1904; that of this sum, not more than $200 shall be available for small-pox. The communication then went on to say that after carefully looking into the number of cases admitted during the past year it has been compiled that the total amount asked for would barely cover the cost of those who come in as charity patients. For a number of years this hospital has suffered an ever-increasing financial drain from its infectious department and during the epidemic last year was severely taxed. We are by no means anxious to continue the nursing and attending of diphtheria cases, all of which entails a great additional expense upon the management of the institution, especially as these patients require a whole flat for their accommodation. We are still nevertheless somewhat reluctant to refuse admission to those who, as a rule, are in more urgent need of careful nursing and close attention than ordinary patients, but as this is impossible under existing conditions, some new arrangements are imperative. It is expected that if the above proposition is accepted, the hospital burden will be so lightened as to render possible the continued admission of diphtheria patients.

Mr. John Crane, Secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Board, also forwarded through the Board of Health the following proposition, re infectious diseases:—Our Board after careful consideration, decided to withdraw from this branch of the hospital work, on account of the insufficient accommodation in time of epidemic, and also on account of the great expense connected with the ward, also from the fact that the majority of patients treated were of the non-paying class. The result has been large deficits each year directly traceable to that ward. With a view, however, to be of service to your Board in the position it is placed, our Board has decided to make the following offer:—This hospital will undertake the treatment of scarlet fever to such a number as our facilities will allow, at the daily rate of $1 per head, on condition that your Board will undertake that each patient going in is accompanied by a card of admission signed by your duly authorized officer, and that settlement be made when each patient is discharged. In order to carry out this arrangement we shall require to spend considerable money in improvement, and I would point out that the rate suggested does not, in our opinion, cover the cost of treatment, and maintenance.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Thompson, of Lillydale, N.Y., Grand Worthy Wise Templar, and Member of W.C.T.U., tells how she recovered by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am one of the many of your grateful friends who have been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and who can to-day thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old, I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact, I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles.

"My family and relatives were generally as gratified as I was. My niece had heard trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time, and she became well and strong, and her coming was a great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby. I know of a number of others who have been cured of different kinds of female trouble, and am satisfied that your Compound is the best medicine for sick women."—MRS. ELIZABETH H. ONTARIO FOR ONTARIANS.

A wood-pulp mill is about being erected on the Coast of British Columbia. An extensive mill at Chicoutimi, P. Q., is being equipped with very costly machinery. The American supplies of pulp-wood are running low. Mills are being closed down for lack of wood. Canada has a great future before her in this relation, if her rulers have sense enough to discern what present conditions point out. If, suggests the Finance Chronicle, we part with our raw material for the sake of immediately realizing upon it Canada will some day realize, when it is too late, the folly of the policy of conducting national affairs by theory instead of by practical experience. The Government in charge of the interests of Ontario have taken the lead in providing against the pulp resources of this Province being wasted or dealt with without giving the Province the fullest measure of value. No pulp-wood may be exported in an unmanufactured condition. It must be manufactured in this country and therefor our internal industries will be stimulated and employment given to labour, to those engaged in transportation and those who furnish machinery and other supplies.

MR. BRISTOL IN IT.

The public is gravely assured, by the Toronto News, which has undertaken the task of exposing Conservative political corruption, that there was but one central fund in the Provincial election of 1902. "How comes it, then," asks the Globe, "that we find Mr. Ryckman paying out money, and also Mr. Bristol; Messrs. Snider in Norfolk, Boyd in North Grey, and Lennox in North York all declared that they got their money in checks from Mr. Ryckman. Mr. Carscallen in Lennox swore that he got $500 in a check from Mr. Bristol. Were there two gentlemen authorized to draw checks on the purity fund, or were there two funds—one a purity fund and the other another fund; Mr. Bristol belongs to what The Mail would call the Tory "machine." Cannot we get from the original source some more information on these vexed questions?"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto World's insincerity is, says the Hamilton Times, shown in shrieking against the presence of Liberal organizers in North Renfrew, while saying not a word about the notorious Bob Birmingham, and his crew being sent thither by the Tories.

"It is better that we should remain in opposition than be brought into power through the instrumentality of a man of that kind," said Mr. W. R. White, K. C., referring to the sending of Gamey into North Renfrew. Mr. White is a prominent Conservative, and merely voices the sentiment of the better men of the party.

The Eganaville Star-Enterprise admits that a large proportion of the electors of North Renfrew are engaged in lumbering operations, and that they will be back to their homes for a few days at Christmas. "By holding the election then," it continues, "these men will have an opportunity to cast their votes, but whether these will go for the Government's candidate remains to be seen." Whether they do or not, it is to the Government's credit, says the Globe, that it courts a verdict when the greatest possible number of electors are on hand to vote.

SERMON ON "HOLY CATHOLIC CHURCH"

The series of sermons on "The Church," which Rev. W. L. Armitage is preaching in All Saints' church, is becoming increasingly interesting, and on Sunday night, when he spoke on "The Holy Catholic Church," every seat was filled. The preacher took for his text, the words, "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church," found in the Apostle's creed. His purpose was not to abuse but to point out the errors of those calling themselves Catholics. Our Lord had said, after the confession of St. Peter, that He was "the Christ, the Son of the living God," that upon this rock He would build His church, and it did not much matter for the present purpose whether the interpretation of "the rock" was taken as the confession of St. Peter, or St. Peter himself, for the assumption that the church meant the Roman branch was equally absurd, for it was in Jerusalem that the church was founded, and the church at Jerusalem was the mother of churches. The name "church" might apply to the whole church throughout the world as the Kingdom of God, or it might be applied to a church in a town or a country, as the church in Ephesus, or the church in Galatia, or it might be a single congregation, as "the church in their house." Yet the various branches were the one church even as various lodges in secular institutions still constitute the same institution. "Catholic," which means universal was first used to distinguish the Christian Church which was to spread throughout the world and include every nation, tongue and language, from the Jewish, which was national; later it was used to distinguish the orthodox from the heretical. We, as professing our faith in the Holy Catholic Church, did not for a moment consider that it applied only to the Roman church, as it was only a part or a branch of a Christian church and never was universally acknowledged either as to place, time or faith. She was not "the mother of churches," as shown by the Acts of the Apostles, for Jerusalem was the first organized church. She was not the "mistress of churches" but only one among many, and one which the apostle Paul warns that she may be cut off for unfaithfulness as the Jews had been. Our interpretation of "The church" is a congregation of faithful men and women to whom the pure word of God is preached and the sacraments duly administered, according to Christ's ordinance." Here is where we differ from the Roman Catholic Church, whose teaching on justification by works and tradition as of equal authority with the Bible and on the sacraments, we do not admit to be in accord with the pure word of God. We are Catholic as teaching the whole truth, and in preaching the truth to all the world. We are "Holy" as separated from the world, and leading to holiness of life.

An urgent appeal was made for a definite understanding with the Scriptures and the way of salvation, that we may make sure of being members of "the church" for it is "the Church" that is to proclaim the Name which is above every name, and it was to "the Church" that the Lord added daily such as were being saved. It is "the Church" to which Christ will come to receive His bride.

After the service a short memorial service was held when the rector referred in feeling terms to the late John Fanning, his business, his home and church life, in all of which he left an example worthy of imitation. Reference was also made to the late Mrs. Jas. Bourne as a faithful member and worker of All Saint's church.

C. P. R. COLLISION.

No Lives Lost—Both Locomotives Badly Wrecked Near Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 8.—Two Canadian Pacific Railway freight trains collided at an early hour yesterday morning between Nebitt and Bethven. It was a head-on collision with both trains running at top speed. Few details of the accident were obtained here.

From what could be learned, the accident was the result of orders overlapping. The two locomotives crashed into each other. The engineer and firemen of both trains jumped and were uninjured. The rest of the crew got off without injury.

The two locomotives were badly wrecked, and the cars piled up in the ditch on top of each other. The damage done is very considerable.

LEGS TORN FROM BODY.

Fred. Clifton Instantly Killed at Berlin Beet Sugar Plant.

Berlin, Dec. 8.—Fred Clifton, chief engineer of the Ontario Sugar Company's plant, was instantly killed at 9.10 yesterday forenoon at his post in the factory. He was caught in a belt and drawn into its grip of death in the presence of his assistants. Both legs were literally torn from the body—half way between the hips and knees—and the tremendous pressure had crushed almost every bone.

Pyramid Pile Cure Cures Piles Quickly, Painlessly, Without Danger.

People go along for years suffering with piles. They try this and that and the other thing from carrying a buckeye to getting treatment from a physician. They obtain temporary relief, maybe, but they are never quite cured. A little strain in lifting, excessive fatigue, a little constipation or a little diarrhoea and the piles come back.

They don't seem to amount to much, but they banish sleep and appetite. No position is comfortable. There is intense local pain and that dreadful feeling of weight in the perineum.

Maybe in the early stages some of the many salves on sale will afford temporary relief. If the case is of long standing there is only one speedy and sure remedy. It is Pyramid Pile Cure. Even in light cases it is the safest thing to use. Other applications may cure and may not. Pyramid Cure is always certain, always reliable, always brings comfort at once. Its prompt use saves months of severe suffering. In extreme cases it will save surgical operations, and their attendant dangers and discomforts. It is better than a knife. Will cure easier, quicker and safer. Thousands have used it. Thousands have been cured by it. The cost is trifling compared with what it does. The price is 50 cents. Most anybody would gladly pay ten dollars to be rid of piles.

All druggists sell Pyramid Pile Cure. Write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their book on Causes and Cure of Piles, which is sent free for the asking.

IMPORTANT MOVE IN INDUSTRIAL CRCLES.

Important Sugar Factory to be Removed to Peterborough.

An Interview With Mr. J. W. Garvin—A 700 Ton Factory for This Town—Future Prospects Bright.

The following is an extract from the Beet Sugar Gazette of Chicago, recently issued:

"Dresden, Ontario, Canada. — The Dresden Sugar Company started its factory on November 4th, and the management is well pleased with the prospects of this year's campaign. The company expects to harvest a total of about 30,000 tons of beets, and will have a run of nearly sixty days.

"The Wallaceburg Record-Herald recently reported that owing to a disagreement with the town authorities relative to the assessment of the plant, there is a possibility that the factory may be moved to Peterborough. It says, 'The way things are shaping themselves at present, Dresden may lose its big beet sugar factory. There is friction of a serious character between Capt. Davidson and the town council and the situation grows worse daily, with at present little prospect of a peaceful agreement. The disagreement is based on an error in the agreement, an error that unfortunately was incorporated in the statutes of 1902.

"It was agreed verbally between the company and the town that the assessment of the plant should be fixed on a basis of $20,000, but the town is demanding taxes on an assessed value of $400,000.

"Recently Cap. Davidson for the company, tendered a cheque for $1,700, which, however, was returned refused, on the ground that as it was not the total amount of his taxes, the town would not be justified in accepting a fractional part.

"Capt. Davidson now says he will move his factory elsewhere. In fact Peterborough is already negotiating with him.

"The technicality of which the town is said to be taking advantage to evade the verbal agreement is based on this clause of the statutes, which is declared to be founded on a misprint, or error in transcription, and reads thus:

"'The company shall remit to said company during said term of ten years all taxes upon said building, plant and machinery in excess of the sum of $20,000 annually.'

"It is held by Mr. Davidson that the clause should have closed with the words 'annual assessment,' which would have been conformable, he says, with the agreement. An appeal was made at the Court of Revision, but this was unsuccessful in securing any reduction.

"Mr. Davidson has filled his side of the agreement and spent $729,000 in building and plant.

"The ratepayers, it is said, do not concur in the action of the council, and are anxious that everything be done to retain the factory for the town. This feeling is shared by the surrounding district, which has been an important profit sharer by the production of beets."

MR. GARVIN INTERVIEWED.

Mr. Garvin, Managing Director of local Sugar Company, was interviewed as to the contents of the above:

Is there any truth in the above statement in its reference to Peterborough?

"Yes; in November we carefully inspected the Dresden sugar factory, and found it one of the best equipped and most perfect factories on the continent. The owner, Capt. James Davidson of Bay City, is a man of unlimited wealth who takes great pride in his possessions, and he set to work two years ago to build one of the best sugar houses in America. After careful inspection of seven first-class beet sugar factories, we decided that he had succeeded, and when in his indignation at the action of the Dresden Council he offered us his splendid 700-ton factory, including a $60,000 pulp-drier, built this year, at a price which involved a heavy financial loss to him, we were not slow in securing a written option. I might add that early in November we induced the Captain to visit Peterborough, and he was greatly impressed with the many advantages in this community pertaining to the best sugar industry; especially at our remarkably high sugar percentage."

Does Captain Davidson retain any financial interest in the factory after its removal to Peterborough?

"Yes; he is retaining an interest in the Peterborough factory to the amount of $400,000. The result of the transaction is that we shall get a 700-ton factory, together with a $60,000 pulp-dryer, at a price fully $100,000 less than the cost of any such factory hitherto erected on this continent."

Have you still any stock for sale?

"We are not yet all sold out, but expect to be in a few weeks. Several other Bay City capitalists have already intimated their intention of purchasing a large block of stock. It is easy to dispose of sugar stock to Michigan millionaires once you can satisfy them that a large supply of high-percentage beets is obtainable."

What are the prospects for next year's crop of beets?

"Excellent. We feel quite certain now of securing for next campaign not less than 6,000 acres. The farmers in the counties adjoining Peterborough are manifesting an enthusiastic interest in the sugar beet. Before Christmas we shall have in the counties of Northumberland, Durham, Victoria and Ontario, not less than 1,000 acres. Before May, we expect to have secured in each of those counties not less than 1,000 acres. As for Peterborough county, we have confidence that our local farmers will contract for 2,000 acres for the campaign of 1904-5. All who grew beets for us this year will be paid next season on the basis of sugar content. If in the future the beets of this locality test as high as they have done this year, many of our farmers will receive over $5.50 a ton. More than 20 carloads shipped from here tested on an average over 17 per cent. Two carloads went as high as 17.8 per cent."

FAIR AT ROYAL CITY

Great Gathering of Live Stock Breeders at Guelph.

THE PROVINCIAL WINTER FAIR

Entries Largely in Excess of Last Year, and Quality of the Exhibits Excellent —Busy Day, Indeed, Was Preparation Day—Everything in Excellent Shape —Initial Session of Ontario Experimental Union.

Guelph, Dec. 8.—Yesterday was preparation day of the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair. The splendid progress of the exhibition is evidenced by the increased number and quality of entries and the class of visitors from all sections of the country. Sheep and swine and other animals that took first and second and third prizes here last year are just arriving from the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, where they were accorded the same class excellence. Cars were being unloaded yesterday of prize winners from the Chicago show, where they took the blue ribbons in competition with entries from all parts of the world.

Altogether the session of 1903 is inaugurated under auspicious surroundings. In every department the entries are larger than last year. The quality has improved and the estimated attendance is much heavier than in previous years. The citizens of Guelph have risen to the situation. The visitors are pouring in, and they are being cared for with a system that indicates thought and energy.

Everything in Readiness.

Tuesday will witness everything ready for the business of the meeting. The last flag was raised last night, the final bunting woven in with the other decorations, and the last touches were given to the artistic features.

The buildings were the scenes of tremendous energy yesterday. Hundreds of men were engaged in driving stock to the stalls, draping the buildings and putting on the finishing touches.

The Cattle Exhibits.

The entries in cattle are about one-third more than were exhibited last year. In this branch there are 350 entries, 57 of which are dairy stock. The competition is particularly hot in the best grade steer sired by pure bred shorthorn bull. There are 32 entries in this class. For the best pair of fat animals there are 22 exhibits. There are 20 contestants for the best grade steer of two years and under three, and for the best grade steer one year and under two there are 17 entries. All the classes are well represented.

460 Sheep Entries.

In sheep there are 460 entries, and many of them are prize winners from Chicago, fresh from the scene of their victories. The competition is especially close in sheep, and is given zest by the announcement by John Campbell of Woodville, Ont., that he accepts the challenge of G. Howard Davidson, published Nov. 25, to show 15 Shropshire lambs, all out of his own flock. He adds that he would have accepted the challenge from the same source for the best lambs, but he had disposed of most of his best the past season.

379 Exhibits in Swine.

In swine, there are 379 exhibits. This is no increase over last year, but there are several new exhibitors and the quality is improved.

In poultry the exhibits are nearly double what they were in previous years. Several associations have joined for this session and the birds displayed promise to be the most notable ever seen in Ontario.

25TH ANNUAL MEETING.

Initial Session of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union was opened yesterday afternoon in the Ontario Agricultural College. The meeting had a large attendance of the pupils of the school, and a number of ex-pupils are expected to arrive to-day. President Nelson Monteith of Stratford, was in the chair, and in addressing the union said that there were 3,845 farmers throughout Ontario who made experiemnts last year and sent in reports.

C. A. Zavitz, the secretary, said that the report of last year's meeting had been printed in a pamphlet of 97 pages, and 25,000 of these had been distributed among Ontario farmers. The ex-students of the O. A.C. now residing in the United States had formed the "American O. A.C. Union," and others residing in Manitoba, Northwest Territories and British Columbia had formed a Western O.A.C. Union. Other unions of ex-members had been formed in Ohio, Nebraska, Wisconsin and New York.

Farmers' Reading Courses.

J. C. Gilmore, of the Experimental League of Cornell University of Ithaca, N.Y., said that in New York State the university with which he was connected had established two courses for the reading of the agriculturists, one for the farmer and the other for his wife.

W. R. Graham, B.S.A. of the O.A.C., spoke on the results of co-operative experiments in poultry raising. An interesting discussion followed.

C. A. Zavitz, B.S.A., in his address on the results of co-operative experiments with field roots and fodder, silage and hay crops, said that there was a great increase in the number of people who were sending in their reports every year. The plots used this year are one rod wide by two rods long, thus making an eightieth of an acre. Formerly they used to be four rods square, making the total one-tenth of an acre, and previous to this it used to be half an acre. These plots were too large and occasioned a great deal of trouble on the part of the experimenter. The operations this year went along thirty-four distinct lines, and of these thirty were with spring crops, and the remaining four with winter crops, forage, fodder, silage and hay crops. For the last four years experiments have been going on with corn grown in squares or hills in comparison with planting the corn in rows with the same amount of seed in each case. The result was slightly in favor of the hills or squares.

Feeds and Fodder.

Prof. G. E. Day took up the principal feeds and fodder available to Ontario farmers, and place and feeding value of each in the agriculture of our province. It was decided not to give the cattle too fattening food, as it made them unhealthy, nor was it best to go to the other extreme and give them entirely hay or starve them too much. He deprecated the condition in which some of the foods and fodder were kept in musty, unhealthy bins and stables with the mould clinging to them, and said that no self-respecting animal would look at it.

The evening session was largely attended. The program was interesting and included speeches by two famous scientific agriculturists of the United States, Prof. W. J. Spillman of the National Agricultural Department at Washington, and Miss Martha Van Rensslaer, superintendant of the Domestic Science Department of Cornell University. Each complimented the farmers and people of Ontario, and frankly said that the industrial progress of the province was away ahead of the United States. President D. Mills presided in the absence of Mr. Dryden, and Prof. G. E. Day replied to the subject intended for Prof. Mills, "Progress of the Ontario Agricultural College."

The Farm Home.

The farm home was the subject of Miss Van Rensslaer's remarks. She said to keep the boys on the old farm it was necessary to first teach the girls to stay at home. That was the secret. Domestic science was the secret of woman's contentment on the farm.

Mr. C. C. James spoke of Ontario farm statistics. He explained the manner of gathering statistics, and the method by which comparisons and deductions are made.

Farm management was the subject of Prof. Spillman's remarks. He confessed that the Canadian farmer was superior to the American farmer in management. He attributed it largely to the practical education received in farm matters. It was the little things on the farm intelligently directed, he thought, that made success. Long hours and hard work never secured success in any vocation. It was intelligence, combined with hard work that brought success on the farm.

Surprised Yankees.

During the course of his remarks Prof Spillman said: "The Washington Agricultural Department has been astonished with the practical workings of the Ontario Experimental Union. We are unable to understand how you Canadians maintain an association with such a vast membership all working in harmony in producing agricultural experiments. We can't do it in the States. All over the United States the Guelph Agricultural College is known. We have many of your graduates occupying positions on the faculties of our big universities. I say we experts of the Government of the United States are proud of your people of Ontario. We find that you do not believe in the old farm idea of working too much and thinking too little—a pound of brains here I find worth a ton of muscle."

Mr. W. H. Muldrew, Dean of Macdonald Institute, closed the entertainment on some of the aspects of nature study

Wonderful Bird Flight.

The most wonderful bird flight noted is the migratory achievement of the Virginia plover, which leaves the northern haunts in North America and, taking a course down the Atlantic, usually from 400 to 500 miles east of the Bermudas, reaches the coast of Brazil in one unbroken flight of fifteen hours, covering a distance of 3,200 miles at the rate of four miles a minute.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing If it Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

CANADA'S TEMPTATION.

London, Dec. 8.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Selborne, at the Liberal-Unionist demonstration at Edinburgh yesterday, declared: "We are trustees of the Empire. If Canada, Australia and South Africa are allowed to go their own way and each item to be overweighed by nations whose population may be numbered by the hundred million, they must always remember the temptation to Canada to enter into an arrangement with the United States. The export of manufactured articles to foreign countries has fallen off £18,000,000 in eleven years, while the exports to the colonies has increased from £79,000,000 to £96,000,000. The preference is the only road to unity. If we take care of the Empire, wages, trade and food will take care of themselves."

James Bryce, M. P., speaking at Aberdeen yesterday, declared that British trade was healthy and not needing violent medicine that might turn a person. Retaliation was being used by the Government like the drop scene at a theatre. When it was raised they would see a protectionist stage and actors.

Canada in South Africa

J. G. Jardine, the Canadian Trade Commissioner in South Africa, arrived in London yesterday. He says that prospects for Canadian trade with Africa are excellent. As to the cattle trade, 250 had been landed recently from the Monarch. The importers had expected that they would have to keep them two months to fatten, but they landed in such good condition that they were killed immediately. Mr. Jardine sails for Canada on Dec. 16.

Lord Strathcona, in distributing the prizes at the City of London College yesterday, said that the wonderful prosperity of Canada was due to her elementary and higher education.

Earl Crewe, speaking at Newcastle yesterday, said Mr. Chamberlain was not a colonial Columbus and retaliation would not lower foreign tariffs.

Andrew Pattullo, speaking at Richmond last night, said: "Every workingman in Canada is in favor of protection, and two-thirds of the Liberal party in the Canadian Parliament are agreed with the Conservative party on this question."

Three thousand workmen, under the auspices of the Tariff Reform League, at Swindon, yesterday, were addressed by Percy Wyndom. The resolutions favored the necessity of some of the Chamberlain proposals to protect the home markets. At the close of the meeting 1,000 workmen joined the League.

Sir F. Flannery (Unionist), speaking to his constituents at Shipley, said that the British engineering trade had benefited through the "dumping" process. It had enabled manufactures to be carried on at a profit which would have otherwise been impossible.

Left British Ports.

The following is the classification of the emigrants who left British ports for Canada during the month of November: English, 1,452; Irish, 70; Scotch, 108; foreigners, 2,189. The following are the totals for the eleven months preceding: English, 47,346; Irish, 2,505; Scotch, 10,247; foreigners, 36,828. As Corticelli costs YOU no more than poor silk, why don't you buy it?

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

DECEMBER SITTINGS OF THE COUNTY COURT.

Began at the Court House To-Day—Judge Weller Presiding.

The Members of the Grand Jury—His Honour's Address.

The Grand Jury empannelled was composed as follows:—J. G. Weir, Otonabee, foreman; J. Armstrong, Monaghan; Wm. Collins, Ashburnham, D. Cameron, Peterborough; J. D. Craig, Peterborough; G. Duffield, Norwood; D. Drain, Dummer; P. Dresden, Smith; J. Savigny, Otonabee; Jas. Sanderson, Smith, and J. VanNorman, Havelock.

The members of the bar present were:—R. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr, Geo. Edmison, R. E. Wood, J. A. Sherry, Norwood; and D. O'Connell.

After the Grand Jury was empannelled, with Mr. J. G. Weir, as foreman, His Honour delivered two addresses. After dealing with the cases to come before the court, and making the usual explanations of the law, he drew the attention of the jury to the fact that the Legislature had made an enactment making compulsory the establishment of Houses of Refuge. He also referred to the fact that the ratepayers of Peterborough and Ashburnham had voted in favour of the union of the two municipalities, and incidentally to the county at large. He also referred to the low water in the river, and remarked that while the Grand Jury could do nothing definite in the matter, they might refer to the subject in their report.

In the King vs. Cavanagh the accused was arraigned and elected to trial by the judge, and the trail was fixed for Tuesday, at 3 p.m.

STRIKES ARE BENEFICIAL.

The debate in the T.A.S. rooms last evening proved to be one of the best treats the Literary Section of the T.A.S. has provided this season. The subject under consideration was, "Resolved, That strikes are beneficial." Messrs. O'Neil and J. Maher battled on the affirmative side and the negative was upheld by Messrs. Irwin and Frank McPherson. The debaters excelled themselves in the manner in which they handled the subject, and the judge, Mr. J. H. Burnham, who very ably analyzed the arguments, left the decision to the audience, which decided in favour of the affirmative.

Mr. John Pope was chairman during the evening and introduced a short programme which consisted of a pianoforte selection by Mr. George Schneider, a recitation by Miss Primeau, and an instrumental duet by the Misses Picard.

COMMISSIONERS TO BUY PROPERTY.

May Purchase Business Block Adjoining Town Building.

The Town Trust Commissioners are just on the eve of making an important deal in town property, and one which if made should prove a very profitable one to the town. As is known, all the property owned by the town is held by the Trust Commissioners, who have charge of all investments, and who hold all property for the purpose of raising the revenue to retire the debentures of the town as they mature.

The land upon which the town buildings stand, and the adjoining block, belongs to the town, as did the entire block bounded by George, Charlotte, Simcoe and Water streets originally. The block adjoining the town buildings, however, is the property of the Bank of Montreal, the land being leased from the town. The lease will expire in a short time, and the management of the bank has made an offer to sell the building to the town for $4,000 which is considered a low price.

The Commissioners have not closed the deal yet, and last night met the council in Committee of the Whole to discuss the question. The council, of course, has no juriadiction in the matter, the responsibility resting with the Commissioners, and the former will probably not care to advise in the matter.

The offer, however, is said to be a good one, as the property is now revenue producing, and should the town offices be enlarged, as it is believed will be necessary shortly, the newly acquired building could then be utilized.

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

Mr. R. C. Scrigley Spoke on "Children of Peace" at Charlotte Street League.

At Charlotte street church last night the Epworth League listened to an exceedingly interesting address by Mr. (A. C. Scrigley, of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute staff on "A Trip Through North York to the Land of the Children of Peace." The speaker described very interestingly the strange sect of people who populate the northern part of that county.

Miss May Huffman gave a very pleasing instrumental solo preceding the address.

Delightful Social Function Last Night in the Opera House

Mrs J R Stratton	Mrs J R Crane
Mrs (Dr) Bradd	Mrs R J Frost
Mrs J H McClellan	Mrs W Salisbury

The Albany Club's Ball, which was held last night in Bradburn's opera house, was a most delightful function, and in every sense of the word it could be called brilliant.

The ball was largely attended, the guests being received by the patronesses in the club rooms on the second floor, during the early hours of the evening. Nor were the guests confined to Peterborough, for Toronto, Lindsay, Port Hope, Berlin and other provincial towns were represented amongst the throng. The outside passage to the opera house was not used, the guests, after the reception, passing up by the rear entrance to the ball room.

The rooms and hall were very prettily decorated with flags, coloured lights and palms, while the handsome carpets and curtains, artistically arranged, gave a finished touch of luxury to the scene. The ball room itself was also ablaze with colour, while its polished floor, crowded with merry dancers, appeared a mass of life; the rich gowns of the ladies, together with the military uniforms of the officers, producing a scene of charming beauty.

THE MUSIC

The music for the evening was provided by Mr. Gliddon's orchestra, a musical organization of acknowledged merit, which perhaps excelled itself in the rendition of the dance music which it gave last night. During the reception the orchestra played in the hall, while for the dancing it was stationed on the opera house stage.

THE PROGRAMME:

The following is the dance programme.

Part. I.

Two Step	Albany Club

GOD SAVE THE KING.

During the intervals between each dance the guests retired to the lunch rooms, which were elaborately fitted up, and refreshments daintily served.

Throughout the event was triumphantly successful, and from a society point of view, it would be hard to beat.

THE BALL.

Those who had Charge of the Material Part—The Arragement Committee

The decoration of the opera house and Albany Club rooms last night for the ball was the work of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons. Mr. Cyrille Whilhelmis had charge of the electric lighting and wiring. Mr. H. Long supervised the lunch rooms, while the committee which had charge of the arrangements was composed of Messrs. G. A. Cox, W. Burton, R. M. Roy, L. D. Oakley, W. K. PEOPLE TO VOTE ON ALD. RUSH'S SCHEME

LAST MONTHLY COUNCIL MEETING OF 1903.

Committees Presented Reports—By-laws Passed Fixing Assessment' Appointing Deputy Returning Officers and Fixing Closing Hours During Christmas Week of Dry Goods Stores.

A number of important matters engaged the attention of the Town Council last night, among them being propositions made by the two hospitals to treat infectious diseases, for a consideration from the Council. A petition was presented to the Council from Robert Fair & Co., and a number of merchants engaged in similar business, asking that for the four days preceeding Christmas the stores be allowed to remain open to facilitate shopping. A bylaw was passed repealing such portions of the existing bylaw, as made the early closing on these days compulsory. Ald. Rush's plan to purchase the Hilliard property was advanced a stage, by the passing of a bylaw submitting the question to the ratepayers on the occasion of the municipal elections. The bylaw calls for raising $10,000 in 20 year debentures at 4 per cent.

That the municipal elections are drawing near was evidenced by the passing of a bylaw appointing Deputy Returning Officers and polling places, for the election which will be held on the first Monday in January. Ald. Batten fathered a bylaw providing for the execution of an agreement between the town and Mr. D. Belleghem for the care and service of the Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance at $150 per year. The Committees presented lengthy reports, all of which were adopted with the exception of that presented by Ald. Clinkscale, which was laid over.

Ald Morrison in presenting the report of the Franchise Committee, dealt with the question of granting a franchise to the Bell Telephone Company, and said the committee had not thought it advisable to recommend that a franchise be given to the Telephone Company at this particular stage. He said that if the plant and equipment of the Company in Peterborough were assessed, as an official had admitted they were liable, the revenue so obtained would amount to more than that offered by the Company for the exclusive franchise. The plant and building of the Colonial Weaving Company were given a fixed assessment of $4,000 for a period of 10 years.

The Town Council met in regular session last night in the council chamber, with Mayor Roger in the chair, and the following Aldermen present:—Messrs. Edgcumbe, Morrison, Shortly, Rush, Fiunic, Batten, Corkery, Clinkscale and Best.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read.

Communications were read and dealt with as follows:

From the George Matthews Company enclosing plan of street which it is proposed to give the town in exchange for Wolfe street. — Board of Works.

From the Peterborough Light and Power Company, asking permission to erect poles on certain streets of the town.—Board of Works.

From Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, on behalf of Jas. Bogue, asking that his account for constructing pavement on Stewart and Brock streets be paid.—Board of Works.

Also a similar communication on behalf of Richard Sheehy for pavement on Gilmour street.—Board of Works.

From Thos. Mulvey, Assistant Provincial Secretary, acknowledging receipt of the petition sent by the council with reference to the union of Ashburnham and Peterborough.—Received,

From Robert Fair and other merchants, asking for the repeal of portions of a bylaw respecting the closing of shops to enable them to remain open on the evenings of the four days preceding Christmas Day.—Received.

From ratepayers near the corner of Dublin and Bethune streets, asking that an electric light be placed at that point.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From ratepayers and property owners on Brock street, asking that a piece of cement walk on the south side of the street, butwcen George and Chambers streets, be restored. It was claimed that the appearance of the street had been greatly interfered with, to the detriment, inconvenience and loss of the said residents and owners by the removal of the walk.—Board of Works.

From ratepayers, asking that an electric light be placed on Sherbrooke street between George and Bethune streets.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From O. Laplante, on behalf of D. McNamara, with reference to redress for damages done to his client's property by the action of the Council or Commissioners in authorising the Cordage Company to close up Bethune street lying east of a right of way permitting access to his client's property. A copy of this letter was ordered send to the Trust Commissioners and the matter referred to the Legal Committee.

From J. W. Edwards, stating that he was over assessed for Park street drain for 1902, and 1903 for No. 369 Sherbrooke street.—Court of Revision.

For the Little Ones

Many analyses of cheap cough mixtures and cough and throat lozenges have clearly proven that a large proportion of them contain opiates.

The temporary relief which these cheap medicines often give in coughs and colds, especially with the little children, is because the opiate by destroying nerve sensation, the irritation in the throat, which causes the cough, is temporarily removed, but the real cause of the cold is not in any way removed by the opiate and will promptly return.

The best thing to use to remove the catarrhal secretion which causes the cold, the hoarseness and irritating cough, is a new preparation composed of antiseptics like Eucalyptol, Guaiacol, Sanguinaria, and sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which contain no opiate, cocaine or poisonous drug of any sort.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough medicines, croup mixtures, and throat remedies for my little children, for somehow or other they never seemed to be free from colds, croup or sore throat.

"This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take, I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be taken. So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat, and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh, but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones."

Mr. A. R. Fernbank, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from Catarrh that I took it as a matter of course and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My nostrils were almost always clogged up, and I had to breathe through the mouth, causing an inflamed, irritated throat. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a sent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets, he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes with results that surprised and delighted me.

"I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with older people I have known of cases where the hearing had been seriously impaired by chronic catarrh, cured entirely by this new remedy."

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves and washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant internal remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere admit that Stuart's Tablets, which they sell for 50c. per package, is the safest, most effective and popular of all catarrh remedies.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE

By Helene Wood

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"Elizabeth, the eternal feminine will assert itself."

Elizabeth put on her long blue painting apron without replying and began to stretch a canvas. She was adorable so, her gray eyes defiantly averted and a flush of anger on her cheeks.

"There you go again. If I don't know my own mind at twenty-six when will I?"

"At twenty-seven or eight perhaps. I hope sooner. Your ideas are all wrong. Believe me, the day will come when you will long for a home of your own and some one nearer than a girl friend or masculine admirer."

He had the last word, for the arrival of the model, a thin, shabby looking girl, put an end to the discussion.

"Tomorrow at 5, then?"

Elizabeth gave a brisk little nod. She was already sketching in the outlines of her study, and Phil was forgotten before he had closed the door.

The young man was quite accustomed to such treatment. Admitted as he was to her most intimate friendship on an understanding of strict camaraderie, he broke over the traces every year, was invariably refused and bore his defeat with easy aflount. Some day she was bound to change her mind, and he might be the lucky man.

Elizabeth's own opinion was very different. She had no time for thought until her work was laid aside for the day. Then she sank into a nest of cushions to think luxuriously.

No, Phil was wrong. She would never care to leave her studio—above all, to marry. Had not the art school girls who married ceased developing intellectually? Shut up in their own four walls, they became entirely absorbed in dear Tom or Dick and the children.

Children! Elizabeth shuddered. A child in a book or picture was very delightful, but the reality, a dirty little creature always crying or being ill! She would never leave her work, her studies, her pleasures, for a deadly stupid family life. Never!

* * * * * * *

A cry of warning. The trolley car stopped with a lurch. In an instant the conductor and motorman were down in the street, followed by most of the passengers. Elizabeth, impatient at the delay, resolved to walk the block or two remaining. Her model would be waiting for her at the studio.

When she left the car she found herself the only woman in a large group collected about a sickening black mass which had splashed car wheels and cobblestones with blood. The conductor, a good natured looking young Irishman, stood with tears rolling down his face. He was holding a golden haired baby, a toddler of a year or two. The motorman, white and frightened, was telling how the baby had suddenly run in front of the car and the mother had thrown the little one out of the way, only to be crushed herself.

The child began to cry, and the conductor turned to Elizabeth imploringly. "You take the baby, mum. The ambulance is comin'. The cops will be after findin' its relatives."

Before she could reply he had put the baby in her unresisting arms.

Some moments later, hardly knowing how it had all happened, she found herself walking into her studio building carrying a little child. In her purse was a bit of paper inscribed "19 Plumley alley." It was the poor woman's address, to which she had promised to take him. A man she knew, who was passing along the corridor, smiled and remarked, "Rather a small model, Miss Blair." Elizabeth flushed as if she had committed a crime and was relieved to close the studio door behind her.

Then she put down her burden and looked at her watch. Ten o'clock! The model had come and gone. He hoped now, like herself would have to take the child home. A short conference at the phone told her the whereabouts of Plumley alley, eight squares south and just off the —th street car line.

"Not bad," she thought—"a Donatello, if the forehead were a little higher and the curls not so fine and tight. How I should like to paint him! Come here, little one. What's your name?"

"Alan Campbell naughty."

"Are you naughty?"

"Es. I want my muvver."

His mother! Elizabeth felt a quick pang of horror. "Come here, and I will show you something pretty."

She held out her watch. The silver and gold ornaments on its long chain jingled attractively. Alan Campbell slowly drew near the shining object. He seized it just as a little stray dog would have done a bit of cake—seized it and walked away. Then Elizabeth brought out pictures. It was surprising how quickly they were friends, sitting on the floor side by side looking at "pussies" and "doggies."

It was after 11 when Alan Campbell's face began to look doleful.

"I want a cup of millik," he announced.

There were a pitcher of cream, some biscuits and a glass of jelly in her stock of tea table provisions. With this luncheon spread out before him Alan Campbell was soon installed on the edge of the model stand.

When he had drunk all the cream except that which soaked into her pretty rug, when his face was gory with currant jelly, and biscuits had lost their attraction, Elizabeth took one sticky little hand in hers and led him firmly to the washstand. After he was clean and dry she sank into a chair, exhausted.

She drew him up. For awhile he was amused by her velvet blouse; then his eyes began to close. Alan Campbell's head was on Elizabeth's shoulder. His right hand clasped hers tightly. He was fast asleep.

Elizabeth had the true artistic nature which when it feels does so with abandon. The soft little body in her arms, the warm, sweet breath on her face, touched the very depths of her heart. Never in her life had she felt so strangely happy—happy and yet troubled. She was embarrassed before her own emotions and bent her head, clasping him more tightly. The world thought of her as a woman. She had a womanly poise and a strong character, but her heart, a girl's heart, could not understand this awakening of mysterious instincts, the motherhood beneath her culture and ambition and stronger than both. The flying moments, her beloved work, everything was forgotten as she held the sleeping child.

A half hour passed, an hour. Alan Campbell suddenly opened a pair of questioning blue eyes. Startled by the strange face, he cried: "Where's my muvver? I want my muvver!" His little body shook with sobs.

Rudely aroused from her dream, Elizabeth felt a quick pang of jealousy. Yes, she was jealous of the woman whose hold on the child even death was powerless to break. Silently she put on her wraps, gathered Alan Campbell, sobs and all, into her arms and hurried down to the —th street cars.

Plumley alley proved to be a neat flagged court and No. 19 a tiny white house with green shutters. A little old man, whose eyes were swollen with weeping, came to answer her ring. Alan Campbell called "Huddo Grampy." The poor old fellow tried in vain to control his grief. The girl shook the trembling old hand and turned away, unable to express her sympathy. Alan Campbell smiled after her like a sunbeam.

Elizabeth closed her studio door with a shiver. Never had it looked more beautiful, more orderly or more cold and still.

"I want my muvver," a little voice kept sounding in her ear. Ah, these mothers she had been pitying, how she envied them now! It was ridiculous to feel so, and yet, and yet she knew her arms would always be empty and her whole body hungry for the presence, the caresses of a little child, something of her own, her very own, to love.

There was hardly time to arrange her hair and light the spirit lamp before Phil knocked. Hoping that he would not notice her red eyelids, she concentrated her attention on the tea things. She thought she was succeeding until Phil said, "What's up, Elizabeth?"

"Oh," she replied, "I saw a frightful accident this morning. I can't seem to forget it." Tears rolled down her cheeks.

Phil longed to take the sensitive girl into his arms, but he only said cheeringly:

"There are many cruel things in this world. We can't help them. Try to forget all this. Put on your hat and come out to dinner with me. I'll tell you what—we'll go and see Wilson in 'The Matador;' make you laugh; do you good."

"Please don't cry. It hurts me to see it."

It was very un-Elizabeth-like, but somehow she let her head droop on his shoulder and closed her eyes, as Alan Campbell had done. It was so good to feel some one near, some one who was strong and who loved her. Phil could not understand, but was grateful for the miracle which had made the girl he loved seek his arms like a child. He spoke low and tenderly.

"Dear, won't you let me be your consoler always?"

He bent his head to her tear stained cheek and her little word of reply was not so loud as the glad beating of his heart.

"Only," said Elizabeth, when she had recovered something of her usual spirit, "don't flatter yourself it was your conquest. It was nothing at all but the eternal feminine."

Had No Appetite.

FOOD WOULD NOT DIGEST.

Mrs. I. W. Warner, Riverdale, N.S., is glad there is such a remedy as

Burdock Blood Bitters.

IT CURED HER AND WILL CURE YOU.

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unfailing virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B B B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

PHILLIPS SQUARE MONTREAL

Our Former Governor.

The rumors as to the health of the Duke of Argyll, the former Governor-General of Canada, have been very much exaggerated, being based on the fact that one day last week Princess Louise had to attend a Croyden function without her husband, the Duke being merely indisposed. His Grace has had several indispositions in recent years, but nothing approaching serious illness. The only time his life was endangered was in 1877, when Inverary Castle was partly burnt. In the early morning a boatman went to look after his boat at the pier, and saw smoke and flames issuing from the Castle roof. Rushing to the Castle door, he knocked loudly until he was admitted. Princess Louise and her husband, together with the late Duke and Duchess of Argyll and a house party, were hastily awakened, and rushed downstairs by the side halls. The roaring of the flames was deafening, and blazing rafters and molten lead were dropping everywhere. In the dining-room the guests were counted, and several children found to be missing. The Marquess of Lorne darted away through the burning hall for them. Just then an avalanche of fire descended with a dreadful roar—the roof of the hall had fallen in. For several minutes it was not known if he had escaped. The guests were taken, barefooted and in their night attire, to the stables, and afterwards to the village inn. The Marquess said later that he had just passed through the hall in the very nick of time.—London Men and Women.

A Possible Contingency.

"Remember, my boy," said the old man to his son, who was about to join the army, "never talk back to your officers."

"But, father," inquired the young American anxiously, "supposing they talk back to me?"

His Rebate.

"Why do you always occupy two seats?"

"To even things up," replied the street car hog. "Half the time I don't get any seat at all."—Town Topics.

CHAPTER VIII.

SHORTLY after the departure of the strolling players from the tavern Mauville summoned his servant and ordered his equipage. While waiting he strode impatiently to and fro in the dining room, which, dismantled of the stage, by very contrast to the temporary temple of art turned his thoughts to the players. The barrenness of the room smote him acutely with the memory of those performances, and he laughed ironically to himself that he should thus revert to them. But as he scoffed inwardly, his eyes gleamed with vivacity, and the sensations with which he had viewed the young girl night after night were reawakened. What was one woman lost to him? his egotism whispered. He had parted from many as a gormand leaves one meal for another. Yes; but she had not been his, insinuated vanity; another had whipped her off before his eyes.

"Why the devil didn't you tell me he was going with them?" he demanded of the landlord while settling his account.

"He—who?" asked the surprised innkeeper.

"That adventurer you have been harboring here. How far's he going with them?"

"I don't know The night after the performance I heard the manager ask him to join the company; to write a temperance play."

"Temperance play!" sneered Manville. "The fool's gone with them on account of a woman."

"I did think he was mighty attentive to one of the actresses," said the landlord reflectively. "The one with them melting eyes. Purty good looking! Quiet and ladylike, too! So he's gallivanting after her? Well, well, I guess actresses be all alike."

"I guess they are," added the heir savagely. "And this one took me in," he thought to himself. "Holding me off and playing with him, the jade!" Then he continued aloud, "Where are they going?"

"Didn't hear 'em say," answered the other, "and I didn't like to appear too curious."

"You didn't?" returned Mauville ironically. "You must have changed lately."

"I don't know as I understand you quite," replied the landlord with sudden dignity. "But here's your carriage and your things are all on. I guess your tenants will be glad to see you," he continued, not resisting a parting shot.

"Curse the tenants!" muttered the guest in ill humor, as he strode from the tavern without more ado.

He was soon on his way, partly forgetting his vexation in new anticipations, and traveling with spirit to his destination, which he reached late that afternoon.

In answer to repeated summons from the ponderous knocker, shuffling footsteps were finally heard within, the door was opened a few inches and the gleaming teeth of a great, gaunt dog were thrust into the opening, followed by an ominous growling. Mauville sprang back a step; the snarling resolved itself into a yelp as some one unceremoniously dragged the canine back; the door was opened wider and a brawny figure, smoking a long stemmed pipe, barred the way. The dog, but partly appeased, peered from behind the man's sturdy legs, awaiting hostilities. The latter, an impecturbable Dutchman, eyed the intruder askance, smoking as impassively in his face as one of his ancestors before William the Testy. From his point of vantage on the threshold the caretaker looked down upon the master so indifferently, while the dog glared so viciously that the land baron cried angrily:

"Why the devil don't you get out of the way and call off that beast?"

The man pondered. "No one but the heir would give orders like that," he said, so accustomed to speaking his thoughts in the solitude of the great rooms that he gave way to the habit now. "This must be the heir."

Slowly the caretaker moved aside, the hound shifting his position accordingly, and Mauville entered, gazing around with some interest, for the interior of the manor realized the pretensions of its outward aspect. The floor of the hall was of satinwood and rosewood, and the mahogany wainscoting, extending almost to the ceiling, was black with age. With its rich carvings the stairway suggested woody rioting in balustrades lifting up to the support of the heavy beams in the ceiling. The furnishings were in keeping, but dust obscured the mirrorlike surface of the mahogany tables, the heavy draperies were in need of renovation, while a housewife would have viewed with despair the condition of brass and ebony inlaid cabinets, ancient tapestries and pictures, well nigh defaced, but worthy, even in their faded aspect, of the brush of Sir Godfrey Kneller, Benjamin West and the elder Peale.

Having casually surveyed his new home, the heir was reminded of the need for refreshment after his long journey and, turning to the caretaker, asked him what there was in the house. The servant smoked silently as though deeply considering this momentous question, while the rear guard maintained unabated hostility between the man's firmly planted feet. Then abruptly, without removing his pipe, the guardian of the manor ejaculated:

The other laughed, struck his knee with his light cane and demanded to be shown to the library, where he would have these outlandish dishes served.

"And bring with them, Mynheer Oly koeks, a bottle of wine," he continued "At the same time chain up the dog. He eyes me with such hungry hostility that, gad, I believe he's an antirenter!"

Mauville was ushered into a large room where great leather bound volumes filled the oak shelves to the ceiling. The caretaker turned and with echoing footsteps slowly departed, followed by his faithful four footed retainer. It is true the latter paused, swung half around and regarded the landowner with the look of a sulky and rebellious tenant, but, summoned by a stern "Oloffe!" from his master, the dog reluctantly pattered across the hardwood floor.

In surveying his surroundings the land baron's attention was attracted by a coat of arms deeply carved in the massive wood of the bookcase—on a saltire sable, a fleur-de-lis or. This head of heraldic flowers appeared to interest Mauville, who smiled grimly. "From what I know of my worthy ancestors," he muttered, "and their propensities to prey on their fellow men, I should say a more fitting device would be that of Lovett of Astwell: Gules, three wolves passant sable, in pale."

Pleased with his own humor, he threw himself upon a couch near the window, stretching himself luxuriously. Soon the man reappeared with the refreshments and a bottle of old fashioned, substantial girth, which he uncorked with marked solicitude.

The watchman pointed to a great dish of dark blue willow ware pattern.

"Oh, doughnuts!" said Mauville. "You know where the family lawyer lives? Have my man drive you to his house and bring him here at once."

As the caretaker again disappeared the heir bent over the curiously shaped bottle in delight, for when the cork was drawn a fragrance filled the musty apartment as from a bouquet.

"Blessings on the ancestor who laid down this wine!" he muttered. "May his ghost wander in to sniff it! These oly-koeks are not bad. I suppose this man, Ten Breecheses, or whatever he is called, is at once cook and housekeeper. Although I don't think much of his housekeeping," ruminated Mauville as he observed a herculean spider weaving a web from an old volume of Giraldus Cambrensis, antiquary, to the classical works of one Joseph of Exeter. There is a strong sympathy between wine and cobwebs, and Mauville watched with increasing interest the uses to which these ponderous tomes had sunk—but serving the bloodthirsty purpose of the nimble architect evolving its delicate engineering problem in midair.

A great blundering fly had just bobbed into the net, and the spider, with hideous, carnivorous zest, was scrambling for it when the guardian of the manor returned with the family solicitor, a little man who bore in his arms a bundle of papers, which after the customary greetings he spread upon the table. He helped himself to a glass of burgundy and proceeded forthwith to enter into the history of his trust.

Mynheer the patroon, Mauville's predecessor, a lonely, arrogant man, had held tenaciously to the immense tracts of land acquired in the colonial days by nominal purchase. He had never married, his desire for an heir being discounted by his aversion for the other sex, until as the days dragged on he found himself bedridden and childless in his old age. Unfortunately the miser cannot take his acres into paradise, and the patroon, with many an inward groan, cast about him for some remote relative to whom he would reluctantly transfer his earthly hereditaments. These were two—one a man of piety, who prayed with the tenants when they complained of their lot; the other, Mauville, upon whom he had never set eyes.

When the earliest patroons had made known to the West India company their intention of planting colonies in New Netherland they had issued attractive maps to promote their colonisation projects. Among those who had been lured to America by these enticing advertisements was an ancestor of Edward Mauville. Incurring the displeasure of the governor for his godless views, this Frenchman was sent to the pillory, or whipping post, and his neighbors were about to cast out the devil of irreverence in good old fashioned manner when one of the governor's daughters interceded, carried off the handsome miscreant, and, such was her imperious way, married him. He was heard in after years to aver that the whipping would have been the milder punishment; but, be that as it may, a child was born unto them who inherited the father's adventuresome and graceless character, deserted his home, joined hands with some ocean rovers and sailed for that pasture ground of buccaneers, the Caribbean sea. Of his subsequent history various stories may be found in the chronicles of New Orleans and Louisiana.

The only other person who might have any pretensions to the estate was a reverend gentleman who had been a missionary among the Indians, preaching from a stump, and called Little Thunder by the red men because of his powerful voice, a lineal descendant of the Rev. Dr. Johannes Vanderklonk, the first dominie of the patroons, who served for 1,000 guilders, payable in meat or drink, twenty-two bushels of wheat and two firkins of butter. He saved the souls of the savages, while the white men cheated their bodies. Now and then, in those early days, the children of the forest protested against this evangelizing process and carried off the good dominie to the torture stake, where they plucked out his finger nails, but he returned with as much zest to his task of landing these simple souls in paradise as those who employed him displayed in making an earthly paradise out of the lands the red men left behind them.

When by this shrewd system the savages were gradually saved and incidentally exterminated, Little Thunder's occupation was gone, and he became a pensioner of mynheer the patroon, earning his bread by an occasional sermon to the tenants, exhorting them to thrift and industry, to be faithful and multiply and to pay their rents promptly. As mynheer's time drew near he sent for his attorney and commanded him to look up the life, deeds and character of Edward Mauville.

"This I did," said the lawyer, "and here it is," waving a roll of papers before his interested listener.

"Oh, sir!" deprecated the lawyer, opening the roll. "'Item: Religion; pupil of the brilliant Jesuit, Abbe Moneau. Item: Morals; Exhibit A, the affair with Countess —— in Paris, where he was sent to be educated after the fashion of French families in New Orleans; Exhibit B'"—

"Spare me," exclaimed Mauville. "Life is wearisome enough, but a biography"— He shrugged his shoulders. "Come to your point."

"Of course, sir, I was only trying to carry out his instructions, the same, sir, as I would carry out yours!" with an ingratiating smile. Whereupon the attorney told how he had furnished the patroon this roll and fastened it to his bed so that he might wind and unwind it, perusing it at his pleasure. This the dying man did, sternly noting the damaging facts, thinking doubtlessly how traits will endure for generations—aye, for ages, in spite of the pillory! The while Little Thunder was roaring petitions to divinity by his bedside, as though to bluster and bully the Almighty into granting his supplications. The patroon glanced from his pensioner to the roll, from the kneeling man to the prodigious list of peccadillos, and then he called for a shilling, a coin still somewhat in use in America. This he flipped thrice.

"Rogue or sham?" he said the first time.

"Rake or hypocrite?" he exclaimed the second time.

"Devil or pharisee?" he cried the third time.

He peered over the coin and sent for his attorney. His soul passed away, mourned by Little Thunder until the will was read, when his lamentations ceased. He soundly berated mynheer the patroon in his coffin and refused to go to his burying. Then he became an ardent antirenter, a leader of "bolters," a thunderer of the people's cause, the devoted enemy of land barons in general and one patroon in particular, the foreign heir to the manor.

"But let him thunder away, sir," said Scroggs soothingly. "The estate's yours now, for the old patroon can't come back to change his mind. He's buried sure enough in the grove, a dark and sombrous spot as befitted his disposition, but restful withal. Aye, and the marble slab's above him, which reminds me that only a month before he took to his bed he was smoking his pipe on the porch when his glance fell upon the lifting stone. Suddenly he strode toward it, bent his back and raised it a full two inches. 'So much for age!' said he, scoffing-like. But age heard him and slow he lies with a stone on him he cannot lift, while you, sir," to his listener deferentially, "are sole heir to the estate and to the feud."

"The tenants object to paying rent," replied Scroggs sadly. "They're a sorry lot!"

"Evade their debts, do they?" said the land baron languidly. "What presumption to imitate their betters! That won't do. I need the money."

"They claim the rights of the landlord originated in fraud"—

"No doubt"—yawning—"my ancestors were rogues!"

"Oh, sir," deprecatorily.

"If the tenants don't pay, turn them out," interrupted Mauville listlessly, "if you have to depopulate the country."

Having come to an understanding with his client, the lawyer arose to take his departure.

"By the way," he said obsequiously, selecting a yellow, well worn bit of paper from his bundle of documents, "it may interest you to keep this yourself. It is the original deed for all these lands from the squaw Pewasch. You can see they were acquired for a few shillings' worth of 'wet and dry goods' and seventeen and a half ells of duffels."

"The old patroons could strike a rare bargain," muttered the heir as he casually surveyed the ancient deed and then, folding it, placed it in his breast pocket. "For a mere song was acquired"—

"A vast principality," added the solicitor, waving his hand toward the fields and meadows far in the distance.

Time seems most untimely when he brings a woman to the turn of life. Life is or should be at its ripest and best for her, and she approaches this change with a dread of its effect born of her knowledge of the sufferings of other women at this season.

There is not the slightest cause for fear or anxiety at this period if Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is used. It gives health of body and cheerfulness of mind, and by its aid the pains and pangs of this critical period are prevented or cured.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is woman's medicine with a wonderful record of cures of womanly diseases. Diseases that all other medicines had failed to cure, have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"I feel it my duty to write you as I have received so much benefit from the use of your medicine," says Mrs. Lizzie A. Boorman, of New Matamoras, Washington Co., Ohio. "I have taken four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' for female weakness and change of life. Before I began taking it I could not do anything. I had such pains in my head and in the back of my neck that I thought I would lose my mind. Now I can work every day. I recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all females suffering in the period of change of life. It is the best medicine I have found."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Benjamin Brooks, a well-known farmer of West Cape, P.E.I., tells of how his son was cured of Kidney Disease, and how he was cured of Backache.

The First Sign of Kidney Trouble.

He says: "Our little boy was troubled with kidney disease. We had tried many kinds of kidney pills but they only helped for a time. We got Doan's Kidney Pills and one box effected a perfect cure. About six weeks after this I caught a very bad cold that settled in my kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. I went to the drug store and got a box, took them according to directions and the result was that my back was completely cured. I believe they are the best kidney pill on the market to-day."

There is not a kidney trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Doan's Kidney Pills will not relieve or cure. The price is 50 cts. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 and may be procured at all dealers or from SUPERVISION COMMITTEE.

The Supervision Committee reported as follows:

Your Supervision Committee beg to submit the following report:

1st. We purchased as per instructions from the board a typewriter and a table on which to operate it. The Underwood is the machine we selected, and it is considered one of the best in the market.

2nd. With reference to Mr. Reynolds' letter, your committee have ascertained from the Inspector that inasmuch as the rooms in the junior departments of the Central School are well filled, that no different arrangement can be made until the beginning of the year. We might state that Mr. Reynolds' children formerly attended the West Ward School, at which school there is ample room in the junior departments; further, it is unusual to change from one school to another during the school session except the distance is exceptionally great.

The report was adopted.

It was moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Dr. Burnham, that the secretary advertise for two new teachers.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE

The Property Committee reported as follows:

Your Property Committee beg to report re new Collegiate Institute Buildings, that in accordance with your instructions following reports of delegates of February and March last, and also of Board meeting of April 6th last, at which meeting the above committee was instructed to have sketch plans and estimates prepared, do now place before the Board these plans and estimates. Mr. Belcher has stated verbally to us that the approximate cost will be forty thousand dollars. We believe that the plan shows a commodious building, at the same time the idea has been kept in mind that accommodation was the first requisite. The same area of building can be made to cost very much more by adding outward decorations. These plans we find also to be very much in keeping with the schools that have been built of late years in Ontario, and which have received most favourable comment by those parties having most to do with them. The architect will be pleased to go over and explain in detail at the convenience of the Board or any member, without which explanation as to heating, ventilation, sanitary arrangements, etc., they would hardly be able to pass comment favourably.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Moved by Mr. Eastwood, seconded by Mr. Kennedy, that the report be adopted.

Mr. W. Pringle, chairman of the Special Committee, presented a long report regarding municipal ownership of school books, which will appear in to-morrow's issue of the Examiner, not sufficient space being available to-day.

The report was adopted.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Ald. Clinkscale presented the report of the above committee as follows:

Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That electric lights be placed on the following streets, the exact location of each light to be designated by the town engineer, namely: Sherbrooke street, between George and Bethune streets; Bonnacord street, near the G. T. R. track; at All Saints' church; at the Charlotte street Methodist church; at St. Peter's Cathedral; on Cedar street near Cross street; on Stewart street, on the hill near the Protestant home; on Charlotte street between George and Aylmer streets, and on Homewood avenue at Walton street.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

STREET LIGHTING AND FRANCHISE.

The report of the Street Lighting and Franchise Committee was presented by Ald. Morrison:

Your Street Lighting and Franchises Committee beg leave to report as follows:

On November 12th last your Committee met Mr. A. T. Smith, District Superintendent of the Bell Telephone Company in regard to the franchise the company had and which has expired. Mr. Smith was asked to make a proposition of the best terms the company would give the town for the renewal of the exclusive franchise for five years and a letter has been received from him offering $400 a year and the use of five telephones for the renewal for that period.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Kidd asked that a light be placed at the east end of Smith street bridge.

Ald. Best was opposed to placing any additional light until the new Council is elected, and moved to that effect.

Ald. Morrison speaking on the question, said that he believed the whole question of light should be dealt with by a committee, the members of which should visit the different parts of the town.

The report was allowed to stand.

In making this report Ald. Morrison said that the matter of granting franchises to Telephone Companies was in rather an unsettled condition, and enumerated instances of disputes between the Bell Telephone Company and different municipalities, and thought that the granting of an exclusive franchise to the Bell Company at the present time would be ill-advised. Speaking of assessment, Ald. Morrison said that if the plant and equipment of the Telephone Company in Peterborough could be assessed the revenue to the town would amount to more than that offered for an exclusive franchise.

The report of the committee was received.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the execution of a contract for snow-ploughing for the season of 1903-4, which, after having been given its several readings, was passed. This bylaw is carrying out the recommendation of the Board of Works with the addition of the Western Division, which was given to N. Rusaw at $135.

Ald. Corkery moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the appointment of Deputy Returning Officers and polling places for the coming municipal election. The bylaw was passed after having been given its several readings.

Ald. Batten moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the execution of a contract with Daniel Belleuhem for the care of the Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance, providing that $150 per year be paid for the care of same. The bylaw as passed.

Ald. Rush moved the first reading of a bylaw to authorize the purchase of the Hilliard farm, and that the sum of $10,000 be raised for the purpose. This bylaw is the sequence of Ald. Rush's proposition made at the meeting of the council held on Wednesday evening last. The bylaw provides for the purchase of this property on 20 year debentures at 4 per cent. The bylaw was passed.

Ald. Rush further moved that the bylaw be advertised in the Morning Times.

Ald. Shortly moved the first reading of a bylaw to aid the Colonial Weaving Company. The bylaw provides that the assessment of the property be fixed at the sum of $4,000 for ten years on condition that the Colonial Weaving Company lease the property for a period of ten years, and that the company employ 20 hands from the 1st of July, 1904, and afterwards for 300 days per year. The bylaw was passed, after having been given its third reading.

A second bylaw was given its first reading, on motion of Ald. Shortly, to the effect that Bylaw No. 539 in referencing to the closing of shops, be repealed, and two bylaws be passed to provide that drygoods, clothing, hats, caps and furs, men's furnishings, and millinery stores may be kept open during the four nights immediately preceding Christmas Day, in addition to the nights on which these stores may now be kept open.

Ald. Morrison, speaking on this bylaw, thought that some hour for closing should be fixed, as it might be working a hardship on the employees, especially to the lady employees.

Ald. Shortly concurred in Ald. Morrison's suggestion, and thought that ten o'clock should be named as the hour for closing.

Ald. Edgcumbe thought the hour should not be fixed, as it only affected a few nights. In this opinion the Mayor concurred.

The bylaw was adopted without the hour for closing being designated.

Ald. Rush moved that the representatives of the press be granted the usual allowance, the motion being carried.

The council then adjourned.

A THINKER SILENT

Death of One of the World's Greatest, Herbert Spencer.

LAST OF THE VICTORIAN AGE

Became Unconscious Monday Night and Passed Away Without Pain—His Part in Revolutionizing the Entire World of Modern Thought—Lived to Win His Triumph—Education and Methods.

London, Dec. 9.—Herbert Spencer, the famous author, died yesterday morning at his home in Brighton. His health had been failing for some months. The illness took a critical turn a few days ago, and he became unconscious Monday night, passing away without pain. By his own desire, the least possible information was given out during Mr. Spencer's illness.

present day pre-eminence. To be a great Victorian is in itself a title to glory, for only the Augustan age in Rome, the age of Pericles in Athens and the Elizabethan age in England can rival it in its brilliant array of poets, artists, statesmen, historians, and scientists.

Especially was it great in science, and Herbert Spencer was among the greatest of its scientists. He stands as one of that extraordinary quartette which forced John Bull and the Philistine at large to accept the doctrines of evolution that have practically revolutionized the entire world of modern thought.

Born in 1820.

The author of this comprehensive revolution was born in the first quarter of the century (April 27, 1820), the son of a poor schoolmaster in Derby. He had few early advantages. His education comprised only a smattering of the dead languages, and no knowledge of the living ones, not even German, the lack of which he freely deplored. In his seventeenth year he became an engineer and followed that calling for eight years.

In his leisure hours he interested himself in the study of social science, the first fruits of which appeared in 1885, in "Social Statics," a book which, appearing four years before "The Origin of Species," dimly anticipated some of Darwin's conclusions—for it purported to interpret the phenomena of mind on the general principle of evolution.

The book was received with curiosity and approval by the learned and progressive, with scorn or neglect by the unlearned and conservative.

World's Chorus of Praise.

Best of all, he lived to see the world, which on its lower but more numerously populated levels had been inclined to hoot at him, turn around and applaud him as one of the greatest intellectual leaders of his time. His eightieth birthday, in 1900, was greeted with a chorus of praise in which all the civilized world joined.

Herbert Spencer was one of the most simple and unostentatious of men. He repeatedly declined academic honors from universities and colleges and titular honors which Queen Victoria was willing to bestow upon him, with, it must be confessed, a somewhat niggard hand. She who made Disraeli an Earl never offered to make Herbert Spencer anything higher than a baronet. But in truth the earldom would have been even more distasteful to him than the baronetcy.

In his early days Spencer had shown inventive talent. He constructed a velocimeter, to indicate the speed of locomotives, and long before Francis Galton produced composite photographs Spencer had suggested the idea and pointed out its value. During the last illness of his mother, to whom he was devotedly attached, he invented for her a bed which moved in any direction at a touch. Likewise he was something of a painter and rather more of a singer, possessing in the latter capacity a strong bass voice of good timber. He continued to sing as an amateur in part music until ill-health forbade the exertion.

Daily Average of Work.

It is recorded that on good mornings he could produce as much as a thousand words. They were poured out naturally, with no apparent effort, but rather slowly. Evidently they had been thought over and arranged in his mind during the previous afternoon and night, for he rarely used notes. But the first draught was not allowed to go to the printer. At the end of a fortnight or so of dictation he would revise the product, substituting short words for big, pruning away unnecessary sentences and generally simplifying the text.

What with these labors of revision and occasional lapses into sickness, the daily average of words when he was in his prime was reduced to about 325. He was never a great reader. Indeed he was wont to say that if he read as much as other people he would know as little as they.

Good things a little better than seems necessary.

FROM DAKOTA TO CANADA.

Fifteen Hundred Have Gone Into the Canadian Northwest.

Ottawa, Dec. 9.—The Inspector of Immigration Agencies in the United States, W. J. White, states that during the month of October 927 persons left North Dakota and settled in the Canadian Northwest. Their effects were transported in 109 cars. During the month of November 567 people settled in the west from North Dakota, bringing with them 80 carloads of effects. The value of settlers' effects brought in the country, exclusive of money possessed by the newcomers during these two months from this single state of the union, was over $250,000. Mr. White says that the department expects to move from California fifty people, who will become the nucleus of a large settlement in the west. The department established this year agencies in Washington and Montana. The arrivals in the west from other states are very satisfactory, but, on account of the late season, many were prevented from moving.

UNREQUITED LOVE.

German Mill Hand at Hespeler Kills Himself With a Gun.

Hespeler, Dec. 9.—August Fleider, one of the Germans who recently came to Hespeler to work in the woollen mills, left his boarding-house at an early hour Sunday morning, taking with him his double-barrelled shot gun. Shortly after dinner yesterday his body was found in a gravel pit with a portion of the left side of his face blown off. From indications it would appear that the unfortunate man committed suicide. Unrequited love, it is reported, was the cause of his desperate act. He was 24 years old and unmarried.

A PEACE PROSPECT.

Russia and Japan Said to Have Found Basis of Settlement.

London, Dec. 9.—An Associated Press despatch from St. Petersburg confirming previous advices received from its correspondent in Paris that peace between Russia and Japan was believed to be assured, finds a prominent place in all the morning papers, several of which give space to editorials expressive of the satisfaction felt at the prospect of a peaceful settlement of the troubles.

Smashed Steam Tiller.

Queenstown, Dec. 9.—The Red Star Line steamer Kroonland, which sailed from Antwerp, Dec. 5, for New York, communicated by wireless telegraphy with Brow Head at 4.30 yesterday afternoon. She was then 78 miles west of Fastnet and returning to Queenstown with her steam tiller smashed and her steering gear disabled. The vessel was steering with the use of her engines. The weather was hazy and a moderate gale was blowing.

H.M.S. Flora Doomed.

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 9.—It is feared that H.M.S. Flora will never leave the ill-omened Village Rock as a ship. Since she was run on the rock in a fog last week two attempts have been made to release her, but both have proved failures.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1903.

PETERBOROUGH IS THE PLACE.

Mr. Drummond, a presumably high authority, says that electric power cannot profitably be supplied at $15 per horse power. Indeed? If Mr. Drummond comes to Peterborough and wants to establish a manufactory he will find that he can get his electric power for that figure without any chaffering. He will find that it will be supplied profitably for him, and no doubt to the developers, for the concerns in Peterborough which develop electrical energy are too shrewd to sell it at a loss. Mr. Drummond should understand that what is impossible in other places in the matter of producing cheap electric power is easily possible in Peterborough, where the natural advantages contribute making Peterborough in the matter of economical power as well as in traffic facilities and other advantages, exceptionally well adapted to be a manufacturing centre.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. George Benson, president of the Edwardsburg Starch Company, will contest the riding of South Grenville, with Dr. Reid, the sitting Conservative member. The doctor will be assured of stiff opposition anyway.

Ontario Conservatives are seeing double these days. They not only have a double corruption fund, but they have two factions, and this little fact sometimes brings trouble. Mr. Joynt, who has sat two terms in the Legislature, as the representative of Grenville in Mr. Whitney's interests, is being "turned down." He has been deposed as chairman of the executive of the Conservative Association, something which is equivalent to notice that he will not be the party candidate, that honour being reserved for a Mr. Ferguson. Possibly it is thought that a little cut-throat game can safely be played between the factions in a Conservative hive—Mr. Joynt having been elected at the last general elections by a majority of 960.

CORDOVA STILL A LIVELY VILLAGE.

Shutting Down of the Mines has not Affected the Business to any Appreciable Extent.

The shutting down of the Belmont gold mine has not lessened the population of this place to the great extent that some thought it would. A large number of the men formerly employed in the mine have obtained work in the nearby cordwood camps of the Rathbun Company, and while families are remaining in the village. Those who have gone farther afield for employment have left their families here pending their return, when the mine resumes work, which is expected to be early in the spring, so that the place is still quite lively, and the merchants report business as being quite fair. As yet there is no appreciable difference in the congregations attending the Sunday services of either the Presbyterian or Methodist churches here, and the Sunday schools of both are arranging for the usual Christmas entertainments with the inevitable tree. While the feeling in the village was somewhat panicky for a time, the people are now taking the matter philosophically, and are waiting patiently for the resumption of work at the mine.

Manager D. G. Kerr, assistant-manager L. F. S. Holland, Messrs. J. A. Lamb, accountant, and G. D. Harcly, assayer, will remain at the mine until spring.

Mr. F. W. Pitts, formerly master mechanic at the Belmont mine, left last week for Belleville, where he has accepted a position.

Mr. G. S. James of Actinolite, was a visitor at the Belmont mine on Saturday.

Mr. M. Moloney who was accidentally shot while deer hunting some three weeks ago, is progressing nicely towards recovery. The wound in the under jaw is healing well and only a slight disfigurement will result.

There is an epidemic of mumps in the village and the disease is no respecter of age, many adults being stricken as well as juveniles.

Mr. F. W. Thompson, the village barber, proposes leaving for Toronto this week to better his fortune.

Mr. W. Stacey, who is well known throughout this district, is lying dangerously ill at the residence of his brother, Mr. Richard Stacey, this village.

The attention of your correspondent has been called to a paragraph that appeared in your daily edition of Dec. 1st, regarding the union of Cordova, Marmora and Beaver Creek Presbyterian churches, and he has been asked to correct it in one or two particulars. The Cordova Presbyterian congregation was not officially represented at the conference in Marmora on November 30th, and did not consider Marmora's request for union until the following Wednesday night, Dec. 2nd, when at a congregational meeting held for the purpose, a committee was appointed to confer with one from the Marmora congregation to see if suitable terms of union could be arranged. The sentiment of the meeting was in favour of union, while the Belmont mine remained closed, but it was not thought possible to make it a permanent one, as Cordova would necessarily have to have two services each Sunday when the mine re-opened, and prosperity returned to the village. It was felt by those present that union would be a decided retrogressive step and would place the congregation at a disadvantage, and the local committee was instructed to strictly safeguard Cordova's interests at the meeting of the joint committee which is expected to be held some time this week. So far as your correspondent has been able to learn Rev. T. W. Goodwill, B.A., has not yet consented to assume charge of the Cordova, Marmora, Beaver Creek circuit, should the union be consummated.

DWYER'S CORNERS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Cold weather and icy roads are the order of the day.

Mr. P. Dwyer, general blacksmith here, is doing a rushing business in horse shoeing. He puts on as many as 75 and 80 shoes per day.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Dwyer were the guests of the former's brother, Mr. John Dwyer, on Sunday last.

Mr. W. H. Kidd of this place, is doing a big business in life insurance, in a short time expects to have an office in Tweed.

Mr. Edward Welsh is busily engaged in threshing around here and in the Settlement.

Miss Clara Christie has returned from Cobourg after a week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Doody, of that place.

Sight Worth Seeing.

People have no idea until they come and see what a beautiful sight the Aylmer street greenhouses present at present. The large display of fresh and healthy looking house plants in bloom, the lovely ferns, fern pots and foliage plants, basket and other cute designs, and the great variety of material for floral decorations, are well worth seeing. Fresh Carnations out every day. Open till ten o'clock every evening. Jos. H. Cobb, Florist.

15. We received a report from the Town Engineer regarding the granolithic sidewalk constructed by Samuel Kennedy on the south side of Dublin street, stating that $32.50 would be required to remove an inequality in the walk, and recommending that that sum be retained from the assignees of Mr. Kennedy. 19. We recommend that John E. Hayes be charged $4.50 for 1 1-8 yards of granite he obtained from the town and that this sum be deducted from money due him.

Mr. George Ross, a farmer of Asphodel was loading cheese at the Norwood cheese factory for shipment at Grand Junction, Hastings, on Monday, Nov. 30th. When loading he tied the lines around the stake of the wagon. When about to unwind them the horses took fright and started for the main road, before reaching they had to pass through a narrow lane. CLYDESDALE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We have beautiful weather here, and fine sleighing for the past two weeks. Farmers are taking advantage of it to do their teaming to market. A number of fowl and pork have been slaughtered for market lately, prices being good this season.

Clydesdale Cheese Factory settled up on the 28th Nov. very satisfactory, paying $24.74 on standard clear of expenses.

The young people are taking the good of the snow too, having three surprise parties in a week.

We regret to state Clydesdale has lost one of its batchelors, Mr. John Fitzsimmons, who took unto himself a wife from Barrie, the other day.

Mr. Richard Fitzsimmons, of Pittsburg, is over visiting his brother.

Miss Maggie Anderson, Cardiff, has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Alex. Trotter, during the past two weeks.

Mr. Frank Goley has returned home, looking hale and hearty, after spending the summer making cheese in Douro.

Mr. John Trotter has erected a new house. He says he is now ready for election.

Mr. Alex. Trotter has erected a new drive shed.

Mrs. Alex. Trotter has returned from New Ontario, looking fine, after an absence of two months. She gives a glowing account of New Ontario as a farming country. It cannot be beaten in Old Ontario. Anyone wanting a farm, that's the place.

WARSAW.

Remember the concert in the town hall on Friday evening, Dec. 11th, by Misses Carrie White and Julia Choate, assisted by the orchestra.

The many friends of Mr. E. McIlvena will be sorry to learn that he recently fractured one of the bones of his ankle by a fall owing to the slippery state of the sidewalks. He is doing as well as could be expected.

ONEMEE.

(From our own correspondent.)

The sleighing is now very fair, and an unusual amount of wood, and farmers' products, are coming into the village.

The village is healthy and everything looks cheerful for the ensuing holidays.

Lebanon L.O.L. intends holding a fowl dinner on the 16th December. A good programme will be provided.

There was never better wheeling than we have had this fall.

Large numbers attended the Peterborough markets on Saturday. Fowl and butter brought very satisfactory prices.

Municipal as well as political elections are now the topic of the day. The majority of the people are well satisfied with the present prosperous condition of affairs, and desire no change.

A party recently arrived here from Michigan and reports one farmer raising over 100 acres of sugar beets, both satisfactorily and profitably. Surely our local farmers can safely tackle two acres, and help on the beet sugar industry.

Our high and public schools are at present largely attended by outsiders.

A load of dynamite passed through here recently, and caused as much anxiety for fear of an explosion, as if it actually exploded. The driver will be obliged to take a back street after this.

We very much regret to hear of the accident to Mr. Morrison, who is at present in the Nicholls Hospital. Mr. Morrison was one of our oldest residents, and has reached over the four score of years.

Jos. Donaldson removes to Peterborough this week to engage in one of the industries there. He was a very successful farmer here.

One in Four Persons.

One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles. Some do not know the nature of their ailment and others have never heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease. If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take.

CATTLE AND SHEEP AWARDS

Number of Visitors and Quantity and Quality of Exhibits Go to Make Up a Record—Dairy Tests and Poultry Judging—Wonderful Illustration of Expert Judging of Swine. Alive and Dead.

Guelph, Dec. 9.—The Winter Fair was formally opened at 1 o'clock yesterday. All exhibits were in place. The number of visitors were in excess of last year, and the management expressed the opinion that in quality and quantity of exhibits and the number of visitors the week would prove the most profitable in the history of the Association. The dairy tests and the poultry judging, which begun Monday were the drawing features until noon, then the bacon hog judging for prize awards drew all the attention. The building was comfortably full of visitors.

Wonderful Expert Judging

One of the curious incidents of the Fair is to be found in the tests of judging in bacon hogs. Nothing better illustrates the accuracy of the judgment of these experts in swine. An animal is brought into the ring and the judges decide his value for bacon purposes. Many are examined and prizes are awarded to those in the estimation of the committee best filling the schedule for this class of animals. Then the carcasses are later brought forward to determine the correctness of the judgments awarded. Here is an ocular demonstration of what the judges had decided upon while the animal was yet alive. It is one of the niceties in the treatment of live stock.

Exceptional Beef Year.

The beef exhibits were much superior to the breeding class. In this respect it is an exceptional year. The judges are: J. T. Gibson, Denfield, and Arthur Tyson, Guelph. The feature of the day's contest was the sweepstake awards for best shorthorn steers. Friend & Sons captured the prize. More than half the cattle exhibits were judged. Results—Pure breeds, in the order named:

The exhibits were in excess of other years. Prof. C. F. Curtis of the Ames (Ia.) Agricultural College, was to have judged Southdowns, Oxfordshires and Dorsethorns, but he did not arrive. The judge was Robert Miller, Stouffville. Good progress was made in the sheep awards. Results:

CHARLOTTE STREET SUCCESSFUL RECITAL.

A most enjoyable evening was spent last night by the large number who attended the recital given by the Charlotte street choir in that church. The result must have been highly gratifying to the choir, under whose auspices it was held, and particularly so to Miss Clarry, the organist and choir leader. The financial result is also very satisfactory. The choir was assisted by a number of local artists. The programme opened with an organ solo, given by Miss Cushrane, which was thoroughly appreciated. The choir followed with an anthem, "The God of Abram, Praise," by Dudley Buck, in the rendition of which the singers showed the result of consistent practice. Mr. Laurence was particularly pleasing in his solo, "Calm as the Night," by Bohm. Miss Gumpricht gave two delightful piano solos, which the audience showed their appreciation of.

Miss Davies was heard in two solos, the first being Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," and the second "O Had I Jubal's Lyre!" by Handel. In each of these Miss Davies' excelled herself, her singing being most effective. The choir again sang an anthem, "He that Dwelleth," the 91st Psalm, the music being by Ballard. A pleasing number was a quartette, "Nearer my God, to Thee," the soprano and the parts being taken by Miss Ruby Adamson and Miss Eva Orr. This selection was made additionally enjoyable by those taking part acting the sentiment of the words.

A very much appreciated solo was that rendered by Miss Clara Belleghem, her selection being Adams' "Barque of Dreams." In this number Miss Belleghem once more gave evidence of her musical ability. The solo was well suited to her voice, and her rendition was a most pleasing one.

A solo, "Son of my Soul," Adams, by Mr. Walter Stocker, constituted a most enjoyable number and elicited warm approval from the large audience.

Miss Clarry acted as accompanist throughout the evening adding materially to the success of the evening.

The choir and leader are to be congratulated on the complete success of the recital, which has proved a distinct musical education.

The funeral of the late Annie Harmer took place at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon, to the Little Lake cemetery, where the burial service was conducted by Mr. W. P. Douglas, of the Gospel Hall, corner of Brock and George streets.

The deceased was the wife of the late Thomas Harmer, of Peterborough, and died in Rochester, N.Y., on Monday, at the age of 75 years. She and her husband came to Peterborough in 1872 from London, Eng. She resided in town until the death of her husband, six years ago, when she left to live with her children, of whom she has nine, all living. Their names are Henry, Chicago; Mrs. F. Parks, Peterborough; Arthur, Chicago; Mrs. Irvine, Chicago; Mrs. Watson, Warren, Pa.; Jas., Chicago; Mrs. Cunningham, Toronto; Frank, Elk River, B.C.; Mrs. Davies, Rochester, N.Y.

The late Mrs. Harmer was in town visiting her daughter as late as two months ago. She left for Rochester, and six weeks ago was stricken with scarlet fever, from which she never recovered. Many will remember her although her visits to town of late have been infrequent. She was widely respected, and in her death many will lose an old friend.

THE OWNERSHIP OF SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS.

A Careful Report Presented by Mr. Wm. Pringle.

The Recommendation of the Special Committee and the Discussion Which Followed it.

At the Board of Education meeting on Monday night, Mr. Wm. Pringle, as chairman of the Special Committee, presented the following report regarding the municipal ownership of school books.

Your committee appointed to investigate the question of public ownership of textbooks and supplies, beg to report that on the authorization of your Board the committee visited Toronto, Brantford and Hamilton where this system is and has been in use for many years. The committee first interviewed Jas. L. Hughes, Esq., inspector of public schools in Toronto. He very graciously gave the committee a complete explanation of the working of the plan adopted by the Toronto Public school board. They furnish all text books and supplies free of charge. Tenders are called for once a year—in May — for all supplies required, which is obtained by the Inspector or from the principal of each school. These books and supplies are in charge of officials of the school board who are under the instructions of the inspector. When the school opens each pupil is supplied by his teacher with the books and supplies required; each teacher is supplied by the principal with all the books and supplies required for his or her room; and each principal with all the books and supplies required by all the teachers under him. Application forms are used, and receipts given for all books and supplies received from the principal down to the pupil, thus providing a complete system of checking.

In order that books may be protected covers are supplied to each pupil for the text books he is using, the covers being of a good quality of wrapping paper which is cut the proper size, and the student is shown how to cover the book himself. Each book is stamped with instructions regarding the use and care of the book. At the end of the term all books are returned, and a receipt given by the proper party. If the exercise books or work books have been filled they are returned to the pupil, but must be accounted for first. This is one of the most important features of the system, as a careful supervision is kept by the teacher over not only the text books, but work books, pencils, pens and paper. In the case of books being abused or damaged in any way, or lost, the principal decides the value and the pupil must pay for it. The text books are carefully examined, those wholly unfit for further use are discarded, some are rebound, and in many cases one good book is made out of two poor ones. The Toronto School Board has at present an arrangement with a firm of bookbinders to rebind books at ten cents apiece, and the books so rebound, some of which were shown to your committee, really appeared to be stronger than the original binding.

In the case of the pupil being transferred from one school to another, a transfer card is used. The blank books are taken by the pupil but the text books remain. Where a student has passed from one grade to another in the same school the blank books are taken with him in the same way, and if the same text book is used he takes it with him.

The question naturally arises here, that on the opening of a new term, would it not be a source of jealousy among the pupils as to who should have new books. In Toronto this matter is arranged by giving the new text books to the pupils of best standing, and your committee understand that very little dissatisfaction ever occurs. As to the sanitary effect, the inspector asserted that the objection on this point was more imaginary than real, and as an instance he stated that in one of the schools in Toronto having seventeen rooms, the books of only one pupil were destroyed in one year on account of infectious diseases, and in another school having twenty-five rooms, the books of only two pupils in one year were destroyed for this reason.

Your committee next visited Brantford and, as a committee, we here wish to express our appreciation of the royal way in which we were received and entertained by the school board of that city as well as by the principals of the schools we visited.

We found that the plan adopted by the Brantford School Board was that of charging a fee to each pupil of so much a month. The books and supplies are provided in much the same way as in Toronto; that is to say, the tenders are called for once a year, by the principal of one of the schools, who has entire charge of all the supplies. A store room is provided in one of the school buildings, and from here all supplies are furnished to the principal of the school making application. We were told that there was little or no dissatisfaction with the system. In fact when we consider that the system has been in use for fifty years, that most of the parents themselves received their books and supplies in the same way, we can quite understand that the system must be satisfactory, or a change would have been made long ago.

In Brantford a fifth form is taught in the public school. In addition to the regular work, commercial subjects are taken up, including bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting, and the pupils in this form pay no more than in the fourth. The course is supposed to extend over a period of three years, and is much the same as the commercial course in our Collegiate Institute at the present time.

The last city visited was Hamilton. W. R. Ballard, M. A., inspector, courteously received your committee, and minutely explained the working of the system in that city. We found here quite a different plan. Books and supplies are purchased in the same way as in Toronto and Brantford. A fee is charged similar to the plan adopted in Brantford, but no books are taken back from the student. This system is much more simple than either of the others and costs less to carry out. In Hamilton the stationer whose tender is accepted, acts as stores-keeper for the year, books and supplies being furnished by him as they are required. The fees charged in Hamilton were 15c a month up to the third reader, and 25c a month in the higher, including the fifth form, which gives the commercial course similar to that in Brantford, or in our collegiate institute. There is no opposition in Hamilton to the system, and of course the objection from a sanitary point of view is entirely removed, as no old books are taken back. A careful supervision is kept over all text books and supplies, and a text book is supposed to last a pupil while he is in that particular form.

So accustomed have the people of Hamilton become to this system that no separate account is kept of books and supplies, all being entered in a common fund. In Hamilton we found that a truant officer is appointed, and is a paid official. This person is supplied with exemption tickets, and if any person applies for exemption, the case is investigated by the Truant Officer and if he is satisfied that the case is a deserving one he issues a ticket.

Your committee after very careful consideration of the advantages and disadvantages of the plan adopted by each of the places mentioned, have come to the unanimous decision that the system in use in the schools of Hamilton is the one best suited for the purpose of your board and would recommend its adoption for the following principal reasons:

1st. Because it is less expensive to execute, the clerical work being reduced to a minimum.

2nd. The sanitary objections which might be raised are entirely removed.

3rd. The books become the property of the pupil on the approval of the property committee.

4th. The board is at liberty to adopt any authorized text books at any time, without loss to itself or its pupils.

That the following schedule of fees be adopted.

	Public School & Non-P.S. Supporters	Non-Res & Non-P.S. Supporters
	Cents per Month.
Junior Part 1	5	20
Senior Part 1	5	20
Junior Part 2	10	40
Senior Part 2	10	40
Kindergarten	10	40
Second Reader	15	60
Third Reader	20	80
Fourth Reader	20	80

That the fees be collected the first week of each month by the teacher, who reports to the principal, and who in turn hands all money received to the secretary of the board. Statements and receipts must be given in each case. The amounts so collected are to be deposited as a separate account in the bank on which checks may be drawn, signed by the secretary and chairman of the board for any authorized account.

That it be distinctly understood that all books and supplies are the property of the board until such time as the pupil has completed the work required of him in a particular grade.

That in the interest of the pupils and public generally, and your committee desire to emphasize this, the inspector keep a close supervision over all text books, to observe the work being done in work books, exercise books, and copy books; to see that blank books are filled before new ones are given out, and to report to the board any teacher who permits of carelessness in the use of text books pencils, pens, paper or blank books.

That when wilful destruction or loss of books occurs, the value of such be determined by the principal and inspector and charged to the pupil.

That a truant officer be appointed at a salary of $50 a year, who, in addition to his work as truant officer, shall inquire into and report to the inspector all cases where exemption from fees is asked, and who shall have the right, with the sanction of the inspector and chairman of the supervision committee, to grant such exemption.

That this department be under the control of the supervision committee.

That the system come into operation with the beginning of the fall term in September 1904.

That as the present contract with Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. expires in March next, it be extended to July 1st, 1904.

That tenders for text books and supplies be called for in May so that the contract may be awarded at the July meeting of the Board.

That in all applications for supplies it be stated whether for Collegiate Institute or Public school purposes in order that distinct and separate accounts may be kept.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. J. HARTLEY,
W. H. HILL,
F. J. JAMESON,
WM. PRINGLE,
Chairman.

Mr. Hill remarked that a very long time had been spent on the report, and that the system was the same as was in vogue in Hamilton, but the fees were slightly lower. This system had always given the utmost satisfaction. It is beneficial, because the poorer class will be relieved of considerable expense. He dwelt on the necessity of good grounds and good school buildings. Continuing, Mr. Hill recommended that every year a committee be appointed to go out for a week and visit the various schools of the province, where knowledge would be obtained, which would result in better school education in Peterborough. Such a trip, he said, would not be expensive. In conclusion he added that many of the school rooms which the committee visited were decorated with photographs of scholars who had succeeded in coming out first in their class, or distinguishing themselves in some other way.

Mr. Jameson also recommended the adoption of the system.

Mr. Eastwood did not see where the advantage in this system lay. He said it would be opposed by the greater class of persons concerned.

The chairman remarked that any new system would not satisfy everybody. He showed the material saving to both the parents of the school children and the Board, and was quite satisfied that the people would find it 50 per cent cheaper than the present system. He dwelt on the inadequacy of the present school grounds as well as buildings. He believed that Brantford had better grounds than here, but thought the educational system was not as good. Although not greatly in favour of the system he suggested that it be given a trial, and if satisfactory, permanently adopted. The fee of ten cents a month was very reasonable indeed, and nobody would be able to say that they could not afford to send their children to school.

Mr. Eastwood thought that the Toronto plan was better than the Hamilton one.

Mr. Fair stated that the report was an excellent one, and showed both care and time had been taken. The system, he added, was an old one. He favoured the Hamilton plan because the people who used the books would pay for them. Regarding the school property he admitted that the school grounds were certainly bad. This he attributed to the very fast growth of the town. In regard to the report, he said that in view of the fact that the Board would next year be enlarged by two members from the new fifth ward, he advised that the report be left over till next year, and that at the present time the report be received.

Mr. Stevenson spoke on the excellence of the plan and congratulated the committee on the report.

Mr. McBain recommended that the report as suggested by Mr. Fair, be received and left over until a special meeting in February. This was converted into a motion, which was carried.

It was moved by Mr McBain, seconded by Mr. Eastwood that Miss Ames and Miss Rush be allowed one months pay for their four weeks leave of absence.

The Board then adjourned.

THE AMBULANCE IS IMPROVED GREATLY.

Mr. A. Comstock has had his Vehicle Repainted and Varnished.

After having been in the paint shop for a few weeks, Comstock's ambulance is again ready for service, and those who remember it as it was previous to its brief sojourn in the "dry dock" will scarcely recognize it as the same vehicle. Mr. E. Linder, to whom was entrusted the work of repainting the ambulance had made a most creditable improvement in its appearance, and there are few more appropriately decorated ambulances in any city than that which has done good service to Peterborough's sick and injured for some time.

The body of the vehicle and back panels are painted a deep green, with black trimmings. On the side "Ambulance" is painted in silver, while the red cross the sign of the Society which has done so much to relieve suffering, is emblazened, two silver rings circumferencing it.

A side window of plate glass has been placed in each side, making the interior much more pleasant. Altogether the improved ambulance is a great credit, not only to the owner, but also to the artist who was instrumental in effecting the improved appearance. Mr. Linder also repainted and varnished the hearse, the result being most satisfactory.

Mr. Comstock has about completed a well planned driving house in which his hearses and ambulance will be kept. The new building will have cement floors, and a washing room will also be included. The ambulance has been in requisition a number of times since it was taken from the painter's hands a few days ago.

MOCK PARLIAMENT HELD A SESSION.

An Interesting Meeting at George Street Guild.

The second sitting of the Mock Parliament was held in George street Sunday School Room last night, conducted by the Young Men's Guild. A goodly number was in attendance and the meeting was a most interesting one. A number of bills were introduced by members, on a variety of subjects, some of them being debated upon. The debate on the reply to the speech to the Throne was continued by Mr. Jefferies, the Premier, and the Mr. W. S. Robinson replied for the Opposition. On a division, the reply was adopted on a straight party vote. Mr. S. R. Armstrong introduced a resolution declaring in favour of Canada applying for treaty-making powers from the Mother Country. This resolution was fully debated by Government and Opposition members, and was lost, also on a straight party vote.

Before adjournment, Mr. Cressman, Finance Minister, gave notice of the introduction of the budget, which will be brought forward at the next meeting, on Tuesday, Dec. 29th, and moved the adjournment, which was carried.

The sittings of the Parliament are becoming of increased enjoyment, and the future meetings will be awaited with considerable interest.

MISSIONARY WORK AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Fund Being Raised in Aid of Canadian Church Missionary Society.

A partial canvas of St. John's congregation has been made during the past ten days with the object of raising an assessment of $220 towards the funds of the newly formed Canadian Church Missionary Society. On Sunday morning $150 was announced for this purpose and by Sunday evening the amount had been raised to $170. Since then it has been further increased to over $190, and the amount is being held for a few days to give others an opportunity to hand in contributions by means of which it is possible that St. John's will be placed on the list of those Parishes paying their quotas in full. Every Parish from the Atlantic to the Pacific is taking some share in this great enterprise. The Bishop of Toronto has called for the names of contributors to be sent to him by Dec. 20th for publication in the Annual Report of the Society.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. W. Walters of Bowmanville, and Mr. Goldie of Oshawa, are visiting with Mr. W. Kempt, this week.

We are very sorry to learn of the untimely death of Miss Winnie Robin, only sister of Mr. Robin, teacher at Lang. The young lady died very shortly after an operation for appendicitis.

The Y.P.S. of C. E., will give a Christmas tree and entertainment in the town hall on the evening of Dec. 22nd, when a good programme will be rendered.

The County Council has voted $200 and the Otonabee council $100, to the Otonabee Agricultural Society towards the purchase of new grounds. The grounds are admirably situated, and it is the intention of the society with the help of the local improvement association to fit the grounds up as a park and recreation green. In fact part of the work is already completed, the stumps and stones having been removed.

The Local Improvement Association are again to the fore. This Association has done admirable work during the last two years but do not by any means intend to stop here. On the evening of the 29th inst. they will give to the public a rare treat, the announcement of which will be given in full later.

An outbreak of scarlet fever at Lang is announced and the school is closed. It is to be hoped that the greatest care will be exercised that it may not spread farther.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Newton of Smith, spent a few days here this week.

The following story is well worth relating, and lovers of natural history will do well to take a note of it. A well known sport of this place, who figures in all the big duck shoots, deer hunts and fox runs, was out with his rain maker one day last week. While hunting for game he espied a beautiful owl in a tree top, and of course bagged his bird. On arriving home he thought he discerned some signs of life in the sage bird, and being tender-hearted he clubbed it with a stick until he was satisfied it was dead. He then hung it up to save it for mounting, and after two days taking a friend to see it, he was surprised to find it still alive and well! He determined to exterminate it this time, and again used the club till satisfied, and then threw it into the granary. The next day going to the barn he was greeted by the owl, alive and well, perched over the door! He is got superstitious, but nothing can induce him to touch that owl again. It is now quite a pet of the house-hold.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

THE SWISS SYSTEM

Hon. Clifford Sifton Advocates Free Arms for Young Canada.

SOME IMPERIAL PROBLEMS.

Minister's Live Address Before the Canadian Club of Ottawa—Outspoken, Manly and Fearless—Robust Attitude of the Dominion Towards Preferences—Canadians as Arbitrators in International Arbitrations.

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—Preferential trade, Canada's treaty-making power, Imperial federation, and national defence were the live topics in an address by the Hon. Clifford Sifton last night to the Canadian Club of this city. The banqueting hall of the Grand Union was crowded with guests, and the Minister of the Interior's speech, which was outspoken, manly and fearless, and such as to appeal to the younger generation as well as to the old, was received with immense enthusiasm. Mr. Sifton took the ground in regard to preferential trade that until we knew what sort of a quid pro quo Britain would want in the event of her people approving of that policy we could not say what we would do.

A Preposterous Idea.

It was preposterous, however, to suggest that we should agree not to establish new industries. Canada wanted no favor from Britain without making an equivalent return. As to international arbitrations, it was not a crime to suggest that Canadians should be appointed to look after Canadian interests. To the kind of Imperial federation that involved the administration of any of Canada's affairs by representatives of the United Kingdom or the other British possessions Mr. Sifton was unalterably opposed. He approved of Canada being placed in the best possible state of defence, and favored every youth in the country being taught the use of the rifle.

Favors Swiss System.

On the question of internal defence, he said:

I would like to see the adoption of the Swiss system, under which upon showing proficiency every young man gets the present of a rifle, which he hangs over his bed and produced once a year to show that it is in good order. With a population of ten millions, of whom a million were trained riflemen, we would make it interesting for any people who invaded this country.

FOR A NEWS SERVICE.

Sir Sandford Fleming Discusses Needs of Canada and New Zealand.

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—To-day is the anniversary of the inauguration of the Pacific cable and Sir Sandford Fleming, the father of the scheme, has very fittingly addressed a letter to the people and the press of New Zealand and Canada, in which he advocates a limited free News Service between the two countries, which would take up only half an hour of the time of the cable a week, and would he thinks, conduce to the good of both countries and be supported by both. When the Pacific cable scheme was first broached it was intended that a news service should be instituted, but the idea fell through because Australia balked. He thinks that the other parties to the contract should act without the aid of the Commonwealth.

WORRY DROVE HIM INSANE.

Verdict in the Case of Bank Manager McNaughton.

Tilbury, Ont., Dec. 8.—Coroner Bray of Chatham, held an inquest on the body of F. B. McNaughton, manager of the Merchants' Bank here, yesterday. The jury, after hearing the evidence, decided that deceased came to his death by a pistol shot fired by himself while laboring under temporary insanity, caused by his worrying over his business management.

Death of J. B. McArthur, K.C.

Toronto, Dec. 8.—J. B. McArthur, who died yesterday morning of diabetic coma at the age of 54, was born and educated in Middlesex County, and was called to the bar in 1873. In 1881 he entered into partnership with Hugh J. Macdonald and J. Stewart Tupper, and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Manitoba Legislature in 1886. He afterwards practiced law in Minneapolis and in Rossland, B. C., where he was elected president of the Board of Trade.

Death of Henry Winnett.

London, Dec. 8.—Henry Winnett, one of London's pioneer manufacturers and a man of sterling worth, died Sunday at his residence, "Thames Cottage," South London, aged 89 years. Mr. Winnett, who was born in Ireland, came here while quite young, and started a boiler factory, carrying on a prosperous business. He was a member of the Methodist Church. Deceased leaves six sons and three daughters.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Shooting Hamilton Barber.

Hamilton, Dec. 8.—Frank Johnson, the colored barber, who did the shooting Saturday night, was removed from the City Hospital to the jail yesterday morning. Next Monday he will face two charges of shooting with intent to murder. Moore's wound is not serious, and the bullet will be removed to-day.

The Sunlight Maids are always through their wash at twelve o'clock.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

With ordinary soap a woman has to work so hard and so long on wash day she has no time for preparing any of the family meals. Wash day is a trial, and the good wife faces each with a sigh of despair.

Sunlight Soap makes all the difference in the world. No toiling—no rubbing—no boiling—less than half the labor with much better results. Most women are all through their wash by twelve o'clock when they wash with Sunlight Soap the Sunlight way. It makes child's play of work.

TABITHA'S FALL FROM THE HEIGHTS

By ELLIOT WALKER

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"It seems to me, Tabitha, that sometimes you think I don't know anything," observed Peter in a tone of rueful impatience as he stood just inside the kitchen door. His hand held it sufficiently ajar to admit a draft of icy air which circulated freezingly about Miss Groot's well developed shoulders as she kneaded her dough in the bread pan with sounding thumps.

"Observin' man!" responded the lady. "At certain periods, Pete, I have discerned faint glimmerin's of intelligence under that shock of tow coverin' what in most folks is considered a brain cavity, but not often—not often. Boo! What's open?"

Tabitha was a student, not in the ordinary sense, but of the rare variety which assiduously seeks for an enlargement of knowledge, her special ambition being the acquisition of language. Unhappily, or perhaps otherwise, her opportunities were limited. The Bunfield Gazette was her principal source of material and, coming regularly once a week, supplied an effective course of general information.

In this sheet of wisdom Tabitha delved for words of ambitious length. These nuggets after proper mental assimilation were applied to Peter as a test. If he endured them without wincing and with some degree of comprehension Miss Groot felt secure in broader paths. Peter had served time at the district school in the heyday of early youth and was therefore a fit subject. Being consumed with admiration for Tabitha's qualities, physical as well as mental, he was also a willing one.

Now he stood with a ready finger on the door latch, for Miss Groot could propel dough balls unerringly when aroused, and eyed her with an expression of sheepish pacification.

"Come in or go out!" cried Tabitha in high wrath, forgetting her scholarship. "Here'm I, all het up workin', an' you tryin' to fix consumption on to me. Shet that door one way or t'other."

"It's worth while gettin' you mad to have you talk like a human bein'," grinned the culprit, with a horrible absence of tact. "My head aches yet from the dose you gin me last night. Folks will be laffin' at you first, you know. Fact is, pa an' ma does now behind your back, an', while I believes in eddication, havin' had some myself, you're slingin' too many long words for a hired gal, if you are the purtiest woman in Partridge Corners. L'arn all you want, Tabitha, but don't shoot 'em around free. You'll hear from it, an'"—

This speech of mingled common sense and unintentional insult and compliment was cut off by a lump of dough striking him squarely in the mouth. He darted out, sputtering.

Tabitha raged across the room and shot the bolt, her round countenance flaming. Then she bit hard on her rosy under lip and sat down to recover, a precept of learning being an attempt at philosophic calm under trying circumstances.

"Let's see," she ruminated. "Go slow, now, Tab. Think. Pete's edgin' up to —to matrimonial overtoores—that's right—correct, I mean. You're wantin' his ma in household duties an' just as good as he is—bi-3d gal!—that was mean. The flesh is willin', but the spirit is weakenin'. I swan—that is, I utterly swear—that I won't give such a fool another thought. 'Twill be a mistake. My ideas is more elevated, an' I'll rise with 'em. Oh, ginger, my bread!"

Miss Groot sighed as culinary operations were resumed. "The farm will come to Peter in the ordinary course of events," she reflected sorrowfully. "It's a good one, an' his pa's failin'; but no; an edified mind has higher aspirations than cows an' pigs, an' I'll be at the head of a woman's college if I keep on. I ain't only nineteen an' impressive of bearin', if I do say it. Wonder how I'll look in one of them gowns with a four cornered hat atop of my auburn locks. Imposin' as any of 'em, I guess."

This modest view of the future exalted Tabitha's spirit as she shoved her loaves into the oven.

"Pshaw!" she exclaimed, striking an attitude. "Laugh at me, will they? I'll start the laugh t'other way an' do it today. 'Hitch your wagon to a star,' as Emerson says. He oughter have said 'unite' or 'attach,' but the idea ain't discouragin,' an' I'll pitch right in an' get attention attracted. Then Mis' Shields can look round for other help. Maybe they'll want me in their office right away."

Poor Peter! During the ensuing ten days he was frozen with a succession of refrigerating snubs and acid repulses which cast him into the depths of despondency. Tabitha appeared absorbed in rapt contemplation of affairs beyond the mundane. She was silent, yet expectant, as one waiting for a message of unbounded import. Still he lingered mournfully about the region of Miss Groot's performances, with an eye to lending an assisting hand. It was not desired. Neither was conversation. Peter visibly drooped.

Then came Thursday evening and the Bunfield Gazette. Peter welcomed it and at once repaired to the kitchen and held it out as a peace offering. Perhaps this beloved messenger would produce a beneficent thaw.

The girl's eyes shone, and her cheeks were like peonies. "Look it over," she remarked in a lofty voice. "If you find anything about me read it aloud."

Peter glanced through the pages and started. "Lordy!" he exclaimed. "You have got in the paper!"

"Read it," commanded Miss Groot, sitting up excitedly, "then laugh if you want to."

The young man commenced:

A GENEROUS OFFER.

We are greatly indebted to Miss Tabitha Groot of Partridge Corners [a satisfied smile from that lady] for the extremely kind communication herewith printed at her request. Our readers, we are positive, will appreciate it as a contribution to be valued:

"To the Editor of The Gazette:

"Admired Sir—Eighteen months of perusal of your esteemed publication has endowed me with undoubted qualifications for achievements along educational lines, and I hereby proffer to you the advantages of my services for $10 a week—being now attained to the age of nineteen years, strong, healthy and of commendable appearances—for the furtherance of the interests of your interesting periodical and to enable myself to be elevated to be an inmate of some desirable institution in future where my talents will receive due appreciation.

"Address me in care of Mrs. Timothy Shields, Partridge Corners. I am working for her. Print this, please. With my best respects,

"TABITHA KITTREDGE GROOT."

We deeply deplore our inability to avail ourselves of Miss Groot's courteous proposition and trust our correspondent will pardon us for trifling changes in her letter, made necessary for the enlightenment of our readers. Our sincere advice to this young lady is a decided opinion that she keep right on working for Mrs. Shields of Partridge Corners until time shall bring her a modicum of common sense and some knowledge of English composition, else her "desirable institution" will surely be the poorhouse—

A cry of anguish from Tabitha stopped Peter's labored enunciation. He did not laugh, but sprang from his chair and held the bowed head in his great hands, with his face against her bright hair.

"Never mind, dear," he whispered. "If they don't want you, I do. Look up, Tabitha. Say you will."

The girl, still sobbing, lifted a tear stained face and nodded. Her lover kissed her in rapturous relief. Then Tabitha spoke, and her speech was emphatic. "I'll never look inside that old paper again," she said.

The Broken Down Nervous System.

Often Found in Persons Who are Apparently in Good Health—Extraordinary Effects of

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is not always the pale and bloodless who suffer from nervous exhaustion, and when a person of apparent good health finds himself almost helpless he gets little sympathy from physician or friends and not infrequently his ills are attributed to the imagination.

A tendency to put off the duties of the day, indisposition for exertion or concentration of the mind, depressed spirits, wakefulness at night, indigestion, headache, feelings of fatigue, and lassitude, dizziness, specks before the eyes, noises in the ears and irregularities and derangements of the sexual organs are among the most common symptoms of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

Nervous diseases are slow in coming on and patience is necessary in their treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is absolutely certain to be of benefit to anyone suffering from exhausted nerves, for it supplies the very elements of nature which go to create new nerve cells and instill new vigor and energy into the nervous system.

Mrs. J. Hatcher, 224 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton foundry, states:—

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run-down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

CHAPTER IX.

HAVING started the wheels of justice fairly moving, with Scroggs at the throttle, the new land baron soon discovered that he was not in consonance with the great commoner who said he was savage enough to prefer the woods and wilds of Monticello to all the pleasures of Paris. In other words, those rural delights of his forefathers, the pleasures of a closer intimacy with nature, awoke no responsive chord in Mauville's breast, and he began to tire before long of a patriarchal existence and crullers and oly-koeks and playing the fine lord in solitary grandeur.

To further add to the land baron's dissatisfaction over his heritage, "rent day," that all important day in the olden times when my lord's door had been besieged by the willing leaseholders, cheerful in rendering unto Cæsar what was due Cæsar, seemed to have been dropped from the modern calendar.

"Your notices, Scroggs, were wasted on the desert air," said the patroon grimly to the disappointed worthy. "What's the use of tenants who don't pay? Playing at feudal lord in modern times is a farce, Scroggs."

That evening when the broad meadows were inundated by the shadow of the forest that crept over it like an incoming tide the land baron ordered lights for every room. The manor shone in isolated grandeur amid the gloomy fields, with the forest wall around it; radiant as of old, when strains of music had been heard within and many figures passed the windows. But now there was light and not life, and a solitary antirenter on the lonely road regarded with surprise the unusual illumination.

"What does it mean?" asked Little Thunder, for it was he, waiting and watching as without the gates of paradise.

Well might he ask, for the late mynheer the patroon had been a veritable bat for darkness; a few candles answered his purpose in the spacious rooms; he played the prowler, not the grand lord; a recluse who hovered over his wine butts in the cellar and gloated over them while he touched them not; a hermit who lived half his time in the kitchen, bending over the smoky fireplace, and not a lavender scented gentleman who aired himself in the drawing room, a fine fop with nothing but the mirrors to pay him homage. Little Thunder, standing with folded arms in the dark road, gloomy as Lucifer, almost expected to see the brilliant fabric vanish like one of those palaces of joy built by the poets.

Hour after hour passed, midnight had come and gone and still the lights glowed. Seated in the library, with the curtains drawn, were the land baron and Scroggs, a surveyor's map between them and a dozen bottles around them. Before Mauville stood several glasses containing wines of various vintages, which the land baron compared and sipped, held to the light and inhaled, after the manner of a connoisseur sampling a cellar. He was unduly dignified and stately, but the attorney appeared decidedly groggy.

"Lord! How you go on!" exclaimed Scroggs. "What with sampling this and sampling that, my head's going round like a top. If there's anything in the cellar the old patroons put down we haven't tried, sir, I beg to defer the sampling. I am of the sage's mind—'Of all men who take wine, the moderate only enjoy it,' says Master Bacon or some one else."

"Pass the bottle!" answered the other. "Gently, man! Don't disturb its repose, and remember it disdains the perpendicular."

"So will I soon," muttered Scroggs. "I hope you'll excuse me, sir, but that last drop of Veuve Cliquot was the whipcord that started the top going, and, on my word," raising his hands to his head, "I feel like holding it on to keep it from spinning off."

"Spinning or not, you shall try this vintage"—the young man's eyes gleamed with such fire as shone in the glass—"and drink to Constance Carew!"

"Constance Carew!" stammered the other, desperately swallowing the toast.

Mauville slowly emptied the glass. "A balsamic taste, slightly piquant, but agreeable," he observed. "A dangerous wine, Scroggs! It carries no warning. Your older kind is like a world worn coquette whose glances at once place you on the defensive. This maiden vintage, just springing into glorious womanhood, comes over you like a springtime dream."

"Who—who is she?" muttered Scroggs.

"She is not in the scroll you prepared for my lamented kinsman, eh? No title, man; not even a society lady. A stroller, which is next door to a vagrant."

"Well, sir, she's a woman, and that's enough," replied the lawyer. "And my opinion is it's better to have nothing to do with 'em."

With this sententious remark Scroggs gave a sudden lurch forward and quietly and naturally slid under the table.

The patroon arose, strode to the window, which he lifted, and the night air entered, fanning his hot brow. The leaves on high rustled like falling rain. The elms tossed their branches, striking one another in blind confusion.

As he stood there the stars grew pale. The sky trembled and quivered before the advent of morn. A heavy footstep fell behind him, and, turning, he beheld the caretaker.

"Not in bed yet, Oly-koeks?" cheerfully said the land baron.

"I am just up."

"In that case it is time for me to retire," returned the master, with a yawn. "This is a dull place, Oly-koeks; no life, no variety. Nothing going on?"

The servant glanced at the formidable array of bottles. "And he calls this a quiet life!" thought the caretaker, losing his impassiveness and viewing the table with round eyed wonder.

"Nothing going on?" he said aloud. "Mynheer the patroon complained of too much life here, with people taking farms all around. But, if you are dull, a farmer told me last night there was a company of strolling players in Vanderdonkville"—

"Strollers?" exclaimed Mauville, wheeling around. "What are they called?"

"Lord, I don't know, sir. They're show folks, and that's all"—

"Do many strolling players come this way?"

"Not for weeks and months sometimes! The old patroon ordered the schout to arrest them if they entered the wyck."

"Is Vanderdonkville in the wyck?" asked the land baron quickly.

"No. It was separated from the wyck when Rickert Jacobus married"—

"Never mind the family genealogy! Have the coach ready at 9"—

"Tonight?"

"This morning," replied Mauville lightly. "And meanwhile put this to bed," indicating Scroggs, who was now snoring like a bagpipe, with one arm lovingly wound around a leg of the library table.

"Drink to Constance Carew!"

The caretaker hoisted the attorney on his broad shoulders, his burden still piping as they crossed the hall and mounted the stairway. Having deposited his load within the amazing depths of a Dutch feather mattress, where he lay well nigh lost to sight, but not unheard, the wachtmeester of the steyn left him to well earned slumber and descended to the kitchen.

At the appointed hour the land baron, freshly shaven, not a jaded line in his face and elastic in step, appeared on the front porch, before which his carriage was waiting.

"When shall I expect you back?" asked Oly-koeks, who had reappeared at the sound of his master's footsteps.

"Any time or never!" laughed the patroon, springing into the vehicle.

But as he drove through a bit of wood, wrapped in pleasing reflections, he received startling proof that the warfare between landlord and tenants had indeed begun in earnest, for a great stone suddenly crashed through the window of the vehicle, without, however, injuring the occupant. Springing from his carriage, Mauville dashed through the fringe of wood, discharging his revolver at what he fancied was a fleeing figure. But a fluttering up the trees from the startled birds was the only result.

CHAPTER X.

"THE show troupe has come to town," said the tall, lank postmaster to every one who called, and the words passed from mouth to mouth, so that those who did not witness the arrival were soon aware of it. Punchinello and his companions never attracted more attention from the old country peasants than did the chariot and its occupants as on the day after their night in the woods they passed through the main thoroughfare of the village where they were soon to appear.

Dashing as in review before the rank and file of the village, the coach, with an extra flourish, rattled up to the hotel, a low but generous sized edifice, with a wide, comfortable veranda, upon the railing of which was an array of boots and behind them a number of disconsolate looking teamsters.

"You want to register, do you?" said the landlord in answer to Barnes' inquiry, as the latter entered the office.

"We don't keep no register, but I guess we can accommodate you, although the house is rather full with the fellers from the ark, er," he added, by way of explanation in answer to the manager's look of surprise, "Philadelphia freight wagons, I suppose you would call them. But we speak of them as arks, because they take in all creation. There's the occupants making a Mount Ararat of the porch. They're downhearted because they used to liquor up here and now they can't, for, the town's temperance."

"I trust, nevertheless, you are prepared for a season of legitimate drama," suggested Barnes.

The other shook his head dubiously. "The town's for lectures clear through," he answered. "They've been making a big fuss about show folks."

The manager's countenance did not fall, however, upon hearing this announcement; on the contrary, it shed forth inscrutable satisfaction.

No sooner were they settled in far from commodious quarters than preparations for the future were seriously begun, and now the drama proceeded apace, with Barnes the moving spirit. Despite his assertion that he was no scholar, the manager's mind was the storehouse of a hundred plays, and in that depository were many bags of gold and many bags of chaff. From this accumulation he drew freely, frankly, in the light fingered fashion of master playwrights and lesser theatrical thimble riggers.

Before the manager was a table—the stage—upon which were scattered miscellaneous articles, symbols of life and character. A stately saltcellar represented the leading lady, a pepper box the irascible father, a rotund mustard pot the old woman, a long, slim cruet the ingenue, and a pewter spoon the lover.

Barnes gravely demonstrated the action of the scene to Saint-Prosper, and the soldier became collaborator, "abandoning, as it were," wrote the manager in his autobiographical date book and diary, "the sword for the pen and the glow of the Champ de Mars for the glimmer of a kerosene lamp." And yet not with the inclination of Burgoyne or other military gentlemen who have courted the buskin and sock! On the contrary, so foreign was the occupation to his leaning that often a whimsical light in his eye betrayed his disinclination and modest disbelief in his own fitness for the task. "He said the way I laid out an act reminded him of planning a campaign, with the outriders and skirmishers before, the cavalry arrayed for swift service and the infantry marching steadily on, carrying with them the main plot or strength of the movement."

No sooner were the saltcellar and pepper box reunited, and the pewter spoon clasped in the arms of the loving cruet, with the curtain descending, than Barnes, who, like the immortal Alcibiades Triplet, could turn his hand to almost anything, became furiously engaged in painting scenery. A market place, with a huge wagon containing porkers and poultry, was dashed off with a celerity that would have made a royal academician turn green with envy. The Tiddly Wink inn was so faithfully reproduced that the painted bottles were a real temptation, while on the pastoral green of a rural landscape grazed sheep so lifelike that, as Hawkes observed, it actually seemed "they would eat the scenery all up." But finally sets and play were alike finished, and results demonstrated that the manager was correct in his estimate of such a drama, which became a forerunner of other pieces of this kind, "The Bottle," "Fruits of the Wine Cup," "Aunt Dinah's Pledge" and "Ten Nights In a Barroom."

In due time the drama was given in the town hall, after the rehearsals had been witnessed by a committee from the temperance league, who reported that the play "could not but exercise a good influence and was entertaining withal. We recommend the license to be issued and commend the drama to all Good Templars." Therefore the production was not only well attended, but play and players were warmly received. The town hall boasted a fairly commodious platform, which now served the purpose of a stage, and—noteworthy circumstance!—there were gas jets for footlights, the illuminating fluid having at that early date been introduced in several of the more progressive villages. Between the acts these yellow lights were turned low, and, running with the current of popular desire, the orchestra, enlarged to four, played by special request "The Old Oaken Bucket."

The song had just sprung into popularity, and in a moment men, women and children had added their voices to the instruments. It was not the thrill of temperance fanaticism that stirred their hearts, but it was the memories of the old pioneer home in the wilderness; the rail splitting, road building days; the ancient rites of "raisings" and other neighborly ceremonies; when the farmer cut rye with a cradle and thrashed it out with his flail; when "butter and eggs were pin money" and wheat paid the storekeeper.

"How solemnly they take their amusements in the north, Mr. Barnes!" exclaimed a voice in one of the entrances. "What a contrast to the south—the wicked south!"

The manager turned sharply.

"We are mere servants of the public, Mr. Mauville."

"And the public is master, Mr. Barnes! How the dramatic muse is whipped around! In Greece she was a goddess, in Rome a hussy, in England a sprightly dame, now a straight laced Priscilla. But you have a recruit, I see?"

"You mean Saint-Prosper?"

"Yes; and I can hardly blame him—under the circumstances!" murmured the land baron, at the same time glancing around as though seeking some one.

A MAN CAN'T swim in shackles. It isn't a question of his winning a race, but a question of being able only to keep afloat. The man who is suffering from malnutrition is like the fettered swimmer. His stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased. It is not a question with him of winning in the race for business but of simply keeping up under any circumstances.

Whenever disease affects the stomach it is affecting also the blood and the health of every organ of the body. For blood is only food converted into nutrition and nutrition is the life of the body and every organ of it.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood and enables the perfect nutrition of the body which means perfect health.

"For six long years I suffered with indigestion and my liver and kidneys, which baffled the best doctors in our country," writes R. L. Ransell, Esq., of Woolsey, Prince William Co. Va. "I suffered with my stomach and back for a long time, and after taking a 'cart-load' of medicine from three doctors I grew so bad I could hardly do a day's work. Would have death-like pains in the side, and blind spells. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Before I had taken half of the second bottle I began to feel relieved. I got six more bottles and used them, and am happy to say I owe my life to Dr. Pierce."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Brt. officials find, upon investigation, that use of New Williamsburg bridge will turn tide of holiday travel of east side of Manhattan to resorts on Brooklyn side and will tend to send summer traffic to Coney Island beyond present capacity of company's cars to handle it. Because of these findings Brt. management contracted for more cars for spring and summer traffic. Manhattan is booked for a large rise.—F. B. C.

GOOD SHOWING OF 14TH BATTERY.

Was the Highest of Eleven Batteries in Firing Competition.

Results of Competition at Deseronto Summer Camp—The Prizes won by Peterborough men.

Lieut. Ackerman has just received from headquarters, the badges and prize money won by the gunners of the Peterborough sections in the firing competition of the Canadian Artillery at Deseronto, June 30th, last. Eleven Batteries in all contested the series, the following being the standing:—

14th Midland F.B.	79.55
E Battery, R.C.F.A.	74.50
H Battery, R.C.F.A.	68.58
6th Gananoque F.B.	65.40
7th St. Catharines F.B.	52.04
4th Hamilton F.B.	51.75
16th Guelph F.B.	46.79
2nd Ottawa F.B.	46.
11th Guelph F.B.	42.18
9th Toronto F.B.	41.39
R. M. C. Cadets	37.50

From the above it will be seen that the 14th has a lead of over five points on A Battery and eleven points on H Battery, both of the permanent force. In other years these Batteries have always headed the list in shooting and consequently they were very much surprised to find themselves beaten by a Militia Battery equipped with guns entirely new to them.

The competition consisted of two series, the first an invisable target of forty-one dummies, representing a company of infantry in extended order, at the base of a large hill. From the time of locating the target until the first gun was fired, just seventeen minutes elapsed which included the placing of twelve aiming posts selecting the ground for the firing line, setting the telescopic sights, bringing up the Battery into action and preparing them, and unhooking the horses. The target was bracketed with eight rounds of percussion shrapnel and thirty-six dummies out of the forty-one were hit one hundred and forty-five times, destroying eighty-seven per cent. of the target. The action lasted 37 minutes and at no time was the target in view. The results of the ranging and the bursting of shells were communicated to the battery commander by means of a signal party in view of the target.

The Battery was then handed over to Captain Cairns, and a new target ordered. This represented a convoy moving across the plain at a gallop, and was in view only twenty-one minutes. The battery was brought into action at the trot and number one gun fired in less than four minutes. The target was bracketted with six rounds of percussion shrapnel at 1300 yards and in twenty seven rounds of time shrapnel 64 per cent of it was destroyed, one wagon being totally demolished.

In view of the fact that the Battery had only one day's preliminary practice the work was remarkably good, and Major MacNachtan was warmly congratulated by the G. O. C. the Earl of Dundonald, who was an interested spectator. The Peterborough non-commissioned officers and gunners entitled to prizes in connection with the competition are:

Sergt.-Major Scollie, badge.
Sergt. Henderson, badge and $5.
Sergt. Royle, badge and $5.
Sergt. Guerin, badge and $5.
Bom. Clute, two badges and $3.
Corp. Asselstine, two badges and $2.
Bom. Robertson, two badges and $2
Corp. Galley, badge.
Gr. Guerin, badge.
Gr. Holmes, badge.
Gr. Roy, badge.
Gr. LeGraundor, badge.

In addition to the above prizes, which Messrs. Clark and Gibson have kindly consented to display for a few days, the battery commander receives a pair of binocular field glasses valued at $55, and the Battery two handsome silver challenge cups, valued at $150.

Lieuts. Bradburn and Ackerman feel proud of their Peterborough sections, who captured two-thirds of the prizes; they say it is now a case of "What we have, we'll hold."

St. John's Mission Band held a sale of work in the school room last night at which there was a quantity of very pretty articles offered. The attendance was fairly large but not as numerous as might have been desired. However a feeling of sociability pervaded the room. The mission band has been in a dormant condition for some time but has been reorganized and is under the leadership of Miss Dolly Comstock. The Mission Band is interested in the Canadian Northwest and also supports a blind boy in India. The sale will be continued to-night.

ECZEMA

The World's Greatest Skin Torture

Many Infants are Born with Eczema

THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE IS CUTICURA

It is in the treatment of this most distressing of torturing and disfiguring skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, that the Cuticura remedies have achieved their greatest success. Original in composition, scientifically compounded, absolutely pure, unchangeable in any climate, always ready, and agreeable to the most delicate, they present to those suffering from Eczema the most successful curative of modern times. We know that this will be considered strong language by those acquainted with the character and obstinacy of the disease under consideration, but it is justified by innumerable successes where all the remedies and methods in vogue have failed to cure, and, in many cases, to relieve, even.

The first step in the treatment of the chronic forms is to remove the scales and crusts and soften the skin, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. The scalp, ears, elbows, hands, ankles and feet will require frequently a thorough soaking in order to penetrate the thickened skin and crusts with which these parts are often covered. Dry carefully, and apply Cuticura Ointment, lightly at first, and where advisable spread it on pieces of soft cloth and bind in place. Take the Resolvent, pills or liquid, in medium doses. Do not use cold water in bathing, and avoid cold, raw winds.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

MAN OF SCOTLAND YARD.

Romantic Reminiscences of a Well-Known Worker in the Happy Hunting Ground of the Detective Story Writer.

Many stirring episodes of the past quarter of a century are bound up in the career of Detective-Inspector Sweeney, says The St. James' Gazette. He was summoned for special service to the headquarters of criminal investigation in the early eighties, when the Fenians were asserting themselves; his smart work at Hammersmith, where he was then stationed, signalling him out for recognition by his superiors. He fully justified his selection during that trying period, and his services resulted in his being retained at Scotland Yard.

Inspector Sweeney has the unique record of having arrested four members of Parliament. One of them was the late Dr. Tanner. Some of the circumstances connected with the doctor's apprehension have never been previously related. It was in the boisterous days of the Home Rule movement. The doctor's inflammatory speeches had brought him within the pale of the law. He eluded arrest for many weeks after the warrant had been issued. One of his dodges was to address a meeting from a boat on an Irish Lake, and at the close row to the opposite side, leaving the detective who had gone to arrest him helpless on the bank. On the night on which he fell into the hands of Detective Sweeney there was an important Irish division, and Parnell had summoned him to Westminster. His visit was to have been kept a profound secret, but the precautions taken did not leave Scotland Yard in ignorance of the plan, and Mr. Sweeney was at the House when Dr. Tanner drove up.

Doctor Feared Ridicule.

When it leaked out among the members of Parliament that the police were on the watch, a hurried meeting was held to discuss how the doctor could be got away. A titled lady who was a sympathiser was in the precincts of the House, and she offered to place her wardrobe and her carriage at Dr. Tanner's disposal. The majority present at the meeting favored this method of escape, and strongly urged its adoption upon the doctor. But the latter listened to the wisdom of the minority, who pointed out that he would be arrested sooner or later. The argument, however, that most appealed to him was that a lasting stigma would attach to a secret departure of the character suggested, and that he would run the risk of being dubbed 'the petticoat politician.' The probability of his arrest had got noised abroad, and when he left the House about one o'clock in the morning he had an escort of all the members of the Irish party and many of the Liberal members. The procession with Conservatives who had assembled out of curiosity, numbered some 250. Mahon, who was one of the party, struck up "The Men of Harlech," and to this vocal accompaniment the procession marched to the Westminster Palace Hotel. Mr. Sweeney did not interrupt the proceedings, allowing the doctor and some of his friends to get comfortably seated in the smoke-room of the hotel before he disclosed his presence. He assured the doctor, in answer to a question, that he was in no particular hurry, and the conversation was resumed. In the company there were no fewer than five members of Parliament who had gone through the experienced awaiting Dr. Tanner—one of them had been released the previous day—and they primed the novice, as the doctor then was, on prison routine. It is a testimony to the officer's tact and courtesy in an unpleasant position that Dr. Tanner frequently called upon Mr. Sweeney at Scotland Yard when he was in London."

He Knew Anarchists.

No man was more feared by the anarchists than Inspector Sweeney. He not only knew personally every anarchist in this country, but he shared all their secrets, and was able to put his hand upon any of them at an hour's notice. They tried by every means in their power to put him "off the scent," but neither the change of the meeting places nor cellar assemblies availed them anything. Owing chiefly to the vigilance and excellent organization of Mr. Melville and Mr. Sweeney the number of anarchists in this country has been steadily decreasing during the past few years. Some of their clubs have been closed, and many of these pests of society, finding the restraint of the cordon thrown round them somewhat embarrassing, have returned to [illegible].

Panic on 'Change.

A case in which Mr. Sweeney figured prominently was that of Polti and Farnara. These anarchists had arranged to throw a bomb into the Stock Exchange at midday, with the object of killing as many as possible of the money kings who generally assemble in large number there at that hour. Mr. Sweeney knew of the plot some weeks before it was to be carried out, watched every movement of Polti, who manufactured the bomb, and rode with him on the 'bus to the Stock Exchange. The bomb is in the museum at Scotland Yard, and it is still by far the largest that has come into the possession of the police. It is about six inches long, and has an internal diameter of three and a half inches.

It has been Mr. Sweeney's privilege during his distinguished and varied career to come in contact with the highest in the land, as well as his duty to mix with the lowest types of humanity. He has guarded the movements of Kings and Queens and other exalted personages.

It is not generally known that Queen Victoria, in pursuit of her musical inclinations, used to take a deep interest in strolling players. Very often she would ask itinerant musicians whom she saw playing unusual-looking instruments to be brought to her, and Mr Sweeney sometimes had to search high and low to find a man in this category whom Her Majesty had noticed the previous day.

YORKSHIRE FARMERS TO COME TO CANADA.

Emigration Movements in the North of England and Scotland.

British Women's Immigration Association Busy Drafting Employees for Canadian Centres—Sir Horace Tozer's Idea—Partnership With Motherland—Lord Cecil's Pronounced Views on Preferential.

London, Dec. 10.—(C.A.P.)—Many farmers will leave Yorkshire in April for Manitoba. Another Yorkshire party will follow shortly after and other emigration movements will leave Wiltshire, Lancashire and various Scottish centres for different parts of Canada. These parties comprise in addition to agriculturists, mechanics and artisans unable to find work in England or tempted by better wages. An English emigration official referring to the Yorkshire movement, says they are the pick of our people. They will have pangs of homesickness, but their children will have love for England mixed with bitter hatred of English history and politics.

A meeting of the British Women's Emigration Association was held yesterday to consider the best means of drafting suitable factory workers to Canada in response to definite offers from Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton.

Sir Horace Tozer's Idea.

Sir Horace Tozer, chairman of the Imperial Industries Club, presiding at a banquet yesterday, said the colonies wanted to enter a partnership with the Motherland, to maintain the Empire. He had been commissioned by our own Government to make certain purchases, and had kept two millions of pounds in the family.

Alex. Smith said brotherly love in business was all right, but had not England held her position with the colonies because she offered better goods? France gave a colonial preference, and trade was stagnated for thirty years.

Lord Cecil said the preferential theory was fundamentally unreasonable, and meant interference with the international trade of Canada. Canadian artisans, thrown out of work by British imports, would not be consoled with the idea.

What Colonies Might Do.

Agent-General Grainger of West Australia, said if England withheld the preference the time might come when the colonies would enter into treaties with foreign countries to the exclusion of Great Britain.

A correspondent of The Farmer and Stock Breeder, replying to Lord Onslow, opposes the importation of free Canadian corn. He says: "Canada contains less of our kinsmen than the United States. Natives of the United Kingdom in Canada number 400,000, and the proportion is diminishing."

Would Remove Embargo.

Mr. Chamberlain being asked by the Glasgow Co-operative Defence Association his opinion re. the embargo on Canadian cattle, replied that the question was one for Board of Agriculture, but he would be glad to have it removed if there was no danger to English cattle.

The Council of Associated Chambers of Agriculture, after being implored by Ridger Haggard not to be divided on the fiscal question, decided in favor of fiscal reform and Chamberlain's proposals.

Russians Against British.

The Daily Mail's correspondent says it is reported by the Chinese representative in Thibet that the Russians are building two forts and are preparing to resist the British expedition. The locality in which these forts are being built is not definitely known.

Will Lose Colonies.

Lord Wolsely has written a letter in which he states that unless Chamberlain's plans are adopted England will soon lose the colonies.

Sifton and Chamberlain.

The St. James' Gazette doubts the accuracy of the report of Mr. Sifton's speech, as cabled to The Standard, and, therefore, accepts the report with considerable reserve. If Mr. Sifton really protested against the Dominion abandoning the control of manufactures or being treated like squalling infants clamoring for protection and threatening to break up the Empire if it does not get it, he completely misunderstood not only the whole spirit of the intention, but the actual utterances of Mr. Chamberlain on the subject.

Fatal Explosion in a Mine.

Greensburg, Pa., Dec. 10.—An explosion in the Euclid mine of the Pittsburg Coal Company at Port Royal yesterday, shortly after Division Engineer W. A. Williams and his assistants, Edward Oliver and Milton McMillan, had entered it, resulted in the instant death of McMillan and the serious burning of Williams and Oliver. Seventeen miners at work in the mine escaped without injury.

Fighting in Somaliland.

Rome, Dec. 10.—The Italian cruiser Lombardia, the gun boat Volturno, the despatch vessel Galileo and the cruiser Cristofore Colombo will proceed to Durbo, to inflict punishment on the Somaliland tribe, which on Sunday last killed Lieutenant Commander Grabau. News that the British cruiser Mohawk landed a detachment of marines at Durbo and set the village on fire caused some surprise. Durbo being the Italian protectorate, it is contended that a British warship should not undertake belligerent operations there.

Altman Entirely Acquitted.

Brockville, Dec. 10.—At the County Court General Sessions of the peace yesterday judgment was given in the case of Chas. J. Altman, against whom there were two charges of causing the destruction of the property of the Union Hat Works. He was acquitted on the first charge, and the jury reported "no bill" on the second charge.

Missing William Bell.

Toronto, Dec. 10.—Has William Bell, the man who disappeared so mysteriously nearly two weeks ago, been murdered or did he weeks ago, been murdered or did he commit suicide? Is the doubt that is holding his family in an agonizing suspense. Since Saturday, Nov. 28, not the slightest clue to his whereabouts has been learned. The family, who live at 12 Whiteside Place, are heart broken. They cannot but think the husband and father is dead. Yet that he would do violence to himself is not entertained by any one of the household. Bell is 52 years of age.

A Brave Negress.

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Mrs. William Campbell, a negress, went three times into her burning house yesterday, and, with clothing in flames and her hair burning, each time carried a child to safety. The three, aged 2, 4 and 6 years, were asleep in the garret of her one-and-a-half-storey house. Over the three children lying on the bed was a mass of fire, and the room was a veritable furnace. Into this inferno, Mrs. Campbell rushed.

Will Be Cremated.

London, Dec. 10.—The attending physician certified that Herbert Spencer died of senile decay. The distinguished writer was attended by nurses and his secretary. By his own wish the remains will be cremated at Hampstead.

Time Extended.

Toronto, Dec. 10.—Mr. Justice Osler gave judgment yesterday, granting the application of Centre Bruce Liberals for an extension of time in which to proceed with the petition against Major Hugh Clark.

Getting Back.

"Gee, no!" exclaimed the pretty cash girl. "I don't want nothin' to do with you. I wouldn't marry you if you was the last man on earth. Is that plain enough English for you?"

"It is certainly plain enough," said the mortified bookkeeper, "but it isn't English."

A Contrast.

A light supper, a good night's sleep and a fine morning have often made a hero of the same man who by indigestion, a restless night and a rainy morning would have proved a coward.—Chesterfield.

ABUSE RUN MAD.

The buying of votes is not the only form of political crookedness, or even, possibly the most malignant, remarks the Montreal Herald. The corruption of an electorate with money would be the worst thing that could happen it if it were not for the corruption of an electorate by means of abuse and misrepresentation. That is a practice that bites more deeply into the moral fibre of a community, and leaves its effects upon society longer. There never was a time when there were not some men better than others. Candidates and electors are but men, and with them as with others, to err is human. Still there are good men in politics. Among the candidates, on both sides, in the election which is to be held shortly, there will be found men who would scorn to steal, to lie, or to do a dishonourable act. No doubt this is not the popular conception. Criticism of public men has been carried to such extremes in this country and indulged in so persistently that the public have come to regard the member of Parliament as a sanctified, law-protected, law-breaker. His supporters in the popular mind are a species of gum-shoe ballot box violators. Criticism of this sort does not gain votes. It has made many a good man refuse a parliamentary nomination. Such men have said that "business required their attention," but what they meant was "my skin is not thick enough for the scandalous and unfair abuse I would receive during the campaign." Men who go into the contests and endure the punishment are in many cases only sustained by the belief that their fellow citizens cannot possibly believe the untrue and unfair things said about them.

This form of political discussion is just now at its worst in Ontario Out of the narrow margins by which provincial elections have won of late has been evolved a course of virulent criticism and abuse. Now that nominations and the campaign for the Federal House are beginning the same sort of thing is naturally being carried into the larger contest. Naturally, the Opposition are the aggressors. As the Government have the custody and the spending of public money their opponents, who have it not, raise a shout of "vote us in and them out for they are robbers and thieves." It is perfectly natural the defenders of the Government should "demonstrate that these Pharisees are hypocritical crooks," and that they are only trying to get in to obtain an opportunity to plunder the treasury. It is also natural that the public after reading and listening to this sort of thing for several years, should conclude that there are too many place hunters in the land, too many dangerous characters abroad and too many empty cells in the jails.

Still Canadians must hesitate to believe that Toronto is a political Sodom or Gomorrah. There must be good men in politics there and in Ontario as elsewhere. Even some of the Liberals must be good men. Ontario politics are "badly run down." There is need of a tonic.

CHEER UP, DO!

Ontario is a large province, of which only about one-third is occupied, and its future welfare is desirable for its own sake, as well as for that of the Dominion, of which it forms a very important part, says the Toronto Star. Of the newer half of the province, very little is known by the people generally, and until quite lately, the farmer's son, when he wanted to strike out and make a home for himself, has always gone across the international boundary, or up to the North-West Territories. For some years superior attractions have been offered by the Canadian West.

Sooner or later the unknown and larger half of Ontario will begin to be settled rapidly. It is little known but of late its value has been enquired into, and its agricultural possibilities are found to be great. There is a belt of 16,000,0000 acres of the finest farming land that was not known about ten years ago.

The future of the country is more important than the party squabbles of the day, and nobody can find excuse for those newspapers which, in order to score a seeming point against Premier Ross, libel the great new country north of us. Land grants have been made to the veterans of our wars, and because here and there a veteran who went north expecting nobody knows what, comes back dissatisfied, some of the Opposition papers keep up an unnecessary outcry about bunccoing the veterans by the offer of useless farms in rocky and inhospitable northern regions. The character of the whole northern country is discredited in a petty attempt to score a point against Hon. G. W. Ross. It is bad for the country and bad policy for the political party that indulges in it. It shows more partisanship than patriotism, more ill-will than knowledge of the country. Veterans who want to get farms all ready cleared, and next to a village—who want to get land grants one day that they can sell the next for $2,000 — come home disappointed. There are some men whose souls will probably grumble about the regions of eternal bliss as not being at all equal to the descriptions given by preachers here on earth. The north country, such as it is, is open to the veterans. They are given advantages over other applicants for land. Other men go up there and find the country a land of promise, full of seeing whole farms on which one could not find a stone to throw at a dog, the timber saleable and easily removed, the soil a good clay, and the stretch of the land almost illimitable.

The Opposition press should conquer its black humour and cheer up. There is a splendid country north of us, and it is a shame to libel it.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

On Tuesday 8th Dec., the patrons of Shearer Cheese Factory held their annual meeting for closing up the business of the season. Under the efficient management of the new proprietor, Mr. J. J. Hogan, the factory has had a most prosperous season, an advance being shown in every respect.

There was delivered at the factory 1,366,158 lbs. milk, or 455 1158-3000 standards, from which were made 126,584 lbs. cheese, being an average of 10 79-100 lbs. milk per lb. cheese. There was received from sales of cheese $13,218.27, being an average of a little over 10 2-5 cts. per lb. This sum, together with the whey and interest, made the whole business of the season $13,571.70.

The value of the milk per standard to the patrons after paying all expenses was $24.68. Mr. Hugh Fife was the patron sending the greatest quantity of milk, viz., 65,527 lbs, and the average for each of the 50 patrons was 27,323 lbs.

Try at Winter Navigation.

Montreal, Dec. 8.—An attempt at winter navigation from Quebec was made Sunday, when the steamship Toronto left for sea with a large cargo of deals and cattle. She broke her way through the ice easily, and it is hoped that she may be able to find her way through the North Channel.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest at Lakefield.

Dr. J. N. Johnson, V.S., of this village, sustained a very serious accident last Wednesday, while in Burleigh, deborning cattle. He was in the act of throwing a large steer, when the animal gave a bound forward and caught the doctor just below the knee, knocking him down and bruising his limb very severely. We are pleased to report that he is able to be about again with the aid of a stick.

Mr. Richard Alford is busily engaged in preparing the ice on the canal for the curling club, and although no arrangements could be made with the manager of the rink, the curlers are going to have snug quarters and good ice on the canal, and great sport is looked forward to by the lovers of the roarin' game.

A Lakefield boy who had occasion to visit Norwood a short time ago, after visiting the hotels, went to see the River Ouse, and form some idea of the water power available for that village. On his return home he was asked what he thought of the village. He replied that if there was more water in the Ouse and less water in the boose, it would be better for the advancement of that village.

SHE IS A MEERY CHILD AGAIN.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Little Edith Harris' Dropsy.

Here was a Terrible Case—It Proves That the Great Kidney Remedy is Good for Old and Young alike and Cures all Forms of Kidney Disease.

Weyburn, Assa, N.W.T., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—No more remarkable cure of dropsy has ever been put on record than that of little Edith Harris, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Harris of this place.

The little girl had dropsy in its worst form. She was swollen from her feet to her shoulders so badly that the doctor was afraid one of her feet would burst. Her natural waist measure was eighteen inches, but when the disease was at its worst she measured thirty-four inches. Two doctors attended her, but after three months struggle with the disease the child was gradually growing worse and the parents had about given up all hope of saving the life of their child.

At this time they determined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Imagine their surprise and delight when under this treatment the child began to improve rapidly. By the time she had taken three boxes, half a pill at a dose, the swelling was gone and the helpless little invalid was transformed into a merry laughing healthy child again.

25,000 VISIT FAIR

TRAINS AND CARS CROWDED

High Terms of Praise From the Scottish Expert, Col. Ferguson—The Canadian Farmer Can Hold His Own Anywhere—Woman's Work—Lectures on Cattle—Breeders' Meetings—Judging the Exhibits.

Guelph, Dec. 10.—The railroad facilities were practically inadequate to handle the crowds that sought a chance to attend the Provincial Winter Fair yesterday. Every car was crowded and every train carried an extra complement. In the buildings the visitors were so thick it was quite impossible to move around. It is estimated there were 25,000 visitors to the Fair yesterday.

The chief interest centred in the continued judging of cattle, swine and sheep, which was completed. The lecture rooms, too, were the scene of large gatherings. Here the prize animals were exhibited, and the breeders explained how the grading was accomplished. Instructions in the feeding of the animals and other technical knowledge was imparted.

Discussions Around the Pens.

Some interesting discussions occurred around the pens as to the custom of the Winter Fair in judging Polled Angus and Herefords together. Galloways and Devons are also put in the same class, although they are as different as the others, and the four species are entirely distinct. Col. McCrae takes the position that these cattitle are judged together simply because there are few exhibits of each. The Polled Angus breeders say they get the worst of it, and point to the number of prizes the Stone Company herd of Herefords have taken in competition this year. In Herefords there is but one herd shown, while in Polled Angus there are two. There is but one herd each of Galloways and Devons, though last year there were three exhibitors of Galloways. Col. McCrae alone is in evidence this season. Mr. W. K. Gooding, manager of the Stone Company, is in charge of the fine herd of Herefords, and his animals are covered with red ribbons.

The Dairy Cow.

The lecture room of the Fair building was packed to hear the first lecture of the series to be delivered by Henry Glendinning of Manilla. His subject was "The Proper Rations for a Dairy Cow." He said that it was necessary to have a succulent, nutritious and strength-building food, and that a good combination consisted of 40 pounds of corn silage, 10 pounds of clover hay, 4 pounds of pea meal and 4 pounds of bran. It contains protein, carbohydrates and fat. As to what temperature a stable should be kept, Mr. Glendinning said between 60 and 65 degrees was best.

Prof. H. H. Dean of the O. A. C., took up "The Value of Individual Cow Records, and How to Make Them."

In the afternoon, Mr. A. P. Ketchen of Ottawa spoke on the "Requirements of a Cattle Stable."

How to Select Steers.

Mr. Simpson Rennie, in his discussion on "How to Select Steers for Finishing, How to Feed, and Probable Profits," said that Canada had $10,000,000 from England at the end of the export season last year, as the direct result of the cattle trade with that country, and yet many of the men who were stocking farms to-day did not know how to tell a good steer from a bad one. He liked good shoulders, good width across the back and a good brisket, because it showed that they had a constitution. This was where the lungs were placed, and there were very important organs in the selection of a feeder, for if an animal did not have good lungs it would be impossible to fatten up to the required weight for export trade.

Mr. A. P. Ketchen said that a large muzzle and mouth denoted good digestive powers, and that the large nostrils indicated the size of the lungs. A small, dull, sunken eye indicated a sunken circulation and a low vitality, and this animal should be avoided like a pest. A long, well-sprung rib giving a wide, level back, not paunchy, showed an animal worth having. A two-year-old steer was the best to buy, but it has to be in good condition for export that year.

Mr. J. H. Grisdale of Ottawa took up the subject, "Cost of Raising Stockers Until Twelve Months Old." He favored the most expensive way, that of bringing up the calf on the mother's milk, but said that bringing the calf up on whole milk, without the mother's aid, cost about half of what the former did—$20. Many farmers, in the discussion, favored the same way.

Col. Ferguson's Address.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in the City Hall last night, Hon. John Dryden being in the chair. Col. W. S. Ferguson, the Scottish expert, was the guest of the evening, and said that the annual Fall Stock Show held in Guelph was quite the equal if not the superior of shows of the same size held in Scotland, but that the large shows held during the year brought out some finer fancy cattle, though the average was no better.

He said that in the hog classes Canada had Great Britain and Ireland beaten, and the poultry exhibits were also much superior. This was accounted for by the fact that a large area of ground was needed for the successful breeding of poultry, and that one acre of land in the Old Country was worth from £1 to £5 per annum.

The Scotchmen are also beaten in the dairy produce, but they are copying the Canadians to a certain extent in the production of their machinery. They will soon be able to keep up to the most advanced Canadians. The British farmer is very neglectful, and thinks more of buying cattle at an auction sale, where he will have to pay more and not be as certain of the breed than raising his own cattle.

After addresses by Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., and Dr. J. George Rutherford, who was one of the first students in the O.A.C. in 1875, Hon. John Dryden said that the cattle show had at first started perambulating around the country, and holding the Fair here one year and in another city the next. Very poor accommodation could be had until the citizens of Guelph, aided by the Government, put up the Fair building. Now the Fair was held every year. It was becoming a factor in the life of the farmer in Ontario.

Mayor Hamilton of Guelph, Mr. J. P. Downey, M.P.P., and Dr. James Mills also spoke.

Miss Kaiser and Dwight Edwards contributed to the musical program during the evening, and were well received.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

Manslaughter Charge Laid.

Stratford, Dec. 8.—Acting under instruction from Crown Attorney Idington, High Constable T. B. McCarthy yesterday morning laid an information before Police Magistrate O'Loane, charging Elias Meihm with manslaughter. Mrs. Meihm will not be included in the charge. The arrest was made yesterday afternoon. Meihm will furnish bail.

Roy McQueen Killed.

Hamilton, Dec. 8.—While trying to hang on to a farmer's sleigh Saturday, Roy McQueen, youngest son of Dr. McQueen, Freelton, was thrown off and almost instantly killed.

British Cruiser on Fire.

Keyham, Eng., Dec. 9.—The British second-class cruiser Herhen is on fire in the dock here. The shell room, which is in close proximity to the fire, has been flooded.

One in Four Persons.

One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles. Some do not know the nature of their ailment and others have never heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease. If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

GRAIN VIA CANADIAN VESSELS.

American Vessels Carried Less Than Ever Before.

Port Arthur, Dec. 10.—The total receipts of grain at Port Arthur for the crop season were 6,715,046 bushels; at Fort William, 9,972,590 bushels. Shipments from Port Arthur were 6,410,478 bushels, and from Fort William 10,023,863 bushels. Grain this season has been principally shipped via Canadian vessels and Canadian ports, only about 1,000,000 bushels going via American boats to Buffalo. This is the smallest amount ever taken from the Canadian head of the lakes by American vessels. And is in consequence the reason of the large number of new Canadian boats now being operated on the Great Lakes.

GRAND JURY MADE THEIR PRESENTMENT

To His Honour Judge Weller Yesterday Afternoon.

Are now Dismissed—The low Water in the River Touched upon.

The Grand Jury made the following presentment yesterday afternoon, after which they were dismissed:—

To His Honour Judge Weller:

We, the Grand Jury, assembled in Peterborough this 8th day of December 1903, wish to say that we have examined the Court House and gaol and found everything clean, comfortable and in good order, and considering the reports of the past Grand Juries the management must be in good hands indeed.

We also consider that owing to the rapid progress that is being made in the Town of Peterborough and surrounding country in manufacturing places of industry, that it is of the utmost importance that a sufficient supply of water should be maintained throughout the year for their use, and also for navigation purposes, and this can only be secured by conserving the water in our northern lakes and we believe the necessary work and expense should be done and borne by our Provincial and Dominion Governments, and not by the parties who are the employers of labour, and who are endeavouring to increase the wealth of our town and country as well as their own private means. Several of their manufactories and steam boats on our lakes and rivers have been for a long time short of power for want of water and several have been idle.

All of which is respectfully submitted in behalf of the Grand Jury.

(Signed.) J. G. WEIR,
Foreman.

OTONABEE LODGE REACHES MAJORITY.

Twenty-first Anniversary of Resuscitation Celebrated Last Night.

A Most Successful Entertainment Held in the Opera House—Address by Mr. Hoyle, M. P.—History of the Order.

Otonabee Lodge, No. 12, I. O. O. F., last night celebrated its majority, the celebration being in every way highly successful, and a credit to the Order, of which Otonabee stands as one of the most enterprising and progressive lodges.

For years it has been the custom of this lodge to give an annual entertainment to which the members invite their families and friends, and since their inauguration, these annual social events have been looked upon as one of the most pleasing events of their kind to be participated in. But successful as all previous concerts have been, there have been none which were so completely so as that given last night. It was felt, doubtless that the occasion gave cause for an especial effort, since the event was the celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the resuscitation of Otonabee Lodge, and considerable jubilation was felt at the fact that the lodge was now "full grown."

The entertainment was given in the Opera House, which was crowded to the doors, every member of the audience being pleased with the excellent programme presented. Oddfellows never do things by halves, and this fact was amply evidenced in the programme presented last night. No expense was spared to obtain the best artists, and in the array of talent which provided the entertainment for the lodge's guests last night, the previous reputation gained by the lodge for giving high class concerts was more than sustained.

Master Harvey Gahan, a violinist of 12 years of age, was a musical wonder, his complete knowledge of the violin and his exquisite playing being the delight as well as the surprise of his hearers. His selections were from the world's best composers, and his execution of some of the most difficult music was truly wonderful. Master Gahan may easily be classed with the first musicians in the land. He was not the only eminent artist on the list of entertainers last night, however, Miss Pearl O'Neill, an elocutionist, gave to the great delight of the audience, a number of readings, in which she gave evidence of possessing more than ordinary elocutionary abilities. She was compelled to respond to each of her numbers with an encore. Her selections were of a highly pleasing nature, and in the impersonation of the different characters she displayed rare talent.

Always a favourite with a Peterborough audience is Mr. Ruthven MacDonald, who has been described as "Canada's greatest Bass." On his first appearance last night, it was evident that he was a prime favourite, and on each recurring appearance, his greeting became more cordial, the audience showing its unmistakable pleasure at his singing. He was called upon to respond twice to the last number on the programme, giving as a second recall selection "Boys will be Boys," the rendition of which was greeted with thunderous applause.

The programme presented was as follows:—

PART I.
Violin Solo.
Fantaisie "Il Trovatore." De Verdi, op.94
Master Harvey Gahan.
Song.
"Friend of the Brave" ....Calcott
Mr. Ruthven McDonald.
Reading.
"The Pantomine" ... ...Ainsley
Miss Pearl O'Neill.
Violin Solo.
"Aud Varie"... ... ...De Beriots 7th air
Master Harvey Gahan.
Song.
"Island of Dream"... ... ... Adams
Mr. Ruthven McDonald.
Reading.
"Peter Patrick"... ... ... Mallenry
Miss Pearl O'Neill.
PART II.
Violin Solo.
Selected ... .
Master Harvey Gahan.
Song.
"Alone in the Desert" ... ...Emanuel
Mr. Ruthven McDonald.
Reading.
"The Race"... ... ...Trotwood
Miss Pearl O'Neill.

The "Owain-Martin" piano was used.

While every number on the programme was excellent, there are one or two which were of sufficient extra merit to deserve special mention. One of these was the solo, "Alone in the Desert," by Mr. MacDonald, a descriptive song, in which the experiences of a lost traveller are depicted, ending in an expression of joy at being found by his friends.

While all of Master Gahan's selections were pleasing, the opening one, Fantaisie "Il Trovatore" from Verdi, was particularly so. "Home, Sweet Home," with variations was another selection which was more than ordinarily well executed. This was given as an encore to the "Aud Varie."

Miss O'Neill, in her description of "The Race," held her audience spellbound as she graphically depicted the jockey in losing the race, but saving a life. She had to appear and bow her thanks repeatedly in aponse to the applause of the audience, after this selection.

Considerable credit is due to Miss Clarry for the excellent accompaniments which she played to the musical numbers. This was Miss Clarry's first appearance in the opera house and her playing elicited many complimentary references.

An address on the Order was given by Mr. W. H. Hoyle, M.P., of Cennington, Past Grand Master. Mr. Hoyle said that this was the most auspicious night in the history of Otonabee Lodge, as it had reached its twenty-first birthday, and had come of age. He had been asked to give a short history of the Oddfellows' Order, the origin of which, he said, was enshrouded in mystery and doubt, and there is still considerable about the order which is not known. A great many, he said, did not even know what the letters "I.O.O.F." stood for. He gave instances of a number of amusing answers to the question as to what the letters meant.

In the year 1842 the order had made considerable progress, and our forefathers in Oddfellowship, he said, anxious to find out who their ancestors were, sent a deputation to Greet Britain in an effort to obtain information as to the history and traditions of the Order. This deputation on its return, reported to the Canadian Grand Lodge at that time that the Order originated in a camp of Roman soldiers during the reign of Emperor Nero; also that Titus Caesar, in the year 70, gave the name "Oddfellow" to his troop, in eulogy of their ready recognition of each other during the night as well as the day. Titus Caesar is also credited with presenting his soldiers with a golden plate, on which was emblazoned the ark of the covenant, and another containing the emblem now in use in Oddfellows' Halls. The Order found its way to Wales in the early ages, was established in Portugal in the fifth century, in France in the 12th century, following which a Grand Lodge of Honour was formed in England, and remained in existence until the middle of the reign of George III.

The speaker said that while the history of the Order as related was to him legendary and mysterious, the work to-day was practical, and of the utmost importance. The first Lodge in America was founded in Baltimore in 1819, with five members, and to-day there are in the world, more than a million and a half members of the Order, the principles of Oddfellowship being taught in fourteen different languages. There are 14,000 Lodges, and the assets of the Order amount to $34,000,000, the revenue last year being $12,000,000, and $7,000,000 was paid out in benefits to members or their families, in a quiet and unostentatious way.

In 1846 the centre of Oddfellowship in Canada was in Montreal, the Lodge then comatituting the most aristocratic body in Canada. In that year seven subordinate Lodges existed in what was then known as the Province of Canada, and an effort was made to extend the benefits of the Order to the more western portion of the country. A Lodge subsequently was organized in Cornwall, another at Kingston, and a third at Belleville, and from this place the party drove to Peterborough, where Otonabee Lodge was instituted with eight members. After four years existence it became dormant and remained in that condition for 32 years when it was resuscitated in 1882, the celebration of which was now being held. This Lodge stands to-day, with its sister Lodge, "Peterborough," as one of the most enterprising and progressive in the Dominion, and the town in which the Lodges exist, the speaker said, was also recognized as being to the front in enterprise and progressiveness.

The Order, of which he considered it an honour to be a member, was doing its work in a quiet way, and did not engage lecturers and organisers to exploit the benefits of the Order, nor promise to "give" benefits to members as a means of inducing men to join. He would rather ask as a qualification for membership, "What will you give to help your fellow Oddfellow?"

In the Middle Ages the Church Guild did similar work to that now accomplished by the Oddfellows, and he liked to think that in this Guild were introduced the principles which now form the basis and essence of Oddfellowship, which is Fraternity and Co-operation. Oddfellowship stands for mutual dependence on each other. Many can help one, while one cannot help many. This Order stands as a monument among fraternal organizations in giving assistance when trouble and affliction overtakes its members. The triple links are elastic enough to go around the world; the message they send is one of love, and the current from which that message flows is truth. While in the dark ages the triple links were emblems of tryanny and slavery, they are to-day emblems of love and truth, not only to Oddfellows, but to humanity as a whole, and the Order is seeking to uphold the grand principle of the Fatherhood of God and Brotherhood of man. He believed that Oddfellows would take no mean place in Civic Government of the coming City of Peterborough.

At the conclusion of the concert an enjoyable hour was spent in dancing.

The stage was very tastily decorated for the occasion, in the decoration of which the thanks of the committe are given to Mr. Might, of J. C. Turnbull & Co., for the loan of tapestry bunting and rugs, to Jordan Bros. for the beautiful array of palms and flowers, Mr. A. Comstock for the upholstering, and to the Martin & Stanley Piano Company for the use of the piano.

The committee also are deeply grateful for the kind services of Miss Clarry as accompanists for the musical numbers of the programme. Her playing was a very material factor in making the evening such a complete success.

The management Committee was composed of the following gentlemen:—Messrs. Jas. Dawson, Jas. Laing, W. S. Robinson, M. Mowry, J. A. Tully, W. R. G. Higgins and J. W. Miller.

The oldest living Oddfellow in Peterborough, and one of the oldest in Canada, is, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, who is the only living member of the old Otonabee Lodge. Mr. Stevenson was one of the most interesting listeners of the programme last night.

The growth of Otonabee Lodge, since its resuscitation in 1882, has been very gratifying. Starting with twenty members, the number now reaches 175, among whom are many of the prominent business men in Peterborough. The officers who have charge of the Lodge affairs at the present time feel honoured at the distinction of being in office at the time of the coming of age of the Lodge. The officers at present are:

In view of the fact that this is the celebration of the coming of age of Otonabee Lodge, a brief retrospect of the past may not be inappropriate. As Mr. Hoyle in his address stated, the first Lodge was instituted in 1846, the officers elected at the institution being as follows:

G. B. Hall..... ....N.G.
Chas. Perry..... ....V.G.
Wm. Cluxton..... ....Sec.
Henry Eason..... ....Treas.
Jas. Scott..... ....War.
Charles Forrest... ... ...Conductor

Wm. S. Conger... ... ...R.S.V.G.
F. Murphy... ... ...L.S.V.G.
D. McKellar..... ....R.S.S.
F. Ferguson..... ....L.S.S.

At the resuscitation of the Lodge in 1882, the charter members were:—W. Cluxton, R. W. Bell, E. E. Henderson, G. R. Sproule, John McKee, Wm. Ross, G. J. Early, Jas. Stevenson, Jos. McClelland, H. H. Smith, M. Mowry, J. Mathison. Of these only the two latter are at present members of the Lodge, the others having left town, or are deceased. R. W. Bell, is now Dr. Bell, of London, and Mr. H. H. Smith, is an official of the Government at Winnipeg. There are two other members who joined on the date of the resuscitation, December 8th, 1882, and are now members of the Lodge, viz., Daniel Belleghem and W. F. Green. The latter was elected to office in 1883, and with the exception of a short interval has been in office ever since.

The officers in 1883 were:

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. JOHN RAPER.

Was Taken Ill With Paralytic Stroke on Tuesday Died Yesterday.

After having been ill only one day Mrs. John Raper died yesterday morning in the Nicholls Hospital, where she had been taken on Tuesday night suffering from a paralytic stroke. The circumstances connected with Mrs. Raper's death are particularly pathetic. On Tuesday about noon Mr. Raper went to his home at 211 King street, and was horrified to find his wife lying on the floor unconscious. She had been engaged in preparing the dinner, and apparently was taken ill very suddenly, as a very few minutes before her husband found her she was talking with a neighbour. Dr. Eastwood was called, but was unable to restore her to consciousness. She was taken to the hospital the same evening, and died yesterday morning about nine o'clock. The late Mrs. Raper, who was 58 years of age, came to Canada from Scotland, 30 years ago, and has been living in Peterborough about twenty years. Two sisters, Mrs. G. Brown, who lives on Water street, and Mrs. John Bathgate, of Villiers, survive her. She had other relatives in Scotland. She had no children, but is survived by her husband.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery.

CURLERS ADMIRE THE CHALLENGE CUP.

Handsome Gift of Messrs. R. Neill and T. H. Shepherd—In Mr. R. J. Frost's Store.

The Shepherd-Neill Challenge Cup to be competed for by eight rinks from Orillia and Peterborough respectively, is the centre of admiration of every curler in town. The cup may be seen in Mr. R. J. Frost's jewelry store, and is a very handsome one, reflecting great credit on the Toronto Silverplate Company, the makers.

Last winter, on an occasion when some Peterborough rinks visited Orillia, Mr. T. H. Shepherd, of that town, and Mr. R. Neill of Peterborough, agreed to donate a costly cup in order to continue the friendly rivalry between the two towns in the game. The cup arrived from the city this morning, and has created genuine astonishment. It stands 4 feet 6 inches in height, and has the following inscription:

The Neill-Shepherd Cup,
Presented to the Orillia and Peterborough Curling Clubs,
For annual competition,
Robt. Neill, Esq., Peterborough, and Thos. H. Shepherd, Esq., Orillia.

The cup itself stands on a massive ebony stand, on which is a number of silver shields for the names of the yearly winners. The base of the cup is of fluted burnished silver. The large bowl of the cup is supported by four columns, beautifully chased and artistically engraved. Below the columns are two prostrate lions, besides curling stones and brooms. The top of the cup is surmounted with two curlers. These are supposed to be, and indeed are, fair representations of Mr. Neill and Mr. Shepherd. The former is in the act of throwing a stone, while the latter, broom in hand, is waiting for the result.

There is no doubt but that the handsome trophy will inspire the local curlers to victory, in order that it may remain in this town.

A PERPETUAL CHRISTMAS BOX

Describes a Years Ticket to the Public Library.

When you are despatching your Christmas presents, why not accompany them with a ticket of membership to the Public Library? Sensible Christmas gifts are those that make the sense of recognition last the longest. If you want to make a really sensible gift to your boy or girl, or to your boy or girl friend, let it be a ticket of membership to the Public Library, which makes the possessor of a ticket the owner, for all practical purposes, of a library of tens of thousands of volumes of the world's choicest literature. Put a ticket in your boy's or girl's Christmas stocking, and you will be stocking their heads with useful knowledge. This is better than stocking their stomachs with sweets, which perish with the using, and leave not a wreck behind, except the wreck of digestion. Why not buy a membership ticket to the Public Library as a Christmas box?

Will Take Part

The following members of the Alexandra Dramatic Club will take part in "A Pair of Lunatics" and "Naval Engagements," at the Opera House on January 13th:—Messrs. Hughes-Charles, K. Eardly-Wilmot, Hamilton, Laurence and Mrs K. Eardly-Wilmot and Miss Edith Barlee.

Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's church, was the celebrant of a very pretty wedding last night, the contracting parties being Miss Amy Porter, second daughter of the late John Porter, and Mr. Wm G. Miller, son of Mr. Robert Miller, of town. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride, River Road, Auburn, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends, Miss Minnie Porter, sister of the bride, acting as bridesmaid, and Mr. Murray Miller, brother of the groom, fulfilling the duties of best man. The house was artistically decorated for the occasion, while the wedding presents were many and beautiful. Among these was a piano, the gift of the groom to the bride, while the bridesmaid's present was a handsome gold chain. During the marriage, Miss Mary Andrews, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside in Auburn.

AN INTERESTING LINDSAY WEDDING.

Mr. Robt. Pearson Married to Miss Carter.

The Lindsay Post contains the following report of the wedding of Mr. Robert Pearson, late of the Post staff, but who will in future reside in Peterborough, having accepted a position as foreman of the press room of the Review:

"A very pleasant and interesting event took place at 'The Locusts,' home of Mr. Wilard Curtis, southwest of the town, on Tuesday afternoon, it being the marriage of his youngest sister, Miss Esther Irene, to Mr. Robt. B. Pearson, late of the Post printing staff.

"At 3 p.m., to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Meta Middleton, the bride entered the drawing room, looking charming and attired in a white taffeta silk waist, trimmed with a bertha of Duchess lace and a travelling skirt of brown camel's hair cloth, carrying a beautiful bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The room was most tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and an aisle of satin ribbon held in place by little Ruth Curtis and Master Wilfred Middleton, niece and nephew of the bride.

"Miss Vida Graham acted gracefully as bridesmaid, and looked pretty attired in a white silk waist similar to the bride's, and a skirt of blue lady's cloth. Mr. Russell Pearson assisted his brother through the ceremony. Rev. G. W. Henderson performed the ceremony, and Miss Reda Lynch presented the ring on a silver tray.

"After the knot was tied the party adjourned to the spacious dining room where the wedding breakfast was tastefully set and the bill of fare reflected most creditably on the Curtis cuisine. After doing full justice to the many good things Mr. and Mrs. Pearson left on the 6.20 train to visit Toronto, Buffalo, Batavia, Rochester, and other New York points, whese the bride has many relatives.

"There was a most beautiful lot of expensive and useful presents, indicating the esteem in which the bride was held by her many friends. On their return the happy couple will side in Peterborough, where Mr. Pearson has taken a position on the Review staff."

The HONEYMOON COOK

By HARRIET G. CANFIELD

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

They had been married two years, "long enough," Prue suddenly declared, "to dispense with all honeymoon demonstrativeness."

Tom Dawson put down his evening paper and stared at the pretty little partner of his joys and sorrows. "I'm afraid I don't understand, dear," he said.

"Why, it's very simple. If you know that I care for you—and I am certain that you care for me—all signs of affection are quite superfluous; they may be dropped."

"Oh!" Tom said dubiously. "Well, what shall I drop first?" There was a twinkle in his eyes, and Prue saw it.

"To be serious," she pleaded, "to begin with, you must not kiss me when you come home to dinner and—and—other times. You must drop"—

"Drop you a courtesy instead," he interrupted her laughingly.

"Don't be ridiculous, Tom! You know very well that there are many useless customs that should be abandoned, many things that should be dropped."

"Yes," he said, smiling whimsically; "Hannah thinks so, I know. She dropped my meerschaum this morning. We must take lessons of that girl, Prue, or drop her. On the whole, I think we'd better drop her."

"It will not be necessary," she said, with dignity. "Hannah gave notice this morning. I shall have to find some one else within a week."

"I'm sorry—sorry, I mean, for the family she'll drop down on next. Hannah's no feather weight, you know. Speaking of dropping"—

"I am not speaking of it now. It is quite useless while you are in such a mood," she said indignantly, rising from her chair.

Before she could leave the room Tom was at her side. "Forgive me, dear," he said. "I didn't know you were in such sober earnest." He stopped to kiss the pink cheek next to him, but Prue lifted a protesting hand. "Don't, Tom!" she said. "You forget; it isn't necessary."

And the next day, when the time came to say goodby, Prue had no occasion to complain of his "honeymoon demonstrativeness."

"Tom is very sensible this morning," she said to herself, but she sighed as she said it and went about all day with a wistful look in her blue eyes. Tom was "sensible" in the evening also, and the next morning he was so very sensible that Prue cried a little, but perhaps it was for joy. Even "sensible" people do that.

That afternoon Matilda made her appearance. Hannah came into the sitting room to announce her arrival. "Matilda Stebbins is here, Mrs. Dawson," she said, "after my place. Will I show her in, ma'am? She and me used to work together once, and she's a dreadful good cook."

"Yes, I will see her," Prue said. And in a moment a tall, lank, freckle faced girl was standing in the doorway, smiling at her. "Will you be seated?" Prue asked pleasantly, and the girl slid into a chair, still smiling.

"I hope you'll give me a try," she said. "I'd like first rate to cook for you and him."

It was Prue's turn to smile. "Have you had much experience?" she asked.

"Heaps of it, ma'am, but never long to one place."

"That seems strange!" Prue exclaimed.

"The honeymoons?"

"Yes, ma'am. I don't cook and do for none but new married folks. Hannah told me about you and him when she first came here two months ago. She said as how she knew you was just married."

Prue blushed. "How did Hannah know it?" she asked.

"Easy enough, ma'am. It's like measles and whoopin' cough. She could tell by the symptoms. I'd rather live where there's lovemakin' goin' on continual than read the best novel ever made up."

This was interesting, but very embarrassing to Mrs. Thomas Dawson. Two days ago she would have laughed heartily at Matilda's sayings and have found much enjoyment in repeating them to Tom. But present conditions made the girl's remarks seem almost personal, yet she felt tempted to engage her.

"Matilda," said she, "did Hannah tell you the wages she received and the work she was expected to do?"

"Yes'm, she did, and I don't think she'll better herself none goin' to work in a factory."

"Very well. I will give you a trial. When can you come?"

"I can stay now, ma'am, and get dinner if you'll let me go home for my clothes when the work's rid up. Hannah wants to leave as soon as she can anyways."

And so it happened that the honeymoon cook held sway in the Dawson kitchen when the owner of the house came home that evening.

"You will be glad to hear that I've engaged a new girl," Prue said to him in the distantly polite tone that she had recently adopted in speaking to her husband.

"Very glad," he answered, "if she is an improvement on Hannah."

The dinner was excellent, and Matilda was very attentive in her service at table, beaming on them as though she would say, "Bless you, my children!" Late in the evening, when they were apparently much absorbed in reading, they heard a strange sound, half cough, half sneeze, in the hall. Prue looked up from the book. "What was that?" she said. Tom was on his way to the door when Matilda entered the room. "It was me, ma'am," she said. "I never walk in on new married folks without givin' 'em warnin' I'm a-comin'—not at first. Of course they get used to me after awhile and go right on lovin' if I do see 'em. Nothin' suits me better'n that!"

Prue's face was scarlet. She dared not look at Tom. Oh, why had she engaged the services of such a silly, sentimental creature?

"If you please, ma'am," Matilda continued, "I'm goin' home now to get my clothes, and I'll say good night to you and him."

"Thought we were 'new married folks,' did she?" Tom said grimly. "I can't imagine why. She's a good cook," he added, "and I hope we can keep her."

"We can," Prue said to herself, "if we will meet her peculiar requirements. But I'll not be driven into any foolishly unnecessary display of affection."

For three days the Dawsons enjoyed the results of Matilda's culinary efforts, but a heavy heart will affect the best of appetites somewhat, and on the fourth day Matilda complained that they "didn't seem to relish their victuals" and she "guessed she'd better be goin'."

"Oh, no," Prue cried. "No one could suit us better than you do."

"I'm glad of that, ma'am; but there's another reason." And she hung her head.

Prue was painfully embarrassed, for she could guess the other reason. "I hope you will stay," she stammered.

"I'll think it over till tomorrow, ma'am, but I feel as if Hannah hadn't been fair with me, leadin' me to expect things was different between you and him from what they really be."

Tom came home later than usual that night. Prue was in the hall giving some instructions to Matilda when he opened the door. His eyes looked tired and sad, she thought. She hesitated a moment—only a moment—for Matilda was present, and now was her opportunity to redeem herself in the girl's eyes, when she ran to meet her husband and held up her face to be kissed. The tired look faded from his eyes as if by magic, and he put both arms around her and held her close. "Has my little wife come to her senses?" he asked.

"Hush!" she answered. "I still think it's unnecessary, but Matilda likes it. She refuses to stay unless we are 'affectionate like.'" And she laughed hysterically.

"Oh," Tom said. That was all, but there was a world of disappointment in the exclamation. Then he looked beyond his wife at Matilda, who stood beaming at him, her hands clasped in ecstasy. "Well, she'll stay now," he said bitterly. "I congratulate you."

Yes; Matilda had decided to remain. She came to the sitting room door after dinner to announce her decision.

After she had gone Prue left her seat and moved restlessly about the room. Then she sighed so deeply that Tom looked up from his paper. "Headache?" he asked.

"N-no," she said. Her lips trembled, and she buried her face in her hands and sobbed out, "It's just heart ache, Tom."

"Heart ache?" he said gently. "I thought I had a monopoly of that."

Prue came close to his chair and leaned against an arm of it. "Tom," she cried remorsefully—"Tom, dear, will you forgive me and"—her voice sank to a whisper—"kiss me?"

He caught her hands in his and drew her down beside him. "To please Matilda?" he asked.

"Oh, Tom, you know better!"

"Because if it's to please that girl I'll be hanged if I"— But something prevented further speech just then.

An Unfamiliar Dialect.

An American woman who was lately in London for the first time is convinced that whatever the language may be which the cockneys speak it is not English. One of her experiences is related by the Washington Post.

The woman wished to see the city all by herself. Somebody told her that if she went to the terminus of some bus lines, it did not matter which, and waited a little she would hear the conductor call out the places on the route and then could choose that which she wished to visit.

She found a place where buses were arriving and departing and waited. She heard many curious names, but failed to understand much that the bus men said. Every now and then the man on the step of a bus would call out, "Mobiotch, Mobiotch!" and she wondered what part of London "Mobiotch" might be. She had never heard of it before, and she had been studying London for six months. At last she ventured to address a conductor who looked approachable.

"Will you kindly tell me," she said, "where one takes the bus for the Marble arch?"

The man looked at her pityingly. Her American accent was thick upon her, and he perceived also that she must be deaf. He leaned toward her and drew a long breath. Then he bellowed:

"This is your bus, ma'am!" and began to shout, "Mobiotch, Mobiotch!"

The visitor had let seven "Mobiotch" buses go because she never once guessed that that is the way Marble arch is pronounced in London.

For the Little Ones

Be Careful in the Use of Cough Medicines for Children's Coughs and Colds.

Many mothers of sleepy coughs, hoarse and croupy, and throat troubles have clearly proven that a large proportion of these coughs originate from the temporary relief which these cheap mixtures often give in coughs and colds, especially with the little children. It is because the opiate by its deadening nerve sensation, the hydrocyanic in the throat, which causes the cough, is temporarily benefited, but the real cause of the cold is not in any way removed by the opiate and will promptly return.

The best thing to use to remove the catarrhal secretion which causes the cold, the hoarseness and irritating cough, is a new preparation composed of antiseptics like Eucalyptol, Guaiacol, Sanguinaria, and sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which contain no opiate, cocaine or poisonous drug of any sort.

A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have held in a state of cough medicines, croup mixtures, and throat remedies for my little children, for somehow or other they never seemed to be free from colds, croup or sore throat.

"This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take, I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he never knew them to be persistently safe and nothing better could be taken. So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat, and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of chronic nasal and throat catarrh, but they have saved me many an anxious night with my little ones."

Mr. A. B. Fernbank, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so many winters from Catarrh that I took it as a matter of course and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate which my business affairs would not permit me to take.

"My hearing grew almost always slightly off, and I had to resort to trying the usual remedies, such as inhalers, douches, etc. The thought of eating breakfast often nauseated me and the catarrh gradually getting into my stomach took away my appetite and digestion.

"My druggist advised me to try a 50 cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because he said he had so many customers who had been cured of catarrh by the use of these tablets, he felt he could honestly recommend them. I took his advice and used several boxes with results that surprised me and my friends.

"I always keep a box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in the house and the whole family use them freely on the first appearance of a cough or cold in the head.

"With our children we think there is nothing so safe and reliable as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets to ward off croup and colds, and with other people I have known of colds where the hearing had been entirely destroyed by chronic catarrh, cured completely by this new remedy."

People who have used opiums, inhalers, salves and washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant tasteless remedy in tablet form. Druggists everywhere report that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets which they sell for 50 cents for full package, are the most popular of all catarrh remedies.

System Poisoned by Defective Kidneys.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Of the food which is taken into the body, part is digested and assimilated and goes to form new blood and tissue, and a certain portion becomes waste matter which is poisonous to the system. Much of such matter is cast out or excreted by the kidneys in liquid form and passes from these organs through the ureters to the bladder.

When the kidneys become deranged this liquid poison forms into solid material, sometimes collecting in the joints and causing rheumatism, at other times in the kidneys, ureters or bladder, and becoming what is known as gravel or stone in the bladder, probably the most torturing and fatal ailments known to mankind.

Don't wait for symptoms of these horrible diseases, don't wait for Bright's Disease, diabetes, dropsy or apoplexy before beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, but prevent these results by taking warning from the first symptoms, such as headache, deposits in urine, loss of flesh, and any irregularities of the urinary organs.

Mrs. S. Dercosher, 495 Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine for besides steadying my nerves it built up my system wonderfully and enabled me to rest and sleep well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the ointment cannot be equalled and the pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

Gum Chewing.

"To chew gum for five or ten minutes after a meal is absolutely beneficial," said a physician, "especially for hasty eaters, who do not half masticate their food, because the action of the jaws causes the gastric juices to flow, and that is good. But so few people can use and not abuse it. They get the gum in their mouths and keep at it till they fairly dry up the saliva supply, bring on a headache and get generally nervous. This will cause indigestion."

Origin of the Peach.

Nothing is now more universally accepted than the fact that the peach is an improved variety of the almond. The almond has a thin shell around the stone, which splits open and shows the stone when mature. This outer skin has simply become fleshy in the peach, so that it is all that gives it its specific character. It seems now clear from investigation in the history of ancient Babylon that in their gardens, nearly 4,000 years ago, the peach was cultivated then as it is now.

It must have been many years before this that the peach was improved from the almond, and this fact goes to show the great antiquity of the fruit. Possibly gardening in some respects, at least so far as it relates to many of our cultivated fruits, was as far advanced 6,000 or 8,000 or perhaps 10,000 years back as it is today.

Phœnicians, many thousands of years ago, as is proved by the records, had in their gardens almonds, apricots, bananas, citrons, figs, grapes, olives, peaches, pomegranates, and even sugar cane was in extensive cultivation. Certainly this shows how far advanced these nations were in garden culture many years ago.

Japanese Pastimes.

In Japan to get up parties to behold the freshly fallen snow or the cherry blossoms or the maple trees in their autumnal glory or to go to the flower shows is as de rigueur as are our dinners, cotillons and theater parties. Mushroom hunting is a fashionable pastime, while in the house harp playing, verse writing, embroidering and tea drinking are the most absorbing occupations. The most pretentious entertainment is the tea ceremony. It is very formal, and there is much elaborate performance connected with it difficult for a foreigner to comprehend.

Author of "Under the Rose."

"Circumstances! What circumstances?" demanded the manager.

"Why, the pleasant company he finds himself in, of course," said the visitor easily. "Ah, I see Miss Carew," he added, his eye immediately lightening, "and must congratulate her on her performance. Cursed dusty hole, isn't it?" Brushing himself with his handkerchief as he moved away.

"What business has he behind the scenes anyway?" grumbled the manager. "Dusty hole, indeed! Confound his impudence!" But, his attention being drawn to the pressing exigencies of a first night, Barnes soon forgot his irritation over this unwarranted intrusion in lowering a drop, heighting a fly or readjusting a flat to his liking.

The land baron meanwhile crossed to the semidarkness at the rear of the stage behind the boxed scene, where he had observed the young girl waiting for the curtain to rise on the last act. As she approached Mauville, who stood motionless in an unlighted spot, the pale glow played upon her a moment, white on her neck, in sheen on the folds of her gown, and then she stepped into the shadow, where she was met by a tall figure, with hand eagerly outstretched.

His restless eyes held hers, but his greeting was conventional.

"Did I not say the world was small, and that we might meet again?"

"Of course, we are always meeting people and parting from them," she replied unconcernedly.

He laughed. "With what delightful indifference you say that! You did not think to see me again?"

"I hadn't thought about it," she answered frankly, annoyed by his persistence.

"I am unfortunate," he said.

Beneath his free gaze she changed color, as though the shadow of a rose had touched her face.

"Yes."

"I need not have asked." His expression conveyed more, so much more she bit her lip impatiently. "How do you like the new part?"

"It is hard to tell yet," she answered evasively.

"You would do justice to any role, but I prefer you in a historical or romantic play, with the picturesque old costumes. I fear, however, I am detaining you."

He drew aside with such deference to permit her to pass that her conscience smote her and she was half minded to turn and leave him more graciously, but this impulse was succeeded by another feeling, ill defined, the prevailing second thought. Had she looked she would have seen that her fluttering shawl touched his hand and he quickly raised it to his lips, releasing it immediately. As it was, she moved on, unaware of the gesture. The orchestra, or, rather, string quartet, had ceased; Mans, a host in himself, a mountain of melody, bowed his acknowledgments; the footlights glared, the din of voices subsiding, and the curtain rose.

Remaining in the background, the land baron watched the young girl approach the entrance to the stage.

"How do you do, Mr. Mauville?" said a gay but hushed voice, interrupting his ruminations, and Susan, in a short skirt and bright stockings, greeted him.

"The better for seeing you, Mistress Susan."

"Pooh!" courtseying disdainfully. "I don't believe you! You came to see some one else. Well"—lightly—"she is already engrossed."

"Really?" said the land baron.

"Yes. You understand? He follows her with his every glance," she added roguishly. Susan was never averse to straining the truth a little when it served her purpose.

"I should infer he was following her with more than his eyes," retorted the master of the manor dryly.

Susan tapped the stage viciously with a little foot. "She's a lovely girl," she continued, drawing cabalistic figures with the provoking slipper.

"You are piqued," he said, watching her skeptically.

"Not a little jealous?" he persisted playfully.

"Jealous?" Then, with a frown, hesitatingly: "Well, she is given prominence in the plays and"—

"You would not be subordinated if she were not in the company? Apart from this, you are fond of her?"

The foot ceased its tracing and rested firmly on the floor.

"I hate her!" snapped Susan, angered by this baiting. No sooner had she spoken than she regretted her outburst. "How you draw one out! I was only joking, though she does have the best parts and we take what we can get!"

"But she's a lovely girl!" concluded the land baron.

Susan's eyes flashed angrily.

"How clever of you! You twist and turn one's words about and give them a different meaning from what was intended. If I wanted to catch you up"—

"A truce!" he exclaimed. "Let us take each other seriously hereafter. Is it agreed?" She nodded. "Well, seriously, you can help me and help yourself."

"How?" doubtfully.

"Why not be allies?"

"What for?"

"Mutual service."

"Oh!" dubiously.

"A woman's 'yes!'"

"No," with affirmative answer in her eyes.

He believed the latter.

"We will seal the compact then."

And he bent over and saluted Mistress Susan on the lips. She became as rosy as the flowers she carried and tapped him playfully with them.

"For shame! Lo! What must you think of me?"

"That you are an angel."

"How lovely! But I must go."

"May I see you after the play?"

"Yes."

"Do not fail me or the soldier will not transfer his affections to you!"

"If he dares!" And she shook her head defiantly as she tripped away.

"Little fool!" murmured Mauville, his lips curling scornfully. "The one is a pastime; the other"—he paused and caught his breath—"a passion!"

But he kept his appointment with Susan, escorting her to the hotel, where he bade her good night with a lingering pressure of the hand and ordered his equipage to the door.

"Hadn't you better wait until morning?" asked the surprised landlord when the young patroon announced his intention of taking an immediate departure. "There are the barn burners, and traveling at night"—

"Have they turned footpads?" was the light reply. "Can't I drive through my own lands? Let me see one of their thieving faces"— And he made a significant gesture. "Not ride at night! These Jacobins shall not prevent me."

Barring the possible danger from the leaseholders, who were undoubtedly ripe for any mischief, the journey did not promise much discomfiture as might have been expected, the coach being especially constructed for night traveling. On such occasions between the seats the space was filled by a large cushion adapted to the purpose, which in this way converted the interior of the vehicle into a sleeping room of limited dimensions. With pillows to neutralise the jarring, the land baron stretched himself indolently upon his couch and gazed through the window at the crystalline lights of the heavens, while thoughts of leaseholders and barn burners faded into thin air.

At dawn when he opened his eyes the morning star yet gleamed with a last pale luster. At the manor, which the patroon shortly reached, the ever wakeful Oly-koeks was already engaged in chopping wood near the kitchen door. The growling of the hound at his feet called the caretaker's attention to the master's coming, and, driving the ax into an obstinate stick of hickory, he donned his coat, drawing near the vehicle, where he stood in stupid wonderment as the land baron alighted.

"Any callers, Oly-koeks?" carelessly asked the master.

"A committee of barn burners, mynheer, to ask you not to serve any more writs."

"And so give them time to fight me with the lawmakers! But, there, carry my portmanteau into the library and"—as Oloffe's upper lip drew back—"teach your dog to know me."

"Thou wily limb of the law," wrote the patroon, "be it known by these presents thou art summoned to appear before me! I have work for you—not to serve any one with a writ, assign, bring an action or any of your rascally, pettifogging tricks! Send me no demurrer, but your own intemperate self."

CHAPTER XI.

SEVERAL bleak days were followed by a little June weather in October. A somnolent influence rested everywhere. Above the undulation of land on the horizon were the clouds, like heavenly hills, reflecting their radiance on those earthly elevations. The celestial mountains and valleys gave wondrous perspective to the outlook, and around them lay an atmosphere unreal and idyllic.

On such a morning Susan stood at a turn in the road gazing after a departing vehicle with ill concealed satisfaction and yet withal some dubiousness. Now that the plan suggested by Mauville had not miscarried, certain misgivings arose, for there is a conscience in the culmination wanting in the conception of an act. As the partial realization of the situation swept over her she gave a gasp, and then, the vehicle having meanwhile vanished, a desperate spirit of bravado replaced her momentary apprehension. She even laughed nervously as she waved her handkerchief in the direction the coach had taken, "Bon voyage!"

But as the words fell from the smiling lips her eyes became thoughtful and her hand fell to her side. It occurred to Susan she would be obliged to divert suspicion from herself. The curling lips straightened. She turned abruptly and hastened toward the town. But her footsteps soon lagged and she paused thoughtfully.

"If I reach the hotel too soon," she murmured, "they may overtake him."

So she stopped at the wayside, attracted by the brilliant cardinal flowers, humming as she plucked them, but ever and anon glancing around guiltily. The absurd thought came to her that the bright autumn blossoms were red, the hue of sin, and she threw them on the sward and unconsciously rubbed her hands on her dress.

Still she lingered, however, vaguely mindful she was adding to her burden of ill doing, but finally again started slowly toward the village, hurrying as she approached the hotel, where she encountered the soldier on the veranda. Her distressed countenance and haste proclaimed her a messenger of disaster.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" she exclaimed excitedly. "Where is Mr. Barnes?"

"What is the matter, Miss Duran?" asked the soldier, whom quickly dashed down the main thoroughfare had awakened some misgivings in the little town, was beyond the precincts of village scrutiny. The country road was hard, although marked by deep ruts from traffic during a rainy spell, and the horse's hoofs rang out with exhilarating rhythm. Regardless of all save the distance traversed, the rider yet forbore to press the pace, relaxing only when, after a considerable interval, he came to another road and drew rein at the fork. One way to the right ran gently through the valley, apparently terminating in the luxuriant foliage, while the other, like a winding, murky stream, stretched out over a more level tract of land.

Which thoroughfare had the coach taken? Dismounting, the young man hastily examined the ground, but the earth was so dry and firm and the tracks of wheels so many it was impossible to distinguish the old marks from the new. Even signpost there was none. The roads diverged, and the soldier could but blindly surmise their destination, selecting after some hesitation the thoroughfare running into the gorgeous autumnal painted forest.

He had gone no inconsiderable distance when his doubts were abruptly confirmed. Reaching an opening, bright as the chapel of a darkened monastery, he discerned a farmer in a buckboard approaching from the opposite direction. The swift pace of the rider and the leisurely jog of the team soon brought them together.

"Did you pass a coach down the road?" asked the soldier.

"No-s," said the farmer deliberately as his fat horses instinctively stood stock still; "didn't pass nobody."

"To the patroon village. There's a reform orator there today and a barn burners' camp fire."

After impatiently riding an hour or more the horseman drew near the patroon village, a cluster of houses amid the hills and meadows.

In the historic market place, as Saint-Prosper rode down the street, were assembled a number of leaseholders of both sexes and all ages listening to the flowing tongue of a rustic speechmaker. This forum of the people was shaded by a sextet of well grown elms. The platform of the local Demosthenes stood in a corner near the street.

On the outskirts of the gathering, near the road, stood a tall, bestling individual whom Saint-Prosper addressed, reining in his horse near the wooden rail which answered for a fence.

The soldier's impatience and anger were ready to leap forth at a word. He wheeled fiercely upon the weedy Scot to demand peremptorily the information so uncivilly withheld, when a gust of wind blowing something light down the road caused his horse to shy suddenly and the rider to glance at what had frightened the animal. After a brief scrutiny he dismounted quickly and examined more attentively the object, a pamphlet with a red cover, upon which appeared the printed design of the conventional Greek masks of tragedy and comedy, and beneath the title, "The Honeymoon." The bright binding, albeit soiled by the dusty road, and the fluttering of the leaves in the breeze had startled the horse and incidentally attracted the attention of his master. Across the somber mask of melancholy was traced in buoyant hand the name of the young actress.

The soldier, without a moment's hesitation, thrust the pamphlet inside his coat, flung himself on his horse and, turning from the market place, dashed down the road.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY, Buffalo, N. Y.

Tortured with Pain.

Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deits, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deits writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. William McFarlane, the genial proprietor of the Carleton House, who has been at Lovesick the past season, paid us a visit last week. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Laura.

Miss Jennie Leonard, of Peterborough, has returned home after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. P. A. Kearney.

Mr. David Godfrey, has a contract for taking out wood, etc., for the Rathbun Company. He has a number of men employed from here.

The sleighing is very good, considering the snow we have had. There is not quite enough for the wood-haulers however.

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Young have returned home from a pleasant trip to Rochester.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

HOCKEY.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of junior hockeyists was held last night in the T.A.S. rooms and a junior team organized with the following officers:—

President—J. Dorrin.
Manager—Fred McGrath.
Secretary-Treasurer—E. Doherty.

The Executive will consist of the foregoing officers, Mr. Fred Whaley and the Captain, who is to be elected.

The team will probably arrange games with junior teams from the neighbouring towns, and a league may be formed.

* * * *

There will be a practice of the senior hockey team to-night at 8 o'clock. Wasson, who played goal the season the team won the intermediate championship and in some of last year's games, will be in the flags this year. He was the steadiest goal minder in the O.H.A. in 1901.

* * * *

Secretary McLean, of the Picton Hockey Club, has forwarded to Mr. E. S. Clarry the necessary fees for membership in the Trent Valley League, as has also the secretaries of Brighton and Trenton Clubs. The present indications are that there will be a large attendance of delegates at the annual meeting which will open in the Oriental Hotel parlours on Saturday morning at nine o'clock. Peterborough Clubs are asked to remember the time of the meeting and all delegates are asked to respond promptly.

* * * *

The Hockey Club in connection with the Cordage Company displays enterprise in undertaking the management of an open air rink which will be centrally located. This will be very largely patronized by clubs who cannot get suitable hours at the Brock street rink, owing to the two senior teams. The rink will be well lighted and will also be used for skating.

* * * *

The Toronto World says:—"Manager Morrison of the St. George's received a communication yesterday from the secretary of the Port Hope Club asking him to bring down the strongest team at Christmas. The puck chasers in the sporty eastern town will certainly have to "move some" to win their opening game, as the team the St. George's are taking down will be composed of the cream of last year's Wellingtons and St. George's senior teams. They will compose one of the fastest teams that ever represented Toronto. Port Hope will play a team of home brews, consisting of Rusky Brown, Tony Roach, Billy McMillan, Cort Boney and three juniors, who are not yet decided on. There has been no ice as yet in Port Hope on account of an unlevel floor in the new rink."

CURLING.

Peterborough curlers will start the season to-night. Prospects seem to be unusually bright for the roaring game this winter, with the large membership, the grand accommodation, and ice to all appearances come to stay on December 10th. It practically means a four month's season is assured. What a grand time the enthusiasts will have this year.

TUG-OF-WAR.

Two entries have been received for the "Sykes Trophy" to be pulled for at the Opera House Friday evening.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Word was received to-day from Mart Barnes, of Detroit, saying he will arrive to-night and is in fine fettle for his 10-round bout with Nick Collins of Ottawa.

* * * *

Farmer Burns has arrived in Toronto and will be along Friday morning. Gauthier is not nervous, he says he is "ready for him."

Three teams, the Quakers, C.G.E. and Canadian Cordage Company have entered the tug-of-war competition for the Sykes Cup, to be pulled for to-morrow night at the Opera House.

A NEW STEAMER FOR STONY LAKE.

Mr. P. P. Young Will Build a Steel Passenger Boat.

Will Cost $11,000 and Have a Speed of 13 Miles an Hour—Wood-Work to be Done by Mr. J. W. Hickey of Peterborough.

After the most successful season in the fifteen or sixteen, in which Mr. P. P. Young, owner of the steamer "Majestic," has operated a line of passenger steamers on the Kawartha Lakes, he has announced his intention of building a new steamer, which he will place on Stony Lake waters next year, to run in conjunction with the "Majestic."

Mr. Young reports that each season the business handled by his boat is steadily increasing, and in view of the support given him in his efforts to give a good service, he has determined upon making a bold stride forward and do what few would care to take the responsibility of doing, spend $11,000 in building a new steel passenger steamer, with the completion of which he will be in a position to give tourists who travel on Stony Lake a much improved service. The boat will doubtless not pay for its running expenses during the first one or two seasons, or at any rate, it will not pay dividends, but Mr. Young believes that with the better service which he will be able to give, traffic will increase, because travellers will appreciate his efforts to meet the wants of those who spend the summer on these waters. The success that has attended the running of the "Majestic" has prompted the building of the new steamer, which, when completed, will be well equipped to handle excursion traffic, for which the need of a boat has been keenly felt. It is expected that when this steamer is in commission, a larger number of excursions than ever will visit these beautiful lakes.

The new steamer will be 96 feet long, by 18 feet beam, and will draw but 4 feet 6 inches, the light draft enabling her to touch at points where it is impossible for those of deeper draft to call at. The contract for the construction of the hull and machinery will be given to the Bertram firm, in Toronto, where she will be built and put together, afterwards being taken apart and shipped in pieces to Young's Point, where the boat will be completed. The steamer will be equipped with a double compound jet condensing engine, driving a screw propeller, and power will be derived from a large Clyde boiler, and will have a speed of 13 miles an hour. The hull and machinery will be in Young's Point by March 15th, when it will be put together, and the wooden fittings put in By Mr. J. W. Hickey, of Peterborough, who for a number of years has done all the boat carpentering for Mr. Young.

The boat will in all probability be ready for work by the opening of the excursion season, June 1st, when it is expected that she will be largely patronized. The new steamer will be similar in design to the "Islander," built for the Muskoka Navigation Company about two years ago, and will be a day boat. It is probable that after next season a dining cabin will be placed in the boat, as there will be ample room.

When completed, this steamer will be a credit to the owners, and a monument to the enterprise of Mr. Young, and his three popular sons, who have made such a signal success of the steamboat business on the Kawartha Lakes.

U. S. NAVY'S POLICY.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The policy of the Navy Department with respect to the entry of Columbian troops into Panama was said yesterday to be to prevent a conflict before it commenced. The War Department is ready to despatch troops to the Isthmus on short notice, and has perfected all military plans to repel an invasion.

The French steamer Versailles, from Savanilla, reports at La Guaira, Venezuela, that Colombian steamers have landed 1,100 men from Cartagena, near the mouth of the Altrato River, on the Gulf of Darien, to open a way over the Darian Mountains into Panama. Other troops are reported to be marching or awaiting the result of Gen. Reyes mission to Washington.

Dr. Herron, the Colombian Charge d'Affaires, yesterday said that if troops from Cartagena have landed near the mouth of the Altrato River, it is directly in opposition to the advices of both himself and Gen. Reyes.

GIVES STRONG DENIAL.

C.N.A. Cable to London re Phillips Thompson Letter.

Toronto, Dec. 10. — Secretary Younge of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association yesterday received a cable from the London Emigration Office, seeking information as to what ground there might be for Phillips Thompson's letter to the London press, declaring that thousands of destitude immigrants were tramping Toronto's streets, depicting harrowing scenes of suffering and starvation, and asserting that immigrants were trying to secure transportation whereby to escape the rigors of the winter.

Mr. Younge at once cabled back as follows:

"Statement of Phillips Thompson that thousands of starving immigrants are tramping streets and endeavoring to secure transportation from Canada is absolutely false. Toronto city relief reports November applications less, and House of Industry reports November applications over one-third less than November, 1902."

Renewed Protests Against Opening Yongampho to Foreign Commerce.

London, Dec. 10.—The correspondent of The Times at Tokio says that two Russian cruisers and two battleships having assembled at Chemulpo, M. Owing to the time taken in the transmission of the correspondence, the submission of the Japanese negotiations may be delayed several days.

Suing A. E. Wallace.

St. Thomas, Dec. 10.—J. H. Huntley, a Michigan Central engineer, is suing A. E. Wallace, late president of the Atlas Loan Company, for $5,000 damages. He claims that he had $2,788 on deposit in that institution. In May, 1902, he called on Mr. Wallace, he says, and asked him if he (Wallace) was dealing in "margin" stocks with the company's funds. If such were the case, the deposit would be withdrawn. Wallace denied the charge, and on his representation that everything was all right, Huntley left the money with the company, and it never came back.

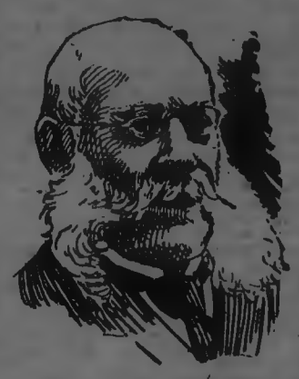
SIR RICHARD SAYS ALLIANCE WITH U. S.

Would Inevitably Result From an Imperial Zollverein.

Nestor of Canadian Politics Delivers an Important Address on Canadian and Imperial Affairs—American Trade in Britain's Hands—U. S. Farmers Could not Stand Tax on Food Exports.

Toronto, Dec. 11.—Sir Richard Cartwright, the Nestor of Canadian politics, never stood higher in the estimation of the people of Toronto than last night, when, after delivering one of the greatest of many great speeches illuminative of the history of Canada, he sat down amid the ringing cheers of an audience that taxed the capacity of Association Hall. For almost an hour and a half he discussed domestic affairs, Canada's expansion under Liberal rule, the reasons for and results of increased Government expenditure, the Cronin frauds of 1891, the national debt, and the Government's great railway policy; then for half an hour he spoke of Imperial trade issues, advocating an Anglo-American alliance to be brought about by a British zollverein and its consequent tax upon American farm exports.

During the two hours that Sir



SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT.

Richard spoke the audience were too intent almost to applaud, though there was plenty of that, both before and after.

An Anglo-American Alliance.

Particularly when he dealt with Imperial questions was his audience anxious to catch every word. It was felt that the utterances were those of a statesman and an economist. As ever during his forty years of public life, he was outspoken and uncompromising. As an economist he would not countenance protection; as a statesman he saw that conditions might be created in which a tariff might serve a desirable end. The end he desired was the consolidation of the Empire, and beyond that an Anglo-American alliance for political and commercial purposes. The United States had placed their trade in Britain's hands because $70,000,000 more than half their exports were to the British Empire. A British zollverein that would levy a tax on the exports of the American farm would take 30 per cent. off the American farmers' profits and quickly force the United States into reciprocity with the British Empire. With the consummation of an Anglo-American alliance three and a half continents would be dominated by the Saxon race. Canada, declared Sir Richard, did not wish to gain at England's cost, and the Dominion had shown that it could prosper without the United States. Nevertheless he had no Parliamentary language to describe the man who denied the advantage, commercial and political, of an alliance between the Empire and a nation that thirty years hence would have a population of 120 millions.

Introduced a Novelty.

A quarter of an hour before the hall was opened a crowd, many of them women, waited at the doors, and before the meeting opened it was packed to its capacity. Sir Richard, when he entered, was very heartily cheered. He introduced the novelty in political meetings of limelight views, throwing on a large screen figures and diagrams to emphasize and illustrate the unprecedented expansion of Canada during the Laurier regime. This was the first of a series of meetings to be addressed by Dominion Ministers. Sir William Mulock presided.

Sir William's Introduction.

Sir William Mulock was greeted with applause when he stepped forward to open the meeting. He was very brief, saying: "Ladies and gentlemen,—On behalf of the Toronto Reform Association I extend to this audience their most cordial welcome to hear to-night the address of one of Canada's most gifted sons, our grand old man, Sir Richard Cartwright. (Applause.) I would not add the word 'old' in describing Sir Richard Cartwright if I did not feel that perhaps I am his compeer in years, and, therefore, so far as that goes, he has no advantage of me. But Sir Richard Cartwright for the last forty years has been identified with public life in Canada, and in season and out of season, regardless of the consequences, he has ever been fearless in expressing his opinion as to what was in the interests of his country, this beloved Canada of ours. Therefore, in a city like Toronto, the seat of education and of intelligence, I am sure that, whatever be his opinions, the honesty of his convictions will at all events appeal to the sympathy of his audience. I do not intend to delay the pleasure that awaits you in hearing Sir Richard Cartwright, and therefore, ladies and gentlemen, without further remarks I beg to introduce to you the speaker of the evening, Sir Richard Cartwright."

The mention of Sir Richard Cartwright's name brought forth loud applause, which was continued until after he had been on his feet for some moments.

HE BROKE A WINDOW AND WENT TO GAOL.

Some Amusing Evidence at the Police Court—A Chinaman in the Box.

When Edward King, a boy about fifteen years of age, put his fist through a window pane of Sing Lee's laundry he probably did not realize that Sing's motto was "Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth." In the Police Court to-day the Chinaman wanted King to pay for the new window which he had got put in. On the evidence being heard Magistrate Dumble found the accused guilty and fined him $2 for the window, the costs of the case and $10 to be paid forthwith with the option of one month in gaol with hard labour. Had the accused's name been reversed there is no doubt that he could have paid the fine, as it was, however, he took the month. Master King will probably come out with the knowledge that this is a free country and that a Chinaman cannot be abused any more than a Canadian.

eod THE BEST STOVE CO.

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been so bleasedly helped through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it but just to acknowledge it, hoping that it may help some other woman suffering as I did.

"For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thinly clad, and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well.

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—MISS ROSE NORA HENNESSY, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove beyond a question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble and at once, by removing the cause, and restoring the organs to a normal and healthy condition.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—About two years ago I consulted a physician about my health which had become so wretched that I was no longer able to be about. I had severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen, was very nervous and irritable, and this trouble grew worse each month. The physician prescribed for me, but I soon discovered that he was unable to help me, and I then decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and soon found that it was doing me good. My appetite was returning, the pains disappearing, and the general benefits were well marked.

"You cannot realize how pleased I was, and after taking the medicine for only three months, I found that I was completely cured of my trouble, and have been well and hearty ever since, and no more fear the monthly period, as it now passes without pain to me. Yours very truly, MISS PEARL ACKERS, 327 North Summer St., Nashville, Tenn."

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say without trying it "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Her advice is free and helpful. Write to-day. Delay may be fatal.

SEVEN YEARS OF PLENTY.

"You will feel the jingle of prosperity in your pockets!" exclaimed the Liberal leader just before the advent to power of his party, says the Ottawa Free Press.

Right well has this prophecy come true, for Canada has enjoyed seven years of plenty, seven years of progress, seven years of unparalleled prosperity. Even the great nation to the south cannot equal our comparative progress.

To-day Canada enjoys a trade protection which is satisfactory to all but a few manufacturers who wish to impoverish the people by means of a prohibitive tariff. They argue that the people will get rich by trading jack-knives among themselves.

The Liberals are encouraging the export trade and enriching the masses of the people. Under seven years of Liberal rule the total export trade was $470,153,000 more than for the previous seven years of Conservative rule.

This is one of the best gauges of a country's prosperity, as it represents the wealth which has come into Canada and has been divided up amongst us.

THAT FIVE MILLION DEPOSIT.

Some Conservative journals are making jokes at the expense of the Dominion Government on account of the failure of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company to deposit five million dollars within the thirty days required by the Transcontinental Railway contract of last session says the Kingston Whig. Of course not a single organ expresses any doubt as to the ability of the contracting corporation to raise the money at the shortest notice; the line of insinuation is that the delay augurs an abandonment of the contract by the Grand Trunk promoters. Two of these are Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, the President of the Grand Trunk company, and Mr. Charles M. Hays, its general manager. Mr. Hays is now in England on some railway business and this fact is used to give colour to the sinister prediction.

So far as the public interest is concerned—and this is all we are called on to discuss—the Government need not greatly concern itself what the Grand Trunk people intend to do about the contract. Plenty of capcapitalists will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity to step into their place in the agreement, to construct and operate a transcontinental line. The franchise is a valuable one. It is there for the Grand Trunk capitalists if they are willing to go on; it is there for others if they are not willing, and not much time will be allowed to settle the question.

There is, however, no reason to suspect the Grand Trunk promoters of any intention to retire from the undertaking. They have too strong a desire to share in the benefits to be derived from the opening up of the Northwest and British Columbia, to say nothing of Northern Ontario and Quebec. The proprietors of the present Grand Trunk system have a ramification of roads ending at the Atlantic, but stopping short thousands of miles from the Pacific. If they allow this franchise to pass out of their hands they will subside into a lower place, out of which they can never rise, and this they can never afford to do. The Grand Trunk shareholders, however, must be informed and consulted, and as soon as Mr. Hays has explained matters to their satisfaction, they will be heard from.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Minnesota syndicate wishes to develop power at Fort Frances and use more than half of it on the United States side of the line. The Ontario Ministers insist that at least half the power developed shall be used in Canada. That is not an unreasonable condition.

J. W. Flavelle, of Toronto, a prominent Conservative and a gentleman who advocates fairness and uprightness, has told a peculiar story about the Conservative campaign fund. There seemed to be barrels of clean money, but "Bob" Birmingham, their organizer, had to go on strike to get his pay shortly after the elections.—Ottawa Free Press.

On January 4th, for the first time the electors of the "Greater Peterborough" will vote to elect a Mayor and Council to legislate for the new municipality. There is a feeling that two representatives should be elected from the new fifth ward. There will be a number of important matters in connection with that part of the town to be dealt with by next year's council, and it is but fair that the new ward should have at least two men on the Board.

FAIR AT THE ROYAL CITY.

Increase of Paid Admissions as Compared With a Year Ago—Judging Completed —Farmers' Institute Workers.

Guelph, Dec. 11.—All the judging and awards were completed yesterday afternoon. The attendance was somewhat disappointing, having fallen off considerably over Wednesday. Altogether, however, the Fair has proven a better drawing card than last year. Tuesday, a year ago, $150 of paid admissions were received, as compared with $200 for the same day this year. Wednesday it was $555, as compared with $750 for the same day this year. Up to 6 o'clock Thursday evening $800 had been taken in. Last year for both day and night the amount received was $445, and the receipts last night were expected to be in excess of that total. The free admission list is very heavy, including several tickets for each exhibitor, therefore, the pay list is no measure of the real attendance at the Fair.

Increased Facilities.

Secretary Westervelt said after the board meeting of the exhibition yesterday that the finances of the Fair were in fine condition. He said the question of increased facilities was not discussed, and would not be until the regular annual meeting the latter part of January. He recognized the fact that the quarters were wholly inadequate, so rapidly had the enterprise grown. Mr. Westervelt said the greatest trouble was in finding space for the hog exhibits, and a suitable place for judging the animals. In cattle they were well fixed, since the space required had been taken from that allotted to the swine. This must now be remedied. The feed, too, was not properly housed, and that would have to be taken care of.

The manner in which visitors have been handled by the Civic Committee is the subject of much praise. Every visitor has been given comfortable accommodations at very reasonable rates.

Fat Stock Club Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Fat Stock Club was held in the city hall last night. In response to the various toasts, speeches were made by Mr. W. S. Spark, Canterbury, Eng., Hugh, Guthrie, M.P., J. P. Downey, M.P.P., J. J. Foy, M.P.P., Lieut.-Col. Macdonald of Guelph, J. Taylor, M.P.P. for Middlesex, Ald. J. M. Strathers, A. W. Smith, president of the Winter Fair Board, ex-Mayor R. M. Nelson, and Mr. Bright of Ontario County.

Arthur Johnston, president of the Cattle Breeders' Association, presented the cup donated by Ontario County for the sweepstakes in the cattle classes to James Leask of Ontario County. Mr. Leask has won this cup four successive years.

Farmers' Institute Workers.

A meeting of Farmers' Institute workers was held in the lecture room of the stock building. A dicussion took place on making the institute meetings more popular, after which John Campbell of Woodville, gave a lecture on the Requirements of a Sheep Pen. A Fleece of Wool was an interesting lecture by Col. David McCrae of Guelph. In the afternoon Prof. G. E. Day of the O.A.C., gave an address on How to Feed Bacon Hogs for Market. Requirements of a Hog Pen was the subject Mr. J. E. Brethour made luminous. Mr. W. S. Spark of Canterbury, England, spoke on the Breeding and Care of Heavy Draught Horses, and in the evening the room was crowded to hear the address of Prof. J. H. Grisdale on the Selection of the Breeding Sow and Stock Boar.

DANGEROUS SURGERY,

Pyramid Pile Cure Cures Piles Quickly, Painlessly, Without Danger.

People go along for years suffering with piles. They try this and that and the other thing from carrying a buckeye to getting treatment from a physician. They obtain temporary relief, maybe, but they are never quite cured. A little strain in lifting, excessive fatigue, a little constipation or a little diarrhoea and the piles come back.

They don't seem to amount to much, but they banish sleep and appetite. No position is comfortable. There is intense local pain and that dreadful feeling of weight in the perineum.

Maybe in the early stages some of the many salves on sale will afford temporary relief. If the case is of long standing there is only one speedy and sure remedy. It is Pyramid Pile Cure. Even in light cases it is the safest thing to use. Other applications may cure and may not. Pyramid Cure is always certain, always reliable, always brings comfort at once. Its prompt use saves months of severe suffering. In extreme cases it will save surgical operations, and their attendant dangers and discomforts. It is better than a [illegible]. Will cure easier, quicker and [illegible]. Thousands have used it. Thousands have been cured by it. The cost is trifling compared with what it does. The price is 50 cents. Most anybody would gladly pay ten dollars to be rid of piles.

All druggists sell Pyramid Pile Cure. Write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their book on Causes and Cure of Piles, which is sent free for the asking.

Last of the Season.

Port Colborne, Dec. 11.—The steamer Arabian, from Fort William to Kingston, with a cargo of wheat, passed down the canal yesterday afternoon. She is the last boat expected to pass through the canal this season, and navigation may now be considered closed.

JAPANESE RESTIVE

Irritated at Cabinet's Domestic and Foreign Policies.

THE MINISTERS IMPEACHED

Reply to the Emperor's Speech From the Throne Was Almost Immediately Formulated and Was Rushed Through the House With Unusual Expedition—Diet Appealed to His Majesty to Review Situation.

Tokio, Dec. 11.—The Emperor opened the Diet yesterday. The speech from the throne, according to the custom, was delivered in the Upper House, and was as follows:

"My Lords and gentlemen, it gives us profound cause for rejoicing that the friendly relations between our Empire and other powers ever continue to grow.

"As regards negotiations concerning the important diplomatic matter of maintaining peace in the Orient and of our rights, we have instructed our Ministers abroad carefully to attend to their duties.

"We have furthermore instructed the members of our Cabinet to formulate a financial scheme to introduce with other bills.

"You are required to discharge your duties and meet our wishes by careful and harmonious discussions.

"Our solicitude for the progress of the Empire dictates this reply, which represents the aspirations and expectations of the nation."

Situation Extremely Critical.

The situation is regarded as extremely critical and is likely to involve the prorogation, if not the dissolution of the Parliament.

The brevity of the allusion by the Emperor to the crisis in the Far East caused much disappointment. Soon after the speech from the throne was delivered in the Upper House, the House of Representatives met for the purpose of considering a reply. The reply was almost immediately formulated and was rushed through the House with unusual expedition. It was as follows:

"Your Majesty has been gracious enough to personally open the Diet and to deliver a cordial message, which the House has received with great gratitude.

Empire at Its Zenith.

"The Empire of Japan is now at its zenith. Its position is one unparalleled in the last thousand years. The members of the House of Representatives profoundly regret that at a juncture so critical, involving the fate of the nation, the course pursued by the Cabinet is ill-adapted to the needs of the situation and inconsistent with the enhancement of our national influence. The policy of the Ministry has been shown to be incompatible with the progress of the Empire, and to be purely domestic and temporarily domestic.

"The diplomacy of the Cabinet is a failure, and we humbly appeal to Your Majesty to review the situation.

THE TONE PACIFIC.

Russian Press Says "A Settlement Will Be Reached Which Will Not Hurt Japan's Pride."

St. Petersburg, Dec. 11.—The tone of the papers here continues pacific. The Novoe Vremya saying that in spite of the alarming reports from the east "a settlement will be reached which will not hurt Japan's pride."

The despatch from Tokio yesterday announcing that a Russian squadron of eight ships had arrived off Chemulpo, Corea, to support Russia's opposition to the proposed opening of Yongampho, on the Yalu River, to the commerce of the world, and that the Russians threatened to land 8,000 men and march on Seoul should Corea disregard their warning, is utterly discredited here. The Foreign Office has no confirmation of the report and is inclined to class it with other sensational rumors from the Far East.

No word has yet been received from Baron De Rosen, the Russian Minister to Japanese, or Admiral Alexieff, who are exchanging views on the modifications; but it is expected that this will not require more than a few days. When the formal reply is sent to Japan, it may be that Baron de Rosen and Admiral Alexieff will decide not to submit matters informally to the Japanese negotiators?

The Czar Approves.

Paris, Dec. 11.—Definite information has been received here that the Czar has signified his approval of the general conditions preliminary to a Russo-Japanese agreement. Information shows them to be on the same general line as the peace negotiations.

Rear End Collision.

London, Dec. 11.—A rear-end collision on the G.T.R. at Komoka occurred early yesterday morning. The Windsor accommodation ran into the tail end of the Sarnia way freight, badly damaging the engine and the caboose and one box car. The caboose and car were completely burned. Beyond a few scratches received by Engineer Henry Crouch of the accommodation, nobody was hurt. The damage will amount to about $2,500.

Somalis Mutiny.

Aden, Arabia, Dec. 11.—It is reported here that the Somalilovies raised by the British in East Africa have mutined and joined the forces of the so-called Mad Mullah.

Atlas Loan Investigation.

St. Thomas, Dec. 11.—The Atlas Loan investigation was concluded yesterday afternoon, all the claims having been looked into. Argument will take place in Toronto.

Chattel Mortgages.

A man who gives a chattel mortgage should always examine it carefully to make sure it is not "on demand." Sharp money lenders who loan funds on chattel mortgages often try to have this clause inserted, and when it is the borrower may expect to part with his chattels at almost any moment. It is a trick by which advantage is often taken of the unwary.

TALK IS OF CANADA

High Commissioner Booms Our Wheat-Growing Capacity.

MR. ASQUITH'S DEPRECATION

Lord Strathcona's Speech at Banquet of London Chamber of Commerce—Sir Frederick Borden Interviewed in London—Says Canadian Ministers Had No Intention of Obtruding Their Views on Preference.

London, Dec. 11.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Strathcona, presiding at a dinner of the London Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, said that on the very fringe of the wheat-growing district of Canada 40,000 farmers were able to produce 16,000,000 bushels of wheat and quite as much other grain. Canada had enough to make her all England had become and more.

Hon. Thomas Brassey said one-fifth of the cultivatable land of Manitoba would produce all the wheat England required. The Canadian manufacturers had decided that the Canadian tariff should be remodelled with a view to giving a more effective preference to the Motherland.

J. Walton, M.P., said the Government could best promote prosperity in Canada by showing emigrants the superior opportunities offered by Canada over the United States. The cost of transportation from England to Canada should be lessened and a quick steamship line established. He suggested that an Empire exhibition be held in Canada.

H. Irving said that from the Atlantic to the Pacific Canada was solid for the proposals of Mr. Chamberlain. The Empire was quite self-sustaining, and why should our trade be given away to foreigners?

Mr. Asquith's View.

Henry Asquith, speaking at Bradford yesterday, said there was not the slightest chance within a measurably brief period that the Empire would supply its own wheat. Canada exported three and a half million quarters, and we need 26,000,000 bushels. The preferential duty of two shillings to Canadian wheat would increase Canada's population four-fold. Canada's offer shut out any prospect of a preference on things Canada could supply herself. To transfer the source of our food supply from without to within the Empire would be fraught with danger.

Borden and Sifton.

Sir Frederick Borden, interviewed by London papers regarding Mr. Sifton's speech, said neither the Canadian Government nor any of its Ministers had any intention of obtruding their views on the question of the preferential tariff. He had seen nothing in Mr. Sifton's speech that could be construed as anti-Chamberlain.

Is Empire in Danger?

The Manchester Courier, in an article headed "Is the Empire in Danger?" says: "Why disguise from ourselves the fact that in every colony there is not only a free trade party, but also a party for the disruption of the Empire, a party that stands for independence and the cutting of the painter, a party that thinks England and the colonies would be better apart. The party for annexation is dormant in Canada owing to the awakening of the Imperial spirit, but let the tariff wall much longer and Canada will conclude special commercial treaties with the United States."

ACTIONS SPOKE LOUDLY.

Alleged Jewelry Smuggler Imbibed Freely and Told Secret.

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 11.—Special Officer Chas. A. Bailey arrested Dr. William James Cavanaugh and locked him up in jail on suspicion of smuggling two thousand dollars' worth of jewels. Cavanaugh has been staying at the Bellchamber Hotel, Sarnia, and came to this city Wednesday afternoon, when, it is alleged, he began to imbibe and became so extravagant in his remarks that he gave himself away by producing a quantity of jewels. Officer Bailey, fearing the young man was in illegal possession of the property, took him in custody. When searched at police headquarters the jewelry, which formed a very valuable collection, was found on Cavanaugh's person.

Cashier Noble Acquitted.

Hamilton, Dec. 11.—"Not guilty" was the verdict the jurors brought in, in the case of John W. Noble of the Canadian Express Company. Until last August, when a $2,000 package was missed, Noble was employed as cashier by the company. He had worked 24 years for the company, working his way up from driver to chief clerk. Noble went into the box in his own defence. He admitted that he had got $2,000 from the Federal Life Insurance Company to forward to San Francisco and had held the money from June 5 to June 10, to get American bills for the amount. He could not account for the disappearance of the money. It was lying on the counter in his cage the last time he saw it. He thought it must have been stolen, way-bills and all, from the desk. During the last three or four years he had handled from $4,000 to $10,000 daily.

MR. CHARLTON AT BOSTON.

Delivers a Forceful Address on the Subject of Reciprocity.

Boston, Dec. 11.—A forceful address upon the subject of "Reciprocity With Canada" was delivered before the Boston Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon by John Charlton, member of the Canadian Parliament.

In his address he said that free trade between the United States and Canada was desirable for the same reasons which made free trade desirable between the different states of the Union.

If the United States granted no more liberal tariff provisions, the Canadian tariff would be advanced.

While a feeling of loyalty to Great Britain, and of soreness toward the United States over unfair tariff treatment, predisposed Canada in favor of the Chamberlain preference, a close scrutiny of the situation revealed vastly greater advantages to be obtained from reciprocity with the United States. Reciprocity would mean a greater preference than the one offered by Chamberlain. It must necessarily be confined to natural products. Canada's free list to the United States last year amounted to $69,485,000, including manufactures to the value of 23,000,000. The United States free list to Canada was practically nil. Canada was buying two dollars' worth of goods in the States for every dollar's worth of sales. Canada, Mr. Charlton said, has arrived at the parting of the ways.

One in Four Persons.

One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles. Some do not know the nature of their ailment and others have never heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease. If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

Getting Rid of the Acid.

An exploring expedition in a remote part of China had a queer experience, which one of the party thus relates: "A large bottle of carbolic acid had been broken inside its wooden case. We exhausted our ingenuity in hopeless effort to unscrew the cover. We feared to carry it farther, as the burning tears distilled by it destroyed everything they touched. We dared not throw it aside lest the unsophisticated heathen should drink it as a cheering or medicinal beverage. We had no time to wait and empty it, as the fatal fluid would only trickle drop by drop through a chink which had been cautiously and laboriously excavated with a blunt hunting knife. What were we to do? Degrading as the confession must appear, we had to deposit the torpedo in the middle of the yard and throw bricks at it until it was smashed."

Opals of Various Degrees.

There are several varieties of opals and therefore several degrees of merit. The precious or noble or oriental opal is the supreme. This has all the colors, and when these colors are broken into spangles it is then called the harlequin opal. Then comes the fire opal, or girasole, with hyacinth red and yellow reflection. The former comes from Hungary and the latter from Mexico. The common, or semi-opals, are nonopalescent. The hydrophane, or oculus mundi, is nontransparent, but becomes so by immersion in water or any transparent fluid. The cachalong is nearly opaque and of a bluish white color. The hyalite is colorless, pellucid and white. The opal jasper, or wood opal, is the petrifaction of wood, opalescent, but without the coloring which makes the "noble" gem so precious.

TORONTO JUNCTION LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were 48 carloads, consisting of 881 cattle, 63 sheep, 8 calves and 3 horses.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Dec. 10.—About 150 head of cattle and 20 sheep, but no calves or lambs, were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. Not many butchers came out, as there were no electric cars running on Frontenac-street. Very little trading was done, as there were only common stock on the market, and these were held at higher rates than such cattle have been bringing for some months past, and it is expected that the snow blockade will hinder many cattle coming for the next week. The sheep on the market were culls from yesterday's market, and sold at from 3½c to 3c per lb. Fat hogs continue to sell at about 4¾c to 5c per lb. About 20 milch cows and springers were brought to the market yesterday, but there seemed to be little demand for them. Sales were made at from $25 to $55 each.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; active and firm; lambs, $4.90 to $5.00; yearlings, $4.25 to $4.50; wethers, $4 to $4.25; ewes, $3.60 to $3.85; sheep, mixed, $3.50 to $3.75.

U.S. Crop Bulletin.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Returns to the chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture indicate that the newly seeded area of winter wheat is about 32,000,000 acres, a decrease of 6 per cent. from the area estimated to have been in the fall of 1902. The newly seeded area of winter rye is provisionally estimated at 98.0 per cent. of the area sown in the fall of 1902.

The Real Effort.

"It is very hard," said the girl with the new suit, "for a girl not to appear to be trying to attract attention."

"It is a great deal harder," asserts the girl with the red trimmed hat, "for her to attract attention and give the appearance of not trying to make an effort to have it appear that she is not trying to attract attention."

Just Laugh.

As the pen is sometimes mightier than the sword, so the laugh is on occasion as powerful as in eloquence the spoken word.

"There are many different kinds of conversational accomplishments," remarked a man well up in the ways of the world, "and I have paid due attention to the cultivation of such as lie within my range. Great is language—great, indeed—and beautiful withal. Next to my limited ability with words, however, I rank my faculty of using the smile or the laugh, as the case may be.

"I don't mean pleasantry and mirth, as domestic social graces, but as defensive business artillery. Of course a man's first impulse when another misguided man makes a palpable move to 'do him up' or asks some unreasonable and preposterous business favor is to enter on wordy opposition, strenuous naturally and perhaps violent. This, I have learned, is waste of nervous force and allows argument on the part of the unfriendly man who is trying to make the touch. The stronger weapon is to laugh—just laugh. Utter not a word, no matter how much the other may say, but just keep on laughing. I've routed many deep laid, dishonest schemes with a good, hearty laugh. Try it."

Smelling Out Bank Bills.

If a bill must be sent in a letter the safest plan is to roll it tightly into the shape of a lamp lighter and lay it in the fold of the sheet inclosed. Arranged in that fashion, the fact that it is money cannot well be distinguished by the "feel." A thread with a knot at the end will not be so likely to fetch a telltale fragment of the fiber paper when drawn by means of a needle through the envelope, and the smell of it will be less perceptible. So peculiar is the effluvium belonging to bank or treasury notes that experts at the bureau of engraving say that they can distinguish them when sealed in envelopes by the nose every time. A thief once showed to government detectives who had caught him that he could pick out while blindfolded from a pile of 400 letters every one of seven which contained paper cash merely by scent.

An English Election Experience.

An Englishman relates the following election experience: "I was taking part in canvassing a constituency without a representative. I was announced as a speaker at a mass meeting held in a large field within shadow distance of a famous cathedral. One of the other orators delivered the most impressive speech I have ever heard. He spoke of the struggle of the poor, how they had to bear their burden. He made me almost cry by his eloquence. He talked about his own little home, which he only just managed to keep together by 'the sweat of his brow.' 'Who is he?' I asked. 'Well,' replied my friend, the candidate, 'he is known in his own town as "Popshop Dick" because he is a prosperous pawnbroker.'"

Sweetheart Abbey.

There is in Galloway, Scotland, an ancient ruin known as Sweetheart abbey. Within its ivy covered, storm battered walls lies buried the affectionate and devoted Devorgill, with the heart of her husband, John Baliol, embalmed upon her breast. Lovely in their lives, in death they are not divided. The crumbling masonry is still and must ever be a romance in its symbols of death and decay, telling every day, as it has for 600 years, the thrilling story of a woman's tender love and devotion.

The Sudanese Baby.

A Sudanese baby when dressed up in its best clothes is probably the most uncomfortable infant in the world. The coat or outer garment which fashion dictates should be worn reaches to its very heels. It is of heavy velvet, hanging in many folds. This in turn is adorned with countless buttons and bangles of brass, considerably adding to its weight. Its cap in turn is of the same material, similarly decorated and doubtless equally uncomfortable.

FIFTH WARD ELECTORS MAY VOTE ON BY-LAW.

To Raise $10.000 With Which to Purchase Hilliard Farm.

Qualifications Necessary in Those who Vote on January 4th—Freeholders and Leaseholders who pay Taxes.

The vote to be taken on January 4th, by the ratepayers on the bylaw to raise $10,000 with which to purchase the Hilliard Farm, the proposal of Ald. Rush, it should be remembered, will be taken both in Ashburnham and Peterborough. The Act making the union of the towns a fact, comes into effect on January 1st, so that when the vote is taken, Ashburnham will be a part of Peterborough, and the ratepayers will be entitled to vote on this question.

As there appears to be some little misunderstanding on this matter, it has been thought well to mention the fact particularly and to state that all in Ashburnham who were eligible to vote on the union will be also eligible to vote on the bylaw. In order that it may be thoroughly understood, the sections in the Consolidated Municipal Act, designating those who may vote on bylaws are quoted below;—

"Every ratepayer, being a man, an unmarried woman or a widow, shall be entitled to vote on any bylaw for contracting a debt, which requires the assent of the electors, who at the time of tender of the vote, is of the full age of twenty-one years, and a natural born or naturalized subject of His Majesty, and who has neither directly or indirectly received, nor is in anticipation of receiving, any reward or gift for the vote so tendered, and who is at the time of the tender a freeholder, in his own or her own rights or (if a man) whose wife is a freeholder of free property, within the municipality of sufficient value to entitle him to vote at any municipal election, and is rated on the last revised assessment roll as such freeholder, provided such person is named, or intended to be named in the voters list.

Referring to lease holders who may also vote on such bylaws, the Act says:

Every ratepayer shall be entitled to vote on any bylaw for contracting a debt, which requires the assent of the electors, who is a man, an unmarried woman, or a widow, and is named, or intended to be named in the voters' list, and at the time of the tender of the vote, is of the full age of twenty-one years, and a natural born or naturalized subject of His Majesty, and who has neither directly nor indirectly, received, nor is in expectation of receiving, any reward or gifts for the vote so tendered, and is a resident within the municipality for which the vote is taken for one month next before the vote, and who is, or whose wife is, a leaseholder within the municipality of sufficient value to entitle him to vote at a municipal election, and who is rated on the last revised assessment roll therefor, provided he has in his lease covenated to pay all municipal taxes in respect of the property leased (other than taxes assessed for local improvements), and providing the lease extends for the period of time within which the debt is to be contracted on the money to be raised by the bylaw is made payable."

It will be seen clearly by the above paragraphs who are entitled to vote on this bylaw.

A Special Favour.

Messrs. Frost & Co. telephone us just as we go to press, asking us to say that they will take it as a mark of great favour if those of our readers who propose visiting "Diamond Hall" to inspect this year's Christmas stock will do so as early as possible. Mr. Frost assures us that this season's selections are altogether the richest his firm has ever shown in Peterborough. Every reader of the Examiner knows what rare taste Frost & Co. display at all times in the choice of goods for their trade and to say that this year is better than ever certainly means much indeed. Just take a peep at Frost's window; did you ever see anything more dainty in Toronto? Step inside the store—well we think you'll wonder how it is possible for a firm to handle such a magnificent line of goods in a town like this. Frost & Co no doubt mean to give people no reason for going to the city to buy. 1d

MRS. JOHN ENGLISH, OF LAKEFIELD, DEAD

Demise Occurred Early This Morning in Town.

The death of Mrs. John English occurred this morning about 4 o'clock from heart failure, with which ailment she has been troubled for the past two years. Of late she was confined to the Nicholls Hospital, but on Saturday her condition was so promising that she left the hospital with her doctor's consent, and stayed with her daughter, Mrs. George Manning, at 625 Water Street. The late Mrs. English expected to return to her home to-morrow, but last night she had a relapse from which she never recovered. During her stay with her daughter the deceased constantly referred to the sympathetic care and tender treatment she received at the Nicholls Hospital. She was of a quiet and unassuming disposition and a sincere member and regular communicant of the Church of England. In Lakefield she was highly esteemed and her loss will be sincerely regretted in that village, where also she will be buried. Besides a sorrowing husband she leaves three children,—Mrs. George Manning, town; Mrs. A. H. Melgrove and Robert V. English, of Carmen, Man.

SONS OF ENGLAND GIVE A TEA AND CONCERT.

Delightful Affair Last Night in the S. O. E. Hall.

An Interesting Address by Supreme Grand Lodge Representative—The Programme.

There was a very large attendance at the fowl supper and concert given last night in the Sons of England Hall, by Lansdowne Lodge, No. 35, and the event was highly successful. At the conclusion of a very enjoyable supper, an interesting programme was rendered.

The concert was opened by an instrumental solo, by Miss M. Brown, whose selection was highly appreciated. The president of the Society, who occupied the chair, next called upon Bro. Broxall, of Lindsay, the Supreme Grand Lodge Representative for the Peterborough District for an address.

After expressing his pleasure at seeing so large an audience, Mr. Broxall continued by remarking that the Supreme Grand Lodge, which he was representing was made up of members from the subordinate lodges of the Society. The strength of a grand body depends on the capability of the representatives sent to the Supreme Grand Lodge in their interests. A good man acquainted with routine work, which generally takes two years to master, will materially strengthen the body. It must be remembered that men have to contest with the best representatives of the other lodges of the Dominion. Our Lodges, he continued, are composed of members through whose veins courses English blood. Beyond this the Society has an aim, and that aim is good, especially for the man whose veins contain good English blood, and also for his wife and children. "Other societies," he remarked, "take in men of all nationalities." However, blood is thicker than water, and we love one of our own countrymen before one of a different origin.

The speaker continued with a short history of the order. In 1874, he said, when money was scarce, and times hard, seven Englishmen in the city of Toronto, who felt that their countrymen were being pushed aside, met in a little log cabin and organized a society exclusively for Englishmen. That little society had increased and increased, until at the last grand lodge a membership of 14,500 was boasted, which was distributed among 252 different lodges scattered far and wide over the broad Dominion of Canada. This means that from the blue Atlantic to the broad Pacific there are 252 homes with their doors open wide, ready to welcome any Englishman. Just as soon as we know an Englishman, continued Mr. Broxall, we pick him out and ask him if he would like to join our Order. If he consents, then he is entitled to all the priviledges of the Society, which insures his wife and family. The Society has had its difficulties, its trials and tribulations, but without these it would not have been on the substantial foundation on which it now stands. In 1902 the Society spent $25,858 on sick benefits, and $17,588 for doctors' fees and after this expenditure the different lodges had a surplus of $75,000. Among our ranks have been some of the best men of the country, not necessarily from the "dollar" stand point of view, but from the manly side of vision. In the last 9 months no less than 2,000 new members have been initiated, while the total membership amounts to over 17,000 Englishmen. As the membership increases so does the revenue augment.

Addressing the ladies the speaker exhorted them to urge every Englishman they knew to join the Order, for it would be to the benefit of the wives of such men.

In conclusion Mr. Broxall thanked the audience for its attentiveness.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

A Most Interesting Course of Lectures This Year.

The course of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club this year, will, when completed be of a variety exceeding that of any previous year. Already there have been two lectures of a scientific nature, and to-night Dean Rigby, who is spoken of as a very entertaining lecture will give his view of the life and career of Sheridan, and in February Professor McLennan of Toronto University will lecture on "Radium," of which he has made a special study. Through the munificence of Mr. McKenzie he has been able to secure a small amount of Radium, which is about as hard to get as the "Philosopher's Stone" and about as valuable.

No doubt a large audience will listen to Dean Rigby in his lecture to-night.

The plan for the Verdi Night concert, which will be given by the 57th Regimental Band, will open at Edmison's drug store on Dec. 15th at 10 o'clock. Soloists Mrs. E. Beardly-Wilmot and Miss Helen Davies. Miss Alice Roger, accompanists.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY MEETING.

Annual Gathering Held This Afternoon in the Council Chamber.

Reports of Secretary and Agents Were Presented—Excellent Work of the Society Reviewed.

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held this afternoon at four o'clock in the town council chamber, when the reports of the work accomplished by the Society during the year were presented. Mr. J. J. McBain, the president, was chairman of the meeting, which was attended by a number of citizens interested in this work.

To the President, Officers and Members of the Children's Aid Society of the Town and County of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have much pleasure in presenting the Secretary's report for the past year and is giving an outline of the work which has been done by the Society.

In the first place it is our duty to express warm and cordial thanks to the County Council and to the Town Council for continued interest in the work, and cheerful contributions to our finances. Our officers have had no difficulty in persuading the municipal authorities to renew the grants made in former years, and it has been with pleasure we have heard words of commendation in recognition of useful services performed for the municipalities.

We are also indebted to the general public for kind assistance which has been rendered in many ways. Subscriptions of money have come in from the most unexpected sources, and much good has been accomplished and pleasure given to helpless children through the kindness of these voluntary patrons. To the ladies of the town much is due. They have contributed from their stores of cast-off clothing for the children, and have, on several occasions, gathered at the Shelter to hold sewing meetings, at which warm new clothing has been made without which the work of the Society could not be properly carried on.

Several organizations and associations have sent us money, which has been collected in an undenominational way, and we take a good deal of satisfaction in feeling that ours is perhaps the only strictly undenominational work which is being carried on in the community, and appeals to all nationalities and creeds alike, and is able to offer a splendid machinery for child-saving, which can be reached through no other channel.

The following is a reference to a few of the cases which have come under our notice since the last annual meeting:

1. The S—— family.—In January last the mother of these children was convicted of prostitution, and sentenced to jail. The father was absent from town. The children, two girls and a boy, were taken into the Shelter under order of the magistrate. These were very fine children, as an examination of their photographs will show. They have been placed out in good homes.

2. The Syrian case.—A Syrian was found in the public street with an infant a few weeks old. The child's face was frozen, and it was suffering from pneumonia. The Society took possession of the child, provided it with a nurse and medical attendance, and prosecuted the father in the police court. The child was afterwards returned to its mother, much improved, when the latter came forward. It is a very difficult matter for our Society to deal with very small infants. We are not able to take them into the Shelter, as our Matron cannot devote her time to children of very tender years, as may be well understood.

3. The Burleigh case.—Two boys were brought before the Magistrate on a charge of theft. The Society intervened, and persuaded the authorities to abandon the charge, which they did upon the condition that the children should be made over to the Society, and dealt with in the usual way. This was done and the boys were taken from the back country and placed with prosperous farmers where they have plenty of chopping work. The Government visitor reports both doing well, and no charge whatsoever is brought against their characters.

4. Penitent parents.—There is a group of three cases relating to five children, which appears next in our records. In these cases the parents came before the Magistrate and declared they could no longer keep their children in order, and the Magistrate, in some cases, ordered the transfer of the children to the Society. The parents, in each of these cases, when they found that they had really lost their children, made pitiful appeals to have the children restored, and the incorrigible children, realizing that their badness had at last culminated in catastrophy, promised most humbly to reform, if allowed another chance. The Society, after ascertaining that these homes were in reality not bad, but simply unhappy, permitted the children to return to their parents, as wards of the Society, and so far no complaint has reached our ears, and we hope both parents and children are the better for the lesson they have received.

5. The M—— Case.—This is one of the saddest cases we have had to deal with. The father and mother, both very respectable, and formerly well-to do people, became completely under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Their case has been referred to in previous reports. On several occasions we took the younger children into the Shelter, and summoned the parents before the Magistrate, when their heart-felt promises of reformation, induced us to relinquish our claims upon the children. No less than three different clergymen at different times, undertook the supervision of this family in the hope of restoring the home to a normal condition, but without success, and the Society has been obliged to take over three of the children, one of whom has been well placed, and the other two will be placed shortly in suitable homes.

The township of Belmont has contributed a number of children rescued from deplorable conditions. From reports that reach us, it will be necessary for further action to be taken by the Society in this township, and it is hoped that the society will receive the co-operation of the inhabitants of that part of the country in its efforts to raise the moral tone, which in some sections has fallen very low.

There are now several children in the Shelter for whom we will be glad to receive applications. They are apparently all strong and healthy, and mentally bright. Our members should endeavour to make known as widely as possible the terms and conditions upon which the children are sent out. They are the simplest in the world, and are contained in the following sentence: "A foster-parent may return the child at any time."

Surely under conditions as broad as these, no one need hesitate to make the harmless experiment of giving a home to a homeless child.

During the past year there have been several amendments to the law which concern our work, to which I will briefly allude. In the first place there is now appointed by the County Judge, the Sheriff and the Warden, a committee of six persons, half of whom shall be women, for each electoral district, known as the Children's Committee, and each member of this Committee may be known as a Children's Agent. The following persons have been appointed for the East and West Ridings of the County of Peterborough:

For West Riding — Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., Provincial Secretary; Mrs. Stratton; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duff, Lakefield; Mrs. W. B. Kelly, Bridgenorth; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw, Harvey, Lakehurst P.O.; Mrs. Nathan Crowe Harvey, Bobcaygeon P.O.; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Johnston, Monaghan, Peterborough P.O.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Max. Dennistoun, Peterborough.

For East Peterborough — Wm. Anderson, Esq., M.P.P., Otonabee, Peterborough P.O.; Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn, Douro, Peterborough P.O.; Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Shaw, Keene; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob White, Dummer, Warsaw P.O.; Mr. W. B. Ritchie, Havelock; Mrs. F. Hague, Havelock; Mr. Edward Fennell, Havelock; Mrs. Justin Alley, Belmont, Rush Point P.O.

It is the duty of the members of these committees to assist in our work by improving, where possible, the condition of neglected and dependent children, by the careful selection of foster homes, and by the visitation of children placed in selected families when specially requested. The members of the committee hold office for three years, and it is laid down in the statute that they shall aim at promoting and encouraging a philanthropic sentiment on behalf of neglected, abandoned and destitute children and adopt such methods as they may think best for securing the voluntary subscriptions of money to be devoted to the effective carrying out of the objects of this act.

It is provided that the committee shall meet at least twice each year, and they shall also, from time to time, report to the Children's Aid Society of their county with reference to neglected or dependent children. The committee is under the immediate supervision of the Superintendent of neglected and dependent children, Mr. J. J. Kelso, the very efficient departmental officer in charge of this branch of the work.

I suggest that we ask the Children's Committee to hold at least one of their meetings in conjunction with our society, and have written to Mr. Kelso, suggesting that this should be done, and that the Children's Committee should join with us every year when our annual meeting is being held.

Further improvements in the law relating to children are contained in the same statute. It is now provided that a child under fourteen years of age shall be received by the sheriff into the gaol, while awaiting trial, but that he is to be admitted to bail if possible, and if he cannot be admitted to bail, the sheriff must place him with some association or individual possessing facilities for the safe keeping and proper care of children until the case is disposed of, and any expenses thus incurred shall be charged upon the municipality.

As counsel for the society, I have attended the trial of all juvenile offenders, and have seen that the provisions relating to the children's court have been carried out. Mr. Dumble, K.C., and Mr. Edmison, K.C., have rendered every assistance in the work, and the thanks of the society are due them, and to the police force for many favours.

In conclusion, I bear once more, very hearty testimony to the efficiency of Mr. Cochrane as agent of the society. He has carried upon his shoulders, practically the whole burden of the work. The shelter has given every satisfaction under the careful management of Mrs. Henry.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. M. DENNISTOUN,
Secretary.

The report of Mr. Geo. Cochrane, the indefatigable assistant secretary and agent, was also presented. The report along with a much more complete account of the meeting will appear in to-morrow's issue of the Examiner.

—A horse belonging to Mr. Robt. Leary, while being driven at noon on McDonel street, took fright and ran away, throwing the driver and another occupant out. The driver received a nasty cut over the eye, but was otherwise uninjured. The animal ran on up McDonel street, but was stopped before much damage was done to the sleigh.

HOCKEY.

The first practice of the hockey team was held last night at the Brock street rink. It was more of the nature of the players getting their "sea legs" than anything else, as the ice was a little rough for regular practice. Four of the senior men were out, Roy Armstrong, Fred Whitcroft, Will Cavanah and Ed. Howell. Three of the junior men were also on the ice, Kennedy, Cameron and McFarlane.

From what can be learned by the showing the boys made last night, the team to represent Peterborough this season will be by no means "easy" for its opponents.

A further scratch practice will be held to-night, for the purpose of cutting the ice down for skating.

The O.H.A. Executive met last evening, and arranged the grouping of the teams. The teams in the group with Peterborough are Port Hope, Belleville, Peterborough, Picton and Cobourg. Convenor, J. T[illegible]ach, of Belleville. Meet at Belleville.

As the time for the annual meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League approaches, applications for membership in the League continues to be received by the secretary, Mr. E. S. Clarry. This afternoon a telephone message was received from Napanee making application for membership on behalf of that club, and stating that the club would have delegates at the annual meeting to-morrow. This makes five new clubs along the front, viz.: Napanee, Picton, Trenton, Brighton and Colborne, and probably Warkworth. The League now extends from Fenelon Falls on the North-west to Napanee on the South-east, and including nearly all the towns between these two points.

The meeting will be held to-morrow at nine o'clock, at which hour it is expected that all delegates will report.

BREAKING RECORDS

Enormous Prices Brought at Provincial Timber Sale.

BIDDING KEEN AND SPIRITED

Over Three and a Half Million Dollars Obtained For the Province—Highest Price Paid For a Single North Was $31,500 Per Square Mile—$4,450 Was the Average of the Day's Sales—The Purchasers

Toronto, Dec. 10.—All previous records were broken by the sales of timber limits held in the Legislative Chamber at the Parliament buildings yesterday. The 826 square miles of limits sold at $3,677,357.50, the average price per mile being $4,450. The largest amount realized at a previous sale was $2,315,000 on Oct. 18, 1899, when 633 miles were sold at an average price of $3,657.18.

The record for highest price per mile was made yesterday, when T. Mackie, M.P., secured berth No. 5, Hammell Township, in the Nipissing district, three and one-quarter miles, at the rate of $31,500 per mile. The highest previous price per mile was $17,500 bid at the 1899 sale. The total receipts from yesterday's sale will not represent the total return to the Province, for the increase in dues and ground rents will be a source of additional revenue.

Minneapolis Bidders.

Hon. E. J. Davis, speaking after the sale, said that his most sanguine hopes had placed the probable receipts at between $2,250,000 and $2,500,000. One of the important factors in the high prices was the American competition, particularly in the Rainy River district. In this part Mr. T. H. Shevlin of Minneapolis was the principal purchaser. He represented the Backus syndicate, which has obtained the water power at Fort Frances and has just completed a large saw mill at Rainy River.

In the eastern limits the berths went almost exclusively to Canadians.

One of the important factors in the high prices obtained in Nipissing, Mr. Davis said, was the building of the T. & N. O. Railway, which placed the timber so close to a market. That the railway had practically paid for itself in the increased value of the timber, was the opinion of Mr. Milton Carr, M.P.P. for Parry Sound. The bidding was so rapid and spirited that although it was thought that the sale could not be concluded before 6 o'clock the last berth was disposed of at 4.45 o'clock.

Legislative Chamber Crowded.

The Legislative Chamber building was crowded when the sale began. The lumbermen sat at the members' desks and presented the appearance of a well-filled House on the occasion of an important division. The auctioneer, Mr. Peter Ryan commenced reading the conditions of the sale at 1.05 o'clock. His preliminary remarks were brief and to the point: "Monarchs of the lumber trade, I am pleased to see you here to-day; your presence heightens the confidence you have in the rising values of these coniferous properties. There is no business in Canada or elsewhere that presents such encouraging opportunities as the lumber trade, no business where so few failures have to be recorded. It is unnecessary for me to tell you that from time to time we hear that the value of pine seems to have reached its limit, but it still keeps on increasing. It was said twenty years ago, that the price was too high, but we know that it is higher now."

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Cupid and the Cash Carrier

By BENNET MUSSON

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Through the great dry goods house of Chase, Remington, Bentley & Co. ranged the usual throng of shoppers—eager faced women and bewildered looking men. In the rear of the store Mr. William L. Remington, the sole survivor of the original firm, sat at a roll top desk in his private office.

Dignified, gray haired and sedate was Mr. Remington, and he looked thoughtful as he leaned back in his revolving chair and tapped the edge of his desk with a square envelope of rough blue paper. The envelope contained an invitation to a reception to be given by Mrs. Eleanor Chase, the widow of one of the former partners of the house and a society woman.

Mr. Remington was not a society man, and it was of his son Jack, aged twenty-two, that he thought as he fingered the envelope and of Eleanor Chase's daughter Nancy.

He rose, opened a door which led into the main part of the store and, threading the maze of aisles, made his way to the silk counter. There stood Jack, who was working his way through the various departments of the business, devoting the charms of his personality to the display of a roll of silk to one of a crowd of well dressed women.

Mr. Remington looked on approvingly as his handsome son concluded negotiations with the woman, took a bill from her and, inclosing it in a little nickel plated case, placed it in the receptacle of the cash carrier. He pulled a cord, and the box shot up till it reached the narrow lines of metal, whence it was whisked with business-like precision to the eyrie of the cashier.

As Jack turned to another customer his father waited; then, recognising the purchaser of the silk, he stepped forward and engaged her in conversation.

Presently the nickel plated case shot back over the carrier and dropped with an assertive click into its receptacle. Mr. Remington released it, relieved it of its contents and, with a brief "I'll give Mrs. Weldren her change, Jack," which received an answering nod from the young man, handed the money to the woman.

But Remington senior did not give her all that the case contained. He withheld a small piece of folded white paper, which he regarded idly for a moment, then opened. Written across it in hastily formed characters were the words:

"It is an age till tomorrow night, dearest!"

The old gentleman held the paper nearer to his eyes and read the message again. Then he looked at his son, who was talking animatedly. Then he refolded the paper carefully, placed it in his vest pocket and walked slowly away. He went to another part of the store, from which he could get a view of the cashier's post, and looked up.

There among the converging wires of the cash carrier was a high desk, and over its top protruded a head of wavy brown hair, and occasionally as its owner reached for the metal cases Mr. Remington caught sight of the pretty, refined face of Gertrude Terry, his cashier.

The old gentleman watched the girl for awhile, then went to his private office and again seated himself at his desk. He drew the piece of white paper from his pocket and looked at it thoughtfully. Then he turned his attention to the square, blue envelope which contained Mrs. Chase's invitation and glanced from one to the other, as though weighing in his mind the value of each.

Perhaps the memory of his own married life, spent with a woman of society, whose tastes and temperament were at variance with his own, passed in mental review. The many nights he had sat at his lonely fireside while his wife was attending functions to which he had little inclination to follow her may have intruded themselves on his reflections. Whatever his thoughts—and they contained no bitterness for the woman who was gone—he kept them to himself.

He did not say anything to Jack when they left the store together except to tell him that he had some private business to attend to and might be late for their 7 o'clock dinner. Then he gave the driver of his coupe an address and presently alighted at a small frame house.

His ring was answered by a gray haired old man who walked with difficulty. He seemed greatly surprised to see Mr. Remington. When the latter was seated in the little parlor he regarded the invalid with kindly interest.

"Well, Max, I am sorry that time has not dealt better with you," he said at last. "It's a long cry back to our college days, isn't it?"

Old Max Terry sank painfully into a chair. "The last time you were in this house," he answered slowly, "was to attend my wife's funeral. No; time has not been overgood to me, but I don't complain."

"I want you to tell me of her," said Remington, and he drew his cashier's father on to talk of the mother and wife.

The rich old merchant listened thoughtfully while Max Terry told of years spent in perfect companionship, years during which his ambition to become a great musician had slowly suffered collapse, but which had been lightened and beautified by the sympathy of a devoted, loving woman whose soul was attuned to his.

When he had finished Mr. Remington was leaning forward in his chair. "And now that she is gone you have your daughter left," he said gently.

"Yes. She's just like her mother, thank heaven," responded Max Terry, sinking back, with a sigh.

At that moment the front door was opened briskly, steps sounded along the hall, and Gertrude Terry entered the parlor. She stopped abruptly when she saw the visitor.

"I have been telling Mr. Remington about your mother," Max Terry said, smiling at the girl.

"Did he call to ask about her?" she inquired.

"I called for a purpose of my own," said Remington, advancing toward her. "I accidentally received this note from the cash carrier this afternoon." And he produced the bit of white paper.

The girl was pale, but she regarded him unflinchingly. "I suppose you think it is very wrong of me to love Jack," she said.

"No, but I think it would have been better for him to have told me about the affair."

"I would not let him, and I have been trying to tell him that he must not see me again."

Mr. Remington smiled. "You took it for granted that I should not want an unofficial partner in my family who was brave and womanly merely because she happened to be poor," he said softly, taking her hand.

The next morning Chase, Remington, Bentley & Co. was crowded as usual when Jack pulled a slip of white paper from the metal messenger of the cash carrier. The message, which was in his father's handwriting, was as follows:

"Miss Terry will soon leave the employ of this firm."

Jack leaped over the silk counter and hurried to his father's private office. The room was empty, but in a moment Gertrude and Mr. Remington entered.

Jack angrily handed the note to his father. "What is the meaning of this?" he demanded.

Mr. Remington looked at the paper complacently. "It means," he said, "that I think my future daughter-in-law should have time to prepare for her wedding."

Jack leaned against the roll top desk in wonderment, while Gertrude read the note.

"If I had known what was in it I should not have sent it," she said, with a reproachful smile at the older Remington. "Is that your idea of breaking the news properly?"

"No," answered the old gentleman, "but I did not like to spoil the record that cash carrier has for revealing the unexpected."

Traveling by Map.

The experiences of Captain Joseph La Barge, as told in "The History of Early Steamboat Navigation on the Missouri River," includes this story:

Captain La Barge was a pilot and Indian trader for fifty eventful years, and on one of his trips up the river he had a party of Englishmen aboard. They had a map and applied themselves industriously to the business of identifying the various places on it with those along their route. They were in the pilot house a good deal, and one of them was inclined to instruct in the geography of the country the veteran pilot, who had spent all his life on or near the river.

"What place is this that we are approaching, Mr. Pilot?" he asked.

"St. Charles, sir," La Barge replied.

"You are mistaken, sir. According to the map, it is ——."

La Barge made no reply. He stopped as usual at St. Charles and then went his way. Presently they came to another village.

"What place, captain?" inquired the Englishman.

"Washington, Mo., sir."

"Wrong again. The map gives this place as ——."

This experience was repeated several times, the captain's temper becoming more ruffled with each repetition. Presently a flock of wild geese passed over the river. The Englishmen were standing on the hurricane roof in front of the pilot house.

"What kind of birds are these, captain?" asked one of them in eager haste.

The captain, whose language still showed something of his French origin, replied: "Look at your map. He tell you."

Bought Art to Destroy It.

The attendants in the art gallery of a department store in Brooklyn were startled the other day to see a man deliberately destroy two pictures that he had just purchased at a cost of $47. The man is wealthy and aims to have a collection of art objects that have no duplicates. He had purchased in the art gallery that was the scene of his vandalism a painting for which he paid $1,000. After it was sent home he was showing it to a friend, who, knowing the collector's weakness, told him he had seen two reproductions of the painting in the same gallery, one priced at $35, the other at $12.

"Go and buy them for me," said the collector, "and when you get them break them up. I'll give you a check for $47 before you go home."

The friend declined the task; so the collector went to the store himself, pointed out the two pictures, and after he had paid for them destroyed them on the spot.

This same man ordered a table with a carved top, for which he paid $900, and after it had been finished he went to the artist who had designed it and stood by him while he destroyed the original drawing for the table. That was a part of the contract, and he meant to see it carried out.—New York Press.

The Independent Cat.

"There is nothing I admire in a cat so much as her absolute independence," said a man as he watched a big Angora sweep haughtily around the room. "You are bound to treat a cat kindly. If you abuse her or ill treat her she cares nothing more for you. Now, a dog will lick the hand that beats him, but a cat will have only the utmost contempt for you. This tendency of a dog to love its master even after it has been kicked may appeal to some, but I like the cat's high, proud spirit better. This independent spirit of the cat crops out in many ways. You may slap her for stealing milk, but the next time she gets a chance she will steal milk. She will appropriate the best chair in the room and endure with a supercilious air your polite hints or stern commands to her to get down. But she will never budge until the spirit moves her or you remove her by force. If she is crazy to get in the window and you open it for her, she takes her time, stops to sniff a bit and does not allow you to think for one instant that she was at all concerned over the opening of that window. They are beautiful animals, and they know it, and if you don't like them they don't care a hang."—New York Times.

A Life Saver.

"You seem to have a great liking for large words."

"Well, sur," answered Mr. Erastus Pinkley, "I once knowed a man whose life were saved by a big word. He once told me dat I prevaricated, an' by de time I foun' out what dat word meant it were too late foh me to hit him."

Just One Trip.

"What? Going out again tonight?" began Mrs. Nagg.

"Oh, no; just this once," replied her husband, with aggravating cheerfulness. "It will be too late when I get back to go out again."

CHAPTER XII.

"FOR a man who can't abide the sex this is a predicament," muttered the patroon's jackal as the coach in which he found himself sped rapidly along the highway. "Here am I as much an abductor as my lord who whipped his lady from England to the colonies!" gloomily regarding a motionless figure on the seat opposite and a face like ivory against the dark cushions. "Curse the story! Telling it led to this! How white she is—like driven snow—almost as if"—

And Scroggs, whose countenance lost a shade of its natural flush, going from flame color to salmon hue, bent with sudden apprehension over a small hand which hung from the seat.

"No; it's only a swoon," he continued, relieved, feeling her wrist with his pudgy fingers. "How she struggled! If it hadn't been for smothering her with the cloak—but the job's done, and that's the end of it."

Settling back in his seat, he watched her discontentedly, alternately protesting against the adventure and consoling himself weakly with the remembrance of the retainer, weighing the risks and the patroon's ability to gloss over the matter, now finding the former unduly obtrusive, again comforted with the assurance of the power pre-empted by the land barons. Moreover, the task was half accomplished, and it would be idle to recede now.

"Why couldn't the patroon have remained content with his bottle?" he grumbled. "But his mind must needs run to this frivolous and irrational proceeding! There's something reasonable in pilfering a purse, but carrying off a woman— Yet she's a handsome baggage."

Over the half recumbent figure swept his glance, pausing as he surveyed her face, across which flowed a tress of hair loosened in the struggle. Save for the unusual pallor of her cheek she might have been sleeping, but as he watched her the lashes slowly lifted, and he sullenly nerved himself for the encounter. At the aspect of those beadlike eyes, resolute although ill at ease, like a snake striving to charm an adversary, a tremor of half recollection shone in her gaze and the color flooded her face. Mechanically sweeping back the straggling lock of hair, she raised herself without removing her eyes. He who had expected a tempest of tears shifted uneasily, even irritably, from that steady stare until, finding the silence intolerable, he burst out:

"Well, ma'am, am I a bugbear?"

In her dazed condition she probably did not hear his words, or if she did set no meaning to them. Her glance, however, strayed to the narrow window and then wandered back to the well worn interior of the coach. Suddenly, as the startling realization of her position came to her, she uttered a loud cry, sprang toward the door and, with nervous fingers, strove to open it. The man placed a detaining hand on her shoulder and roughly thrust her toward the seat.

"Make the best of it!" he exclaimed peremptorily. "I'm not to be trifled with."

"Who are you?" she demanded breathlessly.

"That's an incriminating question, ma'am," he replied.

"Perhaps you will tell me the meaning of this outrage; your smothering me—forcing me into this coach—and driving away—where?"

"You asked where we were driving? Across the country. What is the meaning of this—outrage, I believe you called it? All actions spring from two sources—Cupid and cupidity. The rest of the riddle you'll have to guess."

"But you have told me nothing," she replied.

"Do you call that nothing? You have the approximate cause—cause causans. Was it Cupid? No, for, like Bacon, your sex's 'fantastical' charms move me not."

This sally put him in better temper with himself. She was helpless, and he experienced a churlish satisfaction in her condition.

As he watched her out of the corner of his eye, weighing doubt and uncertainty, new ideas assailed him. After all she had spirit, courage! Moreover, she was an actress, and the patroon was madly in love with her.

"It'll come out all right, madam; all right for both of us!" Which indeed was his thought. She believed him unsettled, bereft of reason, and, although he was manifestly growing less hostile, his surveillance became almost unbearable. At every moment she felt him regarding her like a lynx and endeavored therefore to keep perfectly still. What would her strange warder do next? It was not an alarming act, however. He consulted a massive watch, remarking:

"It's lunch time and over. With your permission, I'll take a bite and a drop. Will you join me?"

She turned her head away, and, not disconcerted by her curt refusal, he drew a wicker box from beneath a seat and opened it. His reference to a "bite and a drop" was obviously figurative, especially the "drop," which grew to the dimensions of a pint, which he swallowed quickly. Perhaps the flavor of the wine nibble him. Then attentive to his prisoner, for as he lifted the receptacle to his lips she thrust her arms through the window and a play book dropped from her hand, a possible clew for any one who might follow the coach. For some time she had been awaiting this opportunity, and when it came the carriage was entering a village.

Scroggs finished his cup. "You see, we're provided for," he began. Here the bottle fell from his hand.

"The patroon village!" he exclaimed in consternation. "I'd forgotten we were so close! And they're all gathered in the square too!"

He cast a quick glance at her. "You're all ready to call for help, he sneered, "but I'm not ready to part company yet."

Hastily drawing up one of the wooden shutters, he placed himself near the window, observing fiercely: "I don't propose you shall undo what's being done for you. Let me hear from you"—jerking his finger toward the square—"and I'll not answer for what I'll do." But in spite of his admonition he read such determination in her eyes he felt himself baffled.

"You intend to make trouble!" he cried, and, putting his head suddenly through the window, he called to the driver, "Whip the horses through the market place!"

As the affrighted animals sprang forward he blocked the window, placing one hand on her shoulder. He felt her escape from his grasp; but, not daring to leave his post, he leaned out of the window when they were opposite the square and shook his fist at the antirenters, exclaiming:

"I'll arrest every mother's son of you! I'll evict you—jail you for stealing rent!"

Drowned by the answering uproar, "The patroon's dog! Bullets for deputies!" the emissary of the land baron continued to threaten the throng with his fist until well out of earshot and, thanks to the level road, beyond their resentment. Not that they strove to follow him far, for they thought the jackal had taken leave of his senses. But there was no defiance left in him when they were beyond the village, and he fell back into his seat, his face now ash colored.

With fingers he could hardly control he opened a second bottle, dispensed with the formality of a gloss and set the neck to his lips, repeating the operation until it was empty, when he tossed it out of the window to be shattered against a rock, after which he sank again into a semblance of meditation.

"I'll arrest every mother's son of you!"

Disappointed over her ineffectual efforts, overcome by the strain, the young girl for the time relaxed all further attempt.

Despairingly she observed how the sun dipped and ever dipped toward the west, when suddenly a sound afar rekindled her fainting spirits. Listening more attentively, she was assured imagination had not deceived her. It was the faint patter of a horse's hoofs. Nearer it drew. Quicker beat her pulses. Moreover, it was the rat-a-tat of galloping. Some one was pursuing the coach on horseback.

Immersed in his own grapevine castle, her jailer was unmindful of the approaching rider, and she turned her face from him that he might not read her exultation. Closer resounded the beating hoofs.

Who was the horseman? Was it Barnes? Saint-Prosper? The latter's name had quickly suggested itself to her.

Although the rider, whoever he might be, continued to gain ground, to her companion the approaching clatter was inseparable from the noise of the vehicle, and it was not until the horseman was nearly abreast and the cadence of the galloping resolved itself into clangor that the dreamer awoke with an imprecation. As he sprang to his feet, thus rudely disturbed, a figure on horseback dashed by and a stern voice called to the driver:

"Stop the coach!"

Probably the command was given over the persuasive point of a weapon, for the animals were drawn up with a quick jerk and came to a standstill in the middle of the road. Menacing and abusive as the vehicle stopped, the warder's hand sought one of his pockets, when the young girl impetuously caught his arm, clinging to it tenaciously.

"Quick, Mr. Saint-Prosper!" she cried, recognising, as she thought, the voice of the soldier.

Not succeeding, he raised his free arm in a flurry of invective.

"Curse you! Will you let go?"

"Quick! Quick!" she called out, holding him more tightly.

A flood of billingsgate flowed from his lips. "Let go, or"—

But before he could in his blind passion strike her or otherwise vent his rage a revolver was clapped to his face through the window, and, with a look of surprise and terror, his valor oozing from him, he crouched back on the cushions. At the same time the carriage door was thrown open, and Edward Mauville, the patroon, stood in the entrance!

Only an instant his eyes swept her, observing the flushed cheeks and disordered attire, reading her wonder at his unexpected appearance, and—to his satisfaction—her relief as well; only an instant, during which the warder stared at him open mouthed, and then his glance rested on the now thoroughly sober limb of the law.

"Get out!" he said briefly and harshly.

"But," began the other with a sickly grin, intended to be ingratiating, "I don't understand—this unexpected manner—this forcible departure from"—

Coolly raising his weapon, the patroon deliberately covered the hapless jailer, who unceremoniously scrambled out of the door. The land baron laughed, replaced his revolver and, turning to the young girl, removed his hat.

"It was fortunate, Miss Carew, I happened along," he said gravely. "With your permission I will get in. You can tell me what has happened as we drive along. The manor house, my temporary home, is not far from here. If I can be of any service command me!"

CHAPTER XIII.

THE afternoon was waning. Against the golden western sky the old manor house loomed in solemn majesty, the fields and forests emphasising its isolation in the darkening hour of sunset, as a coach, with jaded horses, passed through the avenue of trees and approached the broad portico. A great string of trailing vine had been torn from the walls by the wind and now waved mournfully to and fro with no hand to adjust it. In the rear was a huge timbered barn, the door of which was unfastened, swinging on its rusty hinges with a creaking and moaning sound.

As gayly as in the days when the periwigged coachman had driven the elaborate equipage of the early patroons through the wrought iron gate this modern descendant entered the historic portals, not to be met, however, by servitors in knee breeches at the front door, but by the solitary caretaker, who appeared on the portico in considerable disorder and evident state of excitement, accompanied by the shaggy dog Oloffe.

"The deputies shot two of the tenants today," hurriedly exclaimed the guardian of the place, without noticing Mauville's companion. "The farmers fired upon them; they replied, and one of the tenants is dead."

"A good lesson for them, since they were the aggressors!" cried the heir as he sprang from the coach. "But you have startled the lady."

An exclamation from the vehicle in an unmistakably feminine voice caused the "wachtmeester" now to observe the occupant for the first time, and the servant threw up his hands in consternation. Here was a master who drank all night, shot his tenants by proxy, visited strollers and now brought one of them to the steys. That the strange lady was a player Oly-kooks immediately made up his mind, and he viewed her with mingled aversion and fear, as the early settlers regarded sorcerers and witches. She was very beautiful, he observed in that quick glance, but therefore the more dangerous. She appeared distressed, but he attributed her apparent grief to artfulness. He at once saw a new source of trouble in her presence, as though the threads were not already sufficiently entangled without the introduction of a woman—and she a public performer—into the complicated mesh!

"Fasten the iron shutters of the house," briefly commanded Mauville, breaking in upon the servant's painful reverie. "Then help this man change the horses and put in the grays."

Oly-kooks, with a final deprecatory glance at the coach expressive of his estimate of his master's light conduct and his apprehension of the outcome, disappeared to obey this order.

"May I assist you, Miss Carew?" said the land baron deferentially, offering his arm to the young girl, whose pale but observant face disclosed new demur and inquiry.

"But you said we would go right on?" she returned, drawing back with implied dissent.

"When the horses are changed. If you will step out the carriage will be driven to the barn."

Reluctantly she obeyed, and as she did so the patroon and the coachman exchanged pithy glances.

"Look sharp!" commanded the master sternly. "Oh, he won't run away," added Mauville quickly in answer to her look of surprise. "He knows I could find him and"—fingering his revolver—"will not disoblige me. Later we'll hear the rogue's story."

The man's averted countenance smothered a clandestine smile as he touched the horses with his whip and turned them toward the barn, leaving the patroon and his companion alone on the broad portico. Sweeping from a distant grove of slender poplars and snowy birches a breeze bore down upon them, suddenly bleak and frosty, and she shivered in the nipping air.

"You are chilled!" he cried. "If you would but go into the house while we are waiting! Indeed, if you do not I shall wonder how I have offended you. It will be something to remember"—half lightly, half seriously—"that you have crossed my threshold."

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

The life of food is the fat within it—the more fat the more real benefit from the food; that is why cod liver oil is a powerful builder of flesh.

Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil solves the problem of how to take cod liver oil. That is one reason why doctors have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion for all wasting diseases, coughs, colds and bronchitis for almost thirty years.

Liverpool, wheat opened dull, unchanged. Corn, dull, unchanged.

Paris, wheat opened dull; 10 centimes off.

New York, Dec. 11th. — Opening steady, but altogether there was disappointing response to higher London prices. Reduction in short interest probably influenced early operations of traders, especially as commission houses orders were on most moderate scale. Steel Pfd. and Com. completely failed to respond to sharp advance on London. In view of nearness of meeting of executive committee it was not unnatural that room should draw inference that price has been advanced in London in order to sell stock on impending bad news. Copper showed little strength. Brie was well bought.

New York, Dec. 11th.—Market was irregular with tendency of active stocks to move on individual considerations and no very marked general trend except that tone was heavy and trading light. Floor traders less bearish than might have been expected. There is some reason to believe that market position of B.R.T. is this;—politicians been promised that stock will be advanced to 100 at least, in return for Williamsburg and loop franchise. Guarantee, however, does not extend to carrying big lines of stock for everybody and price was put down catching stop orders while political crowd sat tight or picked up stock on decline. S. J. weak on revived report that dividend would be reduced.—F. C. & Co.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE GOLF CLUB.

Held Last Night in President's Office.

Reports Show a Successful Season—The Club Will Purchase the Grounds now Occupied—The new Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Golf Club was held last night in the office of the president, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, and was a most satisfactory one.

The reports of the different officers presented showed the affairs of the Club to be in good condition, and a feeling of satisfaction at the results of the season's work pervaded the gathering.

The meeting was a most harmonious one. The following members being present:—Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, President, in the chair, and Messrs. V. C. McGill, S. Ray, Dr. Eastwood, P. Campbell, J. Gracey, H. D. Burnett, F. MacGill, W. H. Cluxton, A. H. Stratton, J. W. Garvin, Miles Hamilton, A. L. Sykes, Dr. McFall, F. Lount.

The secretary, Mr. V. C. McGill, read the minutes of the last annual meeting which were confirmed.

The report of the Secretary-Treasurer was then presented as follows:

To the officers and members of the Peterborough Golf Club:

Gentlemen,—I beg leave to submit the following report:

There has been a substantial increase in the membership of the club this year. Last year there were in all 38 members who paid to the club in fees $358.60; this year the membership totalled 58, paying in fees to the club $564, an increase for this year of $106.

The club started this season with a balance of $21.43 in the bank. This amount was carried forward from the season of 1902.

A special subscription of $35 was given the club, by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

Mr. Geo. Edmison, K. C., presented $30 to the club to purchase trophies, with which two pieces of plate were bought.

A special committee, composed of Mr. J. Crane, R. Neill and C. F. MacGill, collected a fund to purchase a horse lawn mower. After purchasing mower a balance of $36.10 left over was handed to the club to be used for work on the links.

The club sustained a severe loss in the death of a horse that was bought early in the year. This animal, after working hard all year died about the end of the season and a valuable asset was removed.

The balance to credit of the club in the bank at present date is $1.70.

All the instructions given the secretary by the executive committee have been carried out.

The financial statement up to this date is submitted herewith showing:

Receipts	$611 62
Expenditure	609 92
Bank balance	1 70
	$611 62

The Kendry Plate is in possession of Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, secured by a bond to the club. The Stratton trophy is at Mr. Alex Gibson's store, and the Edmison trophies are at the club house. All of which is respectfully submitted.

V. C. McGILL,
Secretary-Treasurer.

The report as presented, was, on motion, adopted.

Mr. Cluxton read the report of the auditors certifying to the correctness of the financial statement, which report was adopted.

Mr. J. W. Garvin, moved, seconded by Mr. Hamilton, that each member be requested to contribute one dollar each for the purpose of wiping out all indebtedness of the Club.

REPORT OF CAPTAIN.

To the President and Players of the Peterborough Golf Club;

I beg to present my report as chairman of the committee. On the 23rd of March we hired two men to take out stones at $1.25 per day, the total cost amounting to $10. We also hired one man for three days and a half, cost amounting to $4.65, and they made a good job for the time they worked. On April 1st we hired that Gipsy man, at $30 per month, and kept him until we all got tired of him—very tired—and I asked him to retire. We then hired Mr. Lillico, and he turned out all right. On April 22nd we bought a horse for $55, with the understanding that he was to be taken back at $50. It was a good horse, but unfortunately he died. We had estimated in our expenses on that $50, which we have not got, because of that little piece of bad luck, and I am afraid we will be short. I went away on the 24th of October. There has been a good deal of work done that I don't know anything about while I was away.

I was fortunate in being captain this year. The club played eight matches of which they lost three and won five. We were only beaten badly once, when it was an off day for us; Cobourg was our Jonah. In our three matches we lost by 40 holes, and in the five we won we were up 105 holes, which leaves us a majority of 65 holes. The Colts won two matches from Lindsay, and were unbeatable in their class. I wish to thank the players for the interest they took in the matches. I had no trouble in getting players; they all seemed keen to play, and in fact there were men who offered to stand out if I could make the team any stronger; I have a respect for players who have the club's interests at heart like that. I thank the players once more for their willingness to help me.

The annual contests were won by the following gentlemen: Kendry Plate for championship, won by Mr. J. Laurance; Stratton Trophy, won by Mr. Burnham; Neill Trophy, won by Mr. V. McGill; Edmison Plate, won by team captained by Mr. J. H. Burnham; Mr. Fred McGill won the spring contest; the captain won the driving contest which he should do or he would be under-rated. Mr. Fred McGill won the approaching and putting contest, which was quite an honour, against all the scratch men; Mr. Hamilton won cup for the best score of the day.

S. Ray, capt. and chairman.

The report was on motion adopted.

Mr. A. H. Stratton, as a member of the House Committee, presented a verbal report of that committee.

The president of the club spoke to the members on the question of grounds, explaining the position of the Club in reference to them, stating that the grounds could be purchased for the sum of $2,500, and recommended that they be bought.

A motion was made by Mr. A. H. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Sykes, authorizing the new executive to correspond with the Dominion Government with a view of obtaining the use of swamp lands adjoining the present grounds for club purposes. This motion was carried.

After considerable discussion on the question, Mr. Lount moved, seconded by Mr. Garvin, that steps be taken to purchase the grounds, at $2,500, giving therefore a mortgage, at 5 per cent. per annum interest, repayable at 10 years. This motion was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The election of officers for the ensuing year were then proceeded with and resulted as follows:—

Hon. President—Mr. Geo. Edmison, K. C.

President—Mr. Robt. Neill.

Captain—Mr. S. Ray.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. J. Gracey.

Green Committee—To be selected by the captain, and to be composed of two members.

House Committee,—Messrs. D. Walker, A. H. Stratton and Dr. Eastwood.

Auditors—Messrs. W. H. Cluxton and H. D. Burnett.

The Executive Committee is to consist of the elected officers and members of the House and Green Committees.

Mr. Cluxton moved, seconded by Dr. McFall, that the thanks of the Club be tendered to the ladies for their assistance to the Club. A vote of thanks was also passed to the committee for procuring the lawn mower, Mr. Garvin moved that the Club express to Mr. and Mrs. Lillico the appreciation for their work for the benefit of the Club. This was seconded by Mr. Hamilton and unanimously carried.

A letter was read from Mr. Burnham, expressing his regret at being unable to be present. He suggested to the Club that the Stratton Trophy, of which he is the holder this year, be played for early in the season. In response to this Mr. Hamilton moved and Mr. Ray seconded, that this suggestion be adopted.

A motion was passed thanking the officers of the past year for their painstaking efforts on behalf of the Club, after which the meeting adjourned.

SPLENDID START FOR THE "ROARIN' GAME."

First Curling of the Season Held Last Night at Charlotte Street Rink.

Two Games Played in Which Mr. J. S Knapman and Mr. C. N. Brown Were Winners.

The curling season opened in Peterborough last night with two games at the Charlotte street rink. The prospects for a good season were never as bright as they are at the present time. The club starts out with a large membership list, and the older enthusiasts are more enthusiastic than ever. The early start, too, has given the game a good send off, the players seeing a long season's sport ahead of them. Mr. Angus McIntosh had two sheets of ice in splendid condition.

The two games played last night were between rinks skipped by Messrs. Knapman and Blade, and Giroux and C. N. Brown, the rinks and scores being as follows:—

Knapman, sk.	15	Blade, sk.	6
T F Matthews,		H B Edwards,
G E Whiten,		M C Tooley,
D Howell,		T J Mowat,
J Jeffries,		Kit Rutherford.

Second Game.

Brown, sk.	23	Giroux, sk.	13
R Kerr,		R M Waddell,
Geo Cox, jr.,		R Sturgeon,
W Talbot,		H Foot.

The players entered into the game with spirit and the contests were interesting.

The Club starts on the season with about 115 full members, in addition to the Honorary Members. Of the older players who are in the game this year again, there are: T. F. Matthews, G. E. Matthews, T. E. Bradburn, John A. Cameron, J. Jefferies, G. L. Hay, W. J. Thompson, W. Pringle, F. A. Lount, R. M. Waddell, R. Neill, the Hon. President, and one of the best sports in town, G. E. Whiten, W. G. Morrow, S. D. Hall, Robert Kerr, D. Davidson, E. H. D. Hall, M. C. Tooley, A. Blade, Dr. Greer, J. H. Connell, D. Walker, T. Brightman, J. S. Knapman and Sam Ray, who are two of the most enthusiastic curlers in Peterborough, G. H. Giroux, C. and T. Rutherford. Geo. Edmison and W. G. Ferguson, have also been supporters of the "roarin' game" for a number of years and can throw as good a stone as ever. Mr. C. N. Brown, than whom there is no more loyal supporter of the game living, will also follow the broom this year again.

There has been a large addition of new blood into the ranks this year, many of whom have become intoxicated with the sport by the enthusiasm of the older members. Among the new players this year will be J. B. Douglass, W. H. Taylor, Frank Raines, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, S. T. Medd, R. J. Kidd, A. R. McFarlane, A. McDonald, Jos. B. Fowler, J. T. C. Lang, W. J. Thurston, K. Eardley Wilmot, Dixon Best, W. Hunton, F. W. Dorie, R. Hicks, W. H. Bradburn, Fred A. Clark, J. J. Cooke, J. Gracey, E. M. Best, L. D. Oakley, T. O. Elliott, E. B. Fowler, D. Potter, T. P. Connor, A. L. Sykes, S. S. Moore, W. S. Dodds, A. E. Dixon, J. W. Bennett and H. Foote.

A meeting will probably be held on Monday night, when the skips will elect the men to compose their rinks for the season.

The generosity of Mr. Neill in donating, with Mr. Shepherd, of Orillia, the handsome cup to be competed for by rinks representing the two towns, has had the effect of arousing an increased interest in the game, and the ambition of the players is to hold the trophy for this town.

"RICHARD SHERIDAN THE DRAMATIC WRITER."

Clever Address in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Night.

Given by Dr. Rigby Under Portnightly Club's Auspices—Rev. J. C. Davidson Occupied the Chair.

Last night in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Dr. Rigby, Principal of Trinity College School, Port Hope, delivered an excellent address on "Richard Sheridan," which was heard by a fairly large audience, which collectively showed its hearty appreciation of the most thoughtful, interesting and amusing lecture, in the usual manner. Those who heard him were almost more than delighted, for his oration was thoroughly clever in each individual sentence, while Sheridan's witty passages were most excellently and effectively brought out by the speaker. The lecture was under the auspices of the Portnightly Club, a society noted for succeeding in giving on each successive occasion an evening of both enjoyment and pleasure in every sense of the word. Rev. J. C. Davidson, President of the Club, occupied the chair and in a few appropriate initiatory sentences introduced the speaker of the evening.

Dr. Rigby began by giving a most humorous account, in a very matter-of-fact manner, of Sheridan's younger life, his betrothal and elopement with Miss Lindley, of Bath, Eng. Richard and his brother when boys, at which time their father was placed in affluent circumstances, were sent to school at Harrow. Here the subject of the evening's discourse was very popular among, at the same time, both boys and masters. Their terms at Harrow, however, were few owing to a considerable diminution in their father's private treasury. The entire family went to Bath where Sheridan met the lady who later became his wife. He immediately fell in love with her and the young people eloped and were married. The irate parents on both sides immediately pursued the two lovers, whom they eventually overtook and brought back to their own homes, neither of the young people, however, mentioned the fact that they had been secretely married. Some time later Sheridan, ever full of romance and fervour, persuaded both sides to his marrying Miss Lindley, (truly his wife.) This solemn ceremony was repeated in London, the young couple then residing in the country. Later Sheridan took a house in a fashionable quarter of the Metropolis. Here his wife's lovely voice attracted much admiration, and the mansion soon became a social centre.

Sheridan was a born dramatic composer and at an early age, in order that he might keep up his London house and sustain his social prestige, he began the composition of plays. His first work was "The Rivals," a comic opera which on its first rendition was far from being a success. Nothing daunted Sheridan withdrew his play, re-wrote portions and when played the second time it literally "took the house by storm." Having gained prominence he continued writing with considerable continued success. It was not long before his position was fully established and he was the acknowledged leading dramatic writer of the day. Later he acquired the managership of the Drury Lane Theatre, in which he was highly successful. His plays were always minutely thought out in detail before the actual mechanical setting down on paper, which, in fact, was the last thing done. One of his successful plays is "The School for Scandal," of which the dialogues and brilliant passages of wit are well known to-day and have become the currency of our every-day speech.

Dr. Rigby continued by reading a typical extract from this drama, after which he related a story referring to Sheridan putting his play on paper after he had thoroughly worked it out. He also read several passages from "The Critic," another of Sheridan's plays, which, however, is not so well known as either "The Rivals" or "The School for Scandal." Referring to his plays generally, Dr. Rigby remarked that they were one and all free from all immorality.

The speaker next dealt with Sheridan's political life, which he began at the age of 27, when he was elected Member of Parliament for Stafford. His political career is no less striking than his literary one; moreover he threw in his lot with Fox and Burke. He held at one time an important position in a ministry, the life of which, was however but a short one. In politics he was generally on the opposition side, for which he fought well and eloquently. Outside the House he was unusually popular and for thirty years continued to be connected with political affairs, but with little financial profit. When Napoleon threatened to subjugate all Europe, Sheridan in a famous speech, exhorted Englishmen to put aside all party distinctions and fight against the French conqueror, thus showing that he was a man who thoroughly loved his country and lived for her. He was twice married, and his matrimonial affairs were apparently ever harmonious. He died in the year 1816, and certainly suffered much at the hands of his biographers, who gave him a somewhat false character. Unlike most men of his age, Sheriden was not addicted to either intemperance or gambling.

Mr. Sheriff Hall moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer for his most excellent address. Mr. Garvin seconded Mr. Hall's motion, which was unanimously carried and tendered to Dr. Rigby by Rev. J. C. Davidson.

In reply Dr. Rigby thanked the audience for their very kind attention and appreciation of his effort.

A PITIFUL CASE FROM NORWOOD.

Rev. J. McKee McLennan Tells of a Family's Afflictions.

The following letter addressed to the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, Toronto, from the Rectory, Norwood, Ont., and signed by Rev. J. McKee McLennan, a well known Anglican clergyman, of the province, needs no comment of ours. It reads: "I desire to secure the admission into the Free Hospital for Consumptives at Gravenhurst of of a young woman, a member of my parish. The case is a very sad one, and if help can at once be given a promising life can be saved. Three years ago the mother died of consumption. Since that time it has been my painful duty to bury two of the sons with the same disease. Now, Annie, aged about seventeen, and a boy of fourteen, are all that remain of the family. The poor girl has been in Muskoka, boarding at a private house waiting to be admitted. She returned home last week, and within twenty-four hours of her return her father dropped dead in his buggy while driving into Norwood. The case is surely one that must appeal to the sympathies of everyone, and yet, I fear, only one of the many that are constantly coming under your notice."

THE JAPANESE DIET

Dissolution Gives Cabinet With Freer Hand With Russia.

CONCESSIONS ARE REPORTED

Russia's Reply to the Demands of Japan, Which Were Modified in the Last Note, Is on Its Way to Tokio—Will, It Is Said, Contain Considerable Concessions to Japan By Russia.

Tokio, Dec. 12.—The Diet has been dissolved. Hopes had been entertained in official circles that in view of the extraordinary nature of the step taken by the Lower House Thursday in its reply to the speech from the throne, the vote on the reply would be reversed yesterday. The allied parties, however, at meetings held outside the Diet, decided the action taken should not be reversed, and the dissolution followed.

Concessions By Both Sides.

Tokio, Dec. 12.—It is now reported in official circles that the reply of the Russian Government to the Japanese demands is on its way here, and it is forecasted that the final proposals of Japan are considerable modifications of the claims made in the last note. It is also said that Russia has made considerable concessions regarding the difficulties in Manchuria.

China Acting With Russia.

Prince Ching informed the Ministers in an audience yesterday that he was not negotiating with Russia and that the Government was merely awaiting events. It is known, however, that Lien Fang, First Secretary of the Board of Foreign Affairs, and who represented the Foreign Office during former negotiations, is paying frequent visits to Russian Minister Lessar.

N. W. M. POLICE POSTS MOVED.

In Accordance With the Alaskan Boundary Award.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 12.—A despatch to The Post-Intelligencer from Dawson says:

Major Zachary Taylor Wood, who has returned to Dawson, announces the first change of Canadian outposts in conformity with the findings of the International Commission, which arbitrated the boundary dispute between Canada and the United States.

Major Wood, who is the commander of the Northwest Mounted Police, moved the police post at Wells, on the Dalton trail, to Pleasant Camp. It is possible that the latter may ultimately have to be changed also, but this will depend on the international survey, which will be made next spring.

DESPERATE JAIL BREAKER.

Murderer Cashel Hunted By Mounted Police and Detectives.

Calgary, Alberta, Dec. 12.—Mounted police and detectives have been despatched in all directions in search of Cashel, the murderer, who escaped so daringly from the mounted police guard room Thursday evening. It is believed he has gone in a southerly direction towards Okotoks. Many here say that Cashel will never be taken alive. He is well armed, having taken several revolvers with him.

Noble Contributed 132 Not Out.

Sydney, N.S.W., Dec. 11.—At the close of play yesterday in the first test match between Australia and the Marylebone Cricket Club team the former scored 259 for the loss of 7 wickets. Noble, not out, contributed 132.

CANADIAN G.O.C. FOR MILITIA.

Militia Chief Henceforth Not Necessarily a British Officer—Dominion Government Has Now Also the Right to Appoint a Major-General—Sir Frederick Borden's Visit to England Satisfactory.

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—The Imperial Government have agreed to an extension of Canada's powers of autonomy. They have consented that Canada shall, if she chooses to do so, appoint a Canadian to the command of the militia of the Dominion.

This most interesting piece of intelligence came yesterday in the form of a cable to the Prime Minister from Sir Frederick Borden. It will be remembered that the Minister of Militia was called to England to discuss with the Secretary of State for the Colonies and the Secretary of State for War, the provisions of the bill to amend the militia act, which Sir Frederick Borden submitted to the House of Commons at the recent session. As the law now stands, none but an officer of the Imperial army can be given the command of our militia. Sir Frederick and his colleagues felt that this was a restriction or limitation which might well be done away with. This feeling was not prompted by any desire to get rid of an Imperial tie, but it was thought that if in future a Canadian officer were found to have the experience and qualification for the position, the Government might like to appoint him. Certainly with a Canadian in the office, thoroughly in touch with Canadian conditions and sentiment, there could not be a recurrence of the jarring and friction which have accompanied the regime of some Generals from England in the past. Other provisions of the bill do away with the regulation under which Imperial officers serving in Canada, of the same rank as Canadian, take precedence over the latter, even though the appointment of the former is of more recent date; and also enables the Dominion Government to confer the rank of Brigadier-General. At present the highest Canadian rank is Colonel. Sir Frederick Borden's message states that in every respect his visit to England has been most satisfactory. This evidence of the desire on the part of the Imperial Government to meet Canada's wishes gives great satisfaction here.

ONTARIO'S GREAT TIMBER SALE

There are few if any countries any where of proportionate area which have so great and valuable timber resources as the Province of Ontario; and it is safe to say that in no other country in the world have the timber resources been so wisely dealt with and yielded so much revenue as in this province. The timber sale which took place in the Legislative Chamber, Parliament Building, Toronto, on Wednesday, December 9th, furnished evidence of the above statement. It was a tremendous success and completely discredited the criticism made in advance to the effect that to favour its friends the Government had given so short a notice—four months—that intending purchasers could not have time to examine the limits offered for sale. The lively competition and brisk bidding that marked the sale showed there was nothing in this contention, and the unprecedentedly high prices obtained is further evidence that the objections offered by Opposition critics were unfounded. The prices reached averaged nearly $800 per mile higher than the highest of any preceding sale, successful as it may have been regarded. It was thought that the phenomenal sale of 1902, when the average figures reached were $3,657.18 per square mile would not be surpassed, whereas at the last sale the figure per mile reached $4,450.

Since 1873 there have been held many sales. Previous to 1902 the average price per square mile realized was $1,324, while by way of contrast, the average bonus received by the Province of Quebec for a similar period was only 962 per square mile. At the sale of Ontario timber on Sept. 7th, 1900, there were sold 309 1-4 square miles at an average price of $1,835, realizing $732,784. At the sale of October 13th, 1902, there were sold 633 square miles at an average price of $3,657.18, realizing $2,315,000. It was thought that this record could not be bettered, but this same record was broken easily by the phenomenally successful sale of this week, Dec. 9th. There were sold 826 square miles at the astonishing average price of $4,450 per square mile—$792 better than the average figure of any previous sale. The amount realized was the enormous total of nearly four million dollars—$3,697,560, a sum almost equal to the total annual revenue of the Province. It is more than probable that this large amount has been at the time of this writing paid in cash into the Crown Lands Department, and placed at the credit of the Consolidated Fund of the Province.

This very successful sale forcibly suggests the very great value of our timber resources, both from a revenue, and industrial view-point. The policy adopted by the Government, requiring that all the pine timber of the province, shall be manufactured in this country, is producing rapid development of industrial operations. It is acknowledged that one of the most important factors of the high prices obtained at the sale on December 9th, was American competition, especially in the Rainy River district, where a Minneapolis lumberman was the principal purchaser. Our American neighbours cannot get our logs to saw in their own mills, and if they want to manufacture our logs, they must buy, or build, mills, in Ontario, and cut the timber here, and this lumberman has constructed a large saw-mill on the Ontario side of the Rainy River. Then another factor of the high prices obtained at the recent sale, especially in the Nipissing District, was the result of another feature of the advance policy of the Ross Government. The Temiskaming Railway marks Ontario as the pioneer in province-owned and province-built railways. Great results were, and are, expected from the construction of this railway, which is to be built from the proceeds of the sales of lands and timber along the line of route. It was not, however, expected that such astonishing results would follow. At the sale made on the 9th of this month, the timber tributary to this railway sold at a sufficiently increased price over that obtained at previous sales, to pay for the railway passing through the pine region, and in this sense, the Ontario Government Railway practically builds itself, and it gives to lands, which could not be reached, and were, therefore, comparatively worthless, a large value.

This province has still immense timber resources, and the problem is to preserve them for proper development, and to perpetuate the supply. By the Government's system of forest reserves, now consisting of two and a half million acres, and carrying about four billion feet of white pine, this end will, to an important extent, be served; but it will be necessary to take further measures to ascertain more exactly the extent of our timber resources, so that the best possible measures may be adopted, with a view to preservation and reproduction.

THE ONTARIO WINTER FAIR.

In view of the obstacles they had to overcome and the success they have achieved, it would be difficult, according to the Globe, to speak too highly of the work done by the promotors of the live stock exhibition which has been held during this week in the city of Guelph. They have now a permanent home for their "fair," and, though it is not all that could be desired, it should be found comparatively easy hereafter to improve it. The most pressing needs are a larger show ring and a better lecture room, and in some way it ought to be possible to add these to the existing accommodation before this time next year.

The show of animals was this winter superb, the prizes were widely distributed, and the judging gave very general satisfaction. The animals were regarded from the butcher's rather than the breeder's point of view, though the merits of the various strains were constantly thrusting themselves on the spectator's attention. One of the three judges of cattle was a well-known Canadian breeder, one an experienced local butcher, and one an eminent Scotchman who had been selected to serve in the same capacity at the great Chicago show of last week. Col. Ferguson of Prestonhill, in Perthshere, is a breeder as well as a feeder of stock, and, what is of equal importance, he has the tact, courage, and capacity to tell the audience precisely the grounds of his opinions. Judging done in this way becomes a succession of object lessons, which serve an extremely important purpose in fitting the observer to be a better judge of animals on his own account.

The show of poultry far surpassed any other ever held in Canada, not merely for the immense number and variety of the exhibits, but also for the excellent condition of the birds. The fall exhibitions come too early to have domestic fowl at their best. For that one must wait till naturely by the stimulus of frosty weather perfects the plumage after the period of moulting. Nothing could have shown better than this exhibition did the enormous progress this province has made in the poultry industry within the past twenty years, for unlike the cattle department, where a good grade animal might win the first prize, the poultry were for the most part, and quite obviously thoroughbred, and were admirably classified.

As usual, a number of breeders' associations selected this occasion for their annual meetings, thus adding to the general interest and swelling the attendance. The more popular and important gatherings for the discussion of topics were the annual meeting of the "Ontario Experimental Union," and the annual convention of Women's Institutes. The former has done excellent service for many years in keeping graduate students in touch with the Agricultural College, and in drawing around the institution many who would otherwise never have made any attempt to know it. The union has also through the co-operation of its many workers, conferred a great boon on the farmers of Ontario by their carefully conducted and accurately reported experiments.

The sessions of the convention of Women's Institutes were appropriately enough held in the lecture room of the "Macdonald Institute," which had been sufficiently completed for the purpose. The spirit of the occasion was quite in harmony with Sir William Macdonald's noble purpose in donating these beautiful buildings for the specialized education of young women. The papers read and the discussions which followed, were practical, suggestive and hopeful. The topics dealt with were related to the farm, the household and society at large. The delegates and visitors separated for the year, after spending a few hours together in a way that was both pleasant and profitable.

Proceedings at the Eighty-sixth Annual Gathering.

MOST SATISFACTORY REPORT

Hon. Geo. A. Drummond Touches on General Trade of Country, Which has Been Prosperous.

The eighty-sixth annual meeting of the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held in that institution at noon Monday, December 7th. On motion of Mr. John Morrison, Hon. George A. Drummond, Vice-President, was unanimously voted to the chair, in the absence of the President, Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The report of the Directors to the Shareholders at their eighty-sixth annual general meeting was then read by Mr. A. Macnider, Acting-General Manager, as follows:—

The Directors have pleasure in presenting the report, showing the result of the Bank's business for the period from 30th April to 31 October, 1903.

Balance of Profit and Loss Account, 30th April, 1903		$ 734,807 75
Profits for the half year ending 31st October, 1903, after deducting charges of management, and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts		917,156 31
Premiums received on New Stock		418,034 00
		$2,057,998 06
Dividend 5 p.c., payable 1st December, 1903		684,000 00
Amount transferred to Rest Account		1,000,000 00
Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward		$ 373,998 06

Since the last annual meeting of the Shareholders, branches of the Bank have been opened at Edmonton, Alta; Indian Head, Assa., and Brandon, and Gretna, Man., and a branch at Sherman avenue, Hamilton, has been arranged for, to be opened on the 1st December, 1903. The Bank also established a Branch at Yarmouth, N. S., through the purchase of the business and premises of the Exchange Bank of Yarmouth.

The Bank is at present erecting premises for the branches at Edmonton, Alta., and Birchy Cove, Newfoundland, and has acquired properties on the corner of St. Catherine street and Papineau Road, Montreal, and the corner of Greene and Western avenues, Westmount. The Bank has also gone into occupation of the new premises on Craig street, Montreal, and the reconstruction of the St. James Street building is proceeding satisfactorily.

With deep regret the directors have to record the death of their esteemed colleague, Mr. A. F. Gault, who had been a member of the Board for upwards of ten years.

The vacancy on the Board has been filled by the election of the Hon. Robert Mackay.

It has been thought desirable to provide an assistant to the General Manager, and Mr. H. V. Meredith has been appointed to the position of Assistant General Manager, retaining also the position of Manager at Montreal.

The issue of $2,000,000 new capital stock authorized at the special general meeting of 7th January last has been all subscribed for, and all taken up, with the exception of $12,600, which will be paid on the 23rd of December, making the capital stock, all paid, $14,000,000.

The head office and a number of the branches have been inspected since the meeting last June. All the branches will be inspected and reported on next meeting.

Strathcona and Mount Royal,
President.

Bank of Montreal, Head Office,
31st October, 1903.

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Hon. Geo. A. Drummond then said: "The statements now presented show clearly the position of the Bank, and will, I feel assured, be accepted as satisfactory. Turning to general questions, the most striking event of the year has been the serious decline in the market for securities. Primarily this has been the result of over-production of stock certificates, bonds, debentures and all marketable securities, in some cases the necessary consequences of great industrial activity, but in others due to excessive capitalization, the disclosures of which excited public distrust. It is to be noted that such cases have been rare in Canada, but we have by no means been exempt from the consequences. Notwithstanding these drawbacks, which have made the receipts of wholesale houses occasionally slower than usual, the general trade of the country has been prosperous.

"The opening of the trade with South Africa, promises well. Already an extensive trade in flour, meal, lard, meats, canned goods and lumber, has been established.

"The rapid development of the North-west Territories, and the consequent increase in exportable products, is among the most important of recent events. It is known that at least 115,000 immigrants have entered these Territories since the 1st of January last.

"I have much pleasure in moving: "That the report of the Directors now read be adopted and printed for distribution among the Shareholders."

This was seconded by Mr. A. T. Patterson, and was carried unanimously.

The following directors were elected: R. B. Angus, Esq., Hon. Geo. A. Drummond, E. B. Greenshields, Esq., Sir William C. Macdonald, Hon. Roberts Mackay, A. T. Patterson, Esq., R. G. Reid, Esq., James Ross, Esq., Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G.

Astoria, Ore., Dec. 12.—Seven Japanese are missing from the Oriental Liner Indravelli. When the vessel left Portland she had nineteen deported Japanese on board. The report, on motion of Rev. Dr. Torrance, seconded by Rev. J. C. Davidson, was adopted.

In connection with the treasurer's report, Mr. Dennistoun moved that at the next meeting of the County Council, the secretary ask that an increased grant be given, because of the fact that there were many more children taken into the Shelter from the county than from the town of Peterborough, which at present gives much the larger grant. This motion was carried.

THE AGENT'S REPORT

Mr. Burnham, in the indisposition of Mr. Cochrane, read the agent's report as follows:

To the President, Officers and Members of the Children's Aid Society of the Town and County of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have the pleasure of presenting my fourth annual report as Agent for your Society, and will give a brief outline of the work done during the past year in my department.

I have at all times exercised a general supervision over the Shelter, and have pleasure in stating that Mr. and Mrs. Henry have continued to perform their duties entirely to my satisfaction. A larger number of children than usual have been cared for in the shelter during the past year, and I feel they could not have been in better hands. The ladies of the town have on several occasions assembled at the shelter for the purpose of making clothing for the children, and have in this way done us great service. A regular sewing society has now been organized, which will meet at the shelter every Wednesday afternoon.

We are always in need of children's cast-off clothing, and word left with me, or at the shelter at any time, will ensure the clothing being sent for and thankfully received.

I am always ready to hear and investigate complaints when presented by responsible people, and to consider as confidential any communications made to me under the pledge of secrecy. Cases will thus be investigated on the responsibility of the Society alone, and no person need fear undue publicity or the accusation of meddling in one's neighbour's affairs, if secrecy is desired.

During the year I have paid 234 visits and in so doing travelled 382 miles. Outside relief has been given to 41 families. Fifteen cases have been tried in the police court and warnings sent to sixteen families.

The number of children in the shelter is six.

I beg to call the attention of the Society for connecting the Shelter with the town sewer, and for proper hot and cold baths and sanitary plumbing, which should be provided by some means if it is possible to do so. Children are frequently received into the shelter in a very filthy condition, and the work of the matron would be made much easier if these conveniences were at hand.

During the past year the shelter has been shingled, the work being done by the society, which also furnished the shingles.

Last Christmas I received special special contributions from a number of our charitable citizens, which enabled me to send Christmas cheer to many families where there were children who would otherwise have fared but poorly. The kind encouragement received will prompt me to ask a renewal of these subscriptions during the coming Christmas season, and any persons who will send their money, or Christmas provisions to me, will have the satisfaction of knowing that they will be distributed without regard to class or creed, and placed only with families where there are little children which might otherwise suffer from want.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THE MAYOR SPEAKS.

His Worship Mayor Roger spoke eulogising the work done by the Society, saying that no work done in the town by any Society touched the hearts as closely as that done by the Children's Aid Society. He felt that if the work was more generally understood, the Society would receive even more generous support. As a representative of the town he expressed hearty approval of the work done, and believed that none of the societies of the town were more properly conducted than that of the Children's Aid Society.

MR. EDMISON ON THE WORK OF THE SOCIETY.

Mr. Edmison said that as Police Magistrate of the county, he had seen considerable of the work done by the Society, and felt that none too many children had been taken from their parents and placed in the Shelter. He said that the work of the agent was not always pleasant, as at times children had to be taken from parents from whom they were also receiving proper care, against the parents' wishes. He paid a high tribute to the work of Mr. Cochrane who, he said, had been self-sacrificing in his devotion to the children of the county. He said that no work appealed to him so strongly as that of the Society, which had his heart-felt sympathy. He thought the County Council should give the Society greater assistance than was at present being afforded. He did not believe that the smallness of the present County Grant was because the people were niggardly, but he thought if the work were more fully understood by the members of the County Council, the grant would be larger.

Mrs. Garvin moved that the society ask Mr. J. J. Kelso to attend the spring meeting of the Society, and deliver an address. This motion was seconded by Mrs. Birdsall, and carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:

Hon. President.—Hon. J. R. Stratton.

President.—Mr. J. J. McBain.

Vice-Presidents — Mrs. Birdsall and Mr. J. H. Burnham.

Secretary—Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

Treasurer—Mr. P. Campbell.

Agent—Mr. Geo. Cochrane.

Solicitor—Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

Representative on Charity Board —Mr. J. J. McBain.

Board of Management — Mrs. Best, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Garvin, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Ward, Mrs. O'Sullivan, Mrs. J. Montgomery, Dr. Birnie, Miss Gow, Miss Dixon, Mrs. Potter, Rev. Father McColl, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rev Mr. Davidson, Rev. Mr. Armitage, Rev. Mr. J. P. Wilson, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, Mayor Roger, D. Hughes-Charles, Dr. Geo. Burnham.

Mr. Burnham in nominating Mr. Dennistoun for the office of Secretary, paid a high tribute to that gentleman's ability and self-sacrifice. He said that it was a necessary qualification in a secretary that he should be able to deal with questions as they arose before they came to a head, and without being compelled to fall back upon legal advice. It required a lawyer to do this and for a man who had a large practice to spend the time which Mr. Dennistoun had spent in the work of the society was ample evidence of his interest in the cause.

Mr. McBain thanked the Society for the honour of being elected president, and spoke of the efficient services given the Society by the different town officials. He also referred to the county grant, and thought an effort should be made to secure an increased grant, in view of the fact that the work of the Society was confined mainly to children from outside the town. The meeting then adjourned.

The Essentials of Life

There are three constituents absolutely necessary to the maintenance of life, namely: Iron, Fat and Phosphorus. Remove entirely from the system any one of these constituents and death inevitably ensues.

A full, round, vigorous life is possible only when the Iron, Fat and Phosphorus are present in the proper proportion. A pale, sallow, bloodless complexion shows that the Iron is getting low; loss of weight, sunken eyes, thin bony hands, etc., indicate that the fat is low; irritability, sleeplessness, lack of vim and other nervous symptoms evidence a lack of Phosphorus.

When any or all of these conditions are present the sufferer should at once get a supply of Ferrol, which combines in a perfect emulsion, pleasant to take and easy to assimilate, Cod Liver Oil (the very best form of Fat) with Iron and Phosphorus in full medicinal doses, thus presenting in convenient and elegant form the very essentials of life.

Sample free. At all druggists, or from THE FERROL COMPANY, LIMITED, 124 King Street West Toronto.

MORE TESTIMONY FOR MUNYON.

"I have suffered terribly from Rheumatism for five years, and I was so badly affected I had to go on crutches. I tried many advertised remedies and physicians, but it was no use. I steadily became worse. My joints and feet swelled up and I would have frightful pains. I secured a vial of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure at the free distribution held at The Evening News office, and I am now completely cured. I haven't an ache or a pain, and I feel better than I have for the last ten years."—Joseph Smith, 119 Church street, Toronto.

RENFREW TRIUMPHS

Premier Ross Adds Two to Long List of Platform Successes.

COMING SURPLUS $4,000,000

Rousing Meetings at Beachburg and Pembroke—Mr. James Findlay's Protest Answered By the Premier—Reasons For Delay in Bringing on the Election—Mr. Ross' Wonderful Campaigning Activity.

Pembroke, Dec. 12.—Into the politically-warm atmosphere of North Renfrew, which has been represented as being in rebellion against the Ontario Government, Premier Ross came yesterday and added two more to his long list of platform triumphs. The coming of the Liberals' gifted leader was the occasion of magnificent demonstrations, and the prospects for the election of the Government candidate, Mr. Lorne Hale, were materially increased, though already bright. Mr. Ross in a little over a day has had a period of activity which would have been too much for many a younger man. After a day's work in his office Thursday he addressed a meeting in Toronto the same night, took the night train for Ottawa conversed with many on the train till after midnight, breakfasted at Ottawa, took the train to Cobden, drove eleven miles to Beachburg, spoke one and one-half hours to a large gathering of Westmeath Township farmers, drove sixteen miles farther to Pembroke, and spoke one and one half hours to another crowded gathering last night.

A Strong Address.

The Premier's addresses were exceedingly strong and appealing. He answered the corruption cry once more effectively, and challenged Mr. Whitney to give details of the expenditure of the $28,000 fund for which he was responsible. He frankly admitted the wrongdoings in West Elgin and North Waterloo, showed how corruptionists had been punished by his Government, and pointedly asked what might have been done had ly asked what might have been had the Liberals adopted the methods of their opponents in many past elections. The Premier also announced that the next budget speech would reveal a surplus of $4,000,000, and that a new timber policy was under consideration. A mild sensation was caused last night by Mr. James Findlay, a former Liberal, and a former friend of Mr. Ross', taking the platform and protesting against the delay in holding the election, and against the corruption for which he held the Premier responsible. The event was the occasion of a forcible but kindly reply from Mr Ross, in which he showed the chain of unavoidable circumstances which delayed the issuing of the writ. Mr. Findlay is reported to have spoken against Premier Hardy, and not to have voted for the Liberal party for years. The campaign is warming up, and Mr. Whitney speaks here on Monday night. The afternoon meeting was attended by a large gathering of farmers in the Beachburg Town Hall, and was presided over by Dr. George Forbes.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

NAVAL ARMAMENT REDUCTION.

Mr. Gibbons Wants President to Open Negotiations With Foreign Powers.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Representative Gibbons (Tennessee) yesterday introduced a resolution directed toward the reduction of the naval armament of the maritime nations of the world. It authorized the President "to open negotiations with such and so many of the maritime nations of the earth as he may deem expedient, for the purpose of formulating some international agreement whereby the naval armaments of each nation shall be reduced to the minimum consistent with the adequate policing of its own waters and shores and the protection of its own citizens in foreign lands; the international suppression of piracy, privateering and letters of marque on the high seas, and with the efficient enforcement of international obligations and the maintenance of the international peace."

WHY SHE KILLED HUSBAND.

She Had Been Forced to Marry Him By Her Parents.

Coldwater, Mich., Dec. 12.—Mrs. Ludwick, aged 19, arrested on the charge of murdering her husband by poison, after being married to him only three weeks, has made confession at the jail. She says she never wanted to marry Ludwick, but her people made her do so. She wanted to marry George Kaskmerick and he wanted her. She broke down and said that Kaskmerick came to her on the eve of her marriage to Ludwick and told her that if she would poison Ludwick he would marry her.

News to Good to Keep.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, are generally so well pleased with the benefits derived that they tell the good news to their neighbours. Try Dr. Shoop's Restorative

A Month at My Risk.

Not a penny if it fails.
It is a two-cent stamp investment for you.
With me it is a risk of $5.50, the price of six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I will ask the druggist near you to let you use the Restorative a month on trial. He will not complain for I will tell him to bill the cost to me if it fails in your case.
You send me no money.
You take no risk.
Just take the Restorative for a month then decide for yourself.
If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that relieves you of all expense. But you won't say that.
You will be glad to say, like thousands have said and are saying, "It is the greatest remedy I ever used."

James Knowles,
Wrote me. Wilmington, Delaware,

"Bright's Disease laid me on my back October 12th, 1902. Water flowed out through my slippers through a thousand breaks in the skin.
All physicians pronounced my case hopeless. Then I learned of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After six bottles I began to feel better. The swelling began to subside. Fifteen bottles completely cured me. I have not been so well in twenty-five years. I am sixty-six years of age. I considered this medicine, coming into my hands, as a direct and overruling providence of that great God in whom I believe and place my trust. My physicians were astonished. My pen is ever ready to urge the use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative."

S. A. Jones.
Wrote me. Anvil, Okla.

"I was suffering with nervous debility, biliousness and a run down constitution. Now permit me to tell you what I think of your Restorative. In my judgment it is worth its weight in gold. It has restored my health and I now feel as when I was in my 'teens going to school, although I am now past my 66th birthday. I shall always keep a bottle of Dr. Shoop's Restorative in the house, as it has been worth many times the cost to me.
You may use this letter in any way you wish as I feel it my duty to tell those similarly situated what it has done for me. May the blessings of the all-wise Creator always be with you."

J. N. Renfoe,
Wrote me. 46 Granger St., Atlanta, Ga.

"New York specialists pumped my stomach. Called it Acid Catarrh of the Stomach. Treated me two years and failed.
I got six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative at the Jacob Pharmacy, Atlanta. It was to cost me nothing if it failed. After four bottles then came the change. After six bottles I was eating most anything I desired. I am well now. Dyspepsia Nervousness gone. Use my letter privately or publicly, for I feel that this is as little as I can do to show my gratitude for the results you have brought in my case."

Mr. Renfoe used my Restorative because I took the risk. I make this same offer to you, just to get a trial. I take all the risk to show my faith. I know what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can and will do if you try it. Send to-day for the book you need and name of a druggist near you who will give you six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month on trial. Too much cannot be learned about how to keep well.

Windsor, Dec. 11.—Harry Armstrong, a Wabash brakeman, whose home is in St. Thomas, was crushed to death between two strings of cars in the Wabash yards here Wednesday night. THE 57TH BAND AT WORK

Practicing in Preparation for "Verdi" Night.

A Magnificent Musical Evening Assured to Music Lovers.

Work and play are generally regarded as opposite terms, but in music they are largely synonymous. The Fifty-Seventh Band plays well because it works well. Last night the Examiner had the pleasure of spending an hour at the practice of the band. The work in hand was the music to be presented at the concert on Friday evening, December 18th, in the opera house. It was a delight to witness the enthusiasm which both conductor and bandsmen gave to the work in hand. It was downright hard work on both sides, and the results were of corresponding excellence. Sometimes a selection would be played through without pause, but oftener the rattle of the baton suspended progress in order to play over a bar or two, a phrase, or a single note, till the desired result was reached. It was such painstaking work on the part of both which promises to yield such delightful musical results. There were under review last night selections from La Traviata, with contrasting movements whose requirements were splendidly recognized; "Ernani," "Reminiscences of Verdi," presenting the gems from half a dozen of his operas, and "Attilla." Critical reference to the work done is not necessary; it is enough to say that the beautifully tuneful style of Verdi's work, with its rich harmonies and delightful contrasts, was treated in so decidedly a musicianly a manner, as to promise the best musical programme next Friday night ever offered by home talent, and one of the best ever presented by any organization in Peterborough. Especially, when in addition to the programme presented by the band, there will be vocal numbers selected from Verdi's works, sung by Mrs. K. Eardley Wilmot, and Miss Helen Davies.

The public owe it to themselves, and to the band, not to neglect attendance at this concert. In one case they will be richly repaid, and in the other the public obligations to the band for the pleasure it has given the people, and the work it has done in elevating musical taste, and promoting popular culture, will be practically recognized.

A SOCIAL EVENING AT MURRAY STREET.

Members of the Congregation Meet and Spend Enjoyable Evening.

A very pleasant evening was spent in the Murray street Baptist church Sunday school room last night, when the congregation met to enjoy a social evening together.

A short informal programme was presented, after which an hour was spent in social intercourse, refreshments being served at the close.

The pastor, Rev. J. Bastow, in the course of the evening, delivered a short address in which he explained the object of the meeting. He spoke of the early departure from town of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Matthews, who are about to remove to Brantford. He said that Mr. Matthews had been one of the most loyal supporters of the church during his residence here, and was one which the church could ill afford to lose. He was superintendent of the Sunday school for a number of years, and in that capacity, as well as in other branches of the church's work, he had done excellent service. The object of the gathering was that the different members of the congregation might become better acquainted with each other, was fully met.

Gymnasium Class Give a Pleasant Evening in the Y. M. C. A.

A very pleasant evening was spent last night when Miss Moodie's gymnasium class gave an evening of games. A large number were present, and the work of the young ladies was highly creditable. During the period in which the class has been under her instruction the members have made good progress.

GEO. BUTCHER—Mascot.

A well-pleased audience was that which left the town hall, Ashburnham, last night, at the conclusion of the entertainment given under the auspices of the Men's Guild of St. Luke's Church.

For some time it had been rumoured that St. Luke's minstrels had something good on the tapis to present at the concert to be given last night, consequently expectations ran high, and it is only a just tribute to the ability of those who took part to say that the programme was a fully satisfying one, as was evidenced by the unmistakable manifestations of approval, which accompanied the rendition of each number.

The hall was comfortably filled, about 300 being present, and the first part of the programme was the regulation minstrel show, made additionally pleasing by the fact that the "minstrels" were local characters, and the interlogue was principally referring to local topics. Every member of the company did credit to himself and to the organization, and the singing was highly enjoyed.

The stage presented a very pleasing appearance. By the kindness of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, a liberal supply of ousting and flags was used, the result being very pretty. The costumes of the members of the "troupe," too, were in some cases unique, Mr. Reg. Turner's particularly so.

The programme opened with a solo and chorus, "Moriarity," Mr. Sid Byers taking the solo. Mr. George Armstrong followed in "My Little Star, I'm Looking up to You." A particularly pleasing number was Mr. W. E. Wesley, in "Down where the Wurzburger Flows." Mr. Webber Turner, one of the end men distinguished himself in the "Coon's Breach of Promise," with a cake walk as interlude. "Sunshine Sue," by Mr. W. H. Andrews, was well received, and Mr. G. G. Pratley in "It was the Dutch," made the hit of the evening, being called upon to respond with an encore. Mr. Reg. Turner sang with much acceptance "Listen," and the first part of the programme closed with a solo, "My Dusky Princess," by Mr. Geo. Rogers.

The second half of the programme was of a general character, opening with a solo by Miss Daisy Jackson, with flute accompaniment by Mr. Butcher, followed by an instrumental duet by Miss Winnie Dobbin, guitar, and Mr. R. H. Henderson, banjo. This number was very well received, as was also a second selection given. Mr. Gilbert Scott sang, "Take this Seat Old Lady," which was greeted with enthusiastic applause, to which he responded with a recitation. A very enjoyable part of the programme was a novelty musical and juggling act by Mr. Will Dundas, with which, the audience expressed unmistakable approval. Mr. Jos. Legg sang "I'm Wearing My Heart Away for You," to which he was applauded for an encore. A second selection by Miss Dobbin and Mr. Henderson closed a programme which apparently met with the distinct approval of the audience.

The Men's Guild of St. Luke's are to be congratulated on the success of their entertainment. Mr. H. Neill acted as chairman in the second part of the programme, at the close of which Rev. Mr. Langfeldt on behalf of the Men's Guild took occasion to thank those who assisted on the programme.

It is needless to say that future entertainments under the same auspices will be awaited with interest.

HUNDREDS ENJOY ATHLETIC EVENTS.

A Successful Entertainment by Cordage Hockey Team.

The first of a series of entertainments to be given by the Cordage Co's Hockey Team was held last night in the opera house and attended by a very large number of spectators, the hall being crowded, and evident pleasure was given by the excellent programme presented.

Preceding the athletic portion of the programme some musical numbers were presented. Mr. P. Broderick gave a clarinet solo in the rendition of which he was enthusiastically encored, responding with an Irish reel, to the delight of his hearers. This number was followed by a comic song by Mr. J. Haipany, which as usual was much enjoyed. The six round boxing contest, between Art Smith, of Toronto, and D. Belland of Peterborough, was next brought on and occasioned considerable merriment to the spectators. The first round was about even. In the second Smith landed a couple of swings which Dazed Belland; Smith slipped to his knees and Belland hit him while in this position. A foul was called and Smith was given the decision.

An Irish song, given by Mr. D. J. Donoghue, was apparently to the liking of the audience, as it was heartily applauded.

A ten-round bout between Nick Collins, of Ottawa and Mark Barnes, of Detroit, was next on the programme. It was declared a draw. Both boxers displayed considerable science, Barnes being especially clever at ducking. Collins had the best of it on points. This was followed by a buck and wing dance by Mr. S. Houlihan, after which Mr. T. Crowe sang a solo and Mr. Broderick danced a hornpipe.

Two excellent wrestling contests were given, the first between Teddy Coleman, of Toronto, and Nick Collins. This was a draw, as neither succeeded in securing a fall in three rounds of six minutes each. An interesting bout was a wrestling contest between Geo. Gauthier, of town and one called Farmer Burns. The former won in two straight throws in six and ten minutes. Gauthier was the aggressor all through and was the stronger wrestler.

The last number on the programme was one in which considerable interest was taken. It was a tug of war between the Quaker and Cordage Teams Qfor the Sykes Cup. This was won by the former in two straight pulls. The men composing the winning team were: J. Murphy, D. McGrath, J. Titro J. Newell, S. Newell, J. Murphy, J. McCauley, and J. Kearns.

Mr. E. T. Carter acted as referee for the Athletic events, giving universal satisfaction. Mr. W. Crowley, as announcer, proved a most efficient officer. The management of the Hockey Club is to be congratulated on the complete success of the evening.

THE TRENT VALLEY HOCKEY LEAGUE.

Sixth Annual Meeting Held This Morning in the Oriental.

A Very Large Representation of T. V District Towns Present—Officers Elected—Other Business.

That the Trent Valley Hockey League during its five years career, has become an organization for the promotion of friendly rivalry in that winter game among the towns of the Trent Valley District, was evidenced to-day at the sixth annual meeting, which was held this morning at the Oriental Hotel, beginning at nine o'clock, at which the representatives of towns, either affiliated with the League, or wishing to join it, was exceptionally large.

From the secretary's report, the affairs of the club were shown to be in a very prosperous condition, which is due mainly to the good management. The hockey enthusiasts from Norwood and Keene, on the whole expressed a pessimistic opinion regarding the strength of the teams in their respective places. It was suggested that these town amalgamate and play under the name of the Norwood-Keene Club. Neither team was however desirous of completing such a union until they had found out how strong a seven they could put on the ice. Should these two places, or any others, wish to join hands, the matter will come up at first executive meeting.

The enthusiasm displayed showed that all concerned, whether officers of the League, or delegates, wished the League to succeed in its aim.

All the officers and the several members of the executive elected for this year, are capable men, who, it is felt, will strive to do all in their power to satisfy all in any matter which may come up for decision. Although the League has only been in existence for a few years, its progress is certainly unprecedented, and there is no doubt that this season will be the most successful of all.

The following delegates were in attendance:

Bobcageon, H. Garlick and M. Welsh.

Peterborough T.A.S — J. McCabe and D. DeVine.

Peterborough Club, C. G. Graham.

Norwood, J. F. Andrews and R. Pearce.

Keene, T. J. Wallace and Dr. V. H. McWilliams.

Warkworth, G. C. Quackenbush and W. A. Little.

Colborne, E. F. Rawson and R. D. Keefe.

Brighton, R. B. Scripture and D. W. Richmond.

Napanee, B. H. Williams and W. E. Frets.

Belleville Bankers, W. C. Bradburn and H. A. Littledale

Lakefield, F. A. Grey and R. Gravender.

In the absence of the president, Mr. W. T. Junkin of Fenelon Falls, Mr. W. Crowley of Peterborough T. A. S., the vice-president of the League, occupied the chair, and opened the meeting with a few remarks regarding the League, the success of which he believed was due to the efforts of the secretary, Mr. E. S. Clarry.

After the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting the secretary-treasurer presented his reports which were as follows:—

Gentlemen,—In presenting my fifth annual report as secretary-treasurer of the Trent Valley Hockey League, I assure you it affords me pleasure in being able to state that the league has just closed the most successful year in its history. This is not only a fact as regards the membership of the league, but it is likewise true as to its finances, there being a handsome balance on the right side of the ledger.

That the Trent Valley League has risfraternity of the province and that it is fraternity of the province and that it is now recognized as a leading factor in promoting Canada's national winter sport, is conceded by all. And that this should have been accomplished with the exceedingly low membership fee to the league is a most gratifying feature. It was accomplished, however, by the hearty co-operation of the various clubs who appeared to have the one object in view, viz., the creation of friendly competition and the promotion of clean amateur sport in the Trent Valley district. It is a matter of extreme pleasure for me to report that not one protest was up for consideration last winter and not an objection was filed in regard to any referees that were from time to time appointed, notwithstanding the fact that the enthusiasm and rivalry towards the close of the season was at fever heat.

The T. A. S. of Peterborough, a new club carried off the championship, defeating Norwood, who have been the runners-up during the entire existence of the league. It was truly a grand game and aroused as much interest as any O. H. A. game here last year. Fenelon Falls, who for the two preceding years had been the holders of the championship and who won out in their own district, made a bold but unsuccessful effort to retain that honour.

As the league expands its membership the duties attached to the office of secretary become correspondingly greater, but when the season is over and one reflects on the success that has attended the efforts of the officers and the original promoters of the league there is some degree of satisfaction at least. During the season I was given a free hand by the president and other officers of the league and I endeavoured to discharge the executive duties of secretary in an impartial manner. I am glad to know, however, that I had the hearty support of all connected with the league, and that our success last winter has been a means of inducing more clubs to ask for membership.

As most of you are no doubt already aware there is a number of new clubs who have asked for admission to the Trent Valley League. I believe that their admission would do much to arouse additional interest in the league without in any way crowding out the smaller clubs who have been in the league since its formation some five years ago. Colborne, Trenton, Brighton, etc., could be grouped together and play off for the championship with the winners of the other districts. Most of the teams that were in the league last winter are again awaiting the opening of the Trent Valley series and with the same loyal support to the officers of the league as has been given in the past, I see no reason why the Trent Valley shouldn't continue to flourish and make the present year the banner year of its existence.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $55.30, the expenditures being $228.85, and the receipts $383.15.

On motion of C. G. Graham and T. J. Wallis, the secretary's report was adopted.

The new teams seeking admission were,—Deseronto, Napanee, Picton, Belleville Bankers, Colborne, Trenton, Warkworth and Brighton. The chairman asked representatives present for some remarks on whether it was advisable to admit these teams.

Mr. T. J. Wallis, of Keene, said that it was very gratifying to see that the League was on the upward road. He believed that it would be very beneficial that these teams be admitted and moved that the new teams be admitted.

Mr. M. Welsh, Bobcaygeon, seconded the motion, which was unanimously carried.

As a member of the executive Mr. E. S. Clarry strongly advocated the admission of these new teams, which he thought could be successfully grouped.

J. F. Anderson, of Norwood, asserted that Norwood was "up against it" this season, as was also, he believed, Keene. He remarked that it had been suggested that Keene and Norwood amalgamate.

The chairman said that he was thoroughly in favour of such a union between the two teams.

T. J. Wallis, Keene, remarked that if Keene could possibly raise a team they would not wish to join hands with Norwood.

R. Gravender said that Lakefield hoped to put a strong team in the League; they would get in the finals if practice could do it.

The next business of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—

Hon. President—A. H. Stratton, (re-elected.)

President—W. Crowley.

1st Vice-President—M. Welsh, Bobcaygeon.

2nd Vice-President—C. Brown, Colborne.

Secretary-Treasurer—E. S. Clarry, Peterborough.

Executive Committee—W. H. Waller, Napanee; H. Phillips, Brighton; J. F. Anderson, Norwood, and J. R. McIntyre, Keene.

The Eastern District was grouped as follows:—Picton a bye; the winner of a Napanee, Deseronto and Belleville series to play Picton, and the winner of these two series to play the winner of Trenton, Brighton and Colborne district.

The following referees were appointed:—

Bobcaygeon—W. A. McIntyre.
Norwood—J. F. Anderson.
Lakefield—J. W. Ridpath.
Kingston—J. T. Sutherland.
Warkworth—G. Quackenbush.
Keene—J. R. McIntyre.
Brighton—J. E. Gardner.
Belleville—Reddy McMillan.
Colborne—E. F. Rawson.
Peterborough—Jas. McCabe.
T. A. S.—Geo. Lynch.
Fenelon Falls—E. Beauteau.

The meeting then adjourned.

ROOSEVELT SEVERELY SLATED.

Colombian Proclamation Breathes Defiance and Denunciation.

New York, Dec. 11.—The Tribune yesterday said: The following is a translation in part of a general order issued in Colombia: "With the luxury of brute force, such as has not been seen until to-day in the annals of history, and using the most cunning means known, the United States Government has attempted to take into its hands the dismemberment of our country, disgracing the tricolor flag, which until now we have known how to bear with dignity.

"If the forces of the Colombian youth be not sufficient to dominate the colossus of the north before we have disappeared entirely, those who live will have the satisfaction of seeing our mothers, wives and daughters, take up arms and follow the path of duty which we have trod.

"It is preferable to see the Colombian race completely exterminated than to submit ourselves to the political infamy of President Roosevelt."

MURDERER BREAKS JAIL.

Ernest Cashell Pulled Revolvers on Guards and Escaped.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 11.—A Calgary despatch says Ernest Cashell, the murderer of Rufus Belt, escaped from the mounted police barracks last night. When his cell was searched shortly after 6 o'clock Cashell pulled two revolvers on the three guards, ordered them from the corridor into his cell, just vacated, locked the door, demanded the keys for his shackles, which he unlocked and then made his escape from the building and has not yet been recaptured.

John Cashel, brother of the murderer, visited the barracks yesterday, and has been arrested on suspicion of having furnished Ernest with the revolvers. Cashell was to have been hanged on Tuesday next, and news was only received yesterday from Ottawa that a new trial had been refused. He was 21 years old yesterday.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

THE QUEEN IN DANGER.

Fire Broke Out at Sandringham and Spread to Her Apartments.

London, Dec. 11.—A fire occurred yesterday at Sandringham and Queen Alexandra and her secretary, Miss Knollys, had narrow escapes. It broke out at 5 o'clock yesterday morning in Miss Knollys' bedroom in the chimney flue, where a beam is supposed to have been smouldering for some days, and spread to the bedroom of the Queen, who was asleep at the time. She was awakened by Miss Knollys, who raised an alarm. Put the fire obtained a good hold of both rooms, and considerable damage was done before the flames were extinguished.

The outbreak caused a great deal of excitement at Sandringham, where a number of guests are staying at present.

PROOF THAT NO ONE CAN DOUBT.

That Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure any Stage of Kidney Disease

Maxime Boucher had Kidney Disease for Twenty-five Years and could find no Relief Till he Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills—They Cured him Completely.

Humberstown, Que., Dec. 11. —(Special.)—With Kidney Disease almost daily cutting off the most prominent men in Canada, fresh proofs that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sure cure for this most deadly ailment are the best news that can be spread broadcast over the land, and one of the most convincing proofs yet brought forward is the case of Maxime Boucher of this place.

For twenty-five years M. Boucher suffered from Kidney Disease. Its aches and pains, and feebleness had become so much a part of his daily life and the different medicines he had tried had done him so little good that he had about abandoned hope.

But reading of the splendid cures of different forms of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills led him to try once more. The result is that M. Boucher makes a statement for the benefit of the public. It tells of his twenty-five years suffering and ends, "I am perfectly cured, Dodd's Kidney Pills did it." Naturally M. Boucher cannot say enough in favour of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE LOVING LEAVES.

Brown is the hill where the maples grow—
So brown, so calm, so cold and still;
But the loving leaves creep snug and close,
And warm the feet of my dear old hill.

And they don't forget the violet so small,
Shivering and cold in the damp and wet;
They cover them up in blankets brown,
Whispering, "Darlings, we love you yet."

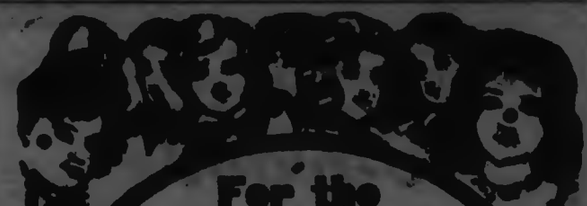
Down in the hollow amid the ferns,
Their billowy wraps they wreath and roll;
And they spread a carpet rich and warm,
To keep the snow from the mouse's hole.

And the lady-slipper—so shy and weak—
They wrap a muffler about her throat;
And the alder's hair—they cover her deep,
And furnish the moss with an overcoat.

—Th. Khan.

Kipling Wanted His Breakfast.

Rudyard Kipling once visited Cecil Rhodes at Lekkerwijn, one of his fruit farms at Paarl, South Africa. One morning Rhodes went round his farm before breakfast, leaving his guest, who was not so energetic, behind. Time went on, and Rhodes did not appear. Hunger soon roused Kipling to action, and in a short while he was very busy on his own account. As Rhodes returned he found his trees bearing a new kind of fruit in the shape of placards inscribed in huge black letters with "Famine!" "We are starving!" "Feed us!" etc. On reaching the front door he was confronted with the following, in still larger type: "For the human race—Breakfast tones the mind, invigorates the body. It has sustained thousands; it will sustain you. See that you get it." Then in the house, on every available wall, he came across other mysterious placards, in more and more pathetic appeal, "Why die when a little breakfast prolongs life?" Larger and larger grew the type, "It is late; it is still later," leading at last into the little breakfast room, where he found Kipling reading his paper in peaceful innocence, but very hungry. It did not need much ingenuity to guess the author of these broadsides.



For the Little Ones

Be Careful to Use One of Enough Medicines for Children's Complaints and Colds.

Many mothers of cheap cough mixtures and cough and throat lozenges have already proven that a huge proportion of these contain opiates.

The treatment which these cheap mixtures often give in coughs and colds, especially with the little ones, is to narrow the opening in the throat which causes the cough, to temporarily paralyze it, but the real cause of the cold is not by any means removed by the opiate and will presently return.

The best thing to use to remove the catarrhal accumulation which causes the cold, the hoarseness and irritating cough, is a new preparation composed of ammonium iodide, Guaiacol, Terpinhydrate, and cold by druggists under names of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, which contain no opiate, cocaine or poisonous drug of any sort.

A mother living in Charleston, Miss., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have had in a stock of cough medicine of some substance, and found it necessary to use it on my little children, for members of other families around me would not be free from colds, croup or sore throat.

"This fall I made a change in the usual programme. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take, I determined to try them with my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and healthy better could be taken. So I gave them to the children, and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat, and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only control any of these troubles but they prevent them, and if taken at the first sneeze will ward off a cold entirely. Mr. A. B. Pritchard, of Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered so much whenever I took a cold that I took it as a matter of course and that nothing would cure it except a change of climate which my business circumstances would not permit me to take.

"My country trade almost stopped entirely and I had to attend closely to business. I had used Stuart's Catarrh Tablets for a cough and cold and found them very good, so I thought I would try them for catarrh. I did so and they relieved me from the first day. I continued using them and in a short time was entirely cured. I have not had a cold since and my hearing has improved 50 per cent. I have recommended them to many friends and they have used them with the same results. I am glad to say a good word for Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, as I believe they are the best remedy for catarrh in the world."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents for full package. Send your address to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for booklet on catarrh.

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

He stood at the door with such an undissembled smile, his accents so regretful, that after a moment's hesitation Constance entered, followed by the patroon. Sweeping aside the heavy draperies from the window, he permitted the golden shafts of the ebbing day to enter the hall, gleaming on the polished floors, the wainscoting and the furniture, faintly illuminating the faded pictures and weirdly revealing the turnings of the massive stairway. No wonder a half shudder of apprehension seized the young actress in spite of her self reliance and courage as she entered the solemn and mournful place, where past grandeur offered nothing save morbid memories and where the frailty of existence was significantly written! After that Indian summer day the sun was sinking, angry and fiery, as though presaging a speedy reform in the vagaries of the season and an immediate return to the legitimate surroundings of October.

Involuntarily the girl moved to the window, where the light rested on her brown tresses, and as Mauville watched that radiance, shifting and changing, her hair alight with mystic color, the passion that had prompted him to this end was stirred anew, dissipating any intrusive doubts. The veering and flickering sheen seemed but a web of entangling irradiation. A span of silence became an interminable period to her, with no sight of fresh horses or sign of preparation for the home journey.

"What takes him so long?" she said finally, with impatience. "It is getting so late!"

"It is late," he answered. "Almost too late to go on! You are weary and worn. Why not rest here tonight?"

"Rest here?" she repeated, with a start of surprise.

"You are not fit to drive farther. To-morrow we can return."

"Tomorrow!" she cried. "But—what do you mean?"

"That I must insist upon your sparing yourself," he said firmly, although a red spot flushed his cheek.

"No, no! We must leave at once!" she answered.

He smiled reassuringly. "Why will you not have confidence in me?" he asked. "You have not the strength to travel all night over a rough road after such a trying day. For your own sake, I beg you to give up the idea. Here you are perfectly safe and may rest undisturbed."

"Please call the horses at once!"

An impatient expression furrowed his brow. He had relied on easily prevailing upon her through her gratitude, continuing in his disinterested role for yet some time, resuming the journey on the morrow, carrying her farther away under pretext of mistaking the road, until— Here his plans had faded into a vague perspective, dominated by unreasoning self confidence and egotism.

But her words threatened a rupture at the outset that would seriously alter the status of the adventure.

"It is a mistake to go on tonight," he said, with a dissenting gesture. "However, if you are determined"— And Mauville stepped to the window. "Why, the carriage is not there!" he exclaimed, looking out.

"Not there!" she repeated incredulously. "You told them to change the horses. Why"—

"I don't understand," returned the land baron, with an effort to make his voice surprised and concerned. "He may— Hello, there! You!— Oly-koeks!" he called out, interrupting his own explanation.

Not Oly-koeks, but the driver's face, appeared from behind the barn door, and, gazing through the window, the young girl with a start suddenly realized that she had seen him not for the first time that day—but where, when? Through the growing perplexity of her thoughts she heard the voice of her companion.

"Why don't you hitch up the grays?"

"There are no horses in the barn," came the answer.

"Strange! The caretaker did not tell me they had been taken away!" commented the other, hastily stepping from the window as the driver vanished once more into the barn. "I am sorry, but there seems no alternative but to wait, at least until I can send for others."

She continued to gaze toward the door through which the man had disappeared. She could place him now, although his livery had been discarded for shabby clothes. She recalled him distinctly in spite of this changed appearance.

"Why not make the best of it?" said Mauville softly, but with glance sparkling in spite of himself. "After all, are you not giving yourself needless apprehensions? You are at home here. Anything you wish shall be yours. Consider yourself mistress, me one of your servants!"

Almost imperceptibly his manner had changed. Instinctive misgivings which had assailed her in the coach with him now resolved themselves into assured fears. Something she could not explain had aroused her suspicions before they had reached the manor, but his words had glossed these inward qualms and a feeling of obligation suggested trust, not shrinking; but with his last words a full light illumined her faculties, an association of ideas revealed his intent and performance.

"It was you, then," she said slowly, studying him with steady, penetrating glance.

"You!" she repeated, with such contempt that he was momentarily disconcerted. "The man in the carriage—he was hired by you. The driver—his face is familiar. I remember now where I saw him—in the Shadengo valley. He is your coachman. Your rescue was planned to deceive me. It deceived even your man. He had not expected that. Your reassuring me was false; the plan to change horses a trick to get me here"—

"If you would but listen"—

"When"—her eyes ablaze—"will this farce end?"

Her words took him unawares. Not that he dreaded the betrayal of his actual purpose. On the contrary, his reckless temper, chafing under her unexpected obduracy, now welcomed the opportunity of discarding the disinterested and chivalrous part he had assumed.

"When it ends in a honeymoon, ma belle Constance!" he said swiftly.

His sudden words, removing all doubts as to his purpose, awoke such repugnance in her that for a moment aversion was paramount to every other feeling. Again she looked without, but only the solitude of the fields and forests met her glance.

The remoteness of the situation gave the very boldness of his plan feasibility. Was he not his own magistrate in his own province? Why, then, he had thought, waste the golden moments? He had but one hour now—a study of physical beauty against a crimson background.

"To think of such loveliness lost in the wilderness!" he said softly. "The gates of art should all open to you. Why should you play to rustic bumpkins when the world of fashion would gladly receive you? I am a poor prophet if you would not be a success in town. It is not always easy to get a bearing, to procure an audience, but means could be found. Soon your name would be on every one's lips. Your art is fresh. The jaded world likes freshness. The cynical town runs to artless art as an antidote to its own poison. Most of the players are wrinkled and worn. A young face will seem like a new grown white rose."

She did not answer. Unresponsive as a statue, she did not move. The sun shot beneath an obstructing branch, and long, searching shafts found access to the room. Mauville moved forward impetuously until he stood on the verge of the sunlight on the satinwood floor.

"May I not devote myself to this cause, Constance?" he continued. "You are naturally resentful toward me now. But can I not show you that I have your welfare at heart? If you were as ambitious as you are attractive, what might you not do? Art is long; our days are short; youth flies like a summer day."

His glance sought hers questioningly, still no reply. Only a wave of blood surged over her neck and brow, while her eyes fell. Then the glow receded, leaving her white as a snow image.

"Come," he urged. "May I not find for you those opportunities?"

He put out his eager hand as if to touch her. Then suddenly the figure in the window came to life and shrank back, with widely opened eyes fixed upon his face. His gaze could not withstand hers, man of the world though he was, and his free manner was replaced by something resembling momentary embarrassment. Conscious of this new and annoying feeling, his egotism rose in arms, as if protesting against the novel sensation, and his next words were correspondingly violent.

"Put off your stage manners!" he exclaimed. "You are here at my pleasure. It was no whim, my carrying you off. After you left I went to the manor, where I tried to forget you. But nights of revelry—why should I not confess it?—could not efface your memory." His voice unconsciously sank to unreserved candor. "Your presence filled these halls. I could no longer say, 'Why should I trouble myself about one who has no thought for me?'"

Breathing hard, he paused, gazing beyond her, as though renewing the memories of that period.

"Learning you were in the neighboring town," he continued, "I went there with no further purpose than to see you. On the journey perhaps I indulged in foolish fancies. How would you receive me? Would you be pleased, annoyed? So I tempted my fancy with air castles, like the most unsophisticated lover. But you had no word of welcome; scarcely listened to me and hurried away. I could not win you as I desired. The next best way was this."

He concluded with an impassioned gesture, his gaze eagerly seeking the first sign of lenity or favor on her part, but his confession seemed futile. Her eyes, suggestive of tender possibilities, expressed now but coldness and obduracy. In a revulsion of feeling he forgot the distance separating the buskined from the fashionable world, the tragic scatterlings from the conventions of Vanity Fair. He forgot all save that she was to him now the one unparagoned entirety, overriding other memories.

"Will not a life of devotion atone for this day, Constance?" he cried. "Do you know how far reaching are these lands? All the afternoon you drove through them, and they extend as wide in the other direction. These—my name—are yours!"

A shade of color swept over her brow.

"Answer me," he urged.

"Drive back and I will answer you."

"Drive back and you will laugh at me," he retorted moodily. "You would make a woman's bargain with me."

"Is yours a man's with me?" she said contemptuously.

"What more can I do?"

"Undo what you have done. Take me back!"

He spoke angrily. Her disdain at his proposal not only injured his pride, but awoke his animosity. On the other hand, his words demonstrated she had not improved her own position. If he meant to keep her there he could do so, and opposition made him only more obstinate, more determined to press his advantage. Had she been more politic—Juliana off the stage as well as on—she, whose artifice was gleaned by artlessness—

Her lashes drooped, her attitude became less aggressive, her eyes, from beneath their dark curtains, rested on him for a moment. What it was in that glance so effective is not susceptible to analysis. Was it the appeal that awakened the quixotic sense of honor, the helplessness arousing compassion, the irresistible quality of a brimming eye so fatal to masculine calculation and positiveness? Whatever it was, it dispelled the contraction on the land baron's face, and—despite his threats, vows—he was swayed by a look.

"Forgive me," he said tenderly.

"You will drive back?"

"Yes; I will win you in your own way, fairly and honestly! I will take you back, though the whole country laughs at me. Win or lose, back we go, for—I love you!" And impetuously he threw his arm around her waist.

Simulation could not stand the test. She had set herself to a role she could not perform. Hating him for that free touch, she forcibly extricated herself with an exclamation and an expression of countenance there was no mistaking. From Mauville's face the glad light died. He regarded her once more coldly, vindictively.

"You dropped the mask too soon," he said coldly. "I was not prepared for rehearsal, although you were perfect. You are even a better actress than I thought you, than which"—mockingly—"I can pay you no better compliment."

She looked at him with such scorn he laughed, though his eyes flashed.

"Brave!" he exclaimed.

Boils were so painful could not sleep at night.

Burdock Blood Bitters

CURED THEM.

It is well-known to all that bad blood is the direct cause of all skin diseases and it is necessary for the blood to be cleansed before the eruptions will disappear. For this purpose there is nothing to equal Burdock Blood Bitters as the thousands of testimonials we have on hand will testify.

Mr. Willard Thompson, McNeill's Mills, P.E.I., writes us as follows: "I wish to state to you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Some time ago my blood got out of order and many boils appeared on my neck, legs and arms. They were so painful that I could not sleep at night. After having tried many different remedies without any success, I finally decided, on the advice of a friend, to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles the boils had completely disappeared, and I wish to emphasize the fact that I think Burdock Blood Bitters the best blood purifier on the market to-day."

BARGAIN BABIES.

If babies were for sale the most inveterate bargain-hunting woman in the world would not look for a bargain baby. She would want the best baby that could be bought, regardless of price.

Every woman naturally craves a healthy, handsome child, and her craving can be gratified if she will but remember that the child's health is her own gift, and to give health she must have it to give. Mothers whose babies have been weak and puny have nursed in strength their first strong child after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the best preparative for maternity, encouraging the appetite, quieting the nerves and inducing refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child, and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

"My wife had been sick nearly all her life," says Mr. H. E. Pricke, of Petersburg, Menard Co., Illinois, Box 367, "and after trying everything I could think of I made up my mind to try 'Favorite Prescription.' I got six bottles, which my wife took, a tablespoonful three times a day, until the baby came. She felt better after taking the first bottle, and when baby was born he weighed nine and a half pounds. To-day he is six months old and weighs twenty-two pounds. He is as good a child as any one could wish. The doctor says he is as healthy as any baby could be, and also says the use of your 'Favorite Prescription' was the cause of such a healthy baby."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best and safest laxative for the use of delicate women.

Hot-air Flues. Oven.

If the hot air flues in a range are not properly constructed, much of the heat from the fire-box will be wasted up the chimney, and the oven will not bake uniformly.

Flues in the "Pandora" range have been given special attention, and are so contructed that all the heat travels around the oven twice and passes directly under all the pot holes before escaping up the chimney.

Every feature in the Pandora has been given the same careful attention as the flues and all combine to make a perfect working and economical range.

"The history, literature and therapeutics of the condition known as a 'Cold' shows conclusively that very little has been known in regard to this state.

"Who has not witnessed the many failures of a 'good sweating,' a dose of 'castor oil,' etc.? The fact is we have been overlooking the true origin of the diseased state known as 'Cold.' It is primarily a disease of the stomach, a derangement of the process of gastric digestion."—Medical Times.

The use of Dr. Humphreys' "Seventy-seven" breaks up the cold, and if alternated with or followed by the use of No. 10, the stomach will perform its functions and the gastric derangement caused by taking cold will be corrected.

Peterborough has once more demonstrated its characteristic "push" by securing a lead over the Port Hope Hockey team in getting a practice. Our team had a work out last night, while the Guide is bewailing the lack of ice there. It says:—

"Well, sir, as soon as we get some ice (no telling when that will be) there will be one of those old-time hockey practices. And, by the way, most people are of the opinion that it is time that they had an inch or two of ice. The excuse given for the delay in the past flood and when we come to think of it it seems a very reasonable one. But there now—all things to those who wait.

"There will be three Junior teams in town this year, and by reports it is going to be a hard job to pick the winners. The O. H. A's team will be much stronger than last year, as will also the T.C.S. seven. They have a little fellow up there from Cornwall by the name of 'Chummy Hill, and they say he's a regular hustler.'

PRICES FIRM.

The Demand was Greater Than the Supply at the Town Market.

That last night's snow fall made the sleighing excellent was at once noted by the very large number of farmers in town this morning, all of whom report that the country roads are in fine shape. This fact was also borne out by the large market. Notwithstanding this, however, the demand was greater than the supply, which an extensive purchaser said was only of a fair class. Prices were high and remained firm throughout the entire morning. Eggs were scarce, while butter and fowls were more or less plentiful. Prices ranged as follows: Eggs, per dozen, 25c; butter 20c to 23c; chickens, per pair, 50c to 70c; ducks 90c to $1.00; turkeys, $1.25 to $1.75; geese 90c to $1.

BAILSBURY CO.

IN BUSINESS FOR FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS.

Mr. Wm. Ince, of Perkins, Ince & Co., Tells of Early Days.

Oldest Wholesale Merchant in Toronto—His Firm has Branch Office Here.

The Toronto News on Saturday published sketches of the three oldest wholesale merchants in Toronto, and the one of these three who has been in business for the longest period is Mr. Wm. Ince, Sr., head of the firm of Perkins, Ince & Co., a branch of whose business is located in Peterborough. An extract from the sketch of Mr. Ince follows:—

To Mr. William Ince, sr., belongs the honour of being the oldest wholesale merchant in Toronto. Mr. Ince has been engaged continuously in the wholesale grocery business since 1845, 57 years ago, when he became a partner of Mr. Perkins, who in 1835 established the business on the site it now occupies. At that time the firm's warehouse was the only one on the south side of Front street. Judging by appearances, Mr. Ince might be taken for a much younger man than he is. He still retains his keen interest in business life, and is the active head of the concern which his industry has built up.

Talking to a News representative about early conditions, Mr. Ince mentioned that the earliest wholesalers were not confined to one particular line. "our firm handled all such articles as nails, chains, anvils, spades, harvest tools, paints and oils, etc.," he explained, "besides the regular lines of groceries. This was done because our customers, the country storekeepers, came in with their teams for their supplies, and naturally wished to get all they could in one place.

"For many years," he continued, "all goods had to be distributed by teams in the winter, and, where possible, by boats in the summer. Goods were taken by boat to points on the lakes and from there distributed to the interior. The first railway, the Northern, was commenced in 1856, followed soon afterwards by the Grand Trunk Railway.

"In the early days payments were slow. Parties gave their notes for their purchases at as long a date as they could, and renewed them as often as they could. If they paid $25 on $100, and renewed their notes for three months, they thought they were doing very well. Of course this system often involved considerable loss on our part, but as profits were considerably larger than they are now, we were able to stand it."

During these years the firm of which Mr. Ince is the head, has steadily progressed, until now it occupies a prominent place in the wholesale business of the country. A half-tone cut of Mr. Ince accompanies this article.

Books for Christmas Gifts.

Sets of books are always welcome; and what can be more fitting for a gift, at any time, than a favourite author bound in dainty covers. The Peterborough Bookstore is full of them just now in all types, styles and bindings, and the advantages of a cheap price were never so plainly to be seen as when one looks at the marked prices. It seems as if books were never so cheap and so plentiful as now. A. H. Stratton & Co.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF THE BREAD BY-LAW

Ask the Local Bakers Who Petitioned the Council.

An Explanation of the Legal Committee—The Matter is Under Consideration.

The Examiner has been requested by the bakers in town, to ask through these columns what has become of the petition presented by the bakers to the council, asking that a bylaw be passed fixing the standard size of loaves of bread at 1 and 1-2 and 3 pounds, in conformity with those made by bakers in Toronto, and other cities.

At the time that this petition was presented, the position taken by the bakers was explained in these columns, and their request was considered, by all who expressed an opinion, to be a fair and reasonable one. A deputation was in the council chamber at the meeting in which the petition was presented, but as the Mayor was not aware of its presence, the matter was referred to the Legal Committee to deal with. No report of the Committee has as yet been made on the question, and the bakers are naturally anxious to know what is being done about it.

The fact is that Peterborough bakers are selling their product one-third of a cent lower than the Toronto bread sold here, but because the loaves in the latter case are smaller, and the price per loaf less, the public is sometimes inclined to think that the local bakers are charging the higher price.

In reference to this matter, the chairman of the Legal Committee, when seen, stated that the matter had been referred to that committee, and a meeting had been called, at which a deputation of the bakers had been received, and their views voiced by Mr. Braund. No action was taken by the committee at this meeting because of the fact that there was not a quorum present. It was then decided that the matter would be discussed in council meeting, when the views of the bakers could be made public. For some reason, the matter had never been taken up in the council since the petition was presented, the bakers not having appeared to press their claim, though this may have been due to a misunderstanding, as the bakers claim they were to have been notified when to attend the meeting.

The members of the Legal Committee recognized the force of the contention made by the bakers, and were considering the matter. It is stated now, however, that the price of the Toronto bread now being imported has been raised to such a figure that little or none is now being sold here.

A SUITABLE GIFT FOR YOUR BOY.

A Ticket of Membership in the Y. M. C. A.

Every year at this time many parents and friends of boys secure Y. M. C. A. membership tickets as Christmas gifts for them. Several manufacturers and business men do the same for their apprentices. They all find it money well invested, as it helps a boy or young man more than can be estimated.

The fee for all under 17 years of age is $2.50, thus placing the many privileges within the reach of the majority.

The officers of the Y.M.C.A. will be pleased to confer with parents or friends in regard to tickets.

There are many boys too, who would be glad to have a ticket whose parents are not able to provide the same.

Any who wish to procure tickets for one or more of these would do an act the influence of which would be very far-reaching indeed.

OUR GOVERNMENT RAILWAY.

In an article in Saturday's issue, we pointed out the benefits the province derived from the construction of the Government railway from North Bay to Temiscamingue Lake, as shown by the added value it gave to the timber lands through which the line passes—an increase of value sufficient to build the line passing through the pine belt. With the importance of this railway thus practically demonstrated it will be pleasant to know that the work is progressing rapidly. There are only 35 miles out of the hundred between North Bay to be New Liskeard and Nor... completed and it is expected that this will be finished early next spring. Track laying, to finish the 57 miles already laid north from North Bay will be begun in May, and by the end of November next year the engineer in charge expects the line to be in running order. In view of this rolling stock has been ordered (including four ten-wheeler locomotives and an order has also been placed for 125 flat cars and 50 box cars. A requisition has also been made for four passenger coaches and ten express coaches with a view of being ready to handle the tourist traffic next fall which promises to be heavy from the beginning.

The Ontario Government's foresight has not only been evidenced by the building of this line but by the measures take to extend the line to reach the Grand Trunk Pacific. Preliminary survey parties are now on the ground as far north as the height of land. During the past autumn a supply of provisions were stored in convenient places, to be used at a season of the year when supplies could not be sent in, so that work can be continued during the winter. Arrangements will naturally be made to follow up the preliminary surveys by location operations, so that when the Ontario Legislature may vote the necessary funds, or otherwise provide for expenditure, construction work may be gone on with a railway, which will give Ontario another link, with all its advantages, with the mighty Northwest. Who will deny that the Ross Government has fully justified its claim to be a progressive government?

SIR WILFRID'S HEALTH.

The Hamilton Spectator declares its conviction, says the Toronto News, that the true reason for the general election, which everybody anticipates, is "that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's health will not permit him to remain in public life, and he is simply remaining as the French figurehead of the Government through the elections, in order to secure the French vote. After the election—win or lose—Laurier will retire. But in the meantime he must make pretence, in order to deceive Quebec, and ensure power to his party for the next five years." Our information, the News adds, is very different from that which the Spectator has received. We understand that the health of the Prime Minister has greatly improved, that the apprehension of an early break down has quite disappeared, and that for many years to come, with his health as it now is, he is likely to remain in Parliament as the leader of the Liberal party. To the mass of Conservatives, the Spectator probably excluded, this good news will be as welcome as it is to the Liberals.

SEVEN FAT YEARS OF LIBERAL RULE.

Contrasted With Eighteen Years of Conservative Administration.

Progress and Prosperity the Result of Laurier's Policy—Deplorable Condition of Country at Advent of Present Government.

The object of this, and succeeding articles, is to set forth as briefly and clearly as possible, the record of the Liberal Government since June, 1896, when they took office, and to consider the effect of their policy and actions so far as they relate to the material welfare of the country.

At the outset we would ask the reader what he thinks should be the essential aims and duties of the Federal Government? What tests are usually applied by the average elector when he is considering how he should cast his ballot? As we conceive it, the Government are generally expected—

(1) To do everything possible to promote the prosperity and welfare of the whole people.

(2) To administer our affairs economically, and to tax the people fairly and equitably but not unduly.

(3) To develop the great resources of the country on sound principles, and towards that end, to promote immigration, and provide transportation facilities.

(4) To ensure peaceful and harmonious relations between the various elements of our population.

There are, of course, many other features, but the foregoing will, we think, be generally accepted as the vital standards by which Governments should be judged.

We propose to apply these tests to the Government now in power. To do so thoroughly, it becomes necessary in the first place, to consider the state of the country when the Liberals came into office, and for a few years prior thereto.

A DEPLORABLE CONDITION

What were the conditions during the closing years of Conservative rule? As most Canadians know,—business was stagnant; little, if any progress was being made; the country was in a dead-and-alive condition; people were emigrating by thousands; our domestic peace was seriously threatened by an ill-advised measure of coercion in respect of one of the provinces. Confidence in the Government was destroyed. The members of it were warring among themselves, and the humiliating spectacle was seen of seven members of the Cabinet going out on strike against their leader, who subsequently declared that they constituted a "nest of traitors." Corruption on a stupendous scale had been revealed in the large spending departments. Scandal succeeded scandal, until the people were thoroughly disgusted and alarmed. Many of them are still fresh in the memory. There were the disgraceful McGreevy-Langevin disclosures; the notorious Curran Bridge affair; the fraudulent Commissions on Printing Bureau contracts; the Tay Canal. No wonder the London Times, the great organ of British public opinion, was obliged to declare:—"Here in the mother country there can be only one feeling, that of deep regret for the wrong done to the fair fame of the oldest of her daughters."

The London, England, Telegraph wrote: — "Enough, unfortunately, is already known in England to make it clear that only the most resolute and drastic purification can redeem public life in Canada from the taint of corruption, the like of which we have not seen in our own country for hundreds of years."

The London, England, Echo stated: "No country can prosper where Public Departments are in league with fraudulent contractors, and Ministers are open to offers."

These were some of the results of the latter years of Tory rule. Verily Canada was in need of a political physician! Those were dark days, but happily the cloud passed away.

HAPPIER DAYS.

Let us now turn over the page and consider existing conditions, and those that have prevailed during the past few years.

It is undeniable that the country is and has been since 1897, highly prosperous; that business of almost every kind is progressing — nay, flourishing; that there is an abundance of remunerative labour—lots of work for every honest man to turn hands or brain to? Indeed it is very difficult for employers to get help. Our great natural resources and transportation channels have been and continue to be developed. Peace and harmony prevail among all classes. There never was a time in the history of this country when the farmers were so prosperous, so well-to-do, and so comfortable as they are to-day. Our finances are in sound condition. Immigration and capital, so long earnestly sought, are flowing our way. The tide of prosperity seemed to turn out west almost concurrent with the change of Government, and it has flowed in increasing measure year by year ever since. There has been no boom from which a reaction might be expected; no! the development, though rapid, has been along right lines. No check has been experienced and none is apparently in sight.

And the future is as bright as it could well be. Our greatest heritage, the illimitable fertile lands of the great North-west—has attracted the serious attention of the world, and settlers are flocking in. Another Trans-continental Railway is projected to keep pace with the development.

The chargin and despair of 1896 have given place to enthusiasm, bustle and pride. Canadians are now thoroughly alive to the fact that "they are citizens of no mean country." Pride of country is the predominant feeling.

A foreigner might consider these statements to be exaggerated, but every impartial Canadian observer knows that they are substantially correct.

The only really disgruntled class we know are the Conservative politicians. They are chagrined because they are not running things, which they believe it is their special mission on earth to do, but they console themselves by amassing money and growing fat in the general prosperity.

They still stick to their pet political nostrums though, and they are now actively engaged in trying to make the people believe that Canada's commercial health is seriously in danger. When we reflect upon the tremendous strides the trade of the country has made in recent years it becomes difficult to believe that any fiscal and business policy could be much better than the existing one.

A PROPHECY FULFILLED.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the course of a speech in the good city of Toronto, in the days when Sir John Thompson was premier, said that when his party came came in power it would not be necessary to quote a long array of figures to prove that the people were prosperous, as one of the Conservative speakers had done that evening—No, said Sir Wilfrid, "You will feel the jingle of prosperity in your pockets!" Whether he spoke in jest or earnest, his prophecy has been literally fulfilled.

To proceed—

We will prove by figures taken from the public records that the country made greater progress during the last seven years under Liberal Government than it made during the whole eighteen years of Conservative rule with the National Policy in operation.

This is an astonishing statement, but the facts which establish it are beyond doubt or controversy.

FATHERLAND ARMY MORALS.

German Minister of War Admits Truth of Charges of Mistreatment of Privates By Their Officers.

Berlin, Dec. 12.—In the Reichstag yesterday, War Minister Von Einem entered earnestly into the charges of brutality and immorality brought against German army officers, without attempting to exculpate them. He admitted there had been abuses, and declared the army administration was determined to correct them so far as possible. Nobody regretted the evils more than Emperor William, who never lost an opportunity to impress the seriousness of the offences that had been brought to light.

Referring to Lieut. Bilsen's book, "A Little Garrison," telling of alleged actions discreditable to officers, for writing which the lieutenant was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, and to dismissal from the army, the War Minister said it contained a certain amount of truth, but it was not true that every lieutenant in the small garrisons lived as Bilsen had described. The Minister did not deny the possibility of corrupt relations between officers and women in a few cases, but the assertion that such was the rule was a slander against German womanhood.

Regarding the brutalities, the Minister declared that such incidents were not wholly inexplicable. There was the bad private soldier as well as the bad sergeant and the bad private was largely responsible for the whole difficulty.

During the year ending in June, the War Minister continued, fifty officers and 577 non-commissioned officers and good service men were punished for mistreatment of privates. The army administration had determined to stop it altogether. Even 100 cases a year would be intolerable.

LAND GRANT WANTED.

U.S. Colonies Propose Settling Colonists in New Ontario.

Fort William, Dec. 12.—The United States Mining and Development Company are looking for land upon which to settle colonies from the United States on a new plan. If they can secure 10,000 acres of a free grant they guarantee to purchase 20,000 acres within two years. The company want to conduct their first colonization excursion on June 1, 1904, and propose to follow it up with an excursion monthly until Sept. 1. On these excursions they propose to bring from 100 to 500 settlers each.

The company will establish sawmills, electric plants and all descriptions of industries to give the settlers employment while paying for their land. They will construct buildings for the settlers, so that pioneer hardships will, as far as possible, be minimized.

Duke of Westminister Injured.

London, Dec. 12.—The Duke of Westminster met with an accident while hunting with the North Cheshire hounds, in the neighborhood of Tarvin, about six miles from Chester, on Wednesday afternoon.

He was taking a fence when his horse stumbled and threw him, he falling on his right shoulder. The Duke was conveyed to Eaton Hall in his automobile, when it was found he had sustained a fracture of the right collarbone.

Turkey Explains.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister here, yesterday filed with the State Department an explanation from the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Turkey, of the Alexandretta affair, stating in effect that United States Consul Davis sought to procure the illegal immigration of a Turkish subject, and, failing in this, attacked and beat the Turkish police and then took the steamer.

REPLY IS AT TOKIO

Hints of Contents of Russia's Answer to Japan's Proposals.

CHANCE FOR UNDERSTANDING

Relaxation of the Tension Shown By Bis-Mostly Sanguine Feeling on the Stock Market—Japan Permits Big Shipment of Coal to Port Arthur, Showing Government Does Not Anticipate War.

London, Dec. 14.—Special despatches from various correspondents in Japan received yesterday morning indicates that the nature of Russia's reply to the proposals of Japan would not be permitted to leak out in the latter country. The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent, however, believes the reply to be of a satisfactory nature, and that an amicable settlement of the existing difficulties is in sight. The correspondent adds:

"As far as I can ascertain Russia has made certain concessions to Japan concerning Manchuria, and is willing to recognize Japanese supremacy in Corea. The relaxation of the tension is shown by the distinctly sanguine feeling on the stock markets. Contrary to what might have been expected the effect of the dissolution of the Diet in business circles has been favorable. During the week ended Dec. 8, 14,000 tons of coal were sent from Japan to Port Arthur; doubtless if the Japanese Government had anticipated war it would have found means to prevent this shipment.

"The Premier has received an Imperial mandate to carry the negotiations with Russia to a conclusion."

A despatch to The Daily Telegraph from one of its correspondents in the Far East asserts that the warships of both Russia and Japan now in Chinese waters have been painted black, their war color.

A St. Petersburg Hope.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 14.—The Novoe Vremya, in an article on the Japanese budget, says that the ridiculously small surplus, taken in connection with the practical impossibility of floating another loan abroad, makes it certain that the war would be ruinous to Japan now that the United States has declined to support that country and expressed the hope that the better sense of the Japanese will rescue the Empire from the jingoes.

According to The Vladivostock correspondent of The Novo Vremya, Admiral Alexieff, the Russian Viceroy in the Far East, has postponed his visit to St Petersburg until January.

A GERMAN EXILE.

Count Von Holstein Destitute in Windsor and Mayor Is Puzzled.

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 14.—Count Ernest Von Holstein, formerly of Hamburg, Germany, arrived in Windsor Friday night with a brood of small children and destitute of any means to provide for them. In Germany, according to the Count's story, he advocated Socialism and was exiled as a result.

Blessed the New Church.

Berlin, Dec. 14.—Yesterday marked an epoch in the history of the Roman Catholic Church at Berlin. The long-looked-forward-to blessing and dedication of the magnificent church took place yesterday morning, and was marked by pomp and splendor that exceeded anything of a similar nature ever seen here. The town and church was honored by His Excellency Monsignor Sbarretti of Ottawa, the Papal Delegate in Canada, and other distinguished prelates present were: Rt. Rev. Bishops Dowling of Hamilton, McEvoy of London and O'Connor of Peterboro. Archbishop O'Connor of Toronto would have been here but for illness.

Receiver For Iron Mills.

Bedford, Pa., Dec. 14.—On application of E. E. Stevens for sundry creditors and J. M. Reynolds for the Saxton Furnace Company, William Lauder and Charles H. Scott have been appointed receivers of the Saxton Furnace Co., at Saxton, Pa. The property consists of ten large blast furnaces with a capacity of 200 tons of pig iron daily.

Yankee Bacon Destroyed.

Metz, Alsace-Lorraine, Dec. 14.—A large quantity of American bacon and considerable oil were destroyed among other things in a fire at the customs shed of the railway shed here yesterday. The damage is estimated at $500,000.

One in Four Persons.

If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

Bonier Held For Murder.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 12.—Charles Bonier, 74 years old, was yesterday held on a charge of having murdered Franz and Johanna Frehr, the aged couple who disappeared on Nov. 19, and whose mutilated bodies were found on Dec. 3, buried in their own yard. City Chemist Hill announced that the spots on the trousers of Bonier are blood spots. Bonier admitted that the trousers belonged to him. He could not explain the presence of the blood.

Stewart Masson Appointed.

Belleville, Dec. 14.—Stewart Masson, barrister of this city, has been appointed county solicitor for Hastings County, the former incumbent, Mr. John Bell, K.C., having retired.

To Employ 2,000 Hands.

The Sham Sailor.

It happened at the Mansion House police court. A man who claimed to be a sailor and who said that he had been badly injured through an accident at sea was charged with begging in the city. The chief magistrate caught sight of a bluejacket in court and, addressing him, said, "You might please ask this man some questions to find out if he is a sailor or whether he is an impostor." The naval man stood up, and, looking at the prisoner, asked, "Can you tell me how many yards of canvas there are on the mainsheet?" After some consideration the shamnautical man replied, "I think about sixty yards." It only remained for the real tar to explain to the magistrate that the mainsheet was a rope and not a sail for the beggar to be convicted.—Golden Penny.

When a Peanut Sprouts.

"Few persons are perhaps aware that a thing of beauty is a common peanut plant growing singly in a six or eight inch pot and grown indoors during the colder weather," said a florist.

"Kept in a warm room or by the kitchen stove, a peanut kernel planted in a pot of loose, mellow loam and only moderately moistened will sprout, germinate and grow up into a beautiful plant, extending its branches over the pot.

"The leaves close together like the leaves of a book on the approach of night or when a shower begins to fall upon them. The plant bears tiny yellow flowers. There is nothing else just like it."

Colombians Land Troops en Route to Panama, But U.S. Cruisers Cannot Find Them—Envoy to Republics.

Colon, Dec. 14.—Through the examination of the San Blas coast, made by the United States cruiser Atlanta and the converted cruiser Mayflower, both of which vessels have returned here, it has been clearly established that the Colombian cruisers, General Pinzon and Cartagena, appeared in the Gulf of Darien about 36 hours after they were reported having left Cartagena. No reliable evidence, however, could be obtained to show how many troops carried by the cruisers had been landed, either on the gulf coast or northwest thereof.

The naval officers found the attitude of the Indians to be indifferent and even repellant. The traditions of the Indians for centuries have been against permitting aliens to land in their territory, and these traditions they still maintain. They often declined to answer the questions of the interpreters, and on several occasions their information was found to be misleading.

The information obtained by the Atlanta and Mayflower points to two probabilities—either that the Colombian troops have been returned to Cartagena or that they have been landed at some point on the coast between Cartagena and the Gulf of Darien, and may be proceeding thence toward Caracas.

The Atlanta sailed again towards the Gulf of Darien yesterday afternoon, and will continue a careful patrol of the coast.

Envoy to Republics.

Caracas, Dec. 14.—According to advices just received here the Colombian Government has decided to send Gen. Rafael Uribe-Uribe, as a special envoy to the South American Republics. He is expected soon to arrive at Caracas.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

Enormous Increase in Five Months—If Increase Is Maintained Will Reach Half Billion Mark This Year.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—The latest returns show no falling off in Canada's foreign trade. On the contrary the abnormal expansion which has been so marked under the present Government continues to display itself. For the five months which terminated November 30th, the aggregate foreign trade on the basis of imports for consumption, coin and bullion and foreign goods, amounted to $221,878,793, an increase of $28,857,756, as compared with the same period of last year. If the increase is maintained for the rest of the year at the same rate customs officials say by the end of the twelve months, viz., on the 30th of June next, a total of $500,000,000 will be reached. For the five months the domestic exports exceeded the imports by $1,221,010. The exports of domestic products were $105,388,513, or $3,865,018 more than for the same five months of last year. The imports for consumption to $104,166,663, being a gain of $17,526,522. The imports of dutiable goods show an increase of $8,936,428, and the free goods an increase of $8,368,094. The exports for the month of November also reveal a gain of nearly $2,000,000.

DO NOT WEAR A LONG FACE.

It is a Great Handicap in All Business and Social Relations.

The man who looks as if he had lost his last friend is in no danger of being crushed by the jam of new ones unless he "cheers up." People are not going out of their way nowadays to associate with the man of mournful and melancholy appearance. They are afraid he will tell them his troubles and they steer clear of him as they all have plenty of their own.

The most universal cause of the forlorn and hopeless appearance today is dyspepsia. It unfits a man for every duty of life and causes him to become despondent and gloomy and necessarily his looks do not belie his feelings. He appears cast down and dejected and becomes a burden to himself and humanity in general.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's certain relief. They do the work that his stomach is unable to do and by relieving that organ become active and useful in its functions. They contain all the essential ingredients that enter into the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they actually take up the work and do it just as a healthy, sound stomach would.

By this means a man can go right ahead with his work and eat enough to keep him in proper working condition. His system is not deprived of its necessary nourishment as it it in the case of the "starvation cure" or the employment of some of the first class chicken foods now on the market. Starvation, even if it were a good thing, could not be continued long enough to effect a cure; for a disordered and worn out stomach is not going to become strong and healthy in two or three days.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act naturally because they contain natural digestives. The principal component parts are aseptic pepsin, malt diastase and other ingredients with like properties that do the work regardless of the condition of the stomach. There is no unnatural or violent disturbance of the digestive organs as the result of their action. In fact the existence of the stomach is entirely forgotten, as soon as they have had time to begin their operations. They also possess very curative and healing properties and assist the stomach in getting well, while relieving it of its work. They perform the duties of both nurse and physician.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and there is very little danger of any druggist trying to sell you anything else that is just as good. They are so well established and have done so much good in the world that their name has become a household word, so the usual warning, "Accept no substitutes," is unnecessary in the case of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Senator Farris' Retrial.

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 14.—The case of Senator Farris on the charge of accepting a bribe of $1,000 from D. J. Kelley for his vote to defeat the passage of the Alum Baking Powder Bill in the Legislature of Missouri of 1901, will come up in the Circuit Court to-day for retrial.

MILITIA OF CANADA

Some Results of Sir Frederick Borden's Mission to England.

G. O. C. RESTRICTION REMOVED

All Reference to the Position of the Officer Commanding at Halifax Omitted—British Government Not Indisposed to Hand Over Halifax and Esquimalt to Canada—Sir Frederick Borden Honored.

London, Dec. 14.—Sir Frederick Borden gives the C.A.P. leave to announce the result of his mission as follows:

1.- There will be no restriction or limitation in future in the selection of an officer to command the Canadian militia.

2. The date of appointment controls the precedence between an officer of the Imperial army and of the Canadian militia.

3. All reference to the position of the officer commanding at Halifax is omitted.

4. Increased facilities for educational purposes at the staff college, etc., will be given to all branches of the Canadian militia in exchange for staff appointments between the two military forces.

It is rumored at the London military clubs that the British Government is not indisposed to hand over the responsibility for the maintenance of the fortresses at Halifax and Esquimalt to the Canadian Government.

Mr. Borden has been made a member of the permanent committee on Imperial defence. It is the first time any colonial Minister has been honored in this way. He is pleased with the result of his visit, and sails on Wednesday.

DOMINION WHEAT DUMPING.

Lord Rosebery Says It Would Depopulate English Rural Districts.

Lord Rosebery, speaking at Edinburgh on Saturday, argued that a 2 shilling duty on corn could be no help to the British agriculturist when experts urged from 5 shillings to 25. Mr. Chamberlain's colonial preference would bring the English farmers into direct competition with 850,000,000 acres of the finest wheat territory in Canada and their last state would be worse than the first. They would be obliged to pay more for their feeding stuffs and machinery, while Canadian wheat dumping, specifically encouraged by Canadian bounty-fed corn, would depopulate the English rural districts. The United States would soon not have enough food for her population; then would come the time for Canada and Australia to become the great grain supplying source for the Empire, but in war time the surest policy would be to take the whole world for our granary. Mr. Sifton's statement that Canada did not require to be bribed to ensure her loyalty, would be re-echoed through every part of the Empire. The British Empire was a great defensive league of communities under the august head of the British Crown.

The Times, referring to Lord Rosebery's speech, says: "He studiously endeavors to set the English agriculturist against the Canadian. Lord Rosebery does not see that the Canadian wheat belt is the greatest productive asset within the Empire."

The Standard says: "Lord Rosebery made an adroit speech. It was the recent utterances of Canadian statesmen that led him to attack the new project on the Imperial side."

PASSING OF WOODEN SHIPS.

Fifty-Two Wrecked on the Lakes, But Not One Steel Ship.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—The "hearts of oak" passed rapidly into a bygone era during the season of navigation just closed on the Great Lakes. The transition from wood to steel was never so marked. With no wooden ships being built, fifty-two passed out of existence by being wrecked, and probably half as many more made their last trips and will never sail again. The lost vessels were valued at $924,600. From the marine underwriters' standpoint, the season was the most disastrous since 1898. The aggregate of losses of all kinds, including cargoes, was about $2,100,000. The total premiums taken in by the companies are estimated at about the same figure. The net loss, which consists of commissions and expense of doing business, may aggregate $800,000. This is divided between many companies. The season was notable in that all the total losses were confined to wooden ships. Not a single steel ship was lost, and the partial losses on this class of property were much lighter than usual.

Lake Erie was the most dangerous of all the lakes, both for vessel property and human life. One hundred and nineteen disasters were charged to that lake, or nearly one-fourth of the entire list. Lake Michigan came next with 98 disasters. Other lakes and rivers were: Lake Superior, 60; Lake Ontario, 51; Detroit River, 42; St. Clair River, 55; Soo Passage, 35.

Marvelous Police Deduction, This.

Calgary, Dec. 14.—There is still no clue to Murderer Cashel, but the police authorities are of the opinion that he is now in Calgary. They arrive at this conclusion because there is reason to believe that he is no place else. No horse was secured from the liveries or from any other place here.

J. S. N. Dougall Elected.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—J. S. N. Dougall, of McCaskill, Dougall & Co., has been elected president of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association, the vote being Dougall 1,273 and George Mann 811.

A Battered Legend.

A hotel in Switzerland bore on one of its walls the time honored inscription, "Hospes, salve!" ("Welcome, stranger!") After rebuilding the legend had to be restored, but the painter, who must have had some experience as a traveler, made a very slight alteration in one of the words and caused it to read, "Hospes, solve?" (Pay, stranger?")

Manitoba's Total Cereal Crop

Winnipeg, Dec. 14.—During the year 1903, Manitoba produced a total crop of all grains of 82,576,519 bushels. As compared with the year previous, 1902, this season's crop shows a falling off in the total production of 17,476,824 bushels, by far the larger portion of which is made up of wheat and flax. The total yield of cereals is as follows: Wheat, 40,116,878 bushels, oats 33,035,774 bushels, barley 6,707,252 bushels, flax 564,440 bushels, rye 49,900 bushels, peas 34,154 bushels, total 82,576,519 bushels.

Potatoes $1,680,000 a Ton.

London, Dec. 14.—Some extraordinary prices were realized at the Smithfield show for a few pounds of potatoes. A York firm sold four pounds of Eldorado potatoes for $8,000, or $750 a pound. This works out $1,680,000 per ton, or about three times their weight in gold. The raiser of these remarkable tubers declined an offer of $70 for a single potato. Ten tons of Northern Stars brought £8,000.

AN ELECTION IN 1842.

Graphic Description of That Which Took Place at Belleville.

The members of the Women's Canadian Historical Association are performing a laudable work in presenting in pamphlet form, the transactions of the society. The fourth of these little books has just been issued. It contains among other things very interesting papers, one on "Some Elections and the Battle of Hastings," by Mrs. Agnes Chamberlain. The author gives a graphic description of an election in Belleville in 1842.

"The whole town," says Mrs. Chamberlain, "was in a state of fermentation. People hitherto life-long friends cut each other on the street. Doctors were written to by many of their oldest patients to send in their bills. I know in one case two children questioned the butcher and baker, when they called for orders, as to whom they voted for, and when they answered, 'The Reform candidate,' these youthful partisans told them not to come to that house again, as they did not deal with rebels."

The election commenced on Monday morning, and went on without unusual incident for some hours. It was then noticed that as one party had voted they tried to prevent the other party from getting to the hustings, and that nearly all carried canes or sticks of some kind. The returing officer hearing threats, ordered that every man who came up to vote must first give up his stick. This they seemed to do willingly enough. The sticks were piled at the back of the hustings.

The following day this went on till nearly the close of the poll, when a man who had been obliged to give up his stick saw another with a pistol. Upon accusing him of having it the man ran to one of the booths, and leaning over the counter, dropped it behind a barrel. In one moment the crowd were upon him and down went the booth. The man fell, and his head, in a very short time, was like a red nightcap. Sticks and "handy billies" (a stone or piece of lead in the top of a stocking), were flying about the heads of the crowd. The man would have been killed (he was an Orangeman) if it had not been for the arrival of an unexpected rescuer.

A shout of "Hold there!" and the Catholic priest leaped into the midst of the melee, a good stout shillalah in his hand. Placing a foot on each side of the wounded man, he twisted his stick in a manner that suggested Donnybrook Fair, and called to his own people "to touch the man if they dare." When they became a little calmer he had the man carried into his own kitchen (which adjoined the church), and had his wound dressed. We were told, later on, that he had nine men brought in and cared for. In the meantime when the row began, every man who had been obliged to give up his stick made a rush to the hustings to regain it, the result being that the hastily-constructed building came down like a house built of cards.

The riot ended only when a company of British regulars arrived, and the Riot Act was read. The officers in command were Captain Crutcalley, afterwards a general, and Watkin Wynne, afterwards Sir Watkin Wynne, who was killed in the Crimea, while attempting to give a drink of water to a wounded Russian.

An Explanation.

Some misunderstanding appears to have arisen over the statement contained in Saturday's issu of the Examiner to the affect th the suit entered by Crockford ag nst Rev. Mr. Lecyner, had been dismissed. This case should not be confused with the criminal charge upon which Crockford is now awaiting trial. The suit spoken of was entered by Crockford in the summer, and nothing has ever been done with it. It is a distinctly different case to that on on which Crockford is to be tried on.

AN ENJOYABLE STRANGERS' TEA

Held in the Y. M. C. A. Building Last Night.

Many citizens have but a faint idea of the helpfulness of the Y.M.C.A. to the increasing number of young men who come to the town as strangers. For the past three years all such have been given a ticket entitling them to the privileges of the Y.M.C.A. for their first month in town. A later auxiliary to this has been the holding of Strangers' Teas once a month in the Association Building. The 19th tea was held last night, attended by 18 young men, including several members of the Association, with Col. E. B. Edwards, president, and Mr. R. E. Harding, of the Board of Directors.

Mr. Harding received the guests in the parlour and escorted them to the Board Room, where tea had been prepared by the ladies of St. Paul's church.

After tea, the chairman, Mr. Harding, introduced the plan of getting the men acquainted. Each in turn, told who he was, where from, how long in town, where employed, the church he attended, and his impressions of the town. All the men expressed their admiration of the town and their gratitude for the hospitality shown them by the association since their arrival in town. The majority had only been here for a few weeks. One had arrived on the early Sunday morning train, had called at the building ,and had been invited to the tea.

Among the guests were those who hailed from Edinburgh, Scotland, New York City, Syracuse, Kemptville, Foxboro, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Otonabee, Toronto and Ingersoll. The tea closed with the Fellowship Club hymn, "Take the Name of Jesus with you," and Mr. Aplin offered prayer.

Another pleasant half hour was spent in the parlour around the blazing fire place, when Colonel Edwards told of some very interesting things of Peterborough's early days. At church time the strangers were taken to the churches of their choice —all denominations being represented.

THE TOWN'S PROSPERITY IS EVER ON THE INCREASE.

Both Railways Handle Large Quantities of Freight—The C. P. R. Yard Staff Increased.

In order that they may keep on a level with Peterborough's ever increasing prosperity both the G.T.R. and C.P.R. have to do some hall hustling, and to-day both lines are handling just about as much freight as is good for their constitutions. Now that winter has come and the snow has made Christmastide seem almost as to-morrow, the freight grows bulkier and more bulky until one cannot help wondering, as one looks upon the station yards where the workmen are busily employed unloading a seemingly endless row of cars, where all these goods are going to. So extensive is their trade at this always busy season that the C. P. R. has had to enlarge its yard staff in order that the work may be coped with on a fair basis. However the busiest time of the year has yet to come, for there is no busier time than the last few days of the year, when the reduced rates come in. On both railway systems a fare and a third will be the price from December 23rd, lasting for five days, while it will be single fair from December 24th to January 5th.

Both railway depots report a great increase in freight per carload. The reason for this is the increase in the number of wholesale houses in town. For instance the Perkins, Ince Company's warehouse opposite the G.T.R. station, handles all the former small lots and then distributes them throughout the town.

There is great profit in handling the Cereal Company's manufactures and the G.T.R. siding will, it is said, be ready for traffic from that large factory soon. Instead of sending their cars per C.P.R. the Grand Trunk will handle their own cars, and to facilitate traction a double siding has been built on the Ashburnham side of the river at Auburn.

The passenger trade although extensive, has not, during the past two week, been quite up to its high standard, the reason of this being the fact that after December 23rd travelling will be much cheaper.

In all there is no doubt whatever that the freight and passenger traffic of both railways this month has been greater than the business of December in 1902.

—Some very changeable weather has been experienced during the past few days. After the heavy fall of snow on Saturday, the weather turned much milder, and rain began unpectedly to fall. This was succeeded by a sudden change in the direction of the wind, and a rapidly falling temperature. The cold blasts of the Northwest wind continued unabated all day Sunday and during the night, the high wind and low temperature made a very unpleasant combination. Two above zero was the lowest figure reached, but a thermometer is hardly a reliable weather indicator in a wind such as last night.

The Englishmen in their four matches—three of which have been won and one drawn—have scored 1577 runs for the loss of forty wickets, which gives an average of 39.42 runs per wicket. TURF.

There is a division of opinion in local turf circles regarding the date of the winter races which are set down for January 6th and 7th. The cause for this disquietude is a rumour from Port Perry that the date of the races there may be changed. They have been put down for January 13th and 14th, but it is said that they may be changed to the 6th and 7th. Thus Peterborough and Port Perry will clash, "which," said a local turfman, "will be the death of Peterborough." Port Perry gives $500 in purses, while Peterborough offers $600 in all for four races—a .40 class, a .28 class, a .30 and a free for all. The Belleville races will take place on the 19th and 20th; they offer $700 in prizes.

The local track is said to be in excellent condition, and at present Keepabell, Blucher, Black Boy, Prince Hal., jr., and other horses are getting into shape for the season. The track is open and the public generally is invited by the Turf Club to drive down and see the horses having a work out any afternoon.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL.

This name is, on this continent, as synonymous with financial strength, solidity and security, as the Bank of England is in Europe. In Saturday's issue was printed the report of the eighty-ninth annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, and the reports of its condition presented, reveal the results of over four score years of progress, unexampled perhaps in the history of financial institutions. Year after year one would have thought that the annual report would have shown the zenith of prosperity, but every recurring annual meeting shows substantial advances and this year marks the culmination—up to the present. The report records national progress and prosperity in which the bank has had its share, not only in the results of such prosperity, but very largely in producing it. The result of the half year's operations of the bank shows a profit of nearly a million dollars—$917,156.31, representing an annual profit of nearly two millions. Then with a five per cent. half yearly dividend, declared, there was added to the rest account $1,000,000, giving a total of $10,000,000, a truly phenominal series of conditions. As showing the confidence of the public in the solidity of the bank, and the value of its securities, two millions of capital stock issued, were not only underwritten but paid up—making the total capital $14,000,000. Many branches have been added, and thus the process of expansion of one of the greatest banking institutions of the world goes steadily on. The annual report referred to will be pleasant reading for not only everbody whose business interests are concerned, but also to the general public, and to every Canadian who takes pride in the progress of of his country, represented as it is in this case, by a financial institution which is not only a credit to, but the pride of, Canada.

SLUGGISH HEARTS OF THE ISRAELITES.

Could not be Reached by Moses St. Andrew's Church Yesterday Evening.

Rev. J. G. Potter conducted all the services at St. Andrew's church yesterday in the presence of fairly large congregations on each occasion. In the evening, during the offertory Miss Florence Miller sang a solo "God is Love," while prior to his sermon Rev. Mr. Potter paid a high tribute to the late Mrs. Raper, a firm member of St. Andrew's church. He took for his text Exodus, chapter 6, verse 9: "And Moses spake unto the Children of Israel, but they hearkened not unto Moses for anguish of spirit and for cruel bondage."

The preacher began by showing how the children of Israel, in bondage as they were, ought to have been inspired by such words of freedom. It would be thought that their hearts would leap with joy at a thought of getting away from their cruel and oppressive task masters. But they did not look forward to the prospects of freedom. Even the messenger sent, reassuring them that the attitude of their God would be the same to them as towards their forefathers, did not seem to be heeded by them. Although they knew that Moses had abandoned the pleasures and luxuries of Pharoh's Court to take up this work, they did not hearken unto him. His words did not seem to reach the cold sluggish hearts of the people of God. In their carelessness they let the glorious chance of freedom go past and endured the hardships of exile, than take any risks in a new venture. To-day poverty and riches cause the same carelessness in spiritual matters. The poor have not clothes in which to come to church while the rich have other pleasures. These are the two reasons put up as excuses for not attending church. But God requires ourselves and His message is one of liberty. In His service men and women are brighter and happier. But we must be sincere and honest in purpose.

In conclusion Rev. Mr. Potter spoke for a short time on the good work of the Mission Band.

ALD RUSH'S SCHEME.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear sir,—I would be pleased to know where the great speculation for the town may be in the town's buying the Hilliard farm.

We will take the item of stone for which $4,695.00 has been spent from 1899 to Sept. 12th, 1903. Anyone at all familiar with the facts known that this material has been obtained gratis, the whole cost being in the drawing. The handling and carriage is where the cost comes in. In the item of gravel $1,238, ten per cent of this item, $123.80 would be the value of this material at the pit, the balance being made up in the handling and carriage. So that out of the whole expenditure of $5,943 only $123.80 is spent for material, the balance, $5,719.20, being spent on labour which would have to be incurred in any event. The gravel from this pit has been considered unfit for pavement purposes where the work has been done by contract. Will it be any more suitable because the town should own it?

In regard to the hospital scheme one would hardly think that it would be necessary to buy 66 acres for an isolation hospital, and that if such a building should be built, it would be better to have it near the location of one of the present hospitals.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

ADDRESSES GIVEN ON MISSIONS

At Annual Meeting of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society

Meeting Held in St. Paul's School Room—Officers Elected for 1904—Mrs. Gregory of Toronto Speaks.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Auxiliary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, was held in the school room of the church on Friday afternoon, Dec. 11th. In spite of rather unfavourable weather there was a large attendance, more than one hundred ladies being present. The president, Miss Dickson, occupied the chair.

After the opening exercises the president gave a short address, which was listened to with great interest.

This was followed by the Secretary's report, read by Miss Hall, and the financial statement read by Miss Kingan. Miss Helen Hall read the report of the Fraser Mission Band, and Miss Mattie Robinson, the Faithful Workers' report, both of which were most encouraging and satisfactory.

Mrs. Gregory of Toronto, gave a most helpful and deeply interesting address on "Our Inheritance and our Trust," being an earnest appeal to all the women of the Presbyterian church in Canada to greater endeavours and more devoted service and co-operation in the work of the Master. This address was greatly enjoyed by all who had the pleasure of hearing it. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Gregory by Mrs. Torrance, seconded by Mrs. Robert Hall.

Mrs. Magie read a very excellent and instructive paper entitled "The Vision—the Message."

While the offering was being taken Miss White sang a solo very sweetly.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. Walter Roger.

Greetings from the Auxiliary of All Saints' church, were received from Mrs. Best; from the Baptist church from Mrs. Bastow; and from the George street Methodist church, from Mrs. Campbell. The meeting was closed with prayer offered by Dr. Torrance.

The following officers and executive committee were elected for the year 1904:

President—Miss Dickson.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Denniston.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. McPherson.
Secretary—Miss Hall.
Treasurer—Miss Kingan.
Literary Secretary—Mrs. J. A. Patterson.
Librarian—Miss Bertha Brown.

In reviewing the work for another year, we find abundant reason to thank God for His great goodness to us, as a society. We feel that it has been a time of encouragement and progress. The work has gone steadily on and our meetings have been interesting and profitable. Our total membership is 112. Of the Auxiliary 56 are members of the general society and 17 are life members, one having been added during the year. The number of subscribers to "The Missionary Tidings," is 105, the same as last year. We feel that if more of the women of our congregation subscribed for and carefully read this little leaflet which contains letters from and news of our missionaries working in many far off lands, their interest in this work would be greatly deepened. In May we finished the study of "Via Christi," and the following month began "Lux Christi." At each of our monthly meetings papers bearing on the different characters and subjects dealt with in these books, have been read and have added greatly to the interest which has been taken in these studies. At our meeting held last December, we listened with pleasure to a very interesting address, "Characters from "Via Christi" given by Mrs. McGee land of Toronto. In June Mrs. Leach, who had for many years been our faithful and efficient secretary was obliged to resign owing to her removal from town. She gave of her time and labour unselfishly in the furtherance of the Master's work, and our united prayer for her is that she may be greatly blessed in her new home and in being spared for still greater service. Our annual Thanksgiving service, held in October, was very largely attended and the thank offering amounted to $239.74, the most liberal ever received. The Stewart settlement Sunday school, again, as for many years, contributed four dollars, for which we are very grateful. In September a box was sent to the Lake of the Woods training school, containing clothing for a boy and girl for whom we had been asked to provide, also quilts and other useful articles, the whole valued at $60. Death has visited our midst during the year, and Mrs. Henderson, one of our most devoted and earnest members, was taken from us. Mrs. Henderson was for many years one of our vice presidents and was also a life member. Though unable to be with us during the past year or two, we felt that at all times we had her earnest prayers and living and sincere sympathy. Her influence for good will long remain with us, as an inspiration, for still greater faithfulness and more devoted service to our Heavenly Father. Our Auxiliary continues to send a religious paper, entitled "The Interior," to our lady missionaries in India, our only missionaries, but, also, the Hindoo students find enjoyment in this paper and look forward eagerly to its coming. We rejoice in what has been accomplished and hopefully enter the coming year, praying that it may be one of more zealous work, more liberal giving and more earnest prayer for a blessing upon every branch of this work, undertaken in His Name.

Secretary.

The Beautiful in Lowney's.

Beauty is the strongest of arguments—it convinces without a word. Perhaps hundreds of ladies and gentlemen have already admired Ormond & Walsh's beautiful window, dressed with Lowney's chocolate bon-bons. If you are among those who have not yet seen the display, next time you're out have a look. Such a recherche demonstration of Lowney's high-class goods was never before seen here. If your heart and palate are one and the same, nothing will win your affection like these Lowney's chocolates. The dainty parcels are works of art and call forth admiration. Exquisite Christmas gifts they will make. Mr. D. D. never does things by halves.

ADDRESS ON INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

Mr. W. H. Rosbuck, of Toronto, to Speak on This Subject.

A Movement Which is Attracting Considerable Attention—Principles of Direct Legislation.

A movement which is engaging the attention of a great many thinking men is about to be discussed at a public meeting in Peterborough this week. On Wednesday night, Mr. Walter H. Rosbuck, of Toronto, will give an address under the auspices of the Trades and Labour Council on "The Initiative and Referendum," the two cardinal principles in direct legislation. This question is one which is becoming somewhat of a live subject in Toronto, and Mayor Urquhart will at an early meeting of the City Council submit a proposal, the adoption of which provides that 2,000 voters of Toronto by petition to the Council may have any proposed legislation submitted to the people before becoming law.

The two main features of Direct Legislation are (1) The Optional Referendum, which gives the people a veto power over laws passed by municipal councils or the legislature; and (2) The Voters' Initiative, which gives the people power to initiate new measures that the municipal Council or the Legislature refuses or neglects to pass.

The Trades and Labour Council is interested in this movement, and with a view of having the principles more clearly understood have secured the services of Mr. Rosbuck, the assistant secretary of the Direct Legislation League of Ontario, to give an address explaining the features of the movement.

It is one of the contentions of the League that the optional referendum should be adopted first as to the people's veto on certain measures passed by the council. Provision is made that no such measure shall go into effect for thirty or sixty days, or some such time, from date of passing. If during that interval a petition signed by a certain percentage—say five per cent.—of the qualified electors is presented, asking for a popular vote on the measure, then it must be voted on by the people, and if they say "no," that measure does not become law. The people have vetoed it. And the mere fact that such a veto exists, makes the Council very careful what proposed laws they pass.

As municipalities do nearly all their business by bylaw, it is not practicable to delay every bylaw so as to make it subject to the optional referendum. Certain important classes of bylaws should therefore be specified for this purpose, such as those granting franchises, etc.

Municipal councils and the Provincial Legislature have now the legal power to refer questions to a vote of the people, but there is no legal Machinery by which the people may instruct them to do so, nor is there any provision that the mandate of the people shall be obeyed. These two defects would, if is claimed, be cured, by adopting Direct Legislation.

THE VOTERS' INITIATIVE

Suppose that circumstances brought some public question to the front, and there seemed a fair chance of a popular majority in its favour. An Initiative Petition, headed by an exact draft of the proposed law, would be presented to the council, who would by that presentation be obliged to consider and discuss the measure asked for by the petition. If they declined to pass it, then it would have to go to a vote of the people, and would become law if the people said "Yes." But the council, when the matter came before them, might say, "We will not pass this Bill just as asked for, but we do not object to pass a Bill which goes a certain length in the same direction." They would then prepare their modified Bill, and the two Bills would go to the popular vote, that is the Bill asked for by the Initiative Petition, and the modified bill of the council. Then the people—the electors—would accept one or the other, or reject both; and whatever they did would be law.

The address by Mr. Rosbuck promises to be an interesting one, and will no doubt be largely attended.

"THE CATACOMBS OF ROME."

Excellent Paper on This Subject Read by Miss Josie O'Heron.

At the meeting of the Ladies Literary Association of St. Peter's T.A. S., which was held Friday evening, Miss Josie O'Heron read an excellent paper on the "Catacombs of Rome." The origin of these hallowed resting places of the sacred dead, was fully explained, and their enormous extent also referred to. Their use as a place of refuge for the Christians of Rome, in the days of the early persecutions, was also clearly brought out, and formed an interesting portion of the paper. In dealing with the decorations of the Catacombs, Miss O'Heron very beautifully pictured the different paintings of sacred art, with which the first Christians were accustomed to decorate their homes as well as their memorable burying places. The plundering and desecration of these Catacombs by the different tribes during the devastations of Rome, and in later years, their restoration by His Holiness, Pius IX, were also points of special interest in the essay of the evening. On the whole, the paper which was thoroughly appreciated by a very large audience, was one which could be characterized as beautiful, interesting and instructive. Miss O'Heron was warmly congratulated both on her literary production and on the excellent manner in which it was read.

During the evening Miss Stella Kelly contributed a pleasing instrumental solo. Miss Kathleen McGrath was very heartily encored on her recitation, "Naming the Baby!" which she gave in a very creditable manner. Two sweetly rendered solos, were also sung by Miss Geraldine Rudkins, the latter one, especially, "Love at Home," being particularly well rendered for a child of her years.

The next literary meeting of the Association, will take place Friday, Jan. 8th, when another interesting paper on "Church History," will be read.

There is still a limited number of ladies' membership tickets, which may be had from the Librarian, or from members of the Ladies' Committee.

SIR WILLIAM HARCOURT.

Liberal Statesman says Canadians Cannot Be Bribed to Do Their Duty as Citizens of the Empire.

London, Dec. 12.—(C.A.P.)—Sir William Harcourt asked a deputation from the steel works at Ebbvale yesterday if protection prevented dumping by Germany and America, what guarantee was there that Canada and Australia would reciprocate on Chamberlain's lines? How were they to deal with the Canadian dumping of iron? Dumping could not be cured by retaliation.

Referring to Mr. Sifton's speech, in answer to Mr. Chamberlain's cry that they would lose the colonies without a preference, he said there was nothing more destructive to manly self-reliance than the insinuation that Canadians could be bribed to do their duty as citizens of the Empire. Nothing was fairer than Mr. Sifton's statement that if Great Britain came to Canada with a trade treaty it would be considered as a matter of business. Chamberlain's national tie was to tax 40,000,000 of people for the benefit of Canada. There was no answer to the question what England would get in return. Instead of the corn tax making the Empire self-supporting, it would raise a fresh competitor against the English farmer. The position of the colonies was that they were willing to raise the tax on foreigners, but not to lower the taxation on British goods.

Reply to Phillips Thompson.

The News, referring to Phillips Thompson's letters regarding the state of the Canadian labor market, says it is remarkable that a sustained effort is being made to diminish the flow of emigration to a rich country, and gives an extended reply by the Canadian Commissioner of Emigration.

A. Jones, M.P., speaking under the auspices of the Tramway Association yesterday, said that the plan of Mr. Chamberlain for a zollverein was untenable. In the case of Canada, everything pointed to the United States, and not to England, as her commercial associate.

Charles W. Long, M.P., at Glasgow, said that Canadian trade with England had doubled under the new preferential system, and it was an indication of success for a preferential policy.

Results Not as Anticipated.

The Daily Standard, referring to the speeches of Sir Richard Cartwright and John Charlton, says: "Mr. Chamberlain has assumed that the Imperial system can only be saved by drawing the links of trade closer. The answer he receives from representative Canadians is that the only advantage they anticipate from his proposal is better access to the markets of the United States."

Canada Should Contribute.

Mr. Faithful Bebb, ex-M.P., speaking at the London Chamber of Commerce dinner, said the basis of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals was that Canada should contribute a share towards Imperial defence; if not, absolutely nothing would be done in the way of preference. The statement was received with loud applause.

The Canadian Farmers' Help Society is sending a party of emigrants to take farms in Ontario. They will sail on the 22nd.

Hon. G. E. Foster Home.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—Hon. G. E. Foster arrived home yesterday. He spoke at many of the Chamberlain meetings in Britain, and was astonished at the progress Mr. Chamberlain had made. The Canadian situation in 1878 is, he says, duplicated in Britain just now as to the position of the parties. Many tributes were paid Canada in his hearing.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O

Collision on the C. P. R. Near Rat Portage.

Winnipeg, Dec. 12.—The freight accident on the C.P.R. west of Rat Portage Thursday occurred while a freight west-bound was standing on the west end of the Scovil bridge. Here it was overtaken by a train hauled by engine 1,818, which smashed into the caboose. Several cars, including a dead engine, went over. All the trainmen escaped injury, but the bridge watchman, Wm. McPherson, was fatally wounded, and lived only a few moments after arriving at St. Joseph's Hospital, Rat Portage. Deceased was 55 years of age, and unmarried. His mother lives at Dryden.

HUNTING THE WHALE

FAST LITTLE GUNBOATS USED BY NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERS.

Eight Hundred Leviathans Taken in One Season—Modern Methods Which Have Revolutionized an Ancient Industry—Modern Whalers Paying Dividends of 50 Per Cent. on the Capital Invested.

Contrary to the popular inland belief, the whaling industry on the northern Atlantic coast is very far from obsolescent. The Grand Bank of Newfoundland is almost as full of whales as it ever was, and the whaling steamers of Newfoundland last year towed in no less than 800 of these leviathans. It is expected that the catch this year will exceed 800. Whales are no longer pursued in the stout timber sailing vessels of the ancient mariners, but, while the romance of this feature of life on the great ocean deeps has evaporated, the modern whalers are paying dividends of 50 per cent on the capital invested in steamers and trying out factories, and the hardships and perils of the business have been greatly lessened.

A CONTRAST IN WHALING METHODS.

Half a century ago the business was at its height in Fortune Bay, where it was mainly carried on. The record catch for those days was seventy-seven fish a season, which is remarkable when the primitive machinery of capture is considered. Rowboats were sent out from the whaling ships when a spouting whale was sighted.

Now fast steamers, equipped with many special appliances, do most of the fishing.

In the bow of the whaling steamer is mounted a small cannon, which discharges an iron bar more than six feet long with great flanges near the butt which fly open when the whale is struck, but before being fired are folded back so as to enter the gun. The projectile is tipped with a pointed bomb loaded with explosive, which blow up upon coming into contact with the bony substance inside the whale. To the harpoon is attached a hempen rope, which pays itself out with such velocity that bucketfuls of water have to be poured on it to keep it from catching fire. When the weapon plunges into the great fish the flanges on the bar are flung open so that the shaft cannot be withdrawn, while the exploding bomb generates a great quantity of gas, which prevents the whale from sinking. One shot, if well directed, usually kills.

When dead the whale's fat is cut off with huge knives, something like scythes with straight handles. This fat is fed to choppers, which cut it into small pieces. These fall into vats, where the oil is tried out and from which it is drawn into barrels. The blubber which remains is subjected to heavy pressure to extract the last vestige of oil, and the residue, with the meat and ribs which form the carcass, is converted into fertilizer. The whalebone is removed from the mouth and carefully cleaned and dried. It is manufactured into harness, whips, corset busks and other dress materials. The fins are cut off and used in making artificial feathers. The tongue yields a fine oil much used in medicinal preparations. The average carcass gives about sixty barrels of oil.

Exciting incidents are not lacking even in modern whaling, and only recently a steamer was towed for twenty-six hours by a huge animal nearly ninety feet long, which had been struck near the tail. The maddened fish "sounded," taking out the cable like a streak of lightning, and, returning to the surface, headed across Placentia Bay, where it was struck, towing the ship like a chip, while the engines were running at full speed astern in the hope of tiring out the captive. He kept this tack for fifty-five miles until shoals compelled him to change his course, then towing the vessel forty-two miles in another direction. Nearing land again, he executed a third tack of thirteen miles, when his strength became exhausted and he was hauled in and given his deathblow with another shot from the ship's cannon. In the days of smaller vessels, without engines, many a skipper was jerked about the ocean for hours by a captured whale.

Poisonous Baby Snakes.

The young of the poisonous species of serpents, deserted from the very first by the parent snakes, are as dangerous as if full grown from the moment they enter the world. The proprietor of a Philadelphia museum learned this to his cost. In a big glass case partitioned through the middle by a wire screen there lived side by side an eleven foot anaconda (of the constricter family) and a colony of cotton mouth moccasins. It was impossible for the moccasins to glide through the narrow meshes of the screen or even to venture an occasional "strike" at their large and peaceful neighbor. But during the night a brood of young cotton mouths unexpectedly appeared—babies, not five inches long. They squirmed through the meshes of the partition and before they had been two hours in this world were gliding joyfully over the lifeless body of the huge constrictor, which lay poisoned by the youngsters' fangs.

Wesley on Wedlock.

In an interesting little tract on "Marriage" by John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, all the duties of a wife are summed up in two rules—namely, that she must recognize herself as the inferior of her husband and that she must behave as such. These were John Wesley's theories, and that his practice may have been somewhat similar is shown by the following sentence from a letter to his wife: "Be content to be a private, insignificant person, known and loved by God and me." John Wesley's opinions on this subject were perhaps the fruit of his experience, but it is also possible that they were a cause rather than an effect, and that the thorniness of his marital relations may have been in a measure traceable thereto.

A Sarcastic Retort.

Some curious anecdotes are related of Hermann Zumpe, the Wagnerian conductor at Munich. He was well known to be a spiritualist and believed that the ghosts of dead composers inspired his conducting of their works. One day Zumpe told another conductor of note how Beethoven's spirit was present during the performance of one of the symphonies, and so pleased was the ghost that after the end of the first movement he exclaimed, "At last!"

"Ah, my dear fellow," exclaimed the other conductor, "surely Beethoven made a mistake. He thought it was the end of the last movement."

Queer Uses of English.

No man living perhaps can pronounce the English language aright at all times and in all places, for correctness depends largely on time and place, and sometimes to be right you must be wrong. As soon as you step on shipboard and sail, the horizon, being clear and definite, sheds the need for a long "i," and at sea it rhymes with "orizon." In the army a route is always called a "rowte." Moreover, the cavalry, by long standing tradition, calls a horse an "orse," and the order is "stand to 'orses."—London Globe.

Too Much For Him.

Voltaire could not speak much English. The reason why he refused to study the language is this: It was drilled into him that "plague" was pronounced "plaig," which he thought very pretty and acceptable. But right on top of it he was introduced to "ague," which his teacher said must be called "a-gue." Finding it impossible to reconcile the difference, he went off into a philosophical tantrum and dropped the study.

PHILANTHROPIST NO LONGER

U.S. Senator Says His Country is Under No Obligation to Give Further Aid to Cuba.

Washington, Dec. 12.—There were two speeches in the United States Senate yesterday on the Cuban reciprocity bill, one of them by a Democrat in support of the bill, and the other by a Republican in opposition to it. The opposing speech was made by Mr. Boyd (Cal.), who contended that the United States was under no obligation to give further aid to Cuba, and especially when to do so, we must pursue a course injurious to our own industries.

Mr. McCreary (Ky.) made his maiden speech in the Senate, and supported the bill as in line with our past magnanimous course towards Cuba, and especially because he believed it to be a step towards tariff reform. He referred to the splendid work done by the United States in liberating Cuba from Spanish domination and said: "We must not mar our great record of magnanimity, of generosity, but must go on and insure to Cuba commercial prosperity and financial success."

Mr. McCreary referred at some length to the agitation for a protective policy in Great Britain, which, he said, had been induced by our own tariff policy. "If," he said, "under the able and accomplished Chamberlain a law should be enacted closing the markets of that country by as high a tariff rates as our own, and if Great Britain should allow free trade with her colonies it is not difficult to see what the result would be."

He closed with a declaration to the effect that the day has almost arrived when the nations of the world would cease to permit their market to remain open to the United States, while the markets of this country are closed to them.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Ray Gwendoline Vosper's Clothing Ignited From a Blazing Sheet.

Hamilton, Dec. 12.—Ray Gwendoline Vosper, the 2-year-old daughter of C. A. Vosper, Hess Corners, Barton township, who runs a stall in the market hall, was fatally burned yesterday. Her mother went out into the yard for a few minutes, leaving a sheet thrown over a chair near the stove. In her absence the sheet took fire, and when she came back she found that the flames had spread to her little daughter's dress. The unfortunate child was rolling on the floor in agony. Before the fire could be extinguished she was so badly burned that she died last evening.

To Withdraw Bylaw.

Ottawa, Dec. 12.—It has been decided by the authorities of the University of Ottawa to ask the City Council to withdraw from submission to the ratepayers the bylaw authorizing an expenditure of $50,000 to aid the University in rebuilding. A letter to that effect has been sent to the Mayor by Rev. Dr. Emery. The University authorities do not wish a measure placed before the people which may cause any friction or division of opinion.

MacPherson For Burrard, B.C.

Burrard, B. C., Dec. 12.—At a meeting of the Liberals, Mr. R. MacPherson, the present member for Burrard, was unanimously nominated as candidate in the approaching general elections.

The Human Dread of Heart Failure.
Symptoms of Which Cause Constant Alarm Soon Disappear With the Use of
DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

The heart is looked upon as the very source and fountain of life, and the slightest defect in the workings of this organ is sufficient to keep one in constant dread of sudden and unexpected death.

Shortness of breath on slight exertion, irregular beating, palpitation and weak action of the heart are among the symptoms which cause uneasiness, and these indications of disease soon disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

With a liberal supply of rich, red, life-sustaining blood the heart plods on with ceaseless energy, forcing the blood through the body and patiently renewing its own waste, but just as soon as the blood gets thin, weak or watery, the symptoms of heart weakness appear and hold the victim in constant terror.

Because of its extraordinary blood-building qualities, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food thoroughly removes these symptoms and not only ensures regular and healthful heart action, but at the same time restores strength and vigor to the whole system.

Mr. J. Law, 247 Hunter street, Peterborough, Ont., and who is employed with the Peter Hamilton Co., states:

"For a long time I was troubled with severe splitting headaches and suffered a great deal with pains in the region of my heart, caused no doubt by indigestion. I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and began this treatment. Since using this preparation for some time I can say that I feel quite different and my health is very much improved. My digestion is good, and the headaches and pains about the heart have not troubled me at all of late. I can sincerely recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a thorough cure for nervous dyspepsia and its accompanying symptoms."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 4

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Seas."

While thus confronting each other a footfall sounded without, the door burst open, and the driver of the coach, with features drawn by fear, unceremoniously entered the room. The patroon turned on him enraged, but the latter, without noticing his master's displeasure, exclaimed hurriedly:

"The antirenters are coming!"

The actress uttered a slight cry and stepped toward the window, when she was drawn back by an irresistible force.

"Pardon me," said a hard voice, from which all passing compunction had vanished. "Be kind enough to come with me."

"I will follow you, but"— Her face expressed the rest.

"This way then!"

He released her, and together they mounted the stairway. For a long time a gentle footfall had not passed these various landings; not since the ladies in hoops, with powdered hair, had escorted or descended with attendant cavaliers bewigged, beruffled, bedizened. The land baron conducted his companion to a distant room upstairs, the door of which he threw open.

"Go in there," he said curtly.

She hesitated on the threshold. So remote was it from the main part of the great manor the apartment had all the requirements of a prison.

"You needn't fear," he continued, reading her thoughts. "I'm not going to be separated from you—yet! But we can see what is going on here."

Again she mutely obeyed him and entered the room. It was a commodious apartment, where an excellent view was offered of the surrounding country on three sides.

From the narrow, dark crimson ribbon, left behind by the flaunting sun, a faint reflection entered the great open windows of the chamber and revealed Mauville gazing without, pistol in hand; Constance leaning against the curtains and the driver of the coach standing in the center of the room, quaking inwardly and shaking outwardly. This last named had found an old blunderbuss somewhere, useful once undoubtedly, but of questionable service now.

Meanwhile Oly-kooks had not returned. Having faithfully closed and locked all the iron shutters, he had crept out of a cellar window and voluntarily resigned as caretaker of the manor, with its burden of dangers and vexations. With characteristic prudence he had timed the period of his departure with the beginning of the end in the fortunes of the old patroon principality. The storm cloud, gathering during the life of Mauville's predecessor, was now ready to burst, the impending catastrophe hastened by the heir's want of discretion and his failure to adjust difficulties amicably.

A branch of a tree grated against the window as Mauville scanned the surrounding garden. Then his eye fell upon an indistinct figure stealing slowly across the sward in the partial darkness. This object was immediately followed by another and yet another. To the observer's surprise they were the head gear of Indians.

Suddenly the patroon heard the note of the whipporwill, the nocturnal songster that mourns unseen. It was succeeded by the sharp tones of a sawwhet and the distinct mew of a catbird. A wild pigeon began to coo softly in another direction and was answered by a thrush. The listener vaguely realized that all this unexpected melody came from the Indians, who had by this time surrounded the house and took this method of communicating with one another.

An interval of portentous silence was followed by a loud knocking at the front door, which din reverberated through the hall, echoing and re-echoing the vigorous summons. Mauville at this leaned from the window, and as he did so there arose a hooting from the sward as though bedlam had broken loose. Maintaining his post, the heir called out:

"What do you want, men?"

At these words the demonstration became more turbulent, and amid the threatening hubbub voices arose, showing too well the purpose of the gathering. Aroused to a fever of excitement by the shooting of the tenants, they were no longer skulking, stealthy Indians, but a riotous assemblage of antirenters expressing their determination in an ominous chorus:

"Hang the land baron!"

In the midst of this far from reassuring uproar a voice arose like a trumpet:

"We are the messengers of the Lord, made strong by his wrath!"

"You are the messenger of the devil, Little Thunder!" Mauville shouted decisively.

A crack of a rifle admonished the land baron that the jest might have cost him dear.

CHAPTER XIV.

AFTER this brief hostile outbreak in the garden below the right wing Mauville prepared as far as in his power and looked around for his aid, the driver of the coach, but that quaking individual had taken advantage of the excitement to disappear.

The young girl, too, had availed herself of the opportunity while he was at the window and vanished.

"Why, the slippery jade's gone!" he exclaimed, staring around the room, confounded for the moment. Then, recovering himself, he hurriedly left the chamber, more apprehensive lest she should get out of the manor than that the tenants should get in.

For the moment he almost forgot the antirenters. He hastily traversed the upper hall, but was rewarded with no sight of her. He gazed down the stairs eagerly, with no better result. The front door was still closed as he had left it.

"Yes; she's gone," he repeated. "What a fool I was to have trusted her to herself for a moment!"

A new misgiving arose, and he started. What if she had succeeded in leaving the manor? He knew and distrusted Little Thunder and his coberts. What respect would they have for her? For all he had done it was nevertheless intolerable to think she might be in possible danger—from others save himself! A wave of compunction swept over him. After all, he loved her and, loving her, could not bear to think of any calamity befalling her.

"Surely I've gone daft over the strollers!" he thought as his own position recurred to him in all its seriousness. "Well, what's done is done! Let them come!"

With no definite purpose of searching further, he nevertheless walked mechanically down the corridor and suddenly discerned Constance in a blind passage, where she had inadvertently fled.

At the end of this narrow hall a window looked almost directly out upon the circular brick dovecot, now an indistinct outline, and on both sides were doors, one of which she was vainly endeavoring to open when he approached.

"Unfortunately, the door is locked," he said ironically. "Meanwhile, as this spot has no strategic advantages, suppose we change our base of defense."

Realizing how futile would be resistance, she accompanied him once more to the chamber in the wing, where he had determined to make his last defense. After closing and locking the door he lighted one of many candles on the mantel.

The flickering glare fell upon the young actress standing, hand upon her heart, listening with bated breath, and Mauville, with ominous expression, brooding over that chance which sent the leaseholders to the manor on that night of nights.

The violent crash of a heavy body at the front of the house and a tumult of voices on the porch, succeeded by a din in the hall, announced that the first barrier had been overcome and the antirenters were in possession of the lower floor of the manor. Mauville had started toward the door when the anticipation in the young girl's eyes held him to the spot. Inaccessible, she was the more desired. Her reserve was fuel to his flame, and at that moment, while his life hung in the balance, he forgot the rebuff he had received and how she had nearly played upon him.

Soon they were chest to chest.

which had grown in the solitude of the manor. Passionately he addressed her, knowing the climax to his difficulties was at hand. Once near her he could not be at peace without her, he vowed, and this outcome had been inevitable. All this he uttered impetuously, at times incoherently, but as he concluded she only clasped her hands helplessly, solely conscious of the uproar below, which spread from the main hall to the adjoining rooms.

"They are coming; they are coming!" she said, and Mauville stopped short.

But while anger and resentment were at strife within him some one tried the door of the chamber and, finding it locked, set up a shout. Immediately the prowlers in the wings, the searchers in the kitchen and the stragglers below congregated in the main hall. Footsteps were heard ascending rapidly, pausing in doubt at the head of the stairway, not knowing whether to turn to the right or to the left.

"Here they are!" called out the man at the door.

"You meddlesome fool!" exclaimed Mauville, lifting a revolver and discharging it in the direction of the voice. Evidently the bullet, passing through the panel of the door, found its mark, for the report was followed by a cry of pain.

This plaint was answered from the distance, and soon a number of antirenters hastened to the spot. Mauville, in vicious humor, moved toward the threshold. One of the panels was already broken and an arm thrust into the opening. The land baron bent forward and coolly clapped his weapon to the member, the loud discharge being succeeded by a howl from the wounded leaseholder. Mauville again raised his weapon when an exclamation from the actress caused him to turn quickly, in time to see a figure spring unexpectedly into the room from the balcony. The land baron stood in amazement, eying the intruder who had appeared so suddenly from an unguarded quarter, but before he could recover his self possession his hand was struck heavily, and the revolver fell with a clatter to the floor.

His assailant quickly grasped the weapon, presenting it to the breast of the surprised landowner, who looked not into the face of an unknown antirenter, but into the stern, familiar countenance of Saint-Prosper.

"You here?" stammered the land baron as he involuntarily recoiled from his own weapon.

The soldier contemptuously thrust the revolver into his pocket. "As you see," he said coldly, "and in a moment they"—indicating the door—"will be here!"

"You think to turn me over to them!" exclaimed the other violently. "But you do not know me! This is no quarrel of yours. Give me my weapon and let me fight it out with them!"

"By heaven, I am half minded to take you at your word! But you shall have one chance, a slender one! There is the window. It opens on the portico!"

"And if I refuse?"

"They have brought a rope with them. Go or hang!"

The heir hesitated, but as he pondered the antirenters were effectually shattering the heavy door.

"The serfs are here! The drawers of water and hewers of wood have arisen! Hang the land baron! Hang the feudal lord!"

A braver man than Mauville might have been cowed by that chorus, but after pausing irresolutely, weighing the chances of life and death, gazing jealously upon the face of the apprehensive girl and venomously at the intruder, the heir finally made a virtue of necessity, and he sprang upon the balcony—none too soon, for a moment later the door burst open and an incongruous element rushed into the room. Not until then did the soldier discover that he had overlooked the possible unpleasantness of remaining in the land baron's stead, for the antirenters promptly threw themselves upon him. The first to grapple with him was a herculean, thick ribbed man of extraordinary stature, taller than the soldier if not so well knit—a Goliath, indeed, with arms long as windmills.

"Stand back, lads," he roared, "and let me throw him!" And Dick the tollman rushed at Saint-Prosper with furious attack. Soon they were chest to chest, each with his chin on his opponent's right shoulder and each grasping the other around the body with joined hands.

Their muscles grew taut like mighty whipcords, his chest expanded with power, he girded his loins for a great effort, and it seemed as if he would make good his boast. Held in the grasp of those arms, tight as iron bands, the soldier staggered. Once more the other heaved, and again Saint-Prosper nearly fell, his superior agility alone saving him.

Then slowly, almost imperceptibly, the soldier managed to face to the right, twisting so as to place his left hip against his adversary—his only chance—a trick of wrestling unknown to his herculean but clumsy opponent. Gathering all his strength in a last determined effort, he stepped forward suddenly and lifted in his turn. One portentous moment—a moment of doubt and suspense—and the proud representative of the barn burners was hurled over the shoulder of the soldier, landing with a crash on the floor, where he lay dazed and immovable.

Breathing hard, his chest rising and falling with labored effort, Saint-Prosper fell back against the wall. The antirenters, quickly recovering from their surprise, gave him no time to regain his strength, and the contest promised a speedy and disastrous conclusion for the soldier, when suddenly a white figure flashed before him, confronting the tenants with pale face and shining eyes. A slender obstacle, only a girlish form, yet the fearlessness of her manner, the eloquence of her glance—for her lips were silent—kept them back for the instant.

But fiercer passions were at work among them, the desire for retaliation and bitter hatred of the patroon, which speedily dissipated any feeling of compunction or any tendency to waver.

"Kill him before his ladylove!" cried a piercing voice from behind. "Did they not murder my husband before me? Kill him if you are men!"

And, pressing irresistibly to the front, appeared the woman whose husband had been shot by the deputies. Her features, once soft and matronly, flamed with uncontrollable passions.

Gently the soldier, now partly recovering his strength, thrust the young girl behind him as, pushing to the foreground, the woman regarded him vengefully. But in her eyes the hatred and bitter aversion faded slowly, to be replaced by perplexity, which in turn gave way to wonder, while the uplifted arm raised threateningly against him, fell passively to her side. At first, astonished, doubting, she did not speak, then her lips moved mechanically.

"That is not the land baron!" she cried, staring at him in disappointment that knew no language.

At this unexpected announcement imprecations and murmurs of incredulity were heard on all sides.

"Woman, would you shield your husband's murderer?" exclaimed an overzealous barn burner.

"Shield him!" she retorted as if aroused from a trance. "No, no! I'm not here for that! But this is not the patroon. His every feature is burned into my heart! I tell you it is not he. Yet he should be here. Did I not see him driving toward the manor?" And she gazed wildly around.

WHEN LIFE'S AT STAKE
The most timid man will take any chance of escape. The slender rope dropped down the precipice, the slippery log over the abyss, anything that offers a chance of life, is eagerly snatched at. The end the man seeks is safety. He cares nothing for the means to that end.
There are thousands of men and women whose lives are at stake, who are hindered from accepting the one means of safety by foolish prejudice.
Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been the means of restoring health to many men and women whose hollow cough, bleeding lungs, consumption and weakness seemed to warrant the statement of local physicians—"There is no cure possible."
Why should prejudice against a put-up medicine hinder you from trying what has cured thousands of suffering men and women?
"Only for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I think I would be in my grave to-day," writes Mr. Moses Miles, of Hilliard, Uinta Co., Wyoming. "I had asthma so bad I could not sleep at night and was compelled to give up work. It affected my lungs so that I coughed all the time, both day and night. My friends all thought I had consumption. My wife had taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it had helped her so much she insisted on my trying his 'Golden Medical Discovery'—which I did. I have taken four bottles and am now a well man, weighing 185 pounds, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."
The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose.

When I arose in the morning I would feel a little better, but as soon as I started to work my heart would start fluttering, my head would become dizzy, faint weak spells would come over me and it seemed as if black objects were floating before my eyes. NEW BUSINESS HOME OF ONTARIO BANK.

Elaborate and Elegantly Equipped Banking Offices

NOW OCCUPIED BY THE LOCAL BRANCH

The Best Amongst the Bank's Premises and Amongst the Best in the Province—Superior Business Conveniences and Excellent Public ACcomodation.

One may travel Ontario, from Windsor, in the west, to Hawkesbury, in the east; from Bat Portage in the north, to Point Pelee, in the south, and there will not be found more completely equipped, and more elegant bank offices, than the newly completed and recently occupied Bank premises, corner of Simcoe and Water streets—in a word, one of the finest banking offices in the best town in Ontario, or in the Dominion.

As is generally known, the work of enlargement and reconstruction of the premises of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Bank, has been going forward for the past ten or eleven months. Now, that it is completed, it will be interesting to furnish a brief description, although description can hardly do justice to the transformation which has been effected; for one who saw the old bank premises a year ago, would not recognise them in the changed and beautified and elegant premises as they stand to-day.

The Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Bank began doing business in this town about forty years ago, the premises at that time being situated in the building now occupied by the law offices of Messrs. Roger & Bennet, Water street. The bank subsequently removed to the corner of Water and Simcoe streets, a position they have occupied ever since, and the place has become a landmark among the financial institutions of the town.

ONTARIO BANK IN PETERBOROUGH.

About twenty years ago the local branch came under the management of Mr. Charles McGill, who was promoted from Guelph to the management here. And the promotion was fully justified, for under his management and the policy he inaugurated, the bank took a leading place. The success of his services in Peterborough, led to his being, about ten years ago, advanced to the responsible position of General Manager, a promotion which was again amply justified, for Mr. McGill's general mangement, has, in turn, promoted the general interests of the bank in as marked a degree as his services in the capacity of local manager had consolidated the business and advanced the interests of the Peterborough agency. Mr. McGill's management policy in Peterborough seems to have been based on the theory that a banking business should be conducted primarily for the accommodation of the public, and, incidentally, for the benefit of the shareholders, so that the better the public convenience was subserved, the larger would be the volume of business, and the greater would necessarily be the advantages derived by the bank. The same line of policy is pursued by the present local management, and in the reconstruction and extension of the bank premises, a practical deference to the convenience of the public has been effectively kept in view. Another line of policy and one that is still in force, was based on the idea that all solid, national prosperity and progress, depended upon the farm, and the Ontario Bank has always taken, and still takes, an especial interest in advancing the welfare of the farming community.

On Mr. McGill's promotion to the position of General Manager, Mr. W. D. Parker succeeded to the management of the Peterborough branch, which he exercised for about seven years, being succeeded by the present popular and capable incumbent, Mr. John Crane, who has held this position for two years. Mr. Crane is well known to the public by his long association with the bank. He has been connected with the staff of the local branch for seventeen years, and has passed through all the intermediate stages from junior clerk to manager. It is an unusual, if not unprecedented, circumstance for a bank employee to rise from the least responsible position to the highest in the same local branch of a chartered bank, and Mr. Crane has successfully maintained the managerial traditions of personal popularity and obliging relations to the clientele of the bank, which have marked the incumbency of his predecessors.

THE RE-CONSTRUCTED PREMISES.

The same site, the corner of Water and Simcoe streets. The brickwork of the exterior of the bank building has been transformed by being painted an ivory white colour. The broad windows on both street sides have been filled with gilt lettering describing the several functions of the bank. The old familiar rounded entrance on the corner has been retained, and from this, through a semi-octagonal vestibule, heavy oak doors fitted with bevelled plate glass admit to the general banking offices, opposite the wicket of the receiving teller. About midway of the Water street front, is another doorway fitted with oak doors, of, as are the other entrance doors, elaborate workmanship, also fitted with bevelled plate glass. These latter doors open on the main corridor opposite the entrance to the manager's public and private office. The new premises have a total length of 135 feet (of which 35 feet is new from the foundations,) and of a proportionate depth to admit of most commodious office space, which described more in detail is as below:

As remarked the semi-octagonal vestibule opening from the corner entrance, admits to the general corridor. Opposite this are the wicket and cage of the receiving teller, whose office occupies the convex of the beautiful screen, which separates the public corridor from the working department of the staff. On the right of the receiving teller is the compartment of the ledger from "A to M." On the left of the receiving teller, proceeding north, along the corridor is the office of the ledger keeper from "M to Z." Then comes the cage of the paying teller, then the accountant's office, succeeded by the collection clerk, and next to him is found the notes' clerk, from whom can be obtained any desired information respecting notes of hand, and who is situated conveniently to the manager's public office placed directly in front of which is entered by a passage from the main corridor, which passage also gives access to the interior of the banking offices. In passing it may be remarked that the manager's office is centrally situated and immediately in rear of his public desk, which projects beyond the general line of the screen work so that it commands an uninterrupted view of the corridor devoted to the public use and also of the clerical departments in either direction.

Next, north of the manager's office, is the office of the savings bank ledger keeper, and the wicket of the savings bank teller. Between these two offices and opening on the corridor is a supplementary wicket where on busy days an assistant to the teller can be placed.

Next, north of the savings teller, is a beautiful and unique feature, a commodious and elegantly appointed ladies' reception, or waiting room. This is, above, common with the main corridor, but, separated from it below by a screen in quartered oak, which curves in a graceful convex from the corridor at either extremity of the breadth of the room to the central door opening. This room, floored in polished oak, is furnished with luxurious seats, provided with writing conveniences, with an open fireplace and lighted by round-headed windows set with cathedral glass. Connected is an elaborately fitted toilet room and also the lady stenographer's compartment. These rooms are intended for the exclusive occupation of ladies and as a further means of convenience, a separate teller's wicket for the use of ladies opens into the savings bank department adjoining.

OTHER CONVENIENCES FOR THE PUBLIC.

Beyond this is a snug and well furnished appartment called the "Men's Room." Here are comfortable seats and writing conveniences, so that patrons of the bank or others may write letters, or meet to discuss business arrangements, etc.

The main corridor ends at the north in a broad shallow oaken staircase leading from the banking offices to the first floor. The staircase walls are laid on with a rich tapestry wall paper of Pompeian red. Here is found further evidence of a commendable deference to public convenience, consisting of a spacious board room in which bodies needing such a convenience, are free to meet to transact business. Conveniently situated is a toilet room and lavatory, fitted in marble and wainscotted with white tiling for use of guests of the bank. Further on are rooms for reserve bank stationery and beyond these is a suite of recreation and reading rooms for the use of the bank staff. It will be seen that the new premises are admirably self-contained, providing for the staff splendid facilities for both work and recreation under the same roof.

The basement, which is provided throughout with concrete floors is fitted with vaults, one for the storage of surplus books and papers, and another used as a safe deposit vault for documentary and other valuables. Here is also the cloak room and lavatory for the members of the staff. The basement under the rear addition contains the furnaces and coal bunkers for the system of hot water heating, radiators being distributed where necessary throughout the building. Here also are conveniences for the storage of bicycles belonging to the staff.

THE FINISH OF THE INTERIOR

The elegant finish and fittings of the banking offices deserve more detailed attention. The broad corridor extending a distance of about 100 feet has a handsome mosaic floor with ornate borders. The outer walls above this have first a deep wainscot of antique quartered oak surmounted by a dado of brown hand made paper with leather effect, outlined into panels by ornate bands of the same material, and above painted a warm brown and picked out with fleurs de lis. The ceiling, of staff of an ivory white tone, is divided by transverse beams of the same material at fifteen feet intervals, resting on foliated corbels of staff and enclosing panels formed by smaller beams, the angles of both ornate and treated so as to give a moss green effect in the recesses of the ornamentation, the whole producing a substantially rich appearance.

The line of screen work which divides the public space from the banking offices proper, is of antique quartered oak, surmounted with bronze grill work above, broken by the necessary openings, and provided with clear plate glass panels below, for the receiving and paying tellers' departments, and with chip plate glass for the other compartments. The wood work of this screen has for a sur-base a broad band of rose marble, which also surrounds the octagonal bases of the pillars, or, rather, pilasters, of oak with carved Corinthian capitals, which flank at either side and at regular intervals, the several compartments abutting upon the public corridor. In front of each opening is a projecting ledge, and underneath these, the richly plain expanse of oak is relieved by an ornamental plastron, richly carved, and enclosing a central oval boss, on which is carved in ornate monogram, "OB," the initial letters of Ontario Bank.

At suitable intervals against the outside walls, and in front of the windows, are wall desks for the use of the public, and along the outer walls are placed at two or three places, handsome settles of antique oak, with carved arm rests at the ends.

The lighting arrangements are very effective. Daylight is admitted by ten broad, plate-glass windows. Electric lights are provided, shaded by opal globes, which surmount each pier along the public corridor. Desk lamps, with green shades, and opal lights, are used in the offices, and between each window is placed a two cluster bracket electrolier in bronze. The architects who provided the plans are Messrs. Bond and Smith of Toronto.

Altogether, in respect of facilities for the transaction of business, in respect of accommodation aimed effectively to serve the public convenience, in respect of elegance of constructive detail, and general effect, it is not too much to repeat the assertion, that the enlarged, re-constructed and completely equipped, banking offices of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Bank are not surpassed—unless in the matter of size, and in that only—by any in the Province. They are at present admirably and adequately equal to the business of the branch which twenty years ago required the services of a staff of only five, but now gives employment to a staff of sixteen. They are not only a credit to the Province and its financial institutions, but a credit to the general and local management, and to the thriving town and coming city of Peterborough, and will play a continued important share in aiding and stimulating the commercial, industrial and agricultural operations, which gives Peterborough town and district so creditable a preeminence.

The local management takes warrantable pride in its new premises, and would be pleased to have its large clientele, and its large circle of friends, both in the town and country, inspect its new business home.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Rev. W. H. Sparks, of Sunderland, preached at both services yesterday, his sermons being masterly expositions. Mr. Jos. Legg, who has been appointed choir master of St. Luke's sang the solo "Face to Face," in a musicianly manner.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

Both services yesterday in the George street church were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, his subject at the evening service being "The elect lady," the model woman. His sermon was listened to by a large, congregation. The choir sang as an anthem in the morning service, "Calvary," while at the offertory Mr. Mulligan sang "Building for Eternity." At the evening service the anthem was "Sun of My Soul," and the offertory selection, Gruhier's "Hosanna," Mr. Mulligan taking the solo.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

At St. John's Church yesterday the announcement was made that the assessment of $220 upon St. John's had been fully met and some $5 additional. A letter was also read, from the secretary of the Mission Board, congratulating the congregation upon its liberality.

The Christmas decorations of St. Johns will this year be made under the directions of Mrs. F. A. Lount, assisted, of course, by the ladies of the congregation.

The annual Christmas distribution of St. John's will be made next week under the auspices of the King's Daughters.

At the evening service, the offertory solo—"One Sweetly Solemn Thought"—was effectively taken by Mr. Hague Sawers. All who heard him were much pleased with his singing, and his voice under proper development gives much promise.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir.—It was my intention to be at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society, but was hindered. My heart was deeply stirred as I read the report given at the meting by Mr. Denistoun, the secretary of the Society. It showed a vast amount of good work done, with rare good sense, legal skill, with philanthropic and religious purposes. Much suffering was evidently saved and lives saved to virtue that that might have been lost to society. There are very few forms of philanthropy that can show so large and cheering results for so little financial results. But the work it calls for is considerable. I am sure that those who are doing the work are entitled to the hearty co-operation of all in the communities that are benefitted by their labours.

Yours truly,
JONATHAN BASTOW.

Winding Up Order Granted in the Case of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company—Liquidators Appointed.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—The Toronto General Trust's Corporation has been appointed liquidator of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company.

This followed an order by Mr. Justice MacMahon declaring the Consolidated Lake Superior Company insolvent. The petitioners for the winding up order were W. W. Kurts, William Rotch Wister and Nicholas Brice all of Philadelphia, shareholders in the Consolidated Company. The petition was granted and the orders made upon the facts stated, and upon hearing the admission of Spencer Love, counsel for the Consolidated Company, that it is insolvent.

John G. Carruth, who was duly appointed receiver of the company, by the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Connecticut, on Sept. 29, 1903, was joined as a provisional liquidator with the Toronto General Trusts Company, the Master-in-Ordinary to appoint permanent liquidators as events arise.

An Appeal.

Mr. Bicknell, K. C., who has acted for Speyer & Co., characterized the winding up as a strange proceeding, and doubted whether the Canadian courts could wind up the affairs of a company formed under the laws of Connecticut. He said the proceedings to wind up under Judge MacMahon's order would be contested on this ground.

The lawyers for the petitioners for the order to wind up say that the application has been made for the purpose of protecting the shareholders and creditors generally. In the face of this order Speyer & Co. cannot go on or do anything without the consent and direction of the court, and the assets of the company will be under the direct control and supervision of the court. Mr. Carruth, the liquidator appointed, is a Philadelphian, who has always maintained the rights of the general creditors and shareholders. The result of the order, if continued, will be the ousting of Mr. Fackenthal from his position as receiver for Speyer & Co. at the Soo.

BATHURST, N. B., FIRE SCORCHED.

Spread With Great Rapidity, Destroying Many Buildings.

Bathurst Station, Dec. 15.—A fire broke out about 11.30 yesterday morning in H. Means' store in East Side street. Owing to a heavy westerly gale, which prevailed, the fire spread with great rapidity, totally destroying Mean & Co.'s store, McKenna Bros'. tailoring establishment and dwelling, Mrs. Geo. A. McLean's dwelling and barn, Doucett's barber shop and dwelling house, R. D. Southwood's new drygoods store, H. M. Kent's hardware store, J. F. O'Brien's law office, Doull Brothers bakery, Gunning's harness store, and the G.N.W. telegraph office.

At 2 p.m. a telegram was sent to New Castle asking for help, which was quickly responded to, and at 4 p.m. an engine and twenty-five men arrived, which had the fire under control by 5.30 p.m. The loss will probably reach $30,000, insurance $10,000.

Frozen on the Street.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Dec. 15.—Mrs. Margaret Mills was frozen to death here yesterday. On her way home she tripped and fell heavily to the sidewalk, becoming unconscious. The street is little frequented, and when Mrs. Mills' body was found it was discovered she had been frozen.

Italian Cut to Pieces.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—At 8.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon S. Francisco, an Italian section man, was run down by G.T.R. engine No. 771 and literally cut in pieces. He was engaged in cleaning out the switches near the station when he was caught by the engine and carried west of the bridge before being discovered. The remains were gathered up and taken to Hunter's undertaking establishment, where Coroner Britton will hold an inquest on the body this morning. The sum of $92 was found upon deceased, partly in cash and partly in G.T.R. cheques.

DESTINY OF CANADA

Live Topic Before Meeting of London Chamber of Commerce.

DISCUSSION ON COLONIES

Lord Rosebery and Others Make Interesting Speeches—The Fiscal Independence of Canada, as per Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Declaration, Dwelt Upon—Mr. Andrew Pattullo Expresses Amazement.

London, Dec. 15.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Brassey, speaking at a special meeting of the London Chamber of Commerce yesterday, dwelt on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's declaration before the Chamber of Commerce in favor of maintaining the fiscal independance of Canada, and P. W. Ellis' statement to the Manufacturers' Association that she had given preference enough.

As a follower of the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Rosebery saw no course more practical than an interchage of opinions on the best way to help each other. Any financial discussions with the colonies should be avoided. The best way to strengthen the defences of the Empire would be found to be by urging the colonial Governments to see that their local forces were efficient. Canada might give effective aid to the Imperial navy by providing men. The Admiralty should provide drill sheds, drill ships and adequate pay for their retainers. It was paltry and petty for the Home Government, with an appropriation of £35,000,000 to wrangle with Newfoundland over the cost of a drill shed. An extended system of British emigration was needed, which the London Chamber should devise. There should be a liberal subsidy from Imperial funds for a fast ocean service to Canada. The training of the navy in time of peace would direct all to the fleet in wartime. He strongly favored Lord Strathcona's proposal of encouraging university students to travel in Canada.

Sir William C. Brooke said he wanted the best postal arrangements with Canada for British newspapers. He believed that Canadian manufacturers would eventually close the market against British manufacturers. B. Irving of Vancouver held that unless Britain forestalled the agitation by the United States for a closer commercial union there was danger ahead. Sir Albert K. Rollit spoke of the marked loyalty of the French-Canadians. Mr. Fraser said that the danger of British emigration to Canada was hopelessly outdone by Americans.

Welshmen For Canada.

At a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society yesterday Colonel Sir Thomas H. Holdich, member of the British commission on the Chili boundary delimitation, speaking of the Welsh colony in Argentina, said that the deputation that endeavored to take the colony to Canada had not represented his views to the colony.

Britain Humbugged.

Andrew Pattullo, yesterday at Leyton told an enthusiastic audience that he had taken the platform owing to his amazement at the views of the Duke of Devonshire and other Liberal leaders regarding Canada. Before the fiscal question was settled Canada was going to be heard in these islands. When he heard the British statesman's caution against irritating the American people he wondered how Englishmen could sing "Rule Britannia." The United States had humbugged England for years, and the only way to fight her was like Canada had done. (Cheers.)

Cause of Shipping Decadence.

Sir Christopher Furness, M.P., speaking at West Hartlepool yesterday said that Mr. Chamberlain arrived at his estimate of the decadence of the Empire in shipping by deducting the decrease in Canada's old sailing fleet.

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 38 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual meeting of the patrons of Indian River cheese factory, was held in the factory in the afternoon of Tuesday last. After a short address from the president, Mr. James Collins, the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Frank Moher, read the report of the season's work. There were about 156,000 lbs. of cheese manufactured during the season. The proceeds amounted to $25.09 per standard to patrons. The patrons are to be congratulated on having such an efficient cheesemaker as Mr. Rancier, and such an excellent staff of officers. In this, as in other Indian River industries, from a financial point of view, it excels all others. We have yet to hear of any factories in this or adjoining townships paying as high a price per standard.

We are instructed to deny the report that Mr. P. Burke has the contract of the Lift lock over which quite a lot of excitement has been caused on account of the surveying of O'Leary's canal. It has been decided that the landowners will have to deepen it about two feet.

Mr. Jas. Pullin, who has been a resident of Oregon for the past four years, is spending a few weeks under the parental roof.

Mr. William Brockenridge and his sister, Miss Janet, left on a three months' visit to Edmonton, last Tuesday.

Don't forget the Christmas Tree in the Baptist church on Christmas night. An excellent programme of songs, dialogues and recitations, etc., is being prepared, and judging from previous affairs of this kind it will be a huge success.

During the past week, besides what shipments were made by our local grain merchants, Mr. P. Torpey shipped a carload of hogs, Mr. Watts a car of cattle and Mr. J. W. Fife a shipment of turkeys.

SEVEN FAT YEARS OF LIBERAL RULE.

Contrasted With Eighteen Years of Conservative Administration.

Enormous Increase of Foreign Trade — Manufacturers in all Lines are Prosperous.

(Second Paper.)

In proving that the program of Canada has been greater under the Laurier Administration of seven years, than it was during the whole period of eighteen years, of Conservative Government, an examination of the records of our Foreign trade furnishes strong evidence of the truth of the above statement.

Foreign trade, is declared by all exponents of the science of political economy to be the best indication of the welfare of a country. The following are the figures:—

18 years Conservative—

1878...	$179,405,454
1896.....	239,025,360
7 years Liberal—
1896.....	239,025,360
1903.....	467,064,685

Here we have an increase of 66 millions in 18 years under the National Policy, compared with an increase of 228 millions in the short period of seven years under the Liberal policy. Astonishing, is it not?

Comparing the last seven years of Conservative administration with the first seven under the Liberals, we find a tremendous increase under the Liberal policy. Here are the details:—

Total foreign trade for seven years from 1897 to 1903, inclusive... ...	$2,542,701,333
Total foreign trade for seven years from 1890 to 1896, inclusive	1,630,446,131
Increase last seven years under Liberal policy...	$912,255,212

EXPORT TRADE.

Some people prefer to judge our material progress by our exports; that is to say, the goods we produce in Canada and sell abroad for gold or exchange. Well! how do they stand? It is an actual fact that our annual exports of home products have increased in the last seven years by no less than 104 million dollars, whereas during the whole 18 years the Conservatives were in office they only increased about 42 millions. Look at the details:—

18 years Conservative—
1878.....	$67,980,800
1896...	109,915,337
7 years Liberal—
1896...	109,915,337
1903	214,101,674

To view the matter in another light: We sold abroad, during the last seven years, 470 million dollars' worth more than for the previous seven years.

Total exports Canadian produce for 7 years 1897 to 1903, inclusive.	$1,166,511,453
Total exports Canadian produce for 7 years 1890 to 1896, inclusive.	696,357,941
Increase last 7 years, under policy of Liberal Government...	$ 470,153,511

This is one of the great constituting factors towards the prosperity we have enjoyed in recent years. Consider these figures seriously for a moment. They are worthy of careful attention.

The details may be of interest:—

Mines	$43,730,147	$170,060,705
Fisheries	69,463,450	78,893,550
Forest	176,525,105	218,990,766
Farm	331,401,269	573,986,671
Manufactures ...	51,599,394	101,281,469

MANUFACTURERS PROSPEROUS.

In no branch of national industry has greater progress been made in recent years than in manufacturing. Factories that were shut down or only partly employed in 1896 are now going full blast, and hundreds of new ones have been erected all over the Dominion. In national policy days the cry used to be "lack of orders," but to-day the manufacturers are crying out for more skilled help. In this connection we quote the following extract from the last report of the Parliamentary Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, which reads as follows:

"During the past year this country has experienced a scarcity of labour unparalleled at any previous period in our development. To meet the necessities of the case a letter was addressed under the direction of this Committee to every member of the Association, enquiring with regard to the necessities of individual manufacturers. The replies to this letter showed that more than eleven thousand additional employees were needed at once by our members alone. These facts were quickly placed before the Government, and through our Association were published in the British press, a step which led to the establishment of supply organisations in Great Britain. The addresses of reliable sources of supply were then furnished to the members of the Association and as a result hundreds of competent workmen have been sent out to supply the demands of Canadian industries."—See Industrial Canada, October, 1903.

Yes, the old staffs, which not very many years ago were more than sufficient are to-day altogether inadequate numerically to fill the orders that are pouring in, and more workmen are imperatively required. In many cases manufacturers have had to take their travellers off the road to give their factories a chance to catch up on the orders. Many manufacturers also have had to decline export trade, being too busy with the home trade to attend to the wants of foreigners.

The following extract from an official report dated July 12th, 1903, from Mr. J. S. Larke, Canadian Commercial Agent in Australia, illustrates this fact:

"I have had some enquiries for openings for Canadian manufacturers, but there are more enquiries for Canadian goods here just now than there is for markets for Canadian exporters, and arrangements made by Australians visiting Canada are generally disappointing. One who returned some little time since, informs me that he has letters from twenty Canadian firms regretting that there was so little possibility of their being able to supply goods for some months, that it is useless to seek orders. This is probably an exaggeration of numbers, but there are certainly a number of promising agents who have failed in securing the commissions in Canada that they sought."

There is scarcely a town or a city in the whole Dominion where manufacturing is carried on extensively that cannot point to great development and progress in its local manufacturing institutions.

Never in the history of the country did workmen get better wages, and never were they more in demand. Every man who wants to work can find lots of employment.

Manufacturers generally realise all this to the full. They know their industries are prospering in a measure some of them never dreamed of.

Read what Mr. Robert Munro—the President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association during 1902—said at the annual meeting in Halifax during the fall of that year. He is reported in "Industrial Canada," the organ of the Association, as follows:

"While the past year is fairly described as Imperial, it has been a banner year in Canada. I will spare you by merely referring to a subject so pleasing and yet so familiar. Never was our country in so prosperous a condition. Never were our people so harmoniously optimistic. Canada's external trade for the fiscal year ending 30th June, is reported to be four hundred and twenty-three millions of dollars, an increase of thirty-eight millions—being ten per cent. Of manufactures, the preliminary returns place the increase at 15 per cent, so that the increase in our industrial exports has more than kept pace with our phenomenal increase in other departments. Considering the greatly increased demand upon us for our home market, this report is most encouraging, exhibiting as it does the fact that our manufactures are developing more rapidly than the other branches of trade."

And at the annual meeting of the association held in Toronto last October, Mr. President Birge was even more enthusiastic and optimistic. He said:

"Since we met in Halifax, much has transpired which claims our attention as Canadian business men. We see Canada commanding the consideration of every other nation; rejoicing in a period of remarkable development; asserting without fear a fiscal policy which has commanded the respect of European countries; governing herself in the fullest enjoyment of liberty, yet proud of her place among the subjects of Great Britain. We see South Africa following Canada's example in instituting a British trade preference.

* * * *

"It is gratifying to every loyal Canadian to reflect upon the advances made by Canada during recent years, and to foreshadow the great future which is slowly hastening towards us.

"No other country in the world, in proportion to population has shown such great increases in its trade and commerce during the past five years, the figures for both exports and imports have nearly doubled during that time. Last year the total trade of Canada amounted to $467,000,000, an increase over the previous year of more than $48,000,000. The bank deposits of Canadian people showed a total last year of $460,000,000, and the foreign trade more than $70 per capita, which is the fourth largest in the world, being exceeded only by Great Britain, Belgium and Cape Colony.

"The emigration to Canada during the past year is nearly double what it was in the previous year—reaching a total of 125,000, and this figure will be largely increased during the present year. No other feature is more indicative of our growth. During the ten years preceding 1901, sixty per cent, of the British emigration settled in the United States, and only ten per cent. in Canada. To-day not only is a large proportion of the British exodus finding its way to Canada, but within the first seven months of this year nearly thirty thousand citizens of the United States crossed the border to settle in Canadian homes.

"The general conditions throughout Canada have been those of prosperity and plenty—in fact, I believe, that nowhere on the face of the earth are there five millions of people who wear better clothes, eat better meals, and enjoy more of the good things of life, than the people of Canada. Over and above this material prosperity we rejoice to find a true Canadian spirit pervading and dominating our whole national life, not a blatant self-assertion or an empty jingoism, but an honest pride in our splendid resources and achievements and in the fact that we are Canadians first and always.

"But I wish to speak specially of our manufacturing industries, and a simple examination of the facts proves clearly that as manufacturers we have not only shared in, but have contributed largely to the general prosperity of the times.

"The returns of the 1901 census are not yet complete, and though the Commissioner has taken considerable trouble to give me some partial returns I cannot avail myself of them for the purposes of comparison, but we can get some idea of the growth of our industries by comparing the export figures of 1898 with those of 1903. In 1898 our total exports of manufactured products amounted to $116,000,000. In 1903 they totalled more than $214,000,000, an increase of 81.4 per cent. In 1898 our manufacturers exported 39.8 per cent of our total exports of domestic products, while in 1903 they exported 47.2 per cent."

Steel Corporation Decides to Reduce Wages 5 to 20 Per Cent.

10 P. C. UNDER AGREEMENT

Many High Salaried Officials Are to Be Added to Those Already Discharged—Employees Who Participated in Profit Sharing Plan Will Receive a Five Per Cent. Dividend on Their Preferred Stock.

New York, Dec. 15.—The statement was made yesterday by a leading official of the United States Steel Corporation that, beginning January 1, 1904, about ninety per cent. of the employes of the corporation will suffer wage reductions ranging from five to twenty per cent. This reduction will affect about 150,000 workmen. The remaining ten per cent. of the employes are under a wage agreement. The financial committee of the Steel Corporation, it is understood, has under consideration the dismissal of many high salaried employes in addition to those already discharged. It was asserted that, barring some unforeseen technicalities, employes of the corporation who participated in the profit-sharing plan will in the coming month receive a five per cent. dividend on the preferred stock, to which they subscribed at $2.50.

32,000 Cotton Operatives Reduced.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 15.—A reduction in wages averaging 10 per cent., and involving 6,000 operatives, was made yesterday in the cotton mills at Adams and North Adams, Mass., and Norwich, Conn. In all about 32,000 hands have had their pay reduced.

Trouble in Illinois.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—Three factories in Northern Illinois were shut down yesterday because their employes, numbering nearly 1,500, refused to promise in individual agreements not to strike.

To Settle Strike.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor yesterday appointed President Gompers and Vice-President Duncan, a committee to go to New York this week to effect a settlement of the building trades strike in that city.

Light in the Darkness.

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 15.—More than 800 men have resumed work at the Sligo Iron and Steel Mills. The men have been idle for some months. The company has orders to keep the men working all winter.

To Continue Strike.

Telluride, Colo., Dec. 15.—The Miners' Union has voted to continue the strike in this region until a settlement on an 8-hour day basis is reached with mine and mill managers. The managers say they will not recognize the union or grant its demand.

PARCEL POST AGREEMENT.

U.S. Not Likely to Enter Into Arrangement With Canada.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—Canadians are protesting to the Postoffice Department against the refusal of the United States to entur into a parcel post agreement with Canada, but it is not likely that their protests will produce fruit. The United States service is not equipped for handling parcels, and should this country enter into the treaty desired by Canada business would be transacted at a decided loss.

Capt. Brooks, superintendent of foreign mails, said: "The United States has constantly refused to enter into parcel post treaties by which it will have to transport across and outside of its territory mail of other countries.

"If we made the treaty desired by Canada it would handicap the mail service of this country, and we would have to make the same arrangement with others. We are not equipped for parcel post business as are some of the countries of Europe, and do not handle packages weighing more than four pounds, while in Europe eleven pounds is the usual weight, and some countries carry packages weighing considerably more."

In Peril in the Ice.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—Two perilous incidents occurred in the bay between the mainland and the shore of the island yesterday. In the first, two men in a small boat were caught in the ice, but were gallantly rescued by Harry Stubbs and Fireman Deans, who went to their rescue in dinghies. It took from two till five to effect their rescue. Later, men working for the Ferry Company, eight in all, were similarly caught, but the example of a Frenchman in the party who crawled over to shore on the paddle, while lying on his stomach, was followed with variations and they all reached shore in three hours. In each case the men nearly perished with cold.

NOMINATIONS MONDAY.

George D. Grant, M.P., was nominated by North Ontario Liberals at Beaverton Monday.

E. B. Devlin, barrister of Hull, is out as an independent Liberal candidate for the Commons. He is a brother of Charles Devlin, M.P., for Galway. His candidature is a protest against the French-Canadians getting all the patronage and both the Federal and Provincial representative.

WAS NOTED ATHLETE

Detective Hugh McKinnon is Dead at Dawson City.

HE WAS A GIANT IN PHYSIQUE

Great Work as a Detective in Ontario—Some of the Noted Criminals He Helped to Rid Society of—His Record as an Athlete, Too, Was World-Wide, and His Death Was a Sad Shock.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—The announcement of the death of Hugh McKinnon from Dawson City came as a great shock to hosts of friends throughout Ontario to whom deceased was well known. As an athlete he had an almost world-wide fame, while his connection with the police of Belleville and Hamilton, as chief, and as a Government detective, also won for him more than a provincial reputation.

The despatch from the Yukon does not mention the cause of his death. He was a giant in physique. From 1874 to 1879 he was heavyweight champion in all-round athletics of the United States and Canada, and was awarded more than a thousand prizes in clubs, the Philadelphia Centennial and European sweepstakes. He retired in 1879 undefeated. He was always a prominent competitor in Caledonian games.

He was born in 1844. He studied law for three years, and in 1865 became Government detective. In 1877 he became chief of police of Belleville, and nine years later assumed the same rank at Hamilton, which he retained until January, 1895. He then became head of a private detective agency in Hamilton and Toronto. Later he was appointed by the Dominion Government to do special police work along the Niagara border, and later again, he received his appointment to the Yukon position as chief protective officer.

As a detective and police officer he had many hair-raising experiences, and was possibly one of the most successful criminal catchers this country has ever seen. It was through his good work that the famous Donnelly gang in Biddulph and Lucan was broke up and in the Monahan murder case in Lambton County he did splendid work as a Government detective. He was solely instrumental in convicting Thompsett and Lowder, two noted criminals, for the murder of Mr. Lazier in Prince Edward County. Other well-known cases in which he was the agent of justice were the Pell arson case, the breaking up of the famous Zufelt gang and running down of the notorious Coffin McDonald.

It is sad coincidence that A. D. Stewart, who succeeded him as chief of police at Hamilton, also met death in the Yukon.

LOOKS LIKE PEACE NOW.

Terms of Russia's Reply May Result in Further Four Parleys.

London, Dec. 15.—The terms of Russia's reply to Japan has been communicated to the Japanese Minister here, Baron Hayashi, by the Government at Tokio. The minister subsequently said the negotiations were still incomplete, but he significantly added that he saw no reason to change his previously expressed opinion, that a peaceful issue would result therefrom.

"The Russian reply," Baron Hayashi said, "is in the form of an agreement, which, if satisfactory to Japan, can immediately be signed. In that event, all questions now pending would receive final settlement. I have received no indication from my Government regarding their probable action in the matter. All I can say is that I firmly believe the Russo-Japanese difficulty will be pacifically settled. Further pour parlers with the view of modifications, on the part of Japan may be necessary, but this is a matter which rests entirely with my Government."

Japs Landed Marines.

Seoul, Dec. 15.—The Japanese landed marines at Mokpho Sunday to suppress rioting during a strike among laborers. It is reported that they fired upon the mob, killing several people. The strike was among Corean coolies employed in the foreign concession, which precipitated clashes among the Coreans and Japanese. The affair, it is thought, may cause local complications, and it is possible Russia may send a warship should the Corean Government resent the landing of marines by Japan.

THE WAR IN COLOMBIA.

U.S. Marines to Be Sent to the Border Line.

Colon, Dec. 15.—A company of marines from the United States cruiser Prairie was landed here yesterday morning, under the command of Captain Smedley D. Butler, and immediately started by train for Panama. The destination of the marines is said to be Yaviza, up to the San Miguel Gulf and Tuira River.

The decision of the naval authorities to station marines at Yaviza may possibly be owing to the reports that Colombian troops have been seen in that direction, but up to the present time there is no reason to believe that any large force is under orders to march on Panama from Caracas. The opinion seems to prevail that the few Colombian soldiers seen were probably scouts who were endeavoring to learn what preventive and protective measures were being taken by the Republic of Panama, and that it was their presence which gave rise to the exaggerated rumors of a speedy attack by Colombia on the Isthmus.

Under the Mountain.

Hamilton, Dec. 15.—Sir Richard Cartwright is being treated in a private hospital in this city for rheumatism.

Look on the Bright Side.

The suffer from nervous exhaustion is generally blue and discouraged. He looks on the dark side of things and fears paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity. All this is changed by the permanent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which gradually and naturally rekindles and revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and instills new vigor and energy into the whole system.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing if It Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

BILLS THAT BECAME LAWS.

B.C. Legislature Adjourns Till Jan. 11, After Busy Session.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 14.—The British Columbia Legislature adjourned Saturday night until Jan. 11. Amongst the bills passed was the Assessment Act, which purposes to raise the taxes on incomes, land, timber, licenses, prospectors' licenses, etc., which has caused much protest from business men throughout the province. Several amendments were made to the bill. Among other acts passed were an act to borrow one million dollars; to collect taxes on property of railway companies; to amend the Coal Mines Act, Revenue Tax Land Act and Evidence Act.

French Fishermen Obstreperous.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 14.—A serious fishery dispute has arisen here owing to the action of the French fishermen in refusing to leave the treaty shore of Newfoundland. Since the British warship stationed here have gone south, the Frenchmen have destroyed the nets of the settlers, and defy the local authorities to take any steps in the matter. The colonial Government has appealed to the Admiralty, and the gunboat Fantome may be ordered back to drive off the Frenchmen.

FELT DROWSY AND MISERABLE.

Burdock Blood Bitters

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM AND ADDED TEN POUNDS IN WEIGHT.

Mr. Ed. J. Harris, Newbridge, Ont., was in poor health, but has now been restored to full health and vigor. Here is what he writes us: "Last spring I was in a very critical condition, my system was all run down. I felt drowsy and miserable, and thought I would surely die if I did not get something to build me up. After reading one of your almanacs I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I had taken two bottles I had gained ten pounds in weight, and am now in perfect health, and I can certainly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to build up the system."

WHITNEY AT PEMBROKE.

Mr. Findlay, Eulogized By Conservatives as a Life-Long Liberal, Ran as a Conservative Eight Years Ago.

Pembroke, Dec. 15.—The Conservatives opened their campaign here last night with a meeting in the town hall, which, in numbers and appreciation of the speakers, was much the same as that which the Premier held last Friday. The principal speaker was Mr. Whitney. Mr. Dunlop, the candidate, made his first public appearance here, and created a favorable impression. Several speakers endeavored to make capital out of the Findlay incident, though everyone in the audience knew that Mr. Findlay, who was eulogized as a life-long Liberal, ran as a Conservative against Mr. Barr eight years ago.

Should Rock Up Chamberlain.

Montreal, Dec. 15.—Hon. Geo. E. Foster delivered an address last evening to a very large audience in the Windsor Hall, under the auspices of the Sir John A. Macdonald Club. Mr. Foster treated the British fiscal reform movement in all its phases, and claimed that the colonies should back up Mr. Chamberlain.

OF NO STRATEGIC VALUE.

Sitklan and Kannaghut Unable to Dominate Port Simpson.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 15.—Lord Dundonald, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian forces, returned from Port Simpson and vicinity on the Government steamer Quadra yesterday, where he went to look over the situation with respect to the report that the United States intended to fortify Sitklan and Kannaghut Islands. He visited both islands, and also Pearse and Wales Islands, which were both awarded to Canada. Kitamaat and Work Canal, in which places the terminus for the trans-Canada railway has been suggested.

He declined to talk of his visit, but from others in the party it is learned that he regards Sitklan and Kannaghut Islands as unable to dominate Port Simpson if fortified. Vessels pass close to those islands, entering Port Simpson, but Wales Island is so much higher and a fort there would make any fortification on the United States untenable.

APPEAL FOR CALLAGHAN.

Claim No Evidence—Judge's Charge Also Excepted to.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—Notice of appeal in the Callaghan case has been filed, to be recorded Thursday. The appeal recites that there is no evidence of theft as charged, that the money involved forms part of a debtor and credit account, that the invoice submitted shows it to have been a direct sale, and that the evidence of many witnesses for the Crown was improperly admitted. The appeal contends that the evidence offered, tending to show the service of the accused in selling stock of the company, was proper, and should have been received. Further, the instructions of the court are excepted to. A general denial is entered that there was evidence to warrant the verdict. Callaghan will be sentenced to-morrow, unless there is a further suspension pending the appeal.

JOHN WATSON OF AYR.

Sudden Death of the Well-Known Implement Maker.

Ayr, Dec. 15.—John Watson, sr., president of the John Watson Manufacturing Company of Ayr, died suddenly at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his residence.

He had spent the afternoon in the office of the works and had just reached home when he dropped dead. Heart failure was the cause.

Mr. Watson was probably the oldest implement maker in Canada. He was born in Scotland in 1820; came to Canada in 1845, and commenced business in Ayr in 1847. He leaves three sons and two daughters—John George, William and Alfred, all members of the Watson Company, residing here; one daughter, Elizabeth, at home, and Miss M. N. Watson, who resides in Guelph, as principal of the McDonald Institute. Deceased was a life-long Reformer.

How Engineer Graham of Winnipeg Was Killed.

Winnipeg, Dec. 15.—Engineer Graham of Winnipeg, was killed and Fireman O'Har and Baggageman Nicholson were injured near Killarney on the C.P.R. The train ran into an immense snowdrift and the engine left the track.

San Domingo Warfare.

San Domingo, Dec. 15.—A rumor is in circulation here that troops of the provisional Government have attacked the revolutionary troops stationed at Montecristi. The Government troops were repulsed and are now besieging a fort in Santiago City. All is quiet in the neighborhood of the fort, although the situation may become serious at any moment.

Clothing Store Burned.

Owen Sound, Dec. 14.—Yesterday morning about 2 o'clock fire was discovered in Vineberg & Co.'s clothing house. The place burned fiercely, and the stock is practically destroyed. Vineberg & Co. estimate their loss at $12,000.

Mr. Brabazon For Pontiac County.

Shawville, Que., Dec. 14.—At a convention held here Saturday, Gerald Brabazon was nominated as Conservative candidate for Pontiac County for the Federal elections. He was defeated by T. Murray in 1900.

Cremated.

London, Dec. 15.—The remains of Herbert Spencer were cremated at Hampstead yesterday, a few invited guests attending the closing rites. An Indian gentleman, who was present, offered to donate $5,000 to endow a Spencer lectureship at Oxford University.

Spain Don't Want to Play.

Madrid, Dec. 14.—Spain will not participate in the St. Louis Exposition. This decision was reached at a Cabinet Council, the reason given being that there would not be sufficient time to complete preparations.

An Effective Sign

One of the most striking and effective store signs on George street has recently been placed in position on the north side of the front entrance to Messrs. W. A. Sanderson & Co's jewellery store. It is in tablet shape, about 5 x 12 feet, painted in a combination of bright red, yellow, green and black colours, with a black diamond smelt margin all round. The effect is brilliant and striking, especially at night when the electric lamps at each corner of the tablet is turned on. The work is the product of Mr. Reg. Turner's artistic brush, who is developing into quite an original ornmental sign writer.

FIRST APPEARANCE OF THE T. A. S. BAND

Will be To-night at Mount Saint Joseph Bazaar in the Market Hall.

A visit to the Market Hall to-day shows a very pretty scene; the bazaar is now in full progress, and the booths being very tastily arranged, and all apparently doing a good business.

Last night there was a large attendance, and the hot tea served by the ladies from 6 to 10 proved to be a popular feature. The T.A.S. orchestra was in attendance, and enlivened the proceedings with a choice programme of music. To-night, a special attraction will be the first public appearance of the T.A.S. Band, which under the leadership of Mr. Broderick, will make its initial appearance, rendering a programme of suitable music.

The regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. John's church was held in the Guild Room last night with a good attendance of members, the President, Mr. W. H. Cluxton, occupying the chair. After the transaction of the business on hand, several profitable five-minute talks on the essential attribute in order that a young man may attain business success, were taken up by the members present, the addresses being summed up by Rev. J. C. Davidson, who said that perseverance, thoroughness, energy, but above all tact, was necessary. Then there was also sincerity in spiritual affairs. This was perhaps the most necessary attribute.

PORT HOPE RESIDENT DIED ON SUNDAY.

Mr. V. A. Coleman, an old Resident Passed Away.

The death of Mr. V. A. Coleman, of Port Hope, occurred at his home, "The Locusts," on Sunday last after an illness of only about one week. The late Mr. Coleman had been in his usual good health until a few days ago when he suddenly became ill, the nature of his sickness being similar to typhoid fever. He rapidly became worse, in spite of all that medical skill could accomplish and died on Sunday at the age of 70 years.

The late Mr. Coleman, who was one of Port Hope's prominent citizens, leaves to mourn his loss, a wife and five children, three of whom live in Peterborough, Miss Coleman, Superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital; Miss Helen Coleman, assistant superintendent of the same institution, and Mr. Frank Coleman, of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The deceased was born at Lynn, in 1832, of parentage with Quaker tendencies, though the family were members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Both his father and mother were descendants of United Empire Loyalists. For many years he taught school and was an able an conscientious teacher.

About 20 years ago his sight and hearing, which had troubled him for some time gave out, and shortly afterwards he went into business in Port Hope. He has always been a strong temperance advocate, and an upholdar of all that was right. Just 37 years ago he was married to Sarah Margaret, eldest daughter of T. W. S. Masson, of Burnbrae.

For many years the deceased was a elder of the First Presbyterian Church, Port Hope.

The funeral took place this afternoon at Port Hope.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY MR H. D. BURNETT.

Spoke on "Ether Waves and Wireless Telegraphy," Before Epworth League.

A most interesting evening was spent in the George street Sunday school rooms last night, when Mr. H. D. Burnett, of the Canadian General Electric Company, gave a lecture on "Ether Waves and Wireless Telegraphy." The room was filled and the large audience was intensely interested in Mr. Burnett's lecture from start to finish. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Epworth League, and was one of a series of very interesting and instructive lectures given by this enterprising organisation.

Mr. Geo. Robertson, president of the League, acted as chairman of the meeting, and preceding the lecture, Miss Bertha Parnell sang a solo, and Miss Maggie O'Neil rendered a violin solo, both of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. Burnett in his address gave evidence of a thorough knowledge of the subject upon which he spoke, and he had the happy faculty of imparting the information of which he was possessed, to his hearers in a most entertaining manner. The walls of the room were covered with maps and drawings of various kinds indicating the positions of the sun, the moon and the various planents. The distances of these from the earth were explained by the lecturer, and in fact some exceedingly interesting information was given regarding the physical and climatic condition of the planet Mars. The many figures that were used by him and the extent to which he asked his hearers to strain their imaginative powers regarding the space of time it would take to travel from one planet to another, was amazing, but nevertheless based on facts, and of an educational nature. Perhaps the most interesting part of Mr. Burnett's lecture was his exhibition of wireless telegraphy, which was applauded most approvingly.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Rev. J. P. Wilson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Burnett which was seconded by Ald. Shortly, and heartily supported by the audience.

A TRIUMPH OF THE PHOTOGRAPHER'S ART.

Photos of Participants in "Pinafore" Made by Local Artists.

An exhibit of more than usual artistic merit is that now contained in Mr. G. E. Whiten's show cases, at the entrance to his studio, Hunter street. There is on view a number of photos of the young ladies and young gentlemen who took part in the recent production of "Pinafore," given under the auspices of the King's Daughters of St. John's Church. The pictures are without any exception genuine works of art, and Mr. Whiten may well feel a degree of pride in his success in being able to bring out such portect specimens of the photographic art. In one picture, in which there are twenty-four subjects, little girls, every one is as clear as it is possible to make them, a very difficult feat with such a large number of subjects.

The cases in which these pictures are being shown are the centre of attraction, not only of those whose portraits are shown, but a large number of persons who appreciate art for what it is.

Mr. Telgman, who trained the children for "Pinafore," states that in none of the places where it has been produced have pictures been taken of the participants which begin to compare with those taken by Mr. Whiten.

THE VERDI CONCERT.

Mrs. Wilmot's Vocal Contribution to the Band Concert Friday Night.

Speaking of Mrs. Eardley Wilmot's singing at a concert given by the band of the 13th Regiment, the Hamilton Times says: "Her first song was warmly encored, but she made even a greater success of her second, 'Forget, Forgive,' which brought a double encore." Mrs. Eardley Wilmot will give this number on Friday evening at the concert of the 57th Regimental Band.

All Saint's Church.

In the absence of the rector, the services were taken on Sunday by Rev. J. R. S. Boyd, of Toronto, a returned missionary from China, who delivered two eloquent and instructive sermons on missionary work at large and China in particular. The reverend gentleman also took the afternoon Sunday school service, which also partook of a missionary nature, and some interesting curios from his field of labour were exhibited. Mr. Boyd returns to China to continue his work there on expiration of his furlough.

Books for Christmas Gifts.

Sets of books are always welcome; and what can be more fitting for a gift, at any time, than a favourite author bound in dainty covers. The Peterborough Bookstore is full of them just now in all types, styles and bindings, and the advantages of a cheap price were never so plainly to be seen as when one looks at the marked prices. It seems as if books were never so cheap and so plentiful as now. A. H. Stratton & Co.

APPEALS FROM COURT OF REVISION HEARD.

Before Judge Weller Yesterday—Only two Appeals Pressed.

Before Judge Weller yesterday, some appeals against the decisions of the Court of Revision were heard. The G.N.W. Telegraph Co., Mrs. A. S. Hamilton and Mr. W. F. Hilliard had registered appeals, but no one appeared for them, and the appeals were not considered.

Mr. J. J. Lundy appealed against being assessed for income in the town, the ground for his contentions being that while he had an office here in which he transacted private business, in it he carried on no profession, trade or calling, consquently he could not be assessed for income in the town. The assessment was confirmed. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun appeared for Mr. Lundy.

The Kingan Hardware Co. asked for a reduction of their assessment on their store on George street. The request was granted to the extent of a reduction of $1,000 being made. Mr. Dennistoun appeared for the company, while the town solicitor, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, conducted the town's case in each appeal.

THE BOOK LOVER'S LIBRARY.

Its Advantages and Claims to the Attention of Those who Love Literature.

"Booklovers," is a most appropriate qualifying term of this splendid library, which has numerous points of superiority and convenience. It is well, but not well enough known, that a branch of this library is established at the drug store of Mr. Madill, corner of George and Hunter streets, and while it has a fair local list of subscribers, this list would be doubled ten fold if the public could know, and appreciate, as they would then do, the many advantages it offers. The Booklovers' is one of the largest circulating libraries in the world, and membership gives access to practically hundreds of thousands of volumes of standard books, and books of to-day. Members are allowed to exchange books as often as they wish, every day if they so desire. The subscriber is supplied with a voluminous catalogue, renewed periodically, to include the latest publications, and can select a number—half a dozen or so—of the books he or she wishes, and they will be sent from a central depot to the local agency for the sole use of the subscriber. Besides, there is a constant supply to select from at the local agency, always maintained, in, to use an odious, but expressive, bit of slang, an up-to-date condition, in regard to new publications. Then the books are all in superior editions, as to binding, illustrations, etc., many being practically editions de luxe. Each book is kept in a neat cover and no book is kept in circulation after it is soiled in the least way. Thus the literature is clean, both in character and in physical condition, and the reader has the pleasure, which is a real pleasure, of handling as he reads, a clean, well bound, and attractive book. No dog-eared microbic books are ever found in the Book-lovers Library. A ticket held by a local subscriber is good in any town or city he or she may visit. The price of a year's ticket is $5. This seems a large sum, but value, and high value is received for every cent of it. In addition to selecting from a library of hundreds of thousands of volumes every subscriber receives a monthly copy of the Book-lovers Magazine, which is itself easily worth three dollars, leaving the price of the library ticket practically only $2.00. This magazine is a beautiful thing full of excellent reading, and so profusely and elegantly illustrated by colour and other plates that every number is really an art publication. Those who have not the happiness to be members and who love good books, procurable under all the desirable conditions mentioned, are invited to visit Mr. Madill, the local agent, where all information can be had and the quality and kind of books available can be seen, and they will bear out all that has been claimed for them. If you are a booklover, then the Booklover's is the library for you.

The splendour of Turnbull Company's Xmas Electrical Display Will surpass last year and is worth an every day visit. Come any evening next week.

POLITICAL INSANITY.

Quem deus perdere volt, prius-quam, dementet—which being freely interpreted means, "he whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." Our contemporary, the Review is evidently qualifying itself for destruction, for it is palpably suffering from brain softening to an alarming extent. It has gone mad on politics and some of its political paroxysms of dementia would do credit to a bedlamite. In a recent issue it retails an imaginary conversation in which the Mackenzie rebellion is justified as a defensible movement to secure the rights of the people. The organ agrees with this, but makes the astounding statement that if the Mackenzie uprising was justified the misrule and oppression of the Liberal Government of Ontario, its invasion of the rights of the people, make armed rebellion ten times more justifiable to-day. This is stark insanity, and one need not be surprised to see the editor of the Review, throw aside his quill, shoulder his musket and march in a solid platoon of one to Toronto to take the Parliament Buildings by assault, stick the Cabinet Ministers full of three-cornered holes, raze the buildings to the ground and sow the site with salt. Such an action would not be one iota more insane than the claim that to-day rebellion is ten times more justified than in the days of the Mackenzie uprising. The people have kept the Liberal Government in power so long largely because the Liberals served the country well, and partly because the Conservative party showed no other capacity for the government of the province, than the desire to gain office for the sake of office, and its spoils. They have never appealed to the country on any higher issue than some sectarian cry, some appeal to popular prejudice, with more disrupting tendencies than anything ever done by a Liberal Government, multiplied ten thousand fold. The rebellious outbreak of the Review is not dictated by love for the people, as it would seek to show by its crocodile tears, but by a desire to gain office. The hide-bound Tory, the class our contemporary represents is never loyal, except when in office, when he can thrust his arm into the public chest up to the elbow. When he is in opposition by the will of the people, he becomes a rebel, and wants to shoot somebody that stands between him and office. This refers to the unreasoning, hide-bound partisan. But there are thousands of loyal Conservatives in Ontario who care more to see their country well governed by a Liberal Administration, than to see it turned over to an Opposition which does not show, and never has shown, any capacity for government, by political capacity, or public spirit. A party that wants to get into power for the mere sake of office, never will commend itself to popular favour.

WHAT ABOUT AN OPERA HOUSE?

Every day demonstrates more forcibly the necessity of an opera house. The Fifty-Seventh Band concert—a night with Verdi—will doubtless be a rare good entertainment, but it would be better, both for the band and the audience, if we had a comfortable opera house to accommodate the thousands who should attend such a concert. The same applies to every other entertainment which demanus large space ,and suitable stage accessories. The Examiner has been persistently agitating this question, and it is hoped that before long some results will follow. Surely we have enough public spirited citizens to grasp the situation, and deal with it effectively. Twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars invested in a good modern opera house would not only be, financially, a good investment but would be an important step in relieving the good name of the town and serving the wants of the public in the way of legitimate amusement.

IN ATTIRE OF A MAN

A French Countess Drives to Death in Paris.

SEX DISCOVERED IN HOSPITAL

Lord Abinger Dies From a Fall Down Stairs in the French Capital—Several Fatal Railway Wrecks—Steamer Orion Burned at Sea and Six Perish—Woman Suffocated in Toronto—A Skater Drowned.

Paris, Dec. 14.—The Countess Diane Ogir d'Ivry, the beautiful young daughter of Count Ogir d'Ivry, has died under remarkable circumstances.

Saturday evening a pony cart driven by a handsomely dressed young man, accompanied by a groom, collided with a heavy vehicle near the Avenue du Bois du Boulogne. The occupants of the pony cart were thrown out, the supposed young man being dangerously injured. He was removed to a hospital, where the doctors, preparing for an operation, found him to be a woman, who was identified later as the daughter of Count Ogir d'Ivry. Her skull was fractured in three places, and she died soon after.

A member of the family's entourage says the Countess was fond of daring feats of horsemanship.

SHOCK OF A FALL.

Lord Abinger Succumbs to Accident in a Paris Hospital.

Paris, Dec. 14.—Lord Abinger died Saturday from heart failure, brought on by the shock of a fall down the stairs of a restaurant. His Lordship arrived in Paris Thursday last, and the fall took place early Saturday morning. Lord Abinger's mother will convey the remains to England for interment. The deceased was 32 years of age and unmarried. He succeeded to the title in 1892. He was a captain in the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders (militia) and served in South Africa with the Imperial Yeomanry.

TWO ENGINES OVERTURNED.

Five Men Were Killed and Several Were Severely Injured.

Piedmont, W. Va., Dec. 14.—Five men were killed and several severely injured by the overturning of two engines, attached to a heavy Baltimore and Ohio freight train on the "17-mile grade," near this city, yesterday.

The dead: Engineer Ernest D. Ervin, 38 years old, Cumberland, Md.; Engineer Emery Ervin, 56, of Tunnelton, W. Va.; Fireman Walter B. Nye, 32, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Fireman J. V. Carter, 28, North Carolina; Brakeman John Hays, 25, Staunton, Va.

While descending the "17-mile grade" the train, to which were attached two engines, left the track. The engines and nearly all of the 24 loaded cars tumbled into a deep ravine, carrying the trainmen with them.

Three Killed in This Wreck.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Dec. 14.—Three persons were killed and ten were injured yesterday in a wreck on the C. B. & Q. Railroad, three miles west of Albia. The westbound passenger train was derailed while running on to the Cedar Creek bridge, and five cars were wrecked by collision with the bridge girders. The wreckage immediately took fire, and several of the victims were badly burned.

The dead: Mrs. W. E. Mitchen, Albia, Ia., burned to death; Mildred Mitchen, 8 years old, burned to death; Thomas Beatty, killed in wreck of smoking car.

None of the injured persons will die.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 14.—A north-bound passenger train collided head-on with a southbound cattle train at Glenova, Saturday night. Engineer Thomas Murray of the passenger train and Fireman James Lanahan of the stock train were killed, and two trainmen and Detective William Johnson of Pittsburg were injured, the last named fatally.

Crushed Between Engines.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 14.—A fatal accident occurred in the C.P.R. yards early Saturday morning, when Lewis Bailky had his life crushed out between two engines. Bailky was riding on the front of an engine approaching from the west, when another engine coming from the east collided with it. The steam from both engines, denser by the frosty atmosphere, obscured the view, and neither engineer saw the approaching engine until the crash came.

Hamilton, Dec. 14.—James Coulson, Millgrove, who was hit by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of E. Harrigan, on North James street, Saturday afternoon, was more frightened than hurt. When the police took him out of the ambulance and got him into the City Hospital, the doctors found that the bullet had made only a small scratch on his arm. The excuse the lad Harrigan gave is that he did not know the weapon was loaded. The police say they will prosecute him and the man who gave him the rifle.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Menominee Drifted Helplessly For Days Till Repairs Were Made.

London, Dec. 14.—The Atlantic Transport Line steamer Menominee, from London for New York, which put into Falmouth yesterday, reports that she encountered heavy gales during the voyage across, and that when 560 miles west of the Sicily Islands, Dec. 7, she had a terrible experience. Huge waves broke over the vessel, one wave smashing the rudder head and rendering the ship totally unmanageable. After the storm had somewhat abated the crew endeavored to make temporary repairs, but the Menominee drifted at the mercy of the sea for several days, it being impossible to steer her, and she was driven back within 560 miles of the Sicily Islands. Temporary repairs were eventually effected and Capt. Lucas decided to return to the nearest port. It is reported that the passengers are all well.

No Sign of Emerald.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—H. N. McMaster, son of the late Capt. McMaster, of the unfortunate barque Emerald, which disappeared mysteriously more than a month ago, returned yesterday from Cobourg after a fruitless search, and says that it is his opinion after weighing all the evidence that the Emerald was overtaken by disaster suddenly, allowing her crew no chance of escape, between Toronto and Thirty-three Mile Point.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

COLD IN CANADA.

One Death From the Blizzard in Chicago—Coldest Since 1876.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Yesterday was the coldest day in Chicago for this season of the year since 1876. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning the thermometer registered 13 below. So far but one death has been reported, that of a switchman, who was found frozen to death in the Chicago and Northwestern yards.

Temperature in Canada.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Between nine and ten o'clock last night the mercury dropped one degree, and at 9 above zero reached the coldest of the day. Edmonton and thereabouts, rushed the cold wave, which makes White River at 56 degrees below zero, the coldest place in Canada; 6 degrees lower than Dawson City. White River is 450 miles from Toronto, as the crow flies. All over the Northwest it is quite cold, varying from 4 degrees to 26 degrees below. Ontario ranges from 2 degrees to 12 degrees above zero. Cold is spreading to Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, though mild there on Sunday.

OPPOSE STANDARD OIL.

Roumanians Declare Rockefeller Wants to Monopolize Industry.

Vienna, Dec. 14.—Reports from Bucharest indicate that the Standard Oil Company is meeting with much opposition in its efforts to obtain a footing in Roumania. At a private meeting of the supporters of the Government, M. Stourdza, President of the Council of Ministers, declared that the Americans had come to Roumania for the purpose of monopolizing the national petroleum industry, and that they must prevent the country from submitting to such an economic yoke.

It is stated that the Standard Oil Company has now abandoned its intention of combining any of the existing oil concerns of Roumania, but that believing the country has large and valuable oil fields at present undiscovered, the company will endeavor to obtain them for its European trade.

Coal Strike Ordered.

Altona, Pa., Dec. 14.—National Secretary William E. Wilson and the district officers of the United Mine Workers, at a conference held here, have decided to call a strike of the miners employed by the Somerset Coal Co. on next Wednesday, because of a reduction of 12½ per cent. in their wages. The company has sixteen mines in the bituminous fields of western Pennsylvania. It is not known whether the miners will obey the order, as many of them would rather continue at work during the winter at reduced wages than remain idle.

The Human Dread of Heart Failure.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

The heart is looked upon as the very source and fountain of life, and the slightest defect in the workings of this organ is sufficient to keep one in constant dread of sudden and unexpected death.

Shortness of breath on slight exertion, irregular beating, palpitation and weak action of the heart are among the symptoms which cause uneasiness, and these indications of disease soon disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

With a liberal supply of rich, red, life-sustaining blood the heart plods on with ceaseless energy, forcing the blood through the body and patiently renewing its own waste, but just as soon as the blood gets thin, weak or watery, the symptoms of heart weakness appear and hold the victim in constant terror.

Because of its extraordinary blood-building qualities, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food thoroughly removes these symptoms and not only ensures regular and healthful heart action, but at the same time restores strength and vigor to the whole system.

Mr. J. Law, 247 Hunter street, Peterborough, Ont., and who is employed with the Peter Hamilton Co., states:

"For a long time I was troubled with severe splitting headaches and suffered a great deal with pains in the region of my heart, caused no doubt by indigestion. I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and began this treatment. Since using this preparation for some time I can say that I feel quite different and my health is very much improved. My digestion is good, and the headaches and pains about the heart have not troubled me at all of late. I can sincerely recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a thorough cure for nervous dyspepsia and its accompanying symptoms."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. 23. No Mercury Used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realise my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

For a moment following this impassioned outburst their rough glances sought one another, and the soldier quickly took advantage of this cessation of hostilities.

"No; I am not the land baron," he interposed.

"You aren't?" growled the disappointed leaseholder. "Then who are you? An antirenter?" he added suspiciously.

"I am no friend of his," continued the soldier in a firm voice. "You had one purpose in seeking him; I another. He carried off this lady. I was following him when I met you in the grove."

"Then how came you here—in this room?"

"By the way of a tree, the branch of which reaches to the window."

"The land baron was in this room a moment ago. Where is he now?"

For answer Saint-Prosper pointed to the window.

"Then you let him"—

"We're wasting time," impatiently shouted the barn burner who had disclaimed the soldier's identity to the patroon. "Come!"—with an oath—"do you want to lose him after all? He can't be far away. And this one isn't our man!"

For a second the crowd wavered, then with a vengeful shout they shot from the room, disappearing as quickly as they had come. Led by Little Thunder, who, being a man of peace, had discreetly remained without, they had reached the gate in their headlong pursuit when they were met by a body of horsemen about to turn into the yard as the antirenters were hurrying out. At the sight of this formidable band the leaseholders immediately scattered. Taken equally by surprise, the others made little effort to intercept them, and soon they had vanished over field and down dell. Then the horsemen turned, rode through the avenue of trees and drew up noisily before the portico.

From their window the soldier and his companion observed the abrupt encounter at the entrance of the manor grounds and the dispersion of the leaseholders like leaves before the autumn gusts. Constance, who had breathlessly watched the flight of the erstwhile assailants, felt her doubts reawakened as the horsemen drew up before the door.

"Are they coming back?" she asked, involuntarily clasping the arm of her companion.

She who had been so courageous and self controlled throughout that long, trying day on a sudden felt strangely weak and dependent. He leaned from the narrow casement to command the view below, striving to pierce the gloom, and she, following his example, gazed over his shoulder. Either a gust of air had extinguished the light in the candelabra on the mantel or the tallow dip had burnt itself out, for the room was now in total darkness, so that they could dimly see without being seen.

"These men are not the ones who just fled," he replied.

"Then who are they?" she half whispered, drawing unconsciously closer in that moment of jeopardy, her face distant but a curl's length.

Below the men were dismounting, tying their horses among the trees. Like a noisy band of troopers, they were talking excitedly, but their words were indistinguishable.

"Why do you suppose they fled from them?" she continued.

Was it a tendril of the vine that touched his cheek gently? He started, his face toward the haze in the open borderland.

"Clearly these men are not the leaseholders. They may be seeking you."

She turned eagerly from the window. In the darkness their hands met. Momentary compunction made her pause.

"I haven't yet thanked you!" And he felt the cold, nervous pressure of her hands on his. "You must have ridden very hard and very far!"

His hand closed suddenly upon one of hers. He was not thinking of the ride, but of how she had placed herself beside him in his moment of peril, how she had held them—not long—but a moment—yet long enough!

"They're coming in! They're downstairs!" she exclaimed excitedly.

A flickering light below suddenly threw dim moving shadows upon the ceiling of the hall. As she spoke she stepped forward and stumbled over the debris at the door. His arm was about her almost before the startled exclamation had fallen from her lips, for a moment her shapely young figure rested against him. But quickly she extricated herself, and they picked their way cautiously over the bestrewn threshold out into the hall.

At the balustrade they paused. Reconnoitering at the turn, they were afforded full survey of the lower hall, where the latest comers had taken possession. Few in numbers, the gathering had come to a dead stop, regarding in surprise the broken door and the furniture wantonly demolished.

With unusual pallor of face the young girl stepped from behind the sheltering post. Her hand, resting doubtfully upon the balustrade, sought in unconscious appeal her companion's arm as they descended together the broad steps. In the partial darkness the men ill discerned the figures, but divined their bearing in the relation of outlines limned against the obscure background.

"Why," muttered one in surprise, "this is not the patroon! And here, if I am not mistaken, is the lady Mr. Barnes is so anxious about."

"Mr. Barnes—he is with you?"

It was Constance that spoke.

"Yes; but"—

"Where is he?"

"We left him a ways down the road and"—

The sound of a horse's hoof beats in front of the manor, breaking in on this explanation, was followed by hurried footsteps upon the porch. The newcomer paused on the threshold, when, with an exclamation of joy, Constance rushed to him and in a moment was clasped in the arms of the now jubilant Barnes.

CHAPTER XV.

NEXT morning the sun had made but little progress in the heavens and the dew was not yet off the grass when the party, an imposing cavalcade, issued from the manor on the return journey. Their home coming was uneventful. The barn burners had disappeared like rabbits in their holes; the manor whose master had fled, deserted even by the faithful Oly-kocks, was seen for the last time from the brow of the hill, and then, with its gables and extensive wings, vanished from sight.

"Well," remarked Barnes as they sped down the road, "it was a happy coincidence for me that led the antirenters to the patroon's house last night."

And he proceeded to explain how when he had sought the magistrate he found that official organizing a posse comitatus for the purpose of quelling an anticipated uprising of leaseholders. In answer to the manager's complaint the custodian of the law had asserted his first duty was generally to preserve the peace; afterward he would attend to Barnes' particular grievance. Obliged to content himself as best he might with this meager assurance, the manager, at his wit's end, had accompanied the party whose way had led them in the direction the carriage had taken and whose final destination—an unhoped for consummation—had proved the ultimate goal of his own desires.

On reaching, that afternoon, the town where they were playing Susan was the first of the company to greet Constance.

"Now that it's all over," she laughed, "I rather envy you that you were rescued by such a handsome cavalier."

"Really," drawled Kate, "I should have preferred not being rescued. The owner of a coach, a coat of arms, silver harness and the best horses in the country! I could drive on forever!"

But later, alone with Susan, she looked hard at her.

"So you fainted yesterday?"

"Oh, I'm a perfect coward!" returned the other frankly.

Kate's mind rapidly swept the rough and troubled past—the haphazard sea upon which they had embarked so long ago.

"Dear me!" she remarked quietly, and Susan turned to conceal a blush.

Owing to the magistrate's zeal in relating the story of the rescue the players' success that night was great.

"The hall was filled to overflowing," says the manager in his date book. "At the end of the second act the little girl was called out, and, much to her inward discomfiture, the magistrate presented her with a bouquet and the audience with a written speech. Taking advantage of the occasion, he pointed a political moral from the tale and referred to his own candidacy to the legislature, where he would look after the interests of the rank and file. It was time the landowners were taught their places—not by violence, oh, no; no French methods for Americans—by ballot, not by bullet. Let the people vote for an amendment to the constitution!

"As we were preparing to leave the theater the magistrate appeared behind the scenes. 'Of course, Mr. Barnes, you will appear against the patroon?' he said. 'His prosecution will do much to fortify the issue.'

"'That is all very fine,' I returned satirically. 'But will the Lord provide while we are trying the case? Shall we find miraculous sustenance? We live by moving on, sir. One or two nights in a place; sometimes a little longer. No, no; 'tis necessary to forget if not to forgive. You'll have to fortify your issue without us.'

"'Well, well,' he said good naturedly, 'if it's against your interests I have no wish to press the matter.' Whereupon we shook hands heartily and parted. I looked around for Constance, but she had left the hall with Saint-Prosper. Have I been wise in asking him to join the chariot? I sometimes half regret we are beholden to him"—

From the Shadengo valley Barnes' company proceeded by easy stages to Ohio, where the roads were more difficult than any the chariot had yet encountered.

The least of the strollers' troubles, however, at this crucial period of their wanderings were the bad roads, the greatest being a temperance orator who thundered forth denunciations of rum and the theater with the bitterness of a Juvenal inveighing profligate Rome.

Whatever he was, "poet, orator and dramatist, an English Gavaxzi," or "mountebank," "humbug" or "backslider," Mr. Gough was even at that early period an antagonist not to be despised. He had been out of pocket and out at the elbows; indeed, his wardrobe now was mean and scanty. Want and privation had been his companions, and from his grievous experiences he had become a sensational story teller of low life and penury. Certainly Barnes had reason to lament the coincidence which brought players and lecturer into town at the same time, especially as the latter was heralded under the auspices of the Band of Hope.

Exceptional inducements could not tempt the villagers to the theater. Even an epilogue gained for them none of Mr. Gough's adherents. "The Temperance Doctor" failed miserably, "Drunkard's Warning" admonished pitiably few, while as for "Drunkard's Doom" no one cared what it might be and left him to it.

After such a disastrous engagement the manager not only found himself at the end of his resources, but hopelessly indebted, and with much reluctance he laid the matter before the soldier, who had already advanced a certain sum after their conversation on the night of the country dance and had also come to his assistance on an occasion when the box office receipts and expenses had failed to meet. Moreover, he had been a free, even careless, giver, not looking after his business concerns with the prudent anxiety of a merchant whose ventures are ships at the rude mercy of a troubled sea. To this third application, however, he did not answer immediately.

"Is it as bad as that?" he said at length thoughtfully.

"Yes. It's hard to speak about it to you," replied the manager, with some embarrassment, "but at New Orleans"—

The soldier encountered his troubled gaze. "See if you can sell my horse," he answered.

"You mean"—began the other, surprised.

"Yes."

"Hanged if I will!" exclaimed the manager. Then he put out his hand impulsively. "I beg your pardon. If I had known—but if we're ever out of this mess I may give a better account of my stewardship."

In spite of Barnes' refusal the soldier offered to sell his horse to the landlord, but the latter curtly declined, having horses enough to "eat their heads off" during the winter, as he expressed it.

Thus it was that the strollers perforce reached a desperate conclusion when making their way from the theater on the last evening. By remaining longer they would become the more hopelessly involved; in going—without their host's permission—they would be taking the shortest route toward an honorable settlement in the near future—a paradoxical flight from the brunt of their troubles to meet them squarely. This, to Barnes, ample reason for unceremonious departure was heartily approved by the company in council assembled around the town pump.

"Stay and become a county burden, indeed!" exclaimed Mrs. Adams tragically.

"As well be buried alive as anchored here!" fretfully added Susan.

"The council is dissolved," said the manager promptly, "with no one the wiser—except the town pump."

"An ally of Mr. Gough," suggested Adonis.

Thus more merrily than could have been expected, with such a distasteful enterprise before them, they resumed their way. It was disagreeable underfoot, and they presented an odd appearance, each one with a light. Mrs. Adams, old campaigner that she was, led the way for the ladies, elastic and chatty as though promenading down Broadway on a spring morning. With their lanterns and the purpose they had in view they likened themselves to a band of conspirators. As Barnes marched ahead with his light Susan playfully called him Guy Fawkes of gunpowder fame, whereupon his mind almost misgave him concerning the grave adventure upon which they were embarked.

The wind was blowing furiously, doors and windows creaked, and all the demons of unrest were moaning that night in the hubbub of sounds. Save for a flickering candle in the hall the tavern was dark, and landlord and maids had long since retired to rest. Amid the noise of the rain and the sobbing of the wind trunks were lowered from the window, the chariot and property wagon were drawn from the stable yard and the horses led from their stalls. In a trice they were ready and the ladies, wrapped in their cloaks, were in the coach. But the clatter of hoofs, the neighing of a horse or some other untoward circumstance aroused the landlord. A window in the second story shot up and out popped a head in a nightcap.

"Leaving!" said the manager laconically.

The landlord threw up his arms like Shylock at the loss of his money bags.

"The reckoning!" he exclaimed.

"What about the reckoning?"

"Your pound of flesh, sir!" replied Barnes.

"My score! My score!" shouted the other. "You would not leave without settling it!"

"Go to bed, sir," was the answer, "and let honest people depart without hindrance. You will be paid out of our first profits."

But the man was not so easily appeased. "Robbers! Constable!" he screamed.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Impairment of hearing robs one of many of the joys of life, exposes to danger, interfers with capacity for usefulness, limits ability to transact business and earn a living. Many annually abandon their plans, ambitions and hopes on account of loss of hearing.

In nearly every case of partial or complete deafness there is another feature that to many is more troublesome than the difficulty of hearing—the distracting head noises. These make such an impression on some as to almost drive them insane. The everlasting buzzing, ringing, snapping, rumble or roar, distracts them by day and prevents rest at night.

Nine cases out of ten of head noises and progressive hardness of hearing are due to catarrh of the middle ear or of the tube leading from it to the throat.

It should be understood and constantly borne in mind that to restore the hearing and silence the distracting noises a treatment is required that will allay inflammation in the eustachian tubes, reduce the congestion and swelling and stop the secretion of mucus so that the tubes will be keep open for free passage of air into the middle ear. No locally applied medicine will affectually do this, only a searching constitutional alterative and resolvent will cure catarrh in the deep recesses of the head.

Two acquaintances of the writer were run down and killed by the cars in one year. Both had catarrh of the head, which had extended up the eustachian tubes, leading from the throat to the middle ear, and were quite hard of hearing. In both cases the corner's jury decided that they came to their death because of inability to hear and heed signals that were intended for them. What happened to them is of frequent occurrence and in three cases out of four might have been prevented by the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. These tablets cure all kinds of catarrh. They can be bought at any drug store for 50 cents a box.

That Stuart's Catarrh Tablets do effectually cure catarrh of the eustachian tubes and the head noises and deafness resulting therefrom is attested by the following:—

Mrs. Jane Barlow, the famous medialist, says: "I finally had to give up personal attention to my customers and in consequence many of them went elsewhere, I was in despair for specialists seemed powerless to help me. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets cured me in just a little while so completely that now I hear as well as ever."

Army Surgeon C. H. Beverly, became so deaf from catarrh that he was forced to resign his position, and abandon his profession. He says: "Of course my inherent professional prejudice was hard to overcome but knowing the great benefit you had received, my dear General, through the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, I used them. The great and almost immediate relief I experienced was truly astonishing. I am now entirely cured and have no fear of the disease returning. I go back to my old post next month."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done it, do do it, will do it. Try them and be convinced. They are for sale at any drug store at 50 cents a box, it will put you to very little trouble or expense to prove what they will do for you. Send to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for their free book about catarrh. A postal card will bring it. Write to-day.

FIRE INSURANCE.

Regarding the Payment of Insurance Premiums in Kind.

Insurance and Financial Chronicle.

At a time when a clothing merchant was effecting a policy of insurance on his stock it was cold weather. The agent told the merchant that he needed some clothes, and would as lief buy them from the assured as anybody else, as he had given him the insurance, and he accordingly took a suit of clothes in part payment of the premium, the balance being paid in cash. The Supreme Court of South Carolina holds that no valid contract as to the company could arise from such a transaction. It is said that the taking of clothing by an agent of a fire insurance company, in part payment of the premium, was a fraud on the company.

Whistler Was Particular.

I saw that marvelous set of etchings printed. In fact, the bulk of them were printed in my own printing room, a room which I had especially arranged for the master, and it was in this little printing room of mine that Whistler taught me the art of printing from the copper plate. This was my first insight into Whistler as a great master, and one of his characteristics as a great master was that he would have perfection. No matter how small the detail it must be perfect. To begin with, he always insisted upon having old paper upon which to print his etchings and preferably Dutch because of a certain golden tone, unobtainable with new paper, which this particular kind gave to a proof. Many a time Whistler and I have spent weeks in Holland poking about dirty little shops in search of old paper, and sometimes, after having discovered a fine collection of 3,000 or 4,000 sheets, I have seen Whistler literally tremble with excitement and scarcely know how to ask the price for joy. Then again he was very particular as to the choice of oil for mixing with the ink; also with regard to the temperature of the plate, the pressure of the press, the condition of the blankets, and, in fact, everything had to be absolutely right.—Mortimer Menpes in Studio.

The Top Hat.

Tall hats, "pearking up like the spire of a steeple a quarter of a yard above the crowne," as a sixteenth century writer describes them, were known in the time of Elizabeth, and the Puritans affected them until they merged into the old fashioned beaver of our great-grandfathers' days. Top hats of silk appeared first in Florence about 1800, and twenty years later silk hats with felt bodies were introduced into England.

About 1840 the French silk hat was placed on the market and at once adopted in the familiar "chimney pot" shape. There were several varieties of it, such as the Wellington hat, with the yeoman crown; the Anglesea hat, bell shaped at the top, and the D'Orsay hat, with ribbed silk binding and a big bow.

The color also varied. Thus the Earl of Harrington started a craze for green top hats by wearing one in his garden with the idea of not frightening the birds. He also tested his silk hats by standing upon them. The top hat, however, was never so favored by any great personage as to account for its general adoption.—Loudon Answers.

Got His Money's Worth.

A lady palmist was recently prosecuted, and an amusing incident was noted in connection with the case. One of the witnesses called by the police was an individual who did not appear to be overburdened with intelligence. During a smart cross examination defendant's counsel asked him:

"On first going into the room did you pay a shilling fee to the defendant?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"What did she tell you in return for the money?"

"Oh," said the witness, "she towld me lots o' things, some on 'em true, some an 'em half true an' some on 'em lees."

"Now," continued the counsel after the laughter had died away, "this is the point I wish to get at: Was there any attempt at imposition? Did the lady impose upon you at all?"

"Oh, dear, no!" was the response. "I knowed it wor all gammon, so there couldn't be no imposition. Besides, it wor a bad shillin' as I guv her, to start wi'!"—Tit-Bits.

The annual Christmas tree and entertainment of the Indian River Sunday school, will be held in the Baptist church there on Christmas night. A good programme is being prepared. Everybody come and see what Santa Claus has purchased for you.

CAN CANADA SECURE THE STEEL INDUSTRY

New Electric Process Which Only Requires the Water Power Which Peterborough can Give.

There are two natural resources, from the development of which the country has reaped more benefit perhaps than from any other, with the exception of the agricultural interests, and from which the Dominion will continue to reap increasing benefits. These are the minerals and the forests. In some parts the latter is becoming, to a certain extent, depleted, and, although the supply is practically unlimited, the industries contingent to it are constantly moving northward, where the timber supply is plentiful. This great timber wealth is one of Canada's very valuable assets, and its development has materially increased the prosperity of the people.

The mining industry in Canada can hardly be said to be developed to any appreciable extent as yet, but it is from this source that Canada's wealth will increase to a large extent during the next generation.

There are many who claim, and with apparently good ground for the claim, that the rapid growth and increase of wealth which characterized the United States, during the last half century was due to the development of the steel industry. At any rate it is an undeniable fact that the industry has been the means of adding very materially to the growth of the Republic.

Canada has marvellous possibilities along this line, and it is certain that if natural conditions are appreciated and utilized, in a short time the steel industry will form an important part of the industrial life of the country.

The Dominion Superintendent of Mines has been requested by Hon. Clifford Sifton to prepare a report upon the new method of making steel by electricity, and there is not the least doubt that this will lead to the appointment of a commission to fully investigate the question and possibly advise taking it up as a government enterprise, just as it has been done in Italy.

It is within the memory of even young men of to-day, when the manufacture of steel was looked upon as an industry exclusive to Great Britain. And so it was until Andrew Carnegie developed new and better processes and installed improved and sympathized methods, incidentally, while creating vast wealth for himself, he gave to America an industry which has helped more than any other to place that country side by side with the great powers of the world.

For ages it was thought that the Welsh coal was the only coal which would give forth sufficient heat to bake the quartz and separate the precious metals from it. Shipments of quartz were made to Swansea in Wales. Yet new processes displaced the mineral supremacy of Wales just as the new electrical processes may give to Canada the supremacy in the manufacture of steel.

The chief trouble of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company in Nova Scotia has been with the coke question.

With electric power developed by water power in the valley of the Otonabee, the new process could be used in conjunction with charcoal, carbonized peat or carbonized sawdust.

One ton of coke is required in the production of one ton of pig iron. One fifth of a ton of charcoal only is required to supplement the electrical process of separating the pure iron from the ore.

The quality of steel made by the new process is said to be very much superior to the coal and coke process.

Four electric steel mills are now in operation in France, and one is being operated in Italy by the Italian Government. The United States Steel Corporation has not yet taken the matter up.

But the interest in Peterborough is in the fact that the possibilities of all these processes are dependent upon cheap water power, and a steady and unlimited supply of power.

In addition to the water power available here there is the all important of cheap transportation, which the completion of the Trent Valley Canal will give.

PREPARING FOR SPRING.

Vivid and Loving Description of Genuine Nature Lover—Truly It Hath Been Said: "There Is No Death."

Where the sedges wilt and wither, exposing the hard, frozen earth, and where the leaves have been soaked with the rain or carried away by the searching winds, the elaborate preparations for a new season are freely revealed. The wintergreen pays no attention to the penetrating frosts that congeal the moist earth about its roots and solidify the lingering foliage of most of its forest neighbors. Its scarlet and green, its mild flavor and pleasant aroma remain as in summer. But in the open spaces the artistic rosettes of fresh leaves show a thoughtful regard for the coming season of repose. The evening primrose spreads a most handsome circle of pale green leaves, in no way suggesting the tall, irregularly-podded stalk and perfumed yellow flowers of summer. The slender-waisted and pointed leaves radiate from the deep, fleshy root, making a circle sometimes a foot in diameter. Each circle of leaves grows regularly shorter, right in to the cluster of points in the centre, the whole rosette lying flat and even on the ground, prepared to sleep under the white coverlet till spring. These recumbent circles of pointed leaves are among the most decorative preparations for the season to come. They lend a charm even to the frozen ground by their symmetrical outlines and torpid promise of renewed life. In the spring they will speedily wither as the strong, coarse stalk rises from the ground, and some of the outer points of the circles are already turning brown. But their tenacity is still a contrast with the delicate yellow flower that open but for a night and wither in the morning. The opening of an evening primrose is one of the treats of late summer, when, with the settling of darkness, the coarse, budded, and weedy plant suddenly becomes fragrant with delicate, slender, tubular flowers. Although they live but a single night and wither on the coarse seed pods in the morning, there are other buds developing from day to day to perfume the air of evening on into the fall.

There are other decorative rosettes nestling close on the hard, frozen surface. The viper's bugloss, branded by an unsympathetic community as a noxious weed, in spite of the bright picturesque aspect of its blue, bristling spikes of flowers, appears like dark green stars under the withered grass and sedges. Its coarser and bristling texture distinguishes it from the evening primrose. In summer it displays a decorative scheme peculiarly its own, coarsely picturesque, with unfolding spikes of small blue tubular flowers relieved by pink buds and red protruding stamens. But the best time to study the wild flowers is all the year round. The shepherd's purse, more conspicuous as a weed than as a flower, now takes on a fine rosette form and lies close to the ground, its deeply-lobed leaves in a less regular circle presenting an excellent decorative effect. In summer its little, two-lobed, purse-like seed pods will be more conspicuous than its diminutive white flowers. Just now it is at its best. The saxifrage spreads a little irregular bunch of leaves on the ground, seeming eager for a chance to hide away under the snow. These leafy circles appear like hopeful claims staked out for flowering spaces in the spring. The treasure located there is the mystery of life. "In dark soil and the silence of the seeds the robe of spring it weaves." Where it is not sustained in the vigorous evergreens, the surviving circles of leaves, or the hidden roots that endure the winter, it lives in the inert seeds that have been scattered and hidden in infinite variety in every crevice of the receptive earth. It seems strange that every foot of that solidly-frozen surface is instinct with life, dormant for the moment, but ready to renew its infinitude of activities with the changing seasons. "There is no death; what seems so is transition."

Hands Across the Sea.

There is a movement on foot in England to inaugurate a correspondence scheme between the children of the English schools and the children of the Canadian schools, as well as those of the other Crown colonies. The object of the scheme is to diffuse a better knowledge of the two countries among the children of the two countries. Incidentally it will add materially to the postage revenue.

There are in round numbers 500,000 children in Ontario, and the teachers are asked to inform C. W. Isitt, Clerk of the London School Board, Victoria Embankment, London, W.C., as to how many scholars in Ontario wish to correspond, and if they wish the communications to start from here or from England.

A series of circulars and letters have been received at the Educational Department in connection with the scheme, and asking that the teachers take the matter up.

This scheme provides abundant opportunity for romance.

A Visitor From India.

"I am surprised at the advanced condition of Canada," remarked Mr. O. B. Bamford, an engineer of the British Government's Colonial Department, who called to see Toronto City Engineer Rust yesterday, says The Toronto Telegram.

Mr. Bamford is in Canada on a furlough. He is building a railroad in the northern portion of India on the Chinese frontier. He has also spent some time on the west coast of Africa superintending the building of Government railroads. He does not think that there is any danger of Russia securing a commanding position on the Indian frontier. He says that 40 miles back from the West African coast the country is almost ideal. It is very healthy. Outsiders have no idea, he says, of the extent of African waterways, the Niger, for instance, being five or six miles wide hundreds of miles up-country.

8 MORE DAYS and Santa Claus takes his departure for another twelve long months. Our second flat is filled up with toys of every description. We find that the public is helping us by buying more goods early than they ever did other years.

Some of those who were locked out during the last couple of days last year, felt very sore over it. I was sorry to have been obliged to do it, but the fact is, we were so crowded, that we could not move. Everybody knows that merchants advertise to draw a crowd, and when the rush does come, even though they do leave it to the last week, you can't imagine how bad we ourselves feel at having to lock trade out. We invite you all to come this week. We've 20 salespeople who are all anxious to pile up a big sales sheet each evening.

We will put any purchase aside until the 24th of Dec. by payment of 10c on each dollars worth purchased.

Presents for Father, Mother, Brother, Sister or the other fellow's brother or sister. The goods are fairly well opened out, and you can soon see that we have the goods you have been looking for. HON. MR. STRATTON REPLIES TO GAMEY

Charges Analyzed and the Conspiracy Described.

Regrettable Scenes at His Beachburg Meeting—"Man from Manitoulin" Threatens a Liberal Speaker—Gathering in a Renfrew County Village After Long Wrangling Ends in Disorder.

Eganville, Dec. 16.—"The brawling brood of bribers," who attempted a wholesale purchase of the Ontario Legislature in the Conservative interest some years ago, were recalled to North Renfrew electors last night by Hon. J. R. Stratton, at a rousing meeting at Eganville. Mr. Stratton said that Gamey and those with him had a precedent to follow when they made the charge against him. This reference to the notorious bribery case was especially telling, as one of the Liberal members who exposed the attempt of the bribers formerly represented South Renfrew and lived in Eganville.

A Rousing Meeting.

The meeting last night filled the building to overflowing, and Candidate Hale, Hon. F. R. Latchford, George P. Graham, M.P.P., and others spoke. The principal interest in the meeting was Mr. Stratton's explanation of the Gamey charges, and throughout he was followed closely. In the course of his speech he said it was not unusual for the Conservative party to concoct schemes. It will be fresh in the memory of many that the brawling brood of bribers concocted their scheme to buy out the Legislature in The Mail building and that they were caught red-handed in the act, and when the truth is known in the Gamey case it will be found that right in the very same city the scheme was concocted which Mr. Gamey has fathered. Their methods are as odious to-day as they were then. The evidence is plain to be seen, the very document presented to the court showed deliberation and scheming, and the sheets in the statement show the hands of the concoctors, the important parts being written on paper entirely different from that upon which the statement has been generally prepared.

Mr. Stratton's Reply.

Mr. Stratton went fully into the history of the case from the time Gamey made his statement in the House until the report of the commission was adopted. Gamey's charges, he said, constituted one of the foulest Conservative conspiracies ever attempted against a public man. All precedents of British fair play had been ignored; the accused was condemned by some of the press and Conservative speakers long in advance of being heard before the investigating commission. The Conservative policy seemed to be the glorification of Gamey and the abuse of the Judges. The Opposition attempt to make a hero of the man who, according to sworn evidence, had entered politics for what there was in it, and who was going to be on the Government's side in any event, with Mr. Whitney or Mr. Ross.

Mr. Stratton said he was sure the electors of North Renfrew appreciated the good work of the Liberal Government in Ontario and would show it by electing Mr. Hale on the 26th instant.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, the Government and Mr. Hale.

GAMEY COARSELY VIOLENT.

Beachburg, Dec. 16.—Mr. Gamey was received with open arms by the Conservatives on his entrance to the North Renfrew campaign. He was met at the station in Pembroke by the leading members of the party and driven to the residence of Mr. Dunlop, where a reception was held. In the afternoon he drove out here, accompanied by a dozen loads of Conservatives, to speak for Mr. Dunlop. The little hall was packed to the doors. The meeting several times was in an uproar. Mr. Gamey took two hours in explaining his side of the case. But his violent language disgusted the more serious-minded of his hearers, and his threats to do physical violence to Dr. MacKay were resented by the audience generally. Some of Mr. Gamey's phrases were on the verge of blasphemy.

Granted 40 Minutes.

At the opening of the meeting Dr. Forbes, a local Liberal, asked whether the meeting was open to discussion. Mr. Dunlop, the Conservative candidate, claimed that Mr. Hale, his opponent, had refused to take part in any joint meetings. After a lively discussion on the point it was agreed to allow Dr. MacKay forty minutes. Before he rose Mr. Peter White, jun., spoke on the issues of the campaign.

Dr. MacKay was then called upon, but was met at the start by the accusation that he was a Government official. He admitted that he was local registrar of the High Court, but justified his appearance on the ground that he was a ratepayer and because the Conservatives had to win this election on "Gameyism." He then proceeded to outline the Gamey case, and claimed that Mr. Gamey was discredited in his own evidence.

A lady in the audience disputed the statement, amidst considerable laughter.

The crucial point, he said, was Mr. Gamey's flight to Buffalo, a fugitive from justice.

Mr. Gamey jumped up excitedly and exlaimed, "You said I fled from justice. You are a liar."

A Scene of Disorder.

There was a great uproar in the audience. Mr. Gamey walked to the front and shook his fist in Dr. MacKay's face, and the Chairman was obliged to separate them.

Dr. MacKay, when order was restored, said "that shows the character of the man. Swearing and cursing and threatening to smash my face."

Mr. Gamey jumped up again and exclaimed, "I didn't curse."

Dr. MacKay: "He acts like a blatant bulldozer or a common pugilist. He does not like his medicine, but he must take it."

Towards the end of Mr. Gamey's speech he became very violent in his attack on the Government, which roused Dr. Forbes to say, "That is not true." Mr. Gamey insisted that it was, others joined in the argument, and the meeting broke up in disorder, having lasted from 7 to 11.20 p.m.

PETERBOROUGH TO HAVE OPERA HOUSE.

A Company is now Being Formed to Erect one.

Prospectus of "The Academy of Music of Peterborough," Being Issued To-day—Ready by Sept. 1st, 1904.

The agitation started by the Examiner for the building and equipment of a first class modern opera house for Peterborough as a public necessity, is apparently bearing fruit, as there is being issued to-day the prospectus of the Academy of Music of Peterborough, a stock company which is being formed for the purpose of erecting "a commodious and modern Opera House, Theatre and Music Hall, which will be a credit to the town, and, it is believed, a source of profit to its shareholders."

No one doubts for a moment that there is a need for an opera house, and in the belief that such an enterprise would be profitable, the provisional directors propose to "incorporate a company which will acquire a site, and build an opera house, with shops in front, which will be ready for occupation by the 1st of September, 1904. The provisional directors have had plans laid before them which will place the cost of such a building, with the site, at $30,000, of which sum they are prepared to subscribe a considerable proportion, provided the citizens of Peterborough will do likewise.

"The old Bradburn opera house proved a paying investment until the insurance companies raised their rates to over five per cent. per annum for carrying the fire risk. This rate of insurance was not only imposed on the theatre part of the building, but on all the offices and stores and the stocks carried by the merchants, with the result that the profits earned by the opera house were more than eaten up by the excessive insurance premiums charged against the rest of the property. Everyone knows that the old opera house was not well situated or attractive in appearance. The better grades of theatrical companies could not be persuaded to accept engagements in Peterborough for lack of accommodation for their scenery and stage effects.

"With a new, bright, handsome and fire-proof theatre, capable of affording the very best facilities to the largest companies, the provisional directors feel confident that a fair and reasonable return may be expected from the capital invested.

"A careful estimate places the receipts from opera and theatre companies, concerts, public meetings and rents, at $7,700 per annum, and the expenses of operating the theatre, including insurance, taxes, bill posting, newspaper advertising, heat, light, water, attendance and management, at $4,500, which would leave the sum of $3,200 from which to pay dividends on an investment of $30,000."

The provisional directors, Hon. J. R. Stratton, R. M. Dennistoun, Adam Hall, R. H. Bradburn, W. G. Ferguson and D. Davidson, are all men of business ability, and with these men at the head of such an enterprise, its success seems assured.

"There is no other important place in the Dominion of Canada which has not a theatre of some sort, and it is therefore incumbent on all citizens to show an interest in a project which is more for the public tage than for private benefit. All classes in the community to whom the theatre affords a cheap and always ready source of enjoyment, should see to it that the proposal is not allowed to fall through for want of financial support."

Mr. Jas. Reid is hauling brick to veneer his new house.

Mr. R. Anglesey is also drawing brick for his house.

Mr. Edward Young has a number of men employed taking out wood, etc., on his lot in Burleigh.

Rev. Father Phelan is in Chandos this week, looking after that end of his parish.

Miss Emma Scollard is visiting friends in Peterborough.

(We require a good rain in this neighbourhood, as many of the farmers have a water famine and have to haul water for miles from the Point. If this cold weather continues, and there is no rain, it will be a great inconvenience to many.

Some of our local sports were out fox hunting last week, and had a busy time. Mr. John Blewett was the lucky man and shot a large fox at 200 yards.

The power house here was closed during the past week, as the Lakefield Cement Co. has their new power house in operation at No. 3 dam, below Lakefield. We expect that the one here will be for sale, and it would be a boon for the Point if the power was utilised for some factory.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A Warsaw sportsman who was passing through this neighbourhood last week, was suddenly startled by the apparent trace of deer tracks which chanced to cross his path and consequently impeded his progress for some time. He set the dogs on the animal's tracks, but failing in this attempt he finally decided to follow it up himself, and perchance overtake it by surprise. So as no time was to be lost he immediately prepared for a hasty though spirited pursuit, which lasted longer than he had anticipated. However by persistent effort and constant application to the track, which appeared fresh to him, he followed it until his great surprise, he overtook it in Mr. D. Crowe's barnyard!

The manager of our local mill has decided to shut down for the winter; we hope he will reconsider his decision, as it will mean a considerable loss to the village.

Mr. William Carveth has again commenced his lumbering operations. On Monday, the 7th inst., he took his departure, with a gang of men for his limits.

Our veterinary surgeon has opened a new field of operations, and is now trying to improve on Nature's work. As a consequence many of our cattle find themselves deprived of their essential horns.

Mr. J. Darling, president of the N.D.D.Co., expects to leave this neighbourhood in the spring, taking up his residence on a farm near Norwood.

Mr. J. Middleton, our expert well digger has been in the employ of Mr. D. Crowe for some time past, operating in his well, for the purpose of replenishing his water supply, which has been very scarce all fall.

Mr. Jas. Sharpe of Westwood, spent a pleasant time at the home of Mr. Jas. Little, on Sunday last, where a welcome and most hearty reception was extended to him by both host and hostess. His many friends and acquaintances were pleased to his his intimate associations once more. He also deserves credit for the courage and manner in which he braved the snow storm on the said occasion.

Miss Applestone has been called home to the bedside of her sister, who is dangerously ill. We extend our heartfelt sympathy and best wishes for a rapid recovery.

ONEMEE.

(From our own correspondent.)

The recent cold spell was as severe as any we had all last winter.

East Emily farmers drove through all the storm last Saturday to Peterborough, and obtained good prices for all their produce.

A number of our farmers and citizens received invitations to the complimentary excursion to the western sugar beet factories, from the Peterborough Sugar Co. A number of them accepted the invitation. The acreage for Peterborough County is increasing.

The Presbyterian church is filled each Sunday to listen to the excellent, profitable and practical addresses delivered by the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Whitelaw.

Rev. Mr. Tanner, a former minister of Omemee and Mount Pleasant, will conduct the anniversary services at Mount Pleasant on Dec. 27th.

The Christmas night concert under the auspices of the Emily District Orange Brethren, promises to be a great success. The programme will be furnished by the Toronto Concert Co. which has been secured at a great expense.

The New Yrear's concert will also be a varied and attractive one.

Comfort for the Aged.

Judging from the letters of people up in years there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains and insures regularity of the liver, kidneys and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

Rochester Has Disastrous Fires.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Rochester was visited Monday night by the most disastrous fire in its history, entailing a loss which, according to the latest estimates, will reach from four to five hundred thousand dollars. The F. A. Sherwood Leather Company, 16 Mill street, the Foster-Armstrong piano factory, the tobacco factory of R. S. Whalen & Co., and the piano factory belonging to the Wendell-Marshall Company at North Water street and Central avenue, were all destroyed. Many smaller firms also went down before the conflagration.

Arrested in Milton.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Corporal Vickery of the N.W.M. police spent last night in the city. He had with him Robert J. Mullin, whom he left in No. 2 police station over night. Mullin is wanted in Regina, N.W.T., on the charge of stealing $250 worth of cigars. Mullin formerly owned the Windsor Hotel, in Regina, and sold out to a man named Connors. When Connors took stock, he missed the cigars, which were included in the inventory, and concluded that Mullin had gotten away with them. Mullin was arrested in Milton. His home is in Glen Williams.

Steel Men Confer.

New York, Dec. 16.—Representatives of several of the important independent iron and steel interests conferred here yesterday informally regarding the proposed meetings of the steel rail and billet pools, which take place here on Thursday and Friday. The best information obtainable points to a continuance of the present $23 rate for billets, but it is believed that strong influence will be exerted to cut rails to $26 per ton.

Alleged Smugglers Released.

Buffalo, Dec. 16.—Four of the men arrested on charges of conspiracy to violate United States laws by smuggling Chinamen into the United States from Canada were released yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Keating. The arrests were made by U. S. inspectors following the drowning of several contraband Chinamen in the Erie Canal.

Buried With Mohammedan Rites

London, Dec. 16.—The body of Lord Stanley of Alderley, who died on December 10 of pneumonia, was buried according to Mohammedan rites in Alderley Park, Chelford, Cheshire, yesterday morning. Such an occurrence is unique in the history of the British peerage.

CARRIED TWO SEATS

Conservative Majorities Largely Reduced by Liberals.

USED THE KING'S NAME TO WIN

Result of the Bye-Elections in Great Britain—Fight Turned on the Fiscal Question—Incidents of the Campaign, Which Was Very Hotly Fought, Even Mr. Chamberlain Taking a Hand.

London, Dec. 16.—In the Borough of Lewisham, Major Coates (Conservative) has been elected by a majority of 2,021. At Dulwich F. Rutherford Harris (Conservative) has been elected by a majority of 1,487.

The Liberal candidates were C. F. G. Masterman, in Dulwich, and J. W. Cleland, in Lewisham.

The fiscal question has been prominent throughout the campaign, and Joseph Chamberlain intervened with letters in support of the Conservative candidates. The question of the importation of Chinese labor into South Africa had been used by the Liberals at Dulwich as an anti-Harris slogan, while the Conservatives even dragged in the King's name, attaching the words "Edward Rex" to posters in such a way as to create the impression that His Majesty was a supporter of Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal proposals.

The Liberals telegraphed to the King on the subject, and promptly came a reply authorizing the statement that no permission had been given to use the King's name in any way.

Lewisham.

The results of the previous three campaigns were:

1892—J. Blundell Maple, Conservative, 5,818; A. Clayden, Gladstonian Libtral, 3,138.

1895—J. Blundell Maple, 5,258; C. G. Clarke, Liberal, 2,176.

1900—Sir J. B. Maple, unopposed.

Dulwich.

1892—J. Penn, Conservative, 5,809; G. A. Harvey, Gladstonian Liberal, 2,895.

1895—J. Penn, Conservative, unopposed.

1900—J. Penn, Conservative, unopposed.

Comment on the Result.

London, Dec. 16.—Joseph Chamberlain last night expressed himself as delighted with the result of yesterday's elections in Lewisham and Dulwich, and the protectionist dailies this morning claim the results as a complete triumph for Mr. Chamberlain's policy.

Both constituencies polled very heavily. Lewisham, which is largely a working class division, shows a reduced majority of about 600 compared with the last contest election of 1892. In Dulwich, which is mainly the home of the city clerks, a greater reduction is shown, the majority for the Conservatives in 1895 having reached 3,000. These reductions are of small significance, however, in the face of the fact that the Chamberlainite candidates secured large majorities where the free trade party undoubtedly hoped to win. This double victory will be of great advantage to Mr. Chamberlain, who resumes his campaign to-night at Leeds, when he will address a big meeting.

The Liberal dailies confess discouragement and urge the free traders to redouble their efforts, since, as The Chronicle remarks, "Mr. Chamberlain is a power in the country which it would be most serious not to estimate highly."

May Dispel Balfour's Doubts.

The Telegraph boldly suggests that the result must dispel Mr. Balfour's doubts as to whether the country is ripe for a preferential policy, and proposes that "Mr. Chamberlain should be invited to proceed to the colonies and see what practical arrangements can be made to secure a complete commercial union within the Empire."

WHAT MR. CHAPLIN KNOWS.

Miss Morton in an Interview Praises Ontario's Schools.

London, Dec. 16.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, speaking at Wane yesterday, said that the soil of the colonies was unfitted for the growth of barley and would likely be for years to come.

Ian Malcolm, M.P., refused to attend the Ipswich tariff reform demonstration, alleging that preferential treatment of Canadian and Australian corn would afford the English farmers no escape.

Praises Ontario's Schools.

Miss Morton, on being interviewed by The News on her impressions of Canada, said that in Quebec education was below her expectation, but Ontario far exceeded Quebec in her opinion. She said Canadians did not understand what under-fed children meant, and Inspector Hughes asked her to define the word physical development. Boston children were inferior to Canadian.

Treaty Has Arrived.

New York, Dec. 16.—The steamer City of Washington arrived yesterday from Colon, bringing the signed copy of the canal treaty with the new Republic of Panama. The treaty was in a metal box, in charge of the purser, who turned it over to a representative of the United States Government, upon arrival at the dock.

Sentenced For Cruelty.

Metz, Alsace-Lorraine, Dec. 16.—Lieut. Schilling, charged with 618 cases of maltreatment to his subordinates, was sentenced yesterday by the military court to 15 months' imprisonment.

THE SPEYER CO'Y BUY

Another Step in the Fight for the "Soo" Properties.

SEVERAL PROTESTS ENTERED

Assets of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company Sold By Auction, and Were Bought in By Speyer & Co. For $4,500,000—Theirs Was the Only Bid—Opinion in Toronto on the Sale.

New York, Dec. 16.—The assets of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company held by Speyer & Co. for a loan of $5,050,000 were bought in at public auction by Speyer & Co. yesterday for $4,500,000. Theirs was the only bid. The sale was held in spite of several protests by representatives of other creditors.

Opinion Divided in Toronto.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—Opinion differs materially here as to the effect of the sale. Messrs. Shields, Conmee, B. J. Clergue, Coyne and others from the Soo were in conference with the Government authorities during the day, and with their lawyers. Neither Mr. Ross nor the members of the deputation would give out any information as to what transpired during the interview. The deputation, however, unite in the assertion that the sale is not valid and will not affect the winding up order of the Canadian court. But lawyers are not so sure that the sale will not make a difference to the other creditors. It at least complicates the situation gravely.

Speyers Have Charge.

As the properties stand to-day they are in actual possession of Speyer & Co. Their representatives have actual charge of the properties on both sides, and the sale covers all. The Government is interested to the extent of $250,000 advanced in wages, but it is said to be amply secured. In just what this security consists is not clear, but the legality of the variety of valuable concessions being in the balance would naturally force any purchaser to satisfy the Government's claim before proceeding to reorganize the company.

FAR EAST COGITATIONS.

Japan's Senior Statesmen Closeted Over Russia's Answer.

Tokio, Dec. 16.—The senior statesmen of Japan have just met for the purpose of considering the reply of the Russian Government to the Japanese proposals concerning the difficulties in the Far East.

Rioting at Mokpho.

Seoul, Dec. 16.—More rioting has occurred at Mokpho and yesterday a Japanese mob wounded 17 Coreans. High Corean officials are hurrying to Mokpho to try and quell the disorders. So far Russia has not interferred.

U. S. Minister Allen has demanded a definite answer from the Corean Government in regard to the opening of the port of Wiju.

DO NOT WEAR A LONG FACE.

It is a Great Handicap in All Business and Social Relations.

The man who looks as if he had lost his last friend is in no danger of being crushed by the jam of new ones unless he "cheers up." People are not going out of their way nowadays to associate with the man of mournful and melancholy appearance. They are afraid he will tell them his troubles and they steer clear of him as they all have plenty of their own.

The most universal cause of the forlorn and hopeless appearance today is dyspepsia. It unfits a man for every duty of life and causes him to become despondent and gloomy and necessarily his looks do not belie his feelings. He appears cast down and dejected and becomes a burden to himself and humanity in general. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's certain relief. They do the work that his stomach is unable to do and by relieving that organ of its burdens, permit it to regain its health and strength and again become active and useful in its functions. They contain all the essential ingredients that enter into the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they actually take up the work and do it just as a healthy, sound stomach would.

By this means a man can go right ahead with his work and eat enough to keep him in proper working condition. His system is not deprived of its necessary nourishment as it it in the case of the "starvation cure" or the employment of some of the first class chicken foods now on the market. Starvation, even if it were a good thing, could not be continued long enough to effect a cure; for a disordered and worn out stomach is not going to become strong and healthy in two or three days.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act naturally because they contain natural digestives. The principal component parts are aseptic pepsin, malt diastase and other ingredients with like properties that do the work regardless of the condition of the stomach. There is no unnatural or violent disturbance of the digestive organs as the result of their action. In fact the existence of the stomach is entirely forgotten, as soon as they have had time to begin their operations. They also possess very curative and healing properties and assist the stomach in getting well, while relieving it of its work. They perform the duties of both nurse and physician.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and there is very little danger of any druggist trying to sell you anything else that is just as good. They are so well established and have done so much good in the world that their name has become a household word, so the usual warning, "Accept no substitutes," is unnecessary in the case of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

British Bondholders Protest.

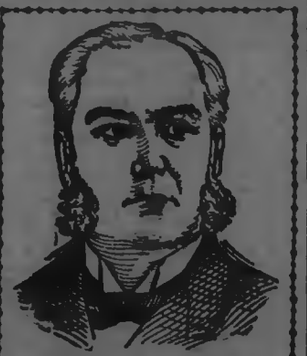
A FAMILY REMEDY.

Pe-ru-na in Use in Thousands of Homes.

Congressman H. Henry Powers, of Vermont, writes from Morrisville, Vt.:



HON. H. H. POWERS.

"Peruna I have used in my family with success. I can recommend it as an excellent family remedy and very good for coughs, colds and catarrhal affections."—H. Henry Powers.

John L. Burnett, Member of Congress, Seventh Alabama District, writes:

"I take pleasure in testifying to the merits of your Peruna. At the solicitation of a friend my wife used it, and it improved her condition generally. It is a remarkable remedy. I can cheerfully recommend Peruna as a good, substantial tonic, and a very good catarrh remedy."

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh.

Half the ills of life are due to catarrh and catarrhal derangements. Peruna is the only internal, systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Peruna is not a guess nor an experiment—it is an absolute, scientific certainty. Peruna has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

ON RUSSO-PERSIAN FRONTIER.

Fights Between Persians and Turcomans Result in Heavy Losses.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 16.—Sanguinary conflicts between Persians and Turcomans are reported to have occurred on the Russo-Persian frontier. A fight between customs officers and Turcomans followed the establishment of Persian custom houses, and resulted in killings on both sides. The Governor of Astrabad, with a large body of troops, intervened, and refused an indemnity offered by the Turcoman Khans. In the fighting which ensued both sides sustained heavy losses. A report says the Persian troops were defeated and retired to Astrabad.

Theatrical "Paper" Seized.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—The first seizure of theatrical paper under the amendment made last session to the Customs Act, forbidding the entry into Canada of posters depicting scenes of crime and violence, was made at the Ottawa custom house yesterday morning. The posters were lithographing reproductions of scenes in a well-known sensational drama.

Shot While Duck Shooting.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Dec. 16.—A lad named Hilborn, about 15 years of age, met with a bad accident yesterday morning. He was going duck shooting, and in placing his gun in the boat with the muzzle towards him the weapon was discharged, the contents entering the palm of his right hand. The boy was removed to St. Catharines Hospital.

Third Victim of Fire.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—Rev. Charles McCarty, curate of St. Joseph's Church, who was injured in the university fire, died at 5 o'clock last night, making the third fatality. He was 25 years of age, and was aside from his priestly functions a noted baseball player. He belonged to Lowell, Mass.

More Wage Reductions.

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 16.—A reduction in wages averaging 17 per cent. and affecting 30,000 men in the Connellsville coke regions, was announced yesterday. The H. C. Frick Coke Company takes the initiative in this, the first reduction since the great strike of the early nineties.

Killed By Express Train.

Ingersoll, Dec. 16.—James Dundas, a farmer, living near Thamesford, was struck by the Pacific Express, due here at 5.40, and instantly killed, the body being completely cut in two. Dundas was on his way home, and his horse became beyond control.

Dr. Langrill Appointed.

DIRECTING THE SCAFFOLD.

Murderer at Large and His Execution Is Postponed Till Dec. 22.

Calgary, Dec. 16.—The execution of Ernest Cashel, has been postponed till Dec. 22. The erection of the scaffold is proceeding under the direction of Hangman Radcliffe.

The police believe Cashel to be in Calgary. He was inside a house when the police were searching outside, and threatened the woman and escaped. At another place, where he exchanged clothes, he stole a beautiful ring, leaving this note: "Cashel $1,000 return in six months, signed Ernest Cashel." The police are still carefully patrolling the city. Police to the south have been ordered to move carefully till they come to Calgary.

Another despatch says Cashel is surrounded in the Springband district, 15 miles from Calgary. He stayed at the Taylor ranch last Thursday, 7 miles west of Calgary. He was wet through, having tried to swim the Bow River. On Saturday night he put up at Thompson's ranch, and discussed the escape with the men there.

CANADA'S CADET CORPS.

Militia Order Provides For Organization of Three Classes.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—A general order issued yesterday dealing with cadet organizations says that they shall be from three classes—boys attending Government schools, boys attending schools not controlled by the Government and boys who, with the permission of their parents, prefer to join an organized institute. No cadet must be more than 18 years of age. As far as it may be possible to do so, arms and equipment will be loaned by the Militia Department. Ammunition will also be supplied.

It has been decided not to make any further issues of the tartan or khaki clothing to the rural corps except for active service. In future the undress uniform to be worn by officers of rural corps will be the undress of their corps.

Arrangements are being made for the issue of tartan shirts and white duck pants and leather gaiters for camps of instruction.

Butchers' cattle of choice quality were in demand, and sold from $4.40 to $4.80 per cwt., with odd cattle of extra quality as high as $5 per cwt. Deliveries of feeders and stockers were light, and while there were a few farmers looking for a few lots, business was light in these classes at nominal prices.

There was a limited number of about 10 milch cows and springers, which sold at $36 to $46 each.

About 57 veal calves, many of which did not deserve the name, being from four to five months old, too big and coarse to be classed as veal. A few fair to good calves were offered, which were quickly bought up at unchanged quotations.

SUDDEN DEATH OF ROBERT HARRISON, SR.

Prominent Resident of Asphodal Died Yesterday.

Mr. Robert Harrison, local manager of the Stoney Pass Mining Company, received word last night to the effect that his father, Mr. Robert Harrison, of lot 15, 1st concession of Asphodal, had died yesterday afternoon after a very brief illness. On Sunday he was taken ill, and even then his condition was not considered serious, but it proved to be more serious than was at first anticipated.

Mr. Harrison had just returned from Port Hope, where he had been attending a meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery, when the sad tidings of his father's death was imparted to him.

The late Mr. Harrison was one of the oldest settlers in the Township in which he died, having lived there almost continuously for 63 years, all of which period was spent on the same farm. He came to Canada when five years old, from his birthplace, Gunsborough, County Down, Ireland, with his parents, and one brother, William, and three sisters, Mrs J. Elmhurst and Mrs. Fortune, all of whom are now dead, Mrs. Comstock having died about three years ago.

His father, Joseph Harrison, died five months after their arrival in Canada, and in 1825 Mr. Harrison came to Asphodel to reside, his home being there ever since that date.

In 1839 Mr. Harrison was married to Margaret Ray, whose birthplace was Killileigh, Ireland, her father being land steward for Lord Dufferin, and is still alive, and in his 91st year.

The deceased was a constant member of the Presbyterian church, and was an ardent supporter of all moral reforms. He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife, three daughters and four sons,—Mrs. Finlay, Ashfield, Huron County; Robert, of Peterborough; Joseph, of Cavan; Mrs. Thomas Hall, Smith; W. C. Harrison, of Norwood; John, on the homestead and Margaret, also at home. A son, Stewart, M., died in boyhood.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 1.30 o'clock, to Westwood Cemetery.

The late Mr. Harrison had been for many years a J.P. in and for the County of Peterborough. In politics he was a life long and staunch Liberal, but was ever wishful and ready to recognize the good qualities of a political or other opponent. In religion the deceased was a staunch, consistent, member and elder of the Presbyterian church, well trained in the undying principles of the Scottish Covenanters, from whom he was of direct descent. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace." Such, in very truth, was the experience of the deceased; and his joyous benediction rests upon and abides with his widow and the members of his family who yet tarry until their earthly sojourn be accomplished.

The funeral will take place from the homestead, "Evergreen Hill," on Friday, the 18th inst., at 1.30 p.m., to the Westwood cemetery. The religious service will be conducted at the homestead at the above named hour, by the pastor of the deceased gentleman, Rev. D. D. McDonald, of Keene and Westwood.

The bride's going away gown was of navy blue serge, with a Persian lamb coat trimmed with mink, and hat to match, the last being the gift of the groom, who also presented the bridesmaid with a pearl crescent.

QUIET WEDDING AT HAVELOCK MONDAY.

Nuptials of Mr. W. A. Greenslade and Miss Mande L. Brown.

At Havelock on Monday last the residence of Mr. A. C. Deremo was the scene of a very pretty wedding, the contracting parties being Miss Maud L. Brown, of Peterborough, his neice and Mr. W. A. Greenslade of Devonshire, Eng. The ceremony which was a quiet affair, was performed by Rev. Wm. Johnston, while the bride's father, Mr. J. A. Brown, gave her away. Miss Brown was dressed in white silk and carried a handsome bouquet of cream roses. The presents were numerous and very beautiful, being at the same time of a useful character.

William Sheehan Doubly Charged in the Police Court This Morning.

At the Police Court to-day, William Sheehan, a young man about twenty years of age, residing in town was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble on two charges. The first was a charge of stealing a string of bells, the property of Ernest Kennedy. In answer Sheehan said: "I don't remember being in the place." This was taken for a plea of not guilty, and the prisoner was remanded until Monday next.

The second charge was one of fraud. Prisoner connected a most plausible and touching story to the effect that on Monday he received word that his father had been injured and that he was to meet him that afternoon at Buckhorn. Armed with this "yarn" Sheehan fraudently obtained a horse and cutter from a man named Marks. Prisoner, who pleaded guilty to this latter charge, was remanded until Monday for sentence.

THE RAND'S VERDI NIGHT.

Friday Night's Concert will Seven Beautiful Music Artistically Presented.

At this season there is a multiplicity of engagements, but among them the public is invited not to forget the band concert on Friday night when it will spend a night with Verdi. The band has been working hard, not only to make this concert an artistic success, but of late it has also done much to elevate the standard of musical taste in Peterborough and their continuance of this course will depend upon the appreciation and encouragement accorded to their efforts. We feel sure that this encouragement and appreciation will be in part expressed at Friday night's concert, which, both on its merits and as a recognition of the band's past services should be greeted by a crowded house. The lovers of good music artistically presented should gauge their engagements so as to include this concert. The reserved seat plan will be found at Edmison's drug store.

EXTRACTION OF SUGAR FROM BEET

The Process Viewed at Wallaceburg Yesterday

BY PETERBOROUGH CITIZENS

Through an Excursion run by the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company—Dresden Factory may Sell its Machinery.

The general feeling in Peterborough regarding the process of the extraction of sugar from the sugar beet has heretofore been decidedly pessimistic. However, there is no doubt whatever that had the most conservative accompanied the excursion of the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company to Dresden and Wallaceburg, and seen the factory at the latter place in operation, their opinions would have very rapidly undergone a change, and veered round to an optimistic sentiment.

There were over one hundred persons present on board the special excursion train which left the G.T.R. station at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, and although the journey there and back was a long and tedious one, there was not one who did not express himself as being astonished and vastly interested in both the large factories visited. The one at Dresden has ceased operations, and the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company has an option on the machinery. The factory at Wallaceburg, on the other hand, is in a very flourishing condition, and since its erection two years ago, has experienced a term of continued success.

The excursion party was composed of the following gentlemen:

Peterborough itself was naturally very largely represented, there being present the following gentlemen: Messrs G W Fitzgerald, W H Meredith, Dr McFall, Dr Bradd, G M Bennett, D Johnston, R B Rogers, W C Braund, A H Webb, Jas Metheral, A Comstock, A P Poussette, K O, Geo Mather, W Paterson, W G Howden, Jas A Patterson, W Bunton, Rev E A Langfeldt, Rev W J Jolliffe, W H Robertson, R H Leary, A Stenson, T E Bradburn, T Boyd, J J Howden, W C Switzer, A B Barber, Dr M A Morrison, W A Bell, F Adams, R Sheehy, John Corkery, F Bartlett, J M Brooks, A C Wynn, Jos Batton, W Singleton, Dr Carmichael, Jas McKinnon, J J Turner, B Shortly, J Mills, J W Garvin, J L Garvin, W Collins, J J Lynch, J T C Lang, Dr McKercher, F R J McPherson and John Bennett.

Trenton was represented by Messrs B A Liddall, W R Phillips, D Jones, W A Warner, G A Ireland, J G Ireland, J G Dench, Thos Garrett, W G Fairley, A B Arnott and Dr W B Crowe.

From farther down the line were Messrs. W W Farley and R J Flendell of Smithfield, W Ireland, of Wooten, J G A Ireland, of Brighton, Mayor Rogers, of Grafton, Rev W H Shinks, Sunderland, W Doupe, of Harwood, Dr Berry of Hastings, and J Brown, Jas Morrow, Robert Fowler, J Smith, A Hunter and J J Lynch of North Monaghan.

Of Otonabee residents there were Messrs D Kennedy, S Armstrong, R Hanbidge, Jas Armstrong, John Reid, J Smithson, J S Deyell, J G Weir.

South Monaghan was represented by Messrs. Robert Fowler and W Morrison.

The excursionists from Smith township were Messrs S Stenson and J H Mann, while Mr. R T Boyd of Mount Pleasant and Mr Levi Layne of Lakefield, were also present.

The journey to Dresden was not altogether uneventful. Nothing of note happened east of Toronto. However, when about twenty miles to the west of Toronto, while the train was travelling at a speed of from forty to fifty miles an hour, and the travellers were either reading or talking the car gave a violent lurch, overbalancing those who happened to be standing up, and startling those who were sitting down. A second later came another jerk, more forcible than the first. Many thinking that an axle had broken or the train had left the rails, jumped up, only to experience a third shock, which seemed to verify all suspicions. The conductor, who was standing between the two cars at the time, gave two frantic tugs at the communication cord. His presence in the car dispelled all fear as the train continued on as smoothly as ever. It was later learned that the engineer was going around a curve at too high a speed, the sharp turn thus lifting the wheels on the outside of the track off the rails for a moment or two.

Dresden was reached about a quarter to five in the afternoon. The town which is composed of about 3000 inhabitants, is situated about a mile from the station. The beet sugar factory here is owned by Capt. Davidson, of Bay City, Mich., a multimillionaire, who spent no less than $729,000 in building and equipping this large factory. However, some misunderstanding of late has arisen between the town authorities and the factory management regarding, it is alleged, a breach of a verbal contract in over assessment on the part of the former. From all that could be learned the town was insistent, and Capt. Davidson obstinate, so that finally the matter reached such a crisis that Capt. Davidson said he would move his factory elsewhere.

The Peterborough factory management at once put themselves into direct correspondence with Captain Davidson and in a short time got a written option on the plant, which, it is said, the owner is now willing to part with at a loss to himself. Seeing that Captain Davidson was preparing to fulfill his threat and pull down his factory the town authorities are alleged to have put themselves out in an attempt to retain it, but too late, for the machinery will now probably be bought for Peterborough.

The factory in question is a handsome brick building, measuring 400 x 117 feet, and is three and four stories in height. The interior is well fitted up, the floors being of concrete and the walls and supports of iron. The machinery is all new and of a massive type, capable of slicing 700 tons of beets per day. This is also equipped with a pulp drier, the only one in the Dominion. This is alone a very valuable piece of machinery, doing the work which would otherwise take eight men to accomplish. This machine alone cost the proprietor $60,000.

Wallaceburg is about 12 miles past Dresden and both places are connected by rail. The Wallaceburg factory this year bought all the beets grown for Peterborough factory, which at the time was unable to handle them. Although a larger and better one than the Dresden factory, this one was built for less money, it having cost only $700,000, compared to $729,000. However, this fact can be accounted for by its not having the expensive pulp drier which the Dresden factory boasts.

The President and Manager of the Wallaceburg Beet Sugar Company, Mr. D. A. Gordon, who showed the visitors over the building, explaining in detail the different pieces of machinery, and what part they took in making of beet sugar, stated to the Examiner that the factory's books showed the standard of the Peterborough beets to be high, they being thus correspondingly valuable. The main building of the factory measures 200 x 75 feet, exclusive of beet sheds, boiler houses and such necessary additions; the entire premises including about 150 acres. It is now consuming 750 tons of beets per diem, but its total capacity can be brought up to 1,000 tons per day. Three hundred hands are employed here, most of which is, however, unskilled labour. The factory has had a most successful year, generally, but the sugar-making period, extending from November to February, showed promise of being their most successful one.

About an hour was spent in looking over this most interesting building, where the beet was first seen in its natural state, then cut and turned into pulp, the juice extracted and converted into delicious sugar, samples of which were given to the visitors. The process is one of absorbing interest and was thoroughly appreciated, thanks to the efforts of the Manager, Mr. Gordon.

The train left Wallaceburg for Peterborough at eight o'clock. During the homeward trip it was moved by Mr. Sam. Armstrong, seconded by Mr. S. Stentson, that the thanks of the guests of the company are due to the officers and directors for the opportunity offered of making the excursion, and visiting the plants that had proved to be of such general and practical interest. That the feeling was shared by all that if the farmers in general could be brought into contact with the operations now going on at Wallaceburg they would realize the importance of the industry being established at Peterborough and that it afforded commercial possibilities of great value that would, it was hoped, benefit the promoters, farmers and business men at large. That favourable results must flow from the establishment of such an enterprise.—Unanimously carried.

The train arrived in Peterborough about 5.30 o'clock this morning every one feeling that the day had indeed been profitably spent, thanks to the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company.

THE MILK IN THE COCOANUT.

Now we know how the milk comes to be in the cocoanut. The Opposition organs and orators have been asserting that the people of North Renfrew have been on the verge of armed insurrection over the alleged disfranchisement of the riding. They claim that the riding has been left without representation in a most outrageous way. But the people of Renfrew have been moderate, they have not broken out, and smashed things generally. They have acted in a truly constitutional way. They have voiced their seething discontent, by proxy. Not a single elector of the riding has raised a note of complaint outside of one man. A Mr. Findlay, a "Liberal of the old school" has concentrated all the seething in himself and he boiled over at a meeting held by Hon. Mr. Ross on Friday night, December 11th. But Mr. Findlay is not a "Liberal of the old school," for a Liberal of that ilk, according to the standard of "Tory" deification, never looked for office nor spoil. Mr. Findlay's political history explains the presence of the milk in the cocoanut. Mr. Findlay once represented Renfrew for a short time in Liberal interests, in the Dominion House, away back in the seventies—1872. He defeated Hon. Peter White. During the short time he was in the House he made the acquaintance of Mr. Ross, who was then in the Dominion Parliament. But in 1874 Mr. Findlay was unable to get the Liberal nomination. That was too much for Mr. Findlay's "old school Liberal" principles, and that was grievance No. 1. Grievance No. 2 came in 1890, when Mr. Findlay applied for the office of Sheriff of the county and didn't get it. That was altogether too much for Mr. Findlay's "old school Liberal" principles, and he became a true Tory of the old, but, ever new, hidebound variety. He couldn't get office and he rebelled, and he is doubtless ready to enlist under the standard of rebellion which our militant editor of the Review is preparing to unfurl. Seargent-Major Brittain had better be on the qui vive. One would not be surprised, one of these dark nights to see the editorial warrior of the Review, and Mr. Findlay advance, by forced marches, on the drill shed, seize the arms and munitions of war and raise the sanguinary standard of revolt. Mr. Findlay went into opposition the minute he didn't get the Shrievalty. He opposed Hon. Mr. Hardy and has ceased to support the Liberals. When he couldn't get office, Mr. Findlay, who in his private capacity is a respected citizen, is in political parlance, a "grafter," and being a disappointed office seeker, he naturally seeks congenial company by allying himself with the Opposition. It is significant that the "old school Liberals," who revolt against the Government are unsuccessful seekers of Government favours. Mr. Findlay is one, and the distinguished gentleman who made his political recantation to "My Dear Foy" might, if the Government had appreciated his importance, have been yet a member of the Liberal ranks. The presence of the milk in the cocoanut is still perhaps a natural mystery, but the presence of the gall in the cocoanuts of certain "old school Liberals" is perfectly accounted for.

THE HILLIARD PROPERTY.

Ald. Rush Replies to the Letter of "Taxpayer."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Referring to letters of "Taxpayer in Monday night's issue of the Examiner, regarding the proposed purchase by the town of the Hilliard Property, I wish to point out a few of the advantages of such an acquisition and show wherein the Taxpayer's letter is misleading.

A few years ago the town procured gravel delivered at 40 cts. per yard. As the demand increased from year to year and pits became exhausted the remaining source of supply became more valuable and eventually got into the hands of speculators so that the price is now 75 cts. per yard.

Contrary to Taxpayer's statement, there are large quantities of sand and gravel suitable for all purposes, when properly opened up.

With regard to road metal, the material in this property contains all grades from sand to heavy gravel. The latter, containing about 40 per cent. granite, when run through the crusher—as taken from the pit—gives a good substance for road making, not to mention the estimated quantity, (1,200 cords) already piled along the fences.

The present mode of making road material is too expensive owing to the crusher being stationary and located in the south end of the town. The delivery of stone and distribution of metal is by far the largest part of the ultimate cost of road making. Whereas by crushing at the source of supply with a portable plant, as is proposed, the cost for stone being nominal a saving of at least 50 per cent of teaming will be effected.

Should the town find it expedient to make concrete pipes for culverts and drains, as is now being done in many cities, owing to the high price and scarcity of suitable timber, this property will supply all necessary material except cement.

The Water Street front of the property, half a mile in length, adjoining the river, within easy reach of water main, drainage, and railways, will afford excellent manufacturing sites.

The present revenue in rents is about 3 per cent. of the purchase price of the whole property.

It may not be necessary as "Taxpayer" says, to purchase 66 acres for an isolation hospital, but having the property in possession with so many other advantages, and buildings already on it quite suitable for the purpose, would certainly be a great advantage in an emergency.

There is also the problem of a house of refuge to be met some day. According to government requirements such an institution in order to benefit by provincial grants must have at least 20 acres of land attached. Where then could the town procure a more suitable property at anything like the price?

I am pleased to see that this question is being discussed, but as I do not personally desire to enter into a controversy, I would be glad to hear all the views that ratepayers may have to offer. My sole object is to benefit the town and promote its general interests, and ratepayers have it in their own hands to say whether or not the purchase shall be effected.

Yours truly,
H. RUSH.

THE ENGLISH SPEAKING.

The Late W. E. H. Lecky, Historian, Wrote Co.; Amore Upon the Possibilities of an Alliance.

Whether harmony of the English speaking races is likely to be permanently achieved is one of the greatest questions of the future, and there is none on which the happiness and progress of the world more largely depend. Unexpected collisions of interests, ambitions and passions may at any time destroy the prospect, and in great democracies largely influenced by demagogues and by an irresponsible and anonymous press there are always powerful agencies that do not make for peace. Only a few years have elapsed since an insignificant question relating to Venezuela seriously endangered the peace between England and the United States. It is, however, not too much to say that of late years the feeling of amity between England and America has steadily grown, and in England at least the great truth that a war with our kinsmen beyond the Atlantic would be one of the greatest calamities that could fall upon the world has become generally realized. With increased facilities of communication the personal contact between the two nations has vastly increased. Both the best and most frivolous elements in each are in constant touch and are constantly interchanged.

In finance, in commerce, in social life, by common amusements and common intellectual pursuits and sympathies, the bond is daily strengthening.

The revelation during the South African war of the intense dislike of England that prevails in the nations of the continent has powerfully tended to draw English sylnpathies to kinsmen beyond the sea, and a succession of American representatives in London of remarkable ability and popularity has done much to consolidate the two countries. In the great problems that are arising in the east the policy of the "open door," adopted on both sides of the Atlantic, has formed a new and powerful bond of commercial and political interest, and the cordial co-operation of the two nations is an essential condition of success.

It does not appear to me probable that the relations of the two nations will take the form of any general or permanent alliance. On both sides of the water the feeling in favor of reserving full liberty of action is strong, and each country has large classes of interests with which the other is almost unconcerned. English opinion now cordially acquiesces in the Monroe doctrine, which places the greater number of American questions entirely within the sphere of influence of the United States, while America is happily free from all obligation to meddle with purely European complications. Limited alliances aiming at special objects such as freedom of commerce in the east may arise, but on the whole the unity of the English speaking races is likely to depend much on the increasing power of common sympathies, common principles and common interests. Both countries are essentially democratic, and the broad basis of popular sentiment must be the foundation of their friendship.—W. E. H. Lecky.

A New Anæsthetic.

At a recent meeting of the French Academy of Medicine M. Courtade gave an account of a new local anæsthetic. It is para-amido-benzoin ether and has been named anæsthesine. It is a derivative of orthoform and is but slightly soluble in water, but freely so in glycerine and in fatty bodies. It is not poisonous, which gives it a great advantage over cocaine, while its action is much less transitory than that of that drug. M. Courtade has used the drug, especially in cases of patients suffering from tuberculosis or syphilitic ulceration of the pharynx which rendered swallowing very painful or even impossible. After an application of anæsthesine in powder they were able to swallow without pain.

Rapid Telegraphy.

The Poliak-Virag system of rapid telegraphy having shown a possibility of 40,000 words an hour over the 447 miles between Berlin and Konigsberg, it will be put in use by the German postal service on the busy line from Berlin to Frankfort. It is a special writing machine which, working in the usual way, perforates a strip of paper which is drawn over a roller under metallic brushes with great rapidity. The interruptions of the current move the membranes of two telephones at the receiving station, which write the messages by means of a small mirror.

Another Word for It.

"Henry," said Mrs. Smudgers, glancing over the front page of the newspaper, "what do they mean when they say that one train telescoped another?"

"They mean, my dear, that it rushed right into it. It is a bad kind of collision."

"Collision! Then why don't they call it a collideoscope instead of a telescope?"

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 15.—Charles Bonier was arrainged in the Police Court yesterday to plead to the charge of murdering Mr. and Mrs. Francis Frehr, the aged couple whose bodies were found recently buried under a shed in the rear of their house. Miners in South Africa Declare For Importation of Chinese.

Johannesburg, Dec. 15.—A mass meeting called here to-night for the purpose of urging upon the Government the advisability of taking a referendum before introducing legislation providing for the introducing of unskilled labor into the Transvaal was completely captured by the element favorable to the importation of Chinese. Special trains brought in thousands of miners from the east and west Rand, who throughout the meeting cheered for the Chinese. The chairman was unable to put a motion for a referendum. An overflow meeting declared for the importation of the Chinese.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O

An Anecdote of Disraeli.

On one occasion Disraeli's habit of exaggerated adulation led to so bold an attempt by the fair recipient to turn it to her advantage that he was driven to save the situation in a way that was very far from being appreciated. The charmer, a young lady of "advanced views," finding the great man so exceedingly profuse in his attentions, thought it an excellent opportunity for making him a convert to her utopian ideals, which were of the most daringly democratic order. After a long recitation of her propaganda she wound up with a fervid appeal to the prime minister to immortalize himself by espousing her ingenious panacea for remedying the wrongs of humanity. As she finished her impassioned harangue, with flushed cheeks and flashing eye, Disraeli, who had been silently watching her with apparently the profoundest sympathy and admiration, suddenly dropped his eyeglass and softly murmured, "Oh, you darling!" "If it had been at dinner," she afterward declared, "and I had had a knife I would have stabbed him!"

Bridge Building Brotherhoods.

It was in France that brotherhoods for building bridges first took shape. In 1178 a bridge was begun over the Rhone at Avignon by Saint Benezet, the head of a body called Fratres Pontis, who undertook the building and repairing of bridges during the middle ages. A second soon followed at St. Esprit.

About the same time Peter of Colechurch, the head of a similar brotherhood in England, began the first stone bridge over the Thames at London.

In many cases when a bridge was built a chapel was founded, to which a priest was attached to pray for the soul of the founder, to receive money and to offer prayers with the passengers for a safe journey.

The strange Gothic triangular bridge at Crowland, over three streams, situated in in a charter of 943, was built by the abbot of Crowland, and Abbot Bernard built the Burton bridge over the Trent, the longest in England, 1,584 feet long, which carries the roadway over thirty-six arches.

Eskimo Masks.

The Eskimo are the greatest of all mask makers. During their religious ceremonials they impersonate their own various gods, wearing masks for the purpose, but the most curious thing is that they wear little masks on their fingers as well as big ones to cover their faces. These finger masks, the like of which are unknown anywhere else in the world, usually represent the sun. They are of wood, carved with a laughing or weeping face, and the rays of the sun are represented by white hair from the belly of the wild reindeer set around as a fringe. The sun is the most important of the Eskimos' divinities, and the principal object of the winter ceremonial is to persuade the sun god to come back from the south.

BIRDS IN THE ARCTIC.

The Spring Rush That Breaks the Monotony of the Year—Fox Is Very Nearly Their Only Foe.

The one great break in the monotony of the whole year along the Arctic coast is the coming of the birds in the spring. The nature of it is almost violent. The last of May they begin to arrive. The notes of the first few comers are musical and buoy one with a feeling of messages from home and friends. But the stream of birds rapidly grows, and the few first joyous notes merge into a ceaseless, hideous, distracting din that robs one of his rest and for a few days becomes unbearable. Swans, cranes, geese, brant, ducks, gulls and terns swoop down upon the coast by thousands. The old birds are delighted at the sight of the old family nesting ground and the young ones at reaching once more their birthplace, and the thousands of them are all talking and screaming at the same time. The contrast of the now endless days of sunshine and abundant and animated life with that of the still Arctic night is very great.

In a few days, however, each happy family has settled down in its own little home, and quietude reigns supreme through the short summer, and then again sets in the long solitudinous night.

Many interesting things may be learned of the birds that annually visit the Arctic coast for the purpose of bringing up their families—of their reasons for going there and of the intelligence displayed by them in many ways. They have not the enemies there they have farther south. The fox is very nearly their only foe, and they find so many ways of avoiding it that it would surely go very hungry were it dependent on birds for food. Little islands in lakes and streams that are free from foxes become great nesting places, and the birds swarm to them until on many of them every available space suitable for nesting is pre-emptied.—From "Camp Life in Arctic America," by Andrew J. Stone, in Scribner's.

Intelligence in Plants.

Mr. Grant Allen, in a book of his charming studies entitled, "Flashlights on Nature," says: "People who have never had occasion to observe plants closely often fall into the error of regarding them as practically dead—dead, that is to say, in the sense of never doing or contriving anything active. They know, of course, that herbs or trees grow and increase, that they flower and fruit, that they put forth green leaves in the spring, and lose them in the autumn. But they picture this as taking place without the knowledge or co-operation of the plant itself—they think of it as done 'for' the tree or shrub rather than 'by' it. Those, however, who have kept a close watch upon living green things in their native condition have generally learned by slow degrees to take quite a different view of plant morals and plant economy. They begin to find out in the course of their observations that the life of a herb is pretty much as the life of an animal in almost everything save one small particular. The plant, as a rule, is rooted to a single spot; the animal, as a rule, is free and locomotive. . . . Again, everybody who has studied plants in a broad spirit is well aware that each act of the plant's is just as truly purposive, as full of practical import, as any act of an animal's."

No Frills for Her.

Physical culture is being introduced into all of the schools of the Protestant Commissioners where gymnasium facilities are available. That some of the parents are unappreciative of the supposed boon and have a prejudice in favor of the solid basis of the three r's is evident, in the following communication, recently sent to one of the lady instructors: "Miss ——, you must stop teachin' my Mary fisical torture shee needs yet readin' and figors with sums more as that, if I want her to do Jumpin, I kin make her Jump."—Montreal Star.

Die and Save Money.

At the Metropolitan club of Washington one evening Justice Harlan of the supreme court had introduced to him a well known New York business man who was given to boasting of the large income he enjoyed.

With the apparent purpose of impressing those about him, the New Yorker remarked that as near as he could tell he supposed his income exceeded $100,000. "And I simply have to make that amount," he added. "Why, with my expenses it costs me $80,000 a year to live!"

"Dear me!" said Justice Harlan blandly. "Really, that's too much. I wouldn't pay it. It isn't worth it."

NEW BRITISH AMBASSADOR.

Sir Henry Mortimer Durand Is an Experienced Diplomatist.

Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, who has been appointed British Ambassador to the United States to succeed Sir Michael Herbert, has had a long experience in the diplomatic service of his country. He was Ambassador to Spain when given his new post.

It is said that the appointment of Sir Mortimer, as he is called, having dropped the Henry, created somewhat of a surprise in diplomatic circles, as he is not considerd a Foreign Office man. Sir Mortimer was a protege of the late Lord Salisbury and was imported into the diplomatic corps from the India civil service, where he attained high position.

Sir Mortimer was Minister to Persia before he was appointed to his present post at Madrid and in St. Petersburg was considered the most astute diplomat Great Britain ever sent to Teheran.

Sir Mortimer is an expert shot and had many adventures with big game while hunting in India, where he was closely connected with Lord Roberts, serving as his political secretary during the famous Kabul campaign in 1879.

Sir Mortimer was born in India in 1850 and is a son of the late Major General Sir Henry Durand. During the Burmese war of 1886 he accompanied Lord Dufferin to Mandalay and conducted the Tibet frontier negotiations two years later. Aside from his reputation as a diplomatist Sir Mortimer has been successful as a writer. His novel, "Helen Trevelyan," written under the nom de plume of John Roy in 1896, met with considerable success. He has also written a memoir of his father and a work on the Afghan war.

The Transparent Man.

A strange human freak has just died at Toplitz, Bohemia, in the person of "Count" Orloff. This individual, who was known as "the transparent man," and was exhibited all over Europe, was almost entirely fleshless, his frame being but skin and bone, and his bones possessed such a peculiar quality of transparency that one could read the dial of a watch through his leg. Needless to say, Orloff was a considerable puzzle to the medical fraternity when in the flesh, a term of strictly figurative application in his case.

The Broken Down Nervous System.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is not always the pale and bloodless who suffer from nervous exhaustion, and when a person of apparent good health finds himself almost helpless he gets little sympathy from physician or friends and not infrequently his ills are attributed to the imagination.

A tendency to put off the duties of the day, indisposition for exertion or concentration of the mind, depressed spirits, wakefulness at night, indigestion, headache, feelings of fatigue, and lassitude, dizziness, specks before the eyes, noises in the ears and irregularities and derangements of the sexual organs are among the most common symptoms of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

Nervous diseases are slow in coming on and patience is necessary in their treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is absolutely certain to be of benefit to anyone suffering from exhausted nerves, for it supplies the very elements of nature which go to create new nerve cells and instill new vigor and energy into the nervous system.

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run-down state of health and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

Conceiving it better to be gone without further parley, having assured him of their honorable intentions, Barnes was about to lash the horses when Kate suddenly exclaimed:

"Where's Constance?"

"Isn't she inside?" asked the manager quickly.

"No; she isn't here."

"Oh, I sent her back to get something for me I had forgotten," spoke up Mrs. Adams, "and she hasn't returned yet."

"Sent her back! Madam, you have ruined everything!" burst out Barnes bitterly.

"Mr. Barnes, I won't be spoken to like a child!"

"Child, indeed"—

But the querulous words were not uttered, for as the manager was about to leave the box in considerable perturbation there, gazing down upon them at a window next to that occupied by the landlord, stood Constance!

For a tippet or a ruff or some equally wretched frippery, carelessly left by the old lady, all their plans for deliverance appeared likely to miscarry. Presumably Constance, turned from her original purpose by the noisy altercation, had hurried to the window, where now the landlord perceived her and immediately availed himself of the advantage offered.

"So one of you is left behind," he shouted exultantly. "And it's the leading lady too! I'll take care she stays here until after a settlement. I'll stop you yet! Stealing away in the middle of the night, you—you vagabonds!"

His voice, growing louder and louder, ended in a shrieking crescendo. Disheartened, there seemed no alternative for the players save to turn back and surrender unconditionally. Barnes breathed a deep sigh; so much for a tippet! Their dash for freedom had been but a sorry attempt! Now he saw visions of prison bars and uttered a groan when the soldier, who was riding his own horse, dashed forward beneath the window and stood upright in his stirrups.

"Do not be afraid, Miss Carew," he said.

Fortunately the window was low and the distance inconsiderable, but Barnes held his breath, hoping the hazard would deter her.

"Do not, my dear!" he began.

But she did not hesitate. The sight of the stalwart figure and the strong arms apparently reassured her, and she stepped upon the sill.

"Quick!" he exclaimed, and at the word she dropped into his upstretched arms. Scarcely had she escaped, however, before the landlord was seen at the same window. So astonished was he to find her gone surprise at first held him speechless; then he burst into a volley of oaths that would have shamed a whaler's master.

"Come back!" he cried. "Come back or"— The alternative was lost in vengeful imprecation.

Holding Constance before him, the soldier resumed his saddle. "Drive on!" he cried to Barnes as past the chariot sped his horse with its double burden.

CHAPTER XVI.

DOWN the Father of Waters a month or so after their flight into the blue grass country steamed the packet bearing the company of players to New Orleans.

Drawing up in due course to the levee, they became a part of the general bustle and confusion; hurriedly disembarked, rushed about for their luggage, because every one else was rushing; hastily entered carriages, of which there was a limited supply, and were whisked off over the rough cobblestones which constituted the principal pavements of the city.

The hotel was finally reached, and what a unique hostelry it was! "Set the St. Charles down in St. Petersburg," commented a chronicler in 1846, "and you would think it a palace; in Boston, and ten to one you would christen it a college; in London, and it would remind you of an exchange." It represented at that day the evolution of the American tavern, the primitive inn, instituted for passengers and wayfaring men; the development of the pothouse to the metropolitan hotel, of the rural ale room to the palatial saloon.

"What a change from country hostelries!" soliloquized the manager after the company were installed in commodious rooms.

Beneath the porch and reception hall extended the large barroom, where several score of men were enjoying their liquors and lunches, and the hum of conversation, the clinking of glasses and the noise made by the skillful mixer of drinks were as sweet music to the manager when shortly after he strode to the bar.

But even as he thus ruminated his glance fell upon an old man seated at a table whom the waiters treated with such deference the manager concluded he must be some one of no slight importance. This gentleman was thin, wrinkled and worn, with a face Voltairean in type, his hair scanty, his dress elegant and his satirical smile like the "flash of a dagger in the sunlight." He was inspecting his bouillon with manifest distrust, adjusting his eyeglass and thrusting his head close to the plate. The look of suspicion deepened and finally a grimace of triumph illumined his countenance as he rapped excitedly on the table.

"Waiter, waiter, do you see that soup?" he almost shouted.

"Yes, M. le Marquis," was the humble response.

"Look at it well!" thundered the old gentleman. "Do you find nothing extraordinary about it?"

Again the bouillon was examined, to the amusement of the manager.

"I am sorry, M. le Marquis, I can detect nothing unusual," politely responded the waiter when he had concluded a painstaking scrutiny with all the gravity and seriousness attending so momentous an investigation.

"You are blind!" exclaimed the old man. "See there; a spot of grease floating in the bouillon, and there another and another! In fact, here is an 'archipelago of Greece!'" This witticism was relieved by an ironical smile. "Take it away!"

The waiter hurried off with the offending dish, and the old man looked immensely satisfied over the disturbance he had created.

"Well has it been said," thought the manager, "that the destiny of a nation depends upon the digestion of its first minister! I wonder what he'll do next?"

Course after course that followed was rejected, the guest keeping up a running comment:

"This sauce is not properly prepared. This salad is not well mixed. I shall starve in this place. These truffles, spoiled in the importation!"

"The worst meal I've ever had!"

"Oh, M. le Marquis"—clasping his hands in despair—"they were preserved in melted paraffin."

"What do I care about your paraffin? Never mind anything more, waiter. I could not eat a mouthful. What is the bill? Very well, and there is something for yourself, blockhead."

"Thank you, M. le Marquis," deferentially.

"The worst meal I've ever had! And I've been in Europe, Asia and Africa! Abominable, abominable—idiot of a waiter—miserable place, miserable—and this dyspepsia"—

Thus running on, with snatches of caustic criticism, the old gentleman shambled out, the waiter holding the door open for him and bowing obsequiously.

"An amiable individual!" observed Barnes to the waiter. "Is he stopping at the hotel?"

"No, monsieur. He has an elegant house near by. The last time he was here he complimented the cook and praised the sauces. He is a little—what you call it?—whimsical!"

"Yes; slightly inclined that way. But is he here alone?"

"He is, monsieur. He loses great sums in the gambling rooms. He keeps a box at the theater for the season. He is the marquis—a prince—a great lord"—

"Even if he calls you 'liar' and 'blockhead?'"

"Oh, monsieur," displaying a silver dollar with an expressive shrug of the shoulders, "this is the—what you call it?—balm."

Still grumbling to himself, the marquis reached the main corridor, where the scene was almost as animated as in the bar and where the principal topic of conversation seemed to be horses and races that had been run or were about to be run.

Sitting moodily in a corner with legs crossed and hat upon his knee, was a young man whose careless glance wandered from time to time from his cigar to the passing figures. As the marquis slowly hobbled along, with an effort to appear alert, the young man arose quickly and came forward with a conventional smile, intercepting the old nobleman near the door.

"My dear M. le Marquis," he exclaimed effusively, "it is with pleasure I see you recovered from your recent indisposition."

"Recovered!" almost shrieked the marquis. "I'm far from recovered. I'm worse than ever. I detest congratulations, monsieur! It's what a lying world always does when you are on the verge of dissolution."

"You are as discerning as ever," murmured the land baron, for it was Edward Mauville.

"I'm not fit to be around. I only came out"—with a sardonic chuckle—"because the doctors said it would be fatal."

"Surely you do not desire"—

"To show them they are impostors? Yes."

"And does New Orleans continue to please you?" asked the other, with some of that pride southerners entertained in those days for their queen city.

"How does the exile like the forced land of his adoption?" returned the nobleman irritably. "My king is in exile. Why should I not be also? Should I stay there, herd with the cattle, call every skipjack 'citizen' and every clod 'brother;' treat every scrub as though she were a duchess?"

"There is, indeed, a regrettable tendency to deify common clay nowadays," assented the patroon soothingly.

"Why, your 'citizen' regards it as condescension to notice a man of condition!" said the marquis violently. "When my king was driven away by the rabble the ocean was not too broad to separate me from a swinish civilization. I will never go back. I will live there no more!"

"That is good news for us," returned the land baron.

"Your politeness almost reconciles me to staying," said the old man more affably. "But I am on my way to the club. What do you say to a rubber?"

The patroon assented.

CHAPTER XVII.

TO the scattering of the antirenters by the rescue party that memorable night at the manor the land baron undoubtedly owed his safety. Beyond reach of personal violence in a neighboring town, without his own domains, from which he was practically exiled, he had sought redress in the courts, only to find his hands tied, with no convincing clew to the perpetraters of these outrages. On the patroon lay the burden of proof, and he found it more difficult than he had anticipated to establish satisfactorily any kind of a case, for alibis blocked his progress at every turn.

At war with his neighbors and with little taste for the monotony of a northern winter he bethought him of his native city, determined to leave the locality and at a distance wait for the turmoil to subside. His brief dream of the rehabilitation of the commonwealth brought only memories stirring him to restlessness. He made inquiries about the strollers, but to no purpose. The theatrical band had come and gone like gypsies.

Saying nothing to any one except Scroggs, to whom he intrusted a load of litigation, he at length quietly departed in the regular stage until he reached a point where two strap rails proclaimed the new method of conveyance. Wedged in the small compartment of a little car directly behind a smoking monster, with an enormous chimney, fed with cord wood, he was borne over the land, and another puffing marvel of different construction carried him over the water. Reaching the Crescent City some time before the strollers, his progress expedited by a locomotive that ran full twenty miles an hour, the land baron found among the latest floating population, comprised of all sorts and conditions, the Marquis de Ligne. The blood of the patroons flowed sluggishly through the land baron's veins, but his French extraction danced in every fiber of his being. After learning the more important and not altogether discreditable circumstances about the land baron's ancestors—for if every gentleman were whipped for godlessness how many striped backs would there be?—the marquis, who declined intimacy with Tom, Dick and Harry and their honest butchers, bakers and candlestick makers of forefathers, permitted an acquaintance that accorded with his views governing social intercourse.

"This is a genuine pleasure, M. le Marquis," observed the land baron suavely when the two found themselves seated in a card room with brandy and soda before them. "To meet a nobleman of the old school is indeed welcome in these days when New Orleans harbors the refugees of the world, for, strive as we will, outsiders are creeping in and corrupting our best circles."

Muttering something about "bourgeoisie—epicier!" the nobleman partook of the liquid consolation before him, which seemed to brighten his spirits.

"If my doctor could see me now! Dolts! Quacks!"

"It's a good joke on them," said Mauville ironically.

"Isn't it? They forbid me touching stimulants. Said they would be fatal! Impostors! Frauds! They haven't killed me yet."

"I have been north to look after certain properties left me by a distant relative, peace to his ashes!" observed Mauville.

"My dear sir, I congratulate you!" exclaimed the nobleman enthusiastically.

"Thanks! But I came near joining the ranks of the well born angels. But for an accident I should now be a cherub of quality."

"And how, monsieur, did you escape such a felicitous fate?"

The land baron's face clouded. "Through a stranger, a Frenchman, a silent, taciturn fellow, more or less an adventurer, I take it. He called himself Saint-Prosper"—

"Saint-Prosper!"

The marquis gazed at Mauville with amazement and incredulity.

"This Saint-Prosper you met was a soldier—Ernest Saint-Prosper?"

"Yes, he was a soldier. Served in Africa, I believe. You knew him?"

"Knew him! He was my ward, the rascal!" cried the other violently. "He was, but now—ingrate!—traitor!—better if he were dead!"

"You speak bitterly, M. le Marquis!" said the patroon curiously.

"Bitterly! After his conduct he is no longer anything to me! He is dead to me—dead!"

"How did he deviate from the line of duty?" asked Mauville, with increasing interest and an edgerness his light manner did not disguise. "A sin of omission or commission?"

"Eh? What?" mumbled the old nobleman, staring at his questioner and on a sudden becoming taciturn. "A family affair!" he added finally, with dignity. "Not worth repeating! But what was he doing there?"

"He had joined a strolling band of players," said the other, concealing his disappointment as best he might at his companion's evasive reply.

"A Saint-Prosper become an actor!" shouted the marquis, his anger again breaking forth. "Has he not already dragged an honored name in the dust? A stroller! A player!" The marquis fairly gasped at the enormity of the offense. For a moment he was speechless and then asked feebly, "What caused him to take such a humiliating step?"

"He was playing the hero of a romance. said the land baron moodily. "I confess he has excellent taste, though. The figure of a Juno, eyes like stars on an August night, features proud as Diana, the voice of a siren—in a word, picture to yourself your fairest conquest, M. le Marquis, and you will have a worthy counterpart of this rose of the wilderness."

"My fairest conquest!" piped the listener. With lackluster eyes he remained motionless, like a traveler in the desert who gazes upon a mirage. "You have described her well. The features of Diana! It was at a revival of Vanbrugh's 'Relapse' I first met her, dressed after the fashion of the Countess of Ossory. Who would not worship before the figures of Lely?"

He half closed his eyes, as though gazing in fancy upon the glossy draperies and rosy flesh of those voluptuous court beauties.

"The wooing, begun in the wings, ended in an ivy covered villa, a retired nook, solitary walks by day, nightingales and moonshine by night. It was a pleasing romance while it lasted, but joy palls on one. Nature abhors sameness. The heart is like Mother Earth—ever varying. I wearied of this surfeit of paradise and left her!"

"A mere incident in an eventful life," said his companion thoughtfully.

"Yes, only an incident," repeated the marquis. "Only an incident. I had almost forgotten it, but your conversation about players and your description of the actress brought it to mind. It had quite passed away, it had quite passed away. But the cards, M. Mauville, the cards!"

THE AX of toughest steel becomes dulled by constant use and must have a new edge if it is to do good work. Constant work dulls a man as it does an ax, makes him sluggish of body and dull of mind. He needs a tonic, something that will restore the keenness of mind and activity of body.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery puts new life into weak, worn-out, run-down men and women. It strengthens the weak stomach, purifies the blood, and effectively stimulates the liver. The whole body is built up with sound, solid flesh by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I was confined to my bed for four months from January 1st, 1899, and commenced to take your medicine January 26th, 1899," writes Mrs. Sallie L. Sheppard, of Poplarbluff, Mo. "I took eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, four of 'Favorite Prescription,' two vials of 'Pleasant Pellets,' and one bottle of Doctor Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed, as a liniment. Indigestion, obstinate constipation, and hardening of the liver was my trouble. I am at this time able to do almost any kind of house work. Your medicine saved me from my grave. Thanks to you for the benefit. My case was hopeless when I began taking your medicine."

Don't be fooled into trading a substance for a shadow. Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery," is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which no "just as good" medicine can show.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Rountree received word this morning from Port Perry to the effect that the ice races there would be held on January 13th and 14th; which leaves the 6th and 7th free for Peterborough. This announcement will be a pleasing one to all who appreciate this form of sport, and who are anxious that the meet here should be a success.

To relieve all doubt as to the recognition by the National Trotting Association, of ice races, Mr. Rountree, secretary of the Peterborough Turf Club, wrote the secretary of the National Association, Mr. W. H. Goucher, and this morning received a letter giving the information that that body, of which the Peterborough Club is a member, recognized fully, and gave protection to ice races just as it did to turf races. This announcement should allay all doubts in the minds of horse-owners.

A SURPLUS OF TWELVE HUNDRED

Annual Financial Statement was Presented Last Night.

Last Regular Council Meeting for the Year 1903—A Bylaw Passed—Other Business.

The Statutory meeting of the Town Council, held last night in the Council Chamber, was attended by Mayor Roger, Aldermen Edgcumbe, Rush, McWilliams, O'Connell, Fannie and Best.

The minutes of last meeting were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were read and dealt with as follows:—

From J. M. Walton, asking for remission of dog tax, on the ground that he had been unduly assessed.—Court of Revision.

From the Canadian Cordage Company, with respect to their request for fire hose and key to the hydrant in the vicinity of their factory, saying that the suggestion would simply mean making their factory a branch of the fire department, and not intended for the sole use of the company. Should the request be granted, the Company undertake to see that the hose is perfectly protected in every respect, and if damaged in any way outside of usual wear and tear, they would expect to be responsible for same while in their custody. The letter concluded by pointing out that the proposition seemed to the writers such a logical one that they considered it strange so much delay should have taken place in acting on it.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Ald. McWilliams presented the report of the Committee of the Whole as follows:—

Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the council approve of the proposed purchase by the Town Trust Commissioners from the Bank of Montreal of the building on Lots numbers 23 and 24, according to Plan No. 108 of the Town of Peterborough, being the building occupied by two stores adjoining the fire-hall.

2. That Mr. John T. Wright, the present collector of taxes for the Village of Ashburnham be authorized and empowered to complete the collection of taxes for the year 1903 for that part of the Town after its annexation on January first next.

The above report was adopted.

Ald. Best presented the following report, which was on motion adopted.

Your Board of Works begs leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. Provided an agreement satisfactory to this Board is filed from Messrs. E. H. Mann and R. M. Dennistoun, the owners of Lot 2, south Dublin West George, and from Mr. Thos. McKee, owner of lots 4 and 5, south Dublin West George where there are inequalities in the sidewalk, constructed by Mr. S. Kennedy, agreeing to make no claims upon the town on account of defects in the sidewalk, that the amount of $53.50 held back by the engineer from the contractor, be paid.

2. That the application of the Peterborough Light and Power Company for permission to place a pole on the north side of London street between Aylmer and Bethune streets, be granted on the usual conditions.

3. That the account of T. M. McWilliams for extra street watering be paid.

BY-LAW.

Ald. McWilliams moved the first reading of a bylaw to amend bylaw 1,052, which is one authorizing the Council to pay Daniel Belleghem $150 per year for care and service of the Dan Spence Memorial Ambulance. The new bylaw provides that $175 shall be paid.

THE PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

Held a Meeting in Port Hope Yesterday —Rev. J. G. Potter's Address.

A meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held in Port Hope, at the Mill street church, yesterday afternoon, presided over by Rev. W. Beattie, Cobourg, Moderator. The following reverend gentlemen were present: Rev. Dr. Torrance, J. G. Potter and Wm. Bennett, Peterborough; A. K. McLeod, Brighton, C. S. Lord, B.D., Grafton; D. P. Oswald, Pontypool; J. W. McIntosh, Centreville; G. Yule, Springville; D. D. McClellan, Keene; Rev. E. A. Camp, of Havelock; J. F. E. Abraham, Port Hope. The elders present were Jas. Russell, Cobourg; Wm. Madill, Peterborough; Wm. Peters, Baltimore; J. F. Clark, First Church, Port Hope; Thos. Clark, Ballyduff; J. Nicholl, Mill street church, Port Hope.

Rev. W. L. Atkinson, of Warsaw, was chosen Moderator for the next six months. He not being present, Rev. Mr. Beattie was requested to continue presiding over the meeting.

A conference was held with the Mill street congregation as to their present situation and prospects for the future, with regard to a stated minister.

Messrs. Thompson and Nicholl appeared as representatives of the congregation, and made statements as to past progress and future prospects and gave answers to the questions which were put to them by the members of the Presbytery.

The Presbytery agreed to adopt the following motion: That it has heard with much satisfaction all the progress being made by the Mill street congregation in connection with the work of Mr. Willeman, who has been for some time stated supply and hopes that the congregation will soon be in a position to call a pastor.

There was next considered a call from Baltimore and Cold Springs, but owing to the lack of signatures and the want of harmony on the part of the people, it was agreed to set the call aside, express sympathy with the people in the circumstances, and empower Rev. Mr. Lord of Grafton, to moderate another call as soon as the people are prepared.

The future relationship of Queen's College, Kingston, to the church, was discussed at some length. On the motion of Dr. Torrance it was agreed to approve of the present relationship being continued.

Rev. J. G. Potter delivered an interesting report on Home Missions with regard to the supply of the mission fields. Power was given to the Home Mission Committee to take all necessary steps towards the prosperity of the several mission fields.

The matter of establishing a fund to meet expenses of delegates to the Assembly, was deferred until a future meeting.

This concluded the meeting. The next session will be held in St. Paul's church, Peterborough on the second Tuesday in March, beginning at nine o'clock.

LOCAL LEGAL.

In the report of proceedings at Osgoode Hall, in the Court of Appeal the following appears:—

Webb vs. Canadian General Electric Company.—E. E. A. Duvernet, for defendants, appealed from judgment of King's Bench Divisional Court, setting aside judgment of Meredith, J., at trial of action with a jury, nonsuiting plaintiff and dismissing action with costs, on the ground that there was no reasonable evidence to go to the jury in support of claim for $2,000 damages for injuries which plaintiff alleges were sustained by him while working in defendant company's "compound building" at Peterborough, by reason of the negligence of the defendant company, or of those for whom it was responsible. W. R. Riddell, K.C., and John Green (Peterborough,) for plaintiff, contra. On objection by respondent's counsel that no appeal lies, a new trial having been had under the Divisional Court judgment, while notice of appeal from the first trial alone had been given, and there having been no expectation that appeal would be prosecuted, the objection treated as a motion to quash, and the action of appellants as of an intention to vacate appeal having gone to trial a second time, appeal dismissed, but without costs.

8 MORE DAYS and Santa Claus takes his departure for another twelve long months. Our second flat is fitted up with toys of every description. We find that the public is helping us by buying more goods early than they ever did other years.

Some of those who were locked out during the last couple of days last year, felt very sore over it. I was sorry to have been obliged to do it, but the fact is, we were so crowded that we could not move. Everybody knows that merchants advertise to draw a crowd, and when the rush does come, even though they do leave it to the last week, you can imagine how bad we ourselves feel at having to lock trade out. We invite you all to come this week. We've 30 salespeople who are all anxious to pile up a big sales sheet each evening.

We will put any purchase aside until the 24th of Dec. by payment of 10c on each dollars worth purchased.

Presents for Father, Mother, Brother, Sister or the other fellow's brother or sister. The goods are fairly well opened out, and you can soon see that we have the goods you have been looking for. CANADA'S POSITION CLEARLY DEFINED.

Mr. Chamberlain Reads a Letter From Mr. Fielding.

Chamberlain's Promise if he Were Made Ambassador to the Colonies—London Press Comments on the Address—Committee of Business Men to Make Enquiries to Aid in Fiscal Fight.

London, Dec. 17.—Speaking at Leeds yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain called the objection that the colonies have never asked a preference a "monstrous misrepresentation." He asked if they had forgotten the Ottawa conference and the two London conferences, where every premier had urged consideration of a mutual preference. "Let them send me as ambassador to the colonies," said the speaker, "with full powers, and I am perfectly willing to risk my reputation that I will be able not merely to satisfy the colonies that we have something to give them worthy of their acceptance, but also to secure an equal measure in return."

A Letter From Mr. Fielding.

Mr. Chamberlain then read a letter he had received a day or two ago from the Finance Minister of Canada, "for whom," he said, "we feel the greatest respect as one of a new race of colonial statesmen who will be second to none in the councils of the Empire."

Mr. Fielding had been asked if the Canadian Ministers intended refraining from replying to some of the press statements as to what was the position taken by the Canadian Ministers at the colonial conference last year. He said: "It was in favor of imperial preferential trade, which is cordially endorsed by both of the great political parties. Some difficulties might arise as to the details of so large a scheme, but it is surely not too much to believe that if the principle is approved, the intelligence of British and colonial public men can be relied upon to overcome them, and to put the project into practical form." (Cheers.)

The speaker added: "There is no physical difference to prevent the federation of the British race. The distance between the Yukon and Hudson Bay is greater than the distance between England and Canada."

London Press Comment.

The Standard, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's speech, says: "The commission proposed is so novel and striking that it completely overshadows other topics. It would be a grand inquest on the nation. A tour of the colonies would be a good idea, as if he did not convince the colonies he might modify his own opinion."

The Times says: "The work of the commission would be purely experimental. The fact that the leaders in staple British industries are supporters of the Chamberlain policy secures the best possible personnel."

The News calls the proposed commission eccentric and anarchic and showing a distrust by the House of Commons of the Board of Trade and the Chancellor of the Exechequer.

The Chronicle says it would be an amusing commission on Montreal congress lines, except that the members would be bound to a preconceived conclusion.

The Post says it shows the tremendous force behind the Imperialist movement that the London Ragged School Union received thirty dollars from the children of Victoria, B.C., to provide the poorer London children with a Christmas dinner.

To a Canadian Port.

A reliable city informant says the Hamburg-American-C. P. R. lines' arrangements have been concluded. The former will manage the latter's continental traffic. If the C. P. R. run a line, as announced from Antwerp, emigrants will use that route, otherwise the Hamburg-American Line will run steamers to a Canadian port.

Bristol Wants Canadian Agents.

A meeting of the Bristol delegates to the Montreal Congress of Chambers of Commerce decided to ask the Canadian Government to appoint a commercial agent at Bristol, as the delegates claim Bristol supplies a large tract of country, including many counties and important cities and towns.

Montreal-Avonmouth Service.

The Canadian Pacific and the chief dock officials of Avonmouth are in conference with a view to the development of the Montreal-Avonmouth service in 1904. It is the belief of the C. P. R. officials that if the local railways co-operate they can reckon on a much larger traffic.

CHAMBERLAIN AT LEEDS.

Advocates Mother Country and Colonies Standing All Together.

Leeds, Dec. 17.—Joseph Chamberlain addressed two immense audiences here last night, making the last speeches of his fiscal campaign for the present year. The enthusiasm was tremendous.

The feature of Mr. Chamberlain's first speech was his announcement that he has been engaged in getting together a committee of business men from all parts of the kingdom to make enquiries among the various branches of trade at home and abroad, as a result of which many difficulties would be cleared away.

Substitute committees will be formed to deal with each branch of trade and to take exhaustive evidence. From these Mr. Chamberlain said he expected to be in a position to formulate a tariff bill acceptable to the country which will enable Great Britain to give trade advantages to those who are prepared to render her similar favors.

Continuing, the rest of Mr. Chamberlain's speech was largely a repetition of his former arguments. He said he had been blamed for saying that preferential trade with the colonies would not mean an addition to the cost of living. He quoted a letter from Charles Booth, of the firm of Alfred Booth & Co., Liverpool, saying he did not believe the proposals would add to the cost of living.

Mr. Chamberlain said the country was now at the parting of the ways, and posterity would never forgive the Government if it lost the slightest chance to secure to secure what was actually needed by the nation.

In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain said he advocated "the splendid isolation" of the mother country and her colonial children as a family, standing together through good and ill.

MR. HARCOURT.

In North Renfrew He Deals With the Agricultural Position of Ontario—Gamey Tories Chief Reliance.

Pembroke, Dec. 17.—Mr. Harcourt Tuesday evening held a very successful meeting in Cobden Town Hall. Warden Tuffy occupied the chair. The hall was crowded to the doors, and many were unable to get admission. Mr. Craig spoke very acceptably, dealing with a variety of general topics and dwelling upon the development of new Ontario. Regarding the Gamey case he said that the presence of the member for Manitoulin in the riding was by no means complimentary to the intelligence of the ratepayers. He showed that Mr. Gamey's statements were utterly unreliable, proving it by reference to his evidence and conduct at the investigation before the commission. The audience seemed to be sympathetic with his statement of the Gamey incident.

Provinces Agricultural Position.

Mr. Harcourt, having dealt with financial and educational questions, spoke of the position of the Province with regard to agriculture, and showed that the foremost position attained in the past fifteen or twenty years was due to the work of education which had its origin in the agricultural college at Guelph. As one instance he referred to the live stock exhibition in Chicago, where Ontario carried off practically all the prizes. He criticized the position of Mr. Whitney with regard to the finances of the Province, and showed the revenue which was raised from succession duties, corporation taxes and three power companies at Niagara. The meeting followed the Provincial Treasurer's address with deep interest.

Gamey Tories Chief Reliance.

Mr. Gamey is evidently to be the chief reliance of the Conservative candidate in North Renfrew, for he occupied one-half the time at Beachburg Tuesday night and two-thirds of it last night at Cobden.

His speech was milder in tone at the beginning, and when addressed to the Liberals, than it was Tuesday night, but he blazed out occasionally and was more violent than ever in referring to Chancellor Boyd and Chief Justice Falconbridge.

At the end hearty cheers were given for Mr. Dunlop, but they were almost equally hearty for Mr. Hale, showing the large proportion of Liberals in the audience.

Refuse to Arbitrate.

Quebec, Dec. 17.—Lots of trouble has arisen in the boot and shoe industry. The cutters ask for a small increase of wages, and refuse to work if it is not granted. They refuse to arbitrate. They claim that they are not bound any more by the decision of His Lordship Archbishop Begin, because the manufacturers have been the first to violate the conditions of the agreement by their sudden and unexpected lockout.

Later—Contrary to expectations, the shoe manufacturers will re-open this morning, and all the shoe men will return to work on the advice of the Quebec Labor Board of Arbitration. The complaint of the machinists against the lock-out will be heard by the board later on.

At Leeds yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain, speaking on the preference question, quoted from a letter received from Hon. Mr. Fielding, whom he characterized as "one of a new race of Colonial statesmen who will be second to none in the Colonies of the Empire."

At the Y. M. C. A. hall last night Mr. Walter Roebuck, assistant secretary of the Ontario Legislative League, gave a most interesting address on the "Initiative and Referendum," the result of which will be that a federation will be formed for the purpose of introducing the Initiative and Referendum into the coming municipal campaign. A public meeting will be held on Saturday night.

The Importation of Raw Material — A Bank Manager's Review of Canada's Trade—Comparisan With Other Countries.

(Third Paper.)

The importation of raw material constitutes a very good indication of the volume of business in manufacturing, and we beg leave to submit, at this stage, a few figures compiled from the Trade and Navigation returns of the Dominion :—

	Imports 1896 to 1896 Inclusive.
Ores of Metals	$40,127
Raw Cotton	357,777,625 lbs
Crude Rubber	13,783,746 "
Hides and Skins	313,313,137 "
Flax Seed	9,866,913 "
Oak.....	$1,394,594
Mahogany	$168,718
Furs and Skins	$4,029,227
Coal, soft	11,308,650 t'ns
Coke	111,342 "
Drugs, Dyes and Chemicals.	$1,361,907
Fire Brick, mfg. purposes...	$421,594

	Imports 1897 to 1903 Inclusive.
Ores of Metals	$8,092,145
Raw Cotton	695,524,765 lbs
Crude Rubber	18,477,522 "
Hides and Skins	326,917,527 "
Flax Seed	17,918,576 "
Oak	$5,268,360
Mahogany	$375,274
Furs and Skins...	$3,386,840
Coal, soft	18,405,432 t'ns
Coke	1,380,230 "
Drugs, Dyes and Chemicals.	$10,819,998
Fire Brick, mfg. purposes...	$1,876,689

While as Mr. Munro stated, and as is quite evident, the demands of the home market have been very heavy, it is gratifying to know that our manufacturers have been extending their operations in foreign countries in a large measure as appears from the following statistics:—

Exports. Canadian Manufacturers, 1896	$ 9,365,384
Exports. Canadian Manufacturers, 1903	20,624,967

This is an increase of 120 per cent. in seven years.

But dipping further into the Trade and Navigation Return, we are able to make the statement without fear of contradiction, that our Export of manufactures increased during the last seven years under Liberal rule in double the proportion that they increased during the whole 18 years of the National Policy. Here are the figures :—

EXPORTS OF CANADIAN MANUFACTURES.

1878	$4,127,755
1896	9,365,384
Increase in 18 years	$5,237,629
1896	9,365,384
1903	20,624,967
Increase of 7 years	$ 1,259,583

In the immediate future, we confidently venture the prediction, there will be even greater progress in manufacturing. The new Transcontinental railway will open up vast tracts and areas of virgin soil, of timber and of minerals, which will attract immigration and capital in a larger measure than ever before. As a result of its construction we may confidently anticipate a largely increased acreage under cultivation, and great development in ranching, lumbering and mining industries. An army of men will be required during the work of construction. Villages, towns and (we hope, ultimately, cities) will spring up all along the line of the Road. It will give Canada depth as well as width. In short, we will have a new and greater Canada, and our home market will be greatly enlarged. That is what every Canadian manufacturer wants, as by enlarging the home market you increase his production, and in so doing, place him in a better position to compete with his foreign rivals.

MR. CLOUSTON SPEAKS.

The figures we have quoted have all been taken from official publications. Perhaps, however, you would like other testimony. Well! read what Mr. Clouston, the General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, said at the annual meeting of the Bankers of Canada held in Toronto in November, 1902 :—

"The year that has elapsed since our last meeting has witnessed a further remarkable expansion in all branches of Canadian trade and commerce, in which the business of banking has had its due share. It has been a year of no untoward incident in the domain of mercantile affairs. The prosperity enjoyed in bountiful measure since 1897, continues unabated, and no clouds are yet perceptible on the horizon, save perhaps an undue and speculative desire for financial expansion to anticipate the profits that still lie in the future. On the contrary, the signs from which encouragement and hope spring are abundant. A bountiful harvest has been safely gathered, particularly in our North-west and is rapidly being carried to market, thanks to the liberally increased facilities provided for its transportation. The last returns show that the amount of grain moved to date this year exceeds by nearly 40 per cent. the total for a similar period in 1901. Labour is fully employed; manufacturing industries are working well up to their capital; immigration is increasing at a rate which prompts the hope that we are at last succeeding in solving the problem of populating the North-west; new markets for our products are being exploited and old markets enlarged; means of transportation being supplied and improved. Indeed, were one disposed to dwell on the possibilities of the future in the way of material development and prosperity, the field would afford a vast scope. Railway earnings, clearing house returns, figures of foreign commerce, the failure list, bank statements, in a word, all the tests by which the material conditions of a country are judged, indicate that Canada is experiencing an exceptionally high degree of prosperity."

A COMPARISON.

But the Conservatives say that the growth of trade during the last few years is altogether attributable to the good times which are general throughout the world, and they claim that the growth would have been as great if the old trade policy had been in operation.

Now, the Conservatives administered our affairs for 18 long years, during which there were many years of world-wide prosperity, but nevertheless, the figures show that at no period under Conservative rule was the growth of our trade anything approaching the dimensions of recent years.

For the purpose of comparison, we have divided the period from 1878 to 1902 into four periods of six years. The first three of such periods cover the Conservative Policy, and the last, that of the Liberals.

The figures of growth are as follows :—

EXPORTS, CANADIAN PRODUCE.

Under Conservative Policy—
Ratio of increase.
1878 to 1884..... ....17 per cent.
1884 to 1890..... .... 7 per cent.
1890 to 1896..... ....29 per cent.

Under Liberal Tariff—
1896 to 1902..... ....78 per cent.

AGGREGATE FOREIGN TRADE.

Ratio of Increase.
Under Conservative Policy—
1878 to 1884... ... ...20 per cent.
1884 to 1890... ... ... 5 per cent.
1890 to 1902..... .... 9 per cent.

Under Liberal Tariff—
1896 to 1902..... ....77 per cent.

This showing, we submit, disproves beyond question the Conservative assertion.

COMPARISON WITH OTHER COUNTRIES.

Now let us compare the progress of our trade with that of other countries, and we premise that the comparsion is one of which every Canadian may be proud.

The Relative Percentage of the Growth of Trade of the Under-mentioned Countries for Seven Years.

In the case of Canada and the United States the fiscal year ends June 30th; the figures, therefore, in these two cases only are for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, and 1903, respectively; the fiscal years of all the other countries mentioned end Dec. 31st, 1895 and 1902:

(a) Includes total imports, not "imports for consumption" only.

The foregoing statements prove conclusively, we think, that there is as much difference between the Canada of to-day in a material sense, and the Canada of seven years ago, as between light and darkness. Consider again for a moment the purport of the figures we have quoted. Who would have dreamed that Canada would have made such marvellously rapid progress in such a short space of time? Greater growth all round in seven years under Liberal rule than in eighteen years under Conservative Governments! Hard facts like these cannot be explained away. No wonder His Majesty's loyal opposition feel discouraged. No wonder the Liberals from the Atlantic to the Pacific feel proud of their leaders. If the Tories had such a record to go to the country upon, they would get up on the housetops and shout themselves hoarse.

But apart from the financial and material aspect, we propose to view the business policy of the Government in another and very important light. We submit that the Liberal Government has raised Canada as a nation from comparative obscurity to a very high and commanding position in the eyes of the world. Seven or eight years ago we were not very well known outside of the American continent. The little that was written of us in the press of the mother country was to our disadvantage. Our kin across the water had been shocked by the disgraceful corruption of the Conservative Government, and to say the least they did not consider our country one of promise. Unfortunately for us, the British press comments were only too true, and we had to suffer them in silence, though they undoubtedly had a tendency to retard our growth and development.

The actions of the Liberal Government soon dispelled British distrust and step after step followed which not only redounded to our material advantage, but raised us in the estimation of the Empire and the world. The greatest of these was the preferential tariff. The Conservatives had toyed with the question. They theorized and gossiped over it, but they never got within a hundred miles of the firing line. They had an idea of granting Britain a modest five per cent. advantage in our markets in return for a preference in Britain on our food stuffs, but the Belgian and German treaties seemed, to them, to preclude preferential trade arrangements within the Empire, so they did not submit their idea. The matter was allowed to drop by them, except on the platform, where they talked loud and long about it. The Liberals substituted action for talk and boldly adopted a policy which has been productive of the most beneficial results alike to Canada and the Empire—and which is bound to live in the history of our times. The immediate result was the abrogation of the treaties that seemed to stand in the way of inter-Imperial preferences—and latterly it has brought about the serious discussion and agitation on the trade question now going on in Britain. Canada led the way—she was the pioneer in the movement—South Africa followed, New Zealand has promised to do so—and there is a likelihood of Australia joining the procession. It is also quite within the bounds of possibility that Great Britain herself may revise her trade faith and adopt a similar policy to that of Canada. Mark it well, if ever we get a preference on our products in the British markets it will be the fruit of the Canadian Liberal Government's preferential tariff. But this subject is too large to treat exhaustively or sufficiently within the limits of these articles. More of this anon.

What further has the present government done to raise the national status. Our space is limited so we will summarize.

1. They took a dignified and manly attitude in their negotiations with the United States. Anxious as they were to conclude a trade arrangement with that country—solicitous as they also were to arrive at a settlement of the many questions in dispute between the two countries, they would not sacrifice, or or even give the appearance of sacrificing, what they considered to be Canadian rights. They did their best as statesmen and true Canadians to make the joint high commission fruitful—but their efforts being without avail, Sir Wilfrid Laurier publicly announced that there would be no more looking to Washington. In effect his utterances meant that if further approaches were to be made, the United States would be left to make them.

While on this branch of the subject it should be carefully noted the Government, recognizing the unfriendly and hostile nature of the Dingley Tariff, did not in framing their tariff of 1897, purposely give the United States any advantage. The reductions in duties that were made on products coming from the United States were considered essential to the people of Canada, and it was in their interests solely they were made. The duties on many lines produced in that country were kept up—and in some cases increased. The Government carried out its pledges to the people to reduce customs taxation largely by means of the preferential tariff—which, while benefitting the Canadian consumer and British merchant, handicaps the United States in our markets.

2. Germany having penalized us for giving a preference to the Mother Country, the Canadian Government after exhausting every effort to induce the German Government to take a more reasonable view—retaliated by imposing a substantial surtax on their products.

This step met with the approbation of Great Britain and the Empire—and shewed the world that we were not to be trifled with. It was moreover hailed with great satisfaction in Canada.

3. The Government by admitting the British colonies in the West Indies to the benefits of the preference without a direct return showed its willingness to accept its share of Imperial responsibilities.

4. They succeeded in getting our Government bonds placed on the most favoured trustee list in Great Britain.

5. They gave the Mother Country able assistance in her time of trouble in South Africa.

6. Chiefly through the efforts of the Liberal Postmaster-General — penny postage within the Empire was adopted. Here again Canada led the way.

TRANSPORTATION

Commission Has Conference With Ministers at Ottawa.

THE SCOPE OF THEIR ENQUIRY

To Obtain Views of Business Men All Over the Country From the Atlantic to the Pacific—Widest Possible Right of Enquiry Accorded the Commissioners by the Government—Interesting Details.

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—Messrs. Bertram, Toronto; Reford, Montreal, and Frye, Quebec, who compose the Transportation Commission, held their preliminary meeting yesterday morning in the office of the Minister of Public Works.

In addition to Mr. Sutherland, there were also present Messrs. Sifton, Paterson and Fitzpatrick. The Ministers gave the Commissioners the benefit of their advice in regard to the scope of the Commission. The Commissioners will travel from place to place in Canada and obtain the views of leading business men and business organizations with respect to transportation by water and rail. They will then draw up some broad and comprehensive plan for presentation to the Government. This will form the basis of Governmental action in future, and the several departments who have expenditures to make in connection with transportation will be largely guided by what the Commission may recommend.

The morning's discussion was mainly for the purpose of acquainting the Commission with Ministerial views as to the course which they should follow. The Commission met again in the afternoon and evening, and today will again meet the members of the Government. The Commission will have two secretaries, one of whom will be Mr. Bell, of Winnipeg.

After the morning meeting, Mr. Bertram said: "The Government has given us the widest possible right and permission to enquire into any question we may deem necessary. Our investigation will not be limited to the east or west, but will extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We shall probably require engineers to assist us."

JAPANESE STRENGTHENED.

British Influence is Said to Be Cause of Stiffening Attitude.

Tokio, Dec. 17.—In consequence of Russia's reply a special conference of the older statesmen of Japan including the Marquis Ito and the Cabinet Ministers, proceeded here yesterday. It is understood that the statesmen are considering the adoption of a firm stand against Russia. General Kodama, the war minister, was present, for the first time, at the conference.

British Influence.

Paris, Dec. 17.—The sympathetic attitude of the British press towards Japan is regarded as exercising a stiffening influence on that country; but the British Government has not changed its policy, and is working to prevent war, so far as is known here.

Russia Cannot Surrender.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—The Novkai, the personal organ of Viceroy Alexieff, says: "Japan knows Russia's desire for peace, but she should also know that Russia cannot surrender vital interests to foreigners, either Japanese or Americans, by relinquishing her big undertaking in Manchuria, created at the expense of Russian blood and treasure."

Japan's Cruising Circle.

London, Dec. 17.—A despatch to The Daily Telegraph from Tokio says that the cruising circle of the Japanese standing fleets have been extended by an Admiralty order as far as Corean and Chinese waters. This order is regarded, the correspondent adds, as endowing the Commander-in-Chief with great advantages at the present state of the crisis between Russia and Japan.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

SAVORS OF HATE.

Spanish Cardinal Leaves Legacy to General Who Whips Yankees.

London, Dec. 17.—The will of the late Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa, Archbishop of Valencia, who died Dec. 9, contains, according to a special despatch from Madrid, an extraordinary bequest, that savors of mediaeval hate.

By the reported terms of the Cardinal's will, the sum of $10,000 is left to the "first Spanish general landing in the United States territory with a army sufficiently strong to avenge the defeats of Cuba and the Philippines."

Implicate Twenty.

Denver, Col., Dec. 17.—Adjutant Bell said yesterday that Charles McKinney and Charles Foster, who were arrested by the militia at Cripple Creek, have confessed to complicity in the dynamiting of the Vindicator mine, which resulted in the death of Superintendent McCormack and Foreman Peck. Twenty other persons are said to be implicated by the confession.

Used 30,000 Feet of Hose.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 17.—The fire in the Wendell-Marshall factory still continues, and is likely to do so for at least three days. Thirty thousand feet of hose were used in the fire, and it was all frozen stiff yesterday and out of commission.

On the strength of the prospect of her marriage the widow says she gave up an annuity of $200 a year she had from her late husband's estate for $500 cash. The wedding was slated for last October, but was broken off by the defendant over a couple of anonymous letters, so it is alleged. The principals in the suit are both on the shady side of 50 years. The defendant fell into considerable money lately. The widow says there is another and younger women in the case.

Christmas Suggestions

"Taking time by the forelock" is never a more sensible proceeding than at this season of the year with Christmas and all its attendant responsibilities looming up in the near future. Gifts caught up at the last moment, in all the hurry and confusion of a fortnight or so before the holidays, are generally chosen with little regard for appropriateness, and it is far wiser, as well as less tiring to decide upon such matters early.

There is a way whereby one can do Christmas shopping satisfactorily without worry or inconvenience. And that way is through our mail order department.

JUDGMENTS IN TOWN'S CASES.

Street Lighting Bylaw was Quashed Yesterday.

COSTS AGAINST THE TOWN.

The Railroad Bylaw is Allowed to Stand for Council to Amend Opinion of the Town Solicitor.

The motion to quash the street lighting bylaw and the street railway bylaw, the decision in which was announced exclusively in yesterday's Examiner, came on for hearing yesterday before Mr. Justice Meredith, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

The details of the procedure, and the reasons of the learned Judge for his decisions, are supplied as follows by a member of the Bar:

Mr. W. H. Meldrum moved to set aside the street lighting bylaw upon the ground that the Otonabee Power Company had offered to supply the town with similar light for ten years at $14,000 less than the Peterborough Light and Power Company were willing to supply the same electric current for. Mr. Meldrum further contended that the town council in awarding the street lighting contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company were indirectly seeking to bonus the Peterborough Light and Power Company, or at all events this extra sum of $14,000 was being paid by the town to the Peterborough Light and Power Company for their assistance in securing the street railway.

Mr. Meldrum further contended that material alterations were made by the council in the terms and conditions upon which the Otonabee Power Company was asked to tender namely, The Otonabee Power Company was asked to supply electric current for one hundred lamps on the streets, instead of for a minimum number of one hundred and twenty. It was left open to the Town Engineer to state what lamp should be installed, and other minor changes were made.

Alderman Best and Alderman Clinkscale supported the applicant in this contention, and stated it was well understood by the public that the street lighting contract was really being awarded to the Peterborough Light and Power Company at $14,000 extra in order to encourage Mr. Robert Stuart, on behalf of the American Cereal Company, to build and operate the street railway and supply the town with an efficient railway service, which would never have to go begging for the want of capital.

It turned out, however, upon the motion that Mayor Roger and Alderman Morrison and the other councillors, who voted for the street lighting bylaw swore that the two bylaws were treated separately and independently. Affidavits were also produced for the purpose of showing that neither Mr. Robert Stuart or the Cereal Company, or any of its members had any connection whatever, directly or indirectly with the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, that on the other hand the Peterborough Radial Railway Company was under the control of the following directors:—Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, J. C. Shook, G. W. Hatton, S. D Hall, C. H. Bradburn and D. Davidson.

It further appeared by the evidence that Mayor Roger was Secretary of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. Under the circumstances Mr. Justice Meredith held that the Councillors of the Town were trustees for the people; that it was their duty to make the best bargain they could for the lighting of the streets of the town, and even though the Otonabee Power Company put in their tender at the eleventh hour offering to supply the town their light for $14,000 less than the opposition company were willing to supply the same light for, the council, to honestly discharge their duty, should accept the lowest offer. That is what they would have done in their own private affairs. That is what they should have done in noting as trustees for the people.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company Bylaw was set aside with costs to be paid by the Town.

The Peterborough Radial Railway Company Bylaw stands over until after the New Year, to enable the Council to amend their agreement in respect to certain illegal exemptions which were granted to the Railway Company. In the event of such amendments being made the motion with respect to the Street Railway Bylaw will be dismissed, the Town to pay its own costs and the applicant to pay his own. If the Council do not change the bylaw then the further disposition of the costs will be reserved to be disposed of on the return of the motion.

Mr. E. E. A. DuVernet appeared for the Applicant. Mr. Meldrum. Mr. Shepley, K.C., and E. H. D. Hall appeared for the Town of Peterborough. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun appeared for the Peterborough Light and Power Company and W. E. Middleton for the Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

Mayor Roger was out of town this morning, when his office was visited, consequently his views on the Judge's decision could not be obtained.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, town solicitor, confirmed the report contained in yesterday's Examiner, to the effect that the street lighting bylaw had been set aside. Referring to the street railway bylaw, he said that it had been allowed to stand in order that the council might change one word in it. The Judge held that the wording of the bylaw might be taken to mean that the dividends of the company might be exempt from taxes, whereas the intention of the town is that only the property of the company used for railway purposes shall be exempt. The council is given an opportunity to amend this clause. With this exception, the bylaw is allowed to stand.

While the street railway franchise was given with the understanding that the street lighting contract should accompany it, nothing to that effect is stated in either contract, and according to law the railway company must proceed with the construction and operation of the railway.

With reference to the street lighting contract, Mr. Hall said that the Judge had held that the fact that the contract was given to the company with the highest tender, must be taken as being in the nature of a bonus, and for this reason it was thrown out. The Judge gave it as his opinion, however, that the council might now pass a similar bylaw giving the same company the contract at the same price as provided by the contract now annulled, and it would be legal, because of the fact that to all intents and purposes the railway contract was settled, and could not now be affected by the lighting contract.

The question that remains now, is whether the council will pass a new bylaw along the same lines as the one which has been quashed, and keep faith with the company, or if a new bylaw is not passed, will they hold the railway company to its contract, for the fulfilment of which a deposit of $5,000.00 was made before the contract was signed. This is a matter which will engage the attention of the council at once.

VERILY A RELIC OF ANTIQUITY.

Thirty Year Old Cutter on Exhibition —Is in Excellent Condition.

Outside the shop door of Mr. J. A. Storey, Water street, in the Ontario Bank Block, there stands what is surely a relic of antiquity, in the shape of a one-horse cutter. The vehicle was built exactly twenty-nine years ago, the wood work being done by Mr. David Kerr, now of Portage LaPrarie, formerly, however, of Beaverton, where the cutter was made, while the ironing was done by Mr. Jos. Batten, now Ald. Batten, of Peterborough. After such a long career the cutter naturally presents a somewhat woebegotten appearance, which can only be expected since the cutter never underwent repairs or had a new coating of paint from the day it was made. The cutter was constructed for Mr. Michael Lowes, of Emily Township, who yesterday sold it to Mr. J. A. Storey. Naturally this venerable vehicle creates considerable interest more especially as the whole is just as strong as when it left the finishing shop nearly thirty years ago.

ST. JOSEPH'S BAZAAR VERY GREAT SUCCESS.

To-morrow Will be the Last Day—Articles Sold Rapidly.

Friday is the last day of the bazaar which is being given in the Market Hall, in aid of Mount St. Joseph, and so far it has proved to be highly successful, the articles, selling very rapidly and there is no doubt that what remains will all be sold by to-morrow evening. The fishing booth has been a great success, while the Japanese tea rooms and the Gipsy encampment have both been well patronized. Here fortunes are told, while in the former place dainty teas and oyster suppers are served. The Hall as well as the booths were prettily decorated and reflect great credit on the committee in charge.

"VERDI"

Mr. A. P. Poussette Writes on the Concert to be Given.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The Band of the 57th has, under the able leadership of Mr. Gliddon, attained a degree of proficiency surpassed by few similar organizations in the country. For weeks no pains have been spared to make the "Verdi night" the climax to all previous efforts. It may be safely said that no composer of operatic music has appealed to the emotional side with equal force, and his delightful melodies to-day give as much enjoyment as they did a generation ago, particularly when given with the finish which our bandmaster knows so well how to produce.

Do our citizens support and encourage the band, in which we should feel great pride, and which deserves so well of us? Unfortunately, many persons are, without considering, apt to take the view that this, being a "home enterprise," should give of its best without expecting return; but, as the organization is for the purpose of cultivating a higher conception of music and enobling somewhat our people, how can these things be attained unless the people will listen?

It is to be hoped, for the credit of our town, that next Friday night the band will be greeted with a "bumper house."

Yours, etc.,
A. P. POUSSETTE.

My Dear Little Boys and Girls,—

I am back at the old Stand with my pack full of the most interesting Christmas gifts. You'll find me in the Children's section of the Peterborough Bookstore.

I made so many friends here that I wish to meet you all once more, just to give you a bow or a handshake, and to show you the great pile of gifts I have been making for you since last Christmas. You ought to come and take one peep into my sack. Oh! it's a wonderful storehouse, this pack of mine. My workshop is away up at the North Pole where the explorers are trying to get. Up there the nights are long—as long as the months are here, but by the light of the stars I work at my bench with millions of little fairies and busy little elves to help me.

You ought to see my doll factory, girls! It is the greatest shop of all.

Come in and see me when you get a chance and bring your mamma and papa along—I have presents for them too. Good-bye till I see you. You'll find me on the main floor at the back, next to Chambers street.

BURGLARS WORK IN PORT HOPE.

Cracked the Safe of Mr. Cyrus Throop, but Secured Very Little Cash.

Port Hope Guide.

The store of Mr. Cyrus T. Throop, of Walton street, was burglarized early on Tuesday morning, and when Mr. Throop opened his place of business to-day he was confronted by a mass of fragments strewn over the floor.

The burglars gained entrance by prying open the main door of the building after which they lost no time in placing a charge of dynamite or nitro-glycerine under the safe, blowing the door to pieces. For their work they secured about $17 and a one dollar gold piece, an old relic of Mr. Throop's. Besides this they carried away the cash drawer and a number of very valuable papers.

The safe is situated in the rear end of the building, and a little to the west of it is a large quantity of china and lamps; strange to say, however, very little of this was damaged. The explosion must have been quite powerful, as the contents of the safe were scattered about in all directions. When our representative visited the store Mr. Throop was engaged in shovelling it up, and it must have filled several baskets.

Mr. Barrett whose house adjoins the store was awakened by the explosion and stated that it was exactly 2.30. He came down stairs to fix his fire, and on hearing nothing more came to the conclusion that it was the frost in the store.

The burglars first entered Mr. T. B. Chalk's carriage establishment to secure the necessary tools for carrying out their work. Here they tried to enter the window looking east, but it was a little troublesome for them. They then went to the north side of the building, smashed the window there and entered the workshop. The tool chests were ransacked, but a couple of chisels are only thing thought to be missing.

The affair corresponds very much with that which took place in the office of Hogg and Lytle a few weeks ago.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.

An Able Address by Mr. Walter H. Roebuck.

IN MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The Objects of the Plan Explained Electors to have more Direct Control on Legislation.

The Y.M.C.A. Hall last night contained a large audience to listen to a lecture on "The Initiative and Referendum" given by Mr. Walter H. Roebuck, of Toronto, Assistant Secretary of the Direct Legislation League of Ontario. The lecture was a masterly exposition on the principles of government by the people as embodied in the Initiative and Referendum. The speaker was thoroughly conversant with his subject, and by his eloquent address convinced his hearers of the desirability of adopting the principles which he advocated.

The chair was taken by Mr. W. H. Meldrum, who in introducing the speaker said that he was pleased to preside at a meeting, in which a matter of such great import to every municipality in Canada was to be discussed. The principle of referendum had been adopted by the majority of Toronto Aldermen including the Mayor, and its adoption had proven a desirable thing. He believed that it would also be good for Peterborough.

MR. ROEBUCK'S ADDRESS.

The speaker said that to get an idea of the Initiative and Referendum it would be necessary to go back in thought to the early days of the world's history, when all men lived on an equal footing, and all had equal rights. As the people multiplied, however, they formed themselves into tribes, the strongest of which ruled, and the absolute monarchy was the result, in which the people were oppressed, and the rights of the masses were sacrificed to the wishes of the classes. Later, when the adoption of government by Parliament, the inequalities are gradually disappearing. The speaker said, however, that under the present system a representative government did not always represent the people, because in some cases representatives were elected by a minority of the people, in three-cornered contests.

The fact is, said the speaker, that while the municipal councils are elected by the people, they have no control over the legislation which may be enacted after they are elected. Neither can the people advise the council. This is not fair to the representative nor to the people. The speaker said, that by the present "clumsy" system of election to municipal councils the aldermen did not represent the views of all his constituents. Not only this but the speaker declared that with the present system of election in force, temptations were offered to aldermen to accept money for corrupt legislation. Aldermen, he said, are no more honest than the ordinary man. The speaker advanced the contention that the electors should have the power to veto any measure proposed by the municipal councils. All by-laws, in the opinion of Mr. Roebuck, should be allowed to stand for thirty days between the second and third reading to give the electors an opportunity to give expression to their assent or disapproval of the proposed legislation. By the adoption of this principle it is proposed that all questions, such as the granting of franchises, renewal of franchises, or similar questions shall be submitted to the vote of the people before being ratified by the council. It is also proposed that every man shall have the privilege of voting. The effect of the referendum would be to prevent the Aldermen from accepting money from corporations to put through deals, by which valuable privileges are given away for less than they are worth.

THE INITIATIVE.

The Referendum, however, is only one part of the reforms advocated by Mr. Roebuck. The Initiative, by which ten per cent. of the people, may ask councils or legislatures to enact laws, is also one of the planks on the platform. This principle was first brought into use in 1777, when, in the State of Massachusetts, the Legislature proposed to amend the State Constitution. This system is now in force in Switzerland, and there it works admirably. The Referendum and the Initiative, said the speaker, are checks to party politics. In Switzerland each measure is considered separately, and a party formed on each measure. Should a certain measure brought forward by the Government, be defeated by the Referendum, it would not necessarily be considered that the Government should resign, because the people are merely advising the Government.

The Initiative and Referendum are in force to a certain extent in some of the States in the Union, nearly all of which require that constitutional amendments shall receive the sanction of the people. Then the right to veto all legislation, is given to the Governor, who acts for the people. The system, there, however, is by no means perfect, and the method advocated here is thought to be a decided improvement upon that of the United States.

The strong point brought out by the speaker was that, while the Council or Legislature was elected by the people, the latter had no control over the legislation to be enacted after it had been elected, and no disapproval could be effectually expressed until the succeeding election when it was often too late to be of any practical service. It is proposed that if eight per cent of the people express a desire, the matter must be referred to the electors.

In reply to a question in reference to a plan the adoption of which is being urged in Toronto, to exempt from taxation $700 of the annual value of all buildings, Mr. Roebuck said that while this was a distinct and separate proposition from the subject of his address, the plan is meeting with marked approval. He pointed out that such exemptions would benefit the owners of small houses and would encourage the building of homes by the working people.

At the conclusion of the address, Mr. J. B. McWilliams spoke briefly, endorsing the views expressed by the speaker, and particularly with reference to the $700 exemption.

After considerable discussion it was moved by Mr. Sloan and seconded by Mr. Johnson:—"That it is the opinion of this meeting that a federation of all organizations in town favourable to the Initiative and Referendum should be formed." This resolution was unanimously supported, and Mr. W. S. Robinson was elected secretary and instructed to seek the co-operation of all labour bodies and other organizations, and call a public meeting on Saturday night Dec. 19th, when a Federation will probably be formed, for the purpose of introducing the principles into the municipal campaign this year.

This was done at the Toronto municipal election in 1903, when about thirty organizations were federated under the name of the Toronto Federation of Majority Rule. A circular letter with literature was sent to the Mayoralty and Aldermanic candidates shortly before the city elections, and favourable replies were received from four mayoralty and about twenty-five aldermanic candidates. Many copies of a "Voters' Agreement" were circulated, and a list of the candidates answering favourably was published in four or five daily papers on the Saturday before election day. The outcome of the elections was direct pledges from Mayor Urquhart and fourteen aldermen; at least three other aldermen being also favourable This is a majority of the City Council.

At the meeting last night Mr. W. H. Meldrum and Mr. J. B. McWilliams were nominated for the office of President. Neither, however, felt able to accept the office, consequently it was decided to defer the election of President until the Saturday meeting.

THE AFFIDAVITIER SENTENCED TO JAIL.

W. H. Callaghan Given 60 Day's Imprisonment for Stealing.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, December 17 — W. H. Callaghan, found guilty of stealing $180 from the Crossin Piano Company, was sentenced by Judge Winchester to-day to 60 days in gaol. Callaghan having failed to appear yesterday was arrested this morning. He said his counsel told him he need not appear yesterday. He pleaded for leniency and said he had a wife and four children. He said he had a claim against Crossin for commission. Callaghan wept when sentenced.

Toronto, Dec. 17. — The application for a reserve case and the appeal from the conviction of W. H. Callaghan, was heard by the Court of Appeal this morning and judgment was reserved. It was claimed that the Judge's charge was wrong, also that the Judge had wrongfully excluded certain evidence.

BELLEVUE ARRAIGNED.

Charged That Death of Drucker Was Due to Maltreatment.

New York, Dec. 16.—Inspector McClusky, chief of detectives, is looking into the death in Bellevue Hospital last Thursday of Adolphus Drucker, at one time a member of the British Parliament, and a wealthy mine owner in British Columbia.

Drucker was placed in the prison ward of the hospital while suffering from alcoholism and died there. The present investigation was brought about by a letter written by James Murphy, now a prisoner in the Tombs, who occupied a cot next to Drucker in the hospital. Murphy charges that the attendants dosed the patient with frequent and heavy hypodermic injections of morphine besides an internal dose of a narcotic known as "snipe" and also beat him about the head frequently and unnecessarily.

The coroner will investigate.

Bank Cashier Suicides.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 16.—After greeting a bank examiner who had come unannounced to examine his accounts, Asa C. Bushnell, cashier of the Yale National Bank, went into the basement of the bank yesterday morning and shot himself, dying an hour later. An investigation of the books indicated that the cashier was indebted to the bank in between $12,000 and $15,000. Mr. Bushnell was 47 years old.

Dowie's Latest Move.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—A demurrer to the petition of creditors, which resulted Dec. 4 in the appointment of two receivers to take charge of all the property of John Alexander Dowie at Zion City, was filed yesterday in the U. The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

Cotton Combine Falls Through.

Montreal, Dec. 16.—The amalgamation of the several cotton interests of Canada, namely, the Dominion, Montreal, Canadian colored cotton, and Merchants, has fallen through, and it is believed that no further attempts will be made to bring about any business arrangements between the different companies.

APPEAL FOR PROTECTION.

Ontario Government Asked to Hold See Concessions to Save Money of the Canadians From Speyer & Co.

Toronto, Dec. 17.—Mr. F. H. Clergue, Mr. James Conmee, M.P.P., Mr. H. C. Hamilton, solicitor for the Consolidated Lake Superior Co., Mr. Cornelius Shields, general manager of the company, and Mr. T. J. Drummond of Montreal had a lengthy interview with Premier Ross at the Parliament buildings yesterday morning. The object of their visit was to request the Government to take such action as would protect the Canadian shareholders, in case of the company being wound up. The means of doing this would be to retain the land grants and other concessions made in giving franchises to the various subsidiary companies.

Mr. Clergue stated that in case the present reorganization plans fail, Speyer & Co. will try to reorganize the business and give all outside shareholders a chance to come in and save their investment.

Mr. Conmee stated that, of the $8,000,000 necessary to pay the indebtedness and go ahead with the reorganization, over $6,500,000 had been raised.

Mr. Clergue was asked whether the reorganization plans now under way were likely to succeed. He replied: "I think so, but perhaps the work will be slow."

COLOMBIA'S BONDED DEBT.

Until Panama Assumes Debt Britain Will Withold Recognition.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Pending the result of the efforts of Gen. Rafael Reyes to prevail on Panama through the Washington Government to assume her portion of the Colombian debt, it is not expected that Great Britain or the Netherlands will take any steps toward officially recognizing the new Republic. This delay, it is explained, is due solely to the desire of the London and The Hague Governments to protect the interests of their subjects, who are the largest holders of Colombian bonds.

U.S. Marines Landed.

Colon, Dec. 17.—The United States cruiser Dixie disembarked her marines, numbering 330 yesterday morning. They all proceeded to Empire Station, near Panama, where they will be quartered in the Canal Company's houses. Sixteen machine guns and six automatic guns accompany the marines.

Montreal, Dec. 17.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, representing the Government, had a conference yesterday with the Harbor Commissioners on the vexed question of what kind of freight sheds should be built on the wharves. The commissioners had already secured assistance from Parliament to the extent of a loan of three million dollars to carry on this work, but there was a provision that the plans should be submitted to the Government for approval.

The commissioners are not unanimous in their opinions, so the Premier and the Minister of Marine heard the different views expressed and promised to discuss them in Council.

Sir Wilfrid left for the capital last night.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O

Winnipeg, Dec. 17.—The Local Government announced yesterday that it has purchased a site for the proposed agricultural college and experimental farm, and that operations will begin in the spring. One hundred thousand dollars will be spent next summer in erecting buildings, planting hedges and in laying out and beautifying the grounds. The property purchased comprises about 120 acres, situated on the south side of the Assiniboine River, about four miles west of the city.

Slaughter Caught in Cincinnati.

Windsor, Dec. 17.—Word has been received here that Edward Slaughter, the colored man against whom the coroner's jury brought a verdict of murder in the case of John Rudden, the Maidstone farmer who died as the result of a blow on the head from a billiard cue, was arrested in Cincinnati. Slaughter admitted his identity, but declared that he would fight extradition. A detective left for Cincinnati last evening with the necessary papers.

Look on the Bright Side.

The suffer from nervous exhaustion is generally blue and discouraged. He looks on the dark side of things and fears paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity. All this is changed by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which gradually and naturally rekindles and revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and instils new vigor and energy into the whole system.

PHIL MAY AND THE CONJURER

An amusing story is told of Phil May and an English conjurer at the fair at Stratford-on-Avon. Phil was in the crowd which had gathered to watch a very clever gentleman who was wrapping up sovereigns and half crowns in pieces of paper and selling them for two shillings. The "sharp" had a beautiful face—such a face as Phil May loved to draw. So he sketched him furtively. But the gentleman saw him and made a speech forthwith.

"If that there celebrated portrait painter with the tight breeches on will 'and up the picter the equally celebrated benefactor to 'oomanity wot is givin' away quids for coppers will reward 'im accordingly!" he shouted.

Phil, with a twinkle in his eye, handed up the drawing. The conjurer was delighted with the sketch and pinned it to the tailboard of his cart. With another preliminary speech he threw three sovereigns, three half sovereigns and several half crowns into a piece of paper, screwed it up and handed it to the artist. "You'll be president of the bloomin' R'yal academy some dye, young man," said he. "Here, catch!"

"A bargain's a bargain," said Phil, walking off with the packet of gold and silver.

He confessed afterward when he opened the packet and found two pennies and a halfpenny in it that it was the most entertaining commission he had ever been paid for.

Rope and Graphite.

Graphite is stated to be an excellent preservative for manila rope. One rope manufacturer treats the inner yarns of each strand as well as the core in a bath of lubricant, the ingredients of which are graphite and oil. This lubricant thoroughly permeates all the fiber, thus overcoming internal wear, while sufficient comes to the surface, and the lubricant does not injure the rope.—London Engineer.

Long Enough.

A rather pompous orator rose once to make an extended speech at an English electioneering meeting. He began in this fashion, "Mr. Chairman, I have lived long enough"—

"Hear, hear!" yelled a member of the audience, and such a storm of laughter broke out that the aspirant for honors was forced to resume his seat.

System Poisoned by Defective Kidneys.

Results of the Most Dreadfully Painful and Fatal Ailments Known to Man.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Of the food which is taken into the body, part is digested and assimilated and goes to form new blood and tissue, and a certain portion becomes waste matter which is poisonous to the system. Much of such matter is cast out or excreted by the kidneys in liquid form and passes from these organs through the ureters to the bladder.

When the kidneys become deranged this liquid poison forms into solid material, sometimes collecting in the joints and causing rheumatism, at other times in the kidneys, ureters or bladder, and becoming what is known as gravel or stone in the bladder, probably the most torturing and fatal ailments known to mankind.

Don't wait for symptoms of these horrible diseases, don't wait for Bright's Disease, diabetes, dropsy or apoplexy before beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, but prevent these results by taking warning from the first symptoms, such as headache, deposits in urine, loss of flesh, and any irregularities of the urinary organs.

Mrs. S. Dercocher, 495 Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine for besides steadying my nerves it built up my system wonderfully and enabled me to eat and sleep well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the ointment cannot be equalled and the pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

CHAPTER XVIII.

FOR several days after rehearsals were over the strollers were free to amuse themselves as they pleased. Their engagement at the theater did not begin for about a week, and meanwhile they managed to combine recreation with labor in nearly equal proportions. Assiduously they devoted themselves to a round of drives and rambles through pastures and woodland to Carrolton; along the shell road to Lake Pontchartrain; to Biloxi, the first settlement of the French, and to the battle grounds once known as the plains of Chalmette, where volunteer soldiers were now encamped awaiting orders to go to the front in the Mexican campaign. For those who craved greater excitement the three race courses—the Louisiana, the Metairie and the Carrolton—offered stimulating diversion.

Within sight of the Metairie were the old dueling grounds, under the oaks, where, it is related, on one Sunday in 1839 ten duels occurred; where the contestants frequently fought on horseback with sabers, and where the cowherds, says a chronicler, became so accustomed to seeing honor satisfied in this manner that they paid little attention to these meetings, pursuing their own humble duties indifferent to the follies of fashionable society. The fencing schools flourished. What memories cluster around that odd, strange master of the blade, Spedella, a melancholy enigma of a man, whose art embodied much of the finest shading and phrasing peculiar to himself, from whom even many of Bonaparte's discarded veterans were not above acquiring new technique and temperament!

Shortly after the players' arrival began the celebrated Leduc matches, attracting noted men and women from all over the south. The hotels were crowded, the lodging houses filled, while many of the large homes hospitably opened their doors to visiting friends. The afternoons found the city almost deserted. The bartenders discontentedly smoked in solitude, the legion of waiters in the hotels and resorts became reduced to a thinly scattered array, while even the street venders had "folded their tents" and silently stolen to the races. On one such memorable occasion most of the members of the Barnes company repaired to the Metairie.

Below the grand stand, brilliant with color, strutted the dandies attending to their bets; above, they played a winning or losing game with the fair sex. Intrigue and lovemaking were the order of the hour, and these daughters of the south beguiled time—and mortals—in a heyday of pleasure. In that mixed gathering burly cotton planters from the country rubbed elbows with aristocratic creoles, whose attire was distinguishable by enormous ruffles and light boots of cloth. The professional follower of these events, the importunate tout, also mingled with the crowd, plainly in evidence by the pronounced character of his dress, the size of his diamond studs or cravat pin and the massive dimensions of his finger rings. No paltry, scrubby track cadger was this resplendent gentleman, but a picturesque rogue, with impudence as pronounced as his jewels.

Surrounded by a bevy of admirers, Susan, sprightly and sparkling, was an example of that "frippery one of her sex is made up with, a pasticcio of gauzes, pins and ribbons that go to compound that multifarious thing, a well dressed woman." Ever ready with a quick retort, she bestowed her favors generously, to the evident discomfiture of a young officer in her retinue whom she had met several days before and who ever since had coveted a full harvest of smiles, liking not a little the first sample he had gathered. However, it was not Susan's way to intrust herself fully to any one. It was all very interesting to play one against another, to intercept angry gleams, to hold in check clashing suitors—this was exciting and diverting—but she exercised care not to transgress those bounds where she ceased to be mistress of the situation. Perhaps her limits in coquetry were further set than most women would have ventured to place them, but without this temerity and daring the pastime would have lost its charm for her. She might play with edged tools, but she also knew how to use them.

Near her was seated Kate, indolent as of yore, now watching her sister with an indulgent, enigmatic expression, anon permitting a scornful glance to stray toward Adonis, who, for his part, had eyes only for his companion, a distinct change from country boldens, tavern demoiselles and dainty wenches with their rough hands and rosy cheeks. This lady's hands were like milk, her cheeks ivory, and Adonis in bestowing his attentions upon her had a twofold purpose—to return tit for tat for Kate's flaunting ways and to gratify his own ever fleeting fancy.

In a box, half the length of the grand stand removed, some distance back and to the left of Susan's gay party, Constance, Mrs. Adams and the soldier were also observers of this scene of animation.

Since the manager's successful flight from the landlord and the constables the relations of the young girl and Saint-Prosper had undergone little change. At first, it is true, with the memory of the wild ride to the river fresh in her mind and the more or less disturbing recollections of that strange, dark night, a certain reticence had marked her manner toward the soldier, but as time went by this touch of reserve wore off and was succeeded by her usual frankness or gayety. In her eyes appeared at times a new thoughtfulness, but for no longer period than the quick passing of a summer cloud over a sunny meadow. This half light of brief conjecture or vague retrospection only mellowed the depths of her gaze, and Barnes alone noted and wondered.

But today no partial shadows lay under the black, shading lashes. The exhilarating scene, the rapidly succeeding events, the turbulence and flutter around her, were calculated to dispel the most pronounced abstraction. Beneath a protecting parasol—for the sunlight shot below the roof at the back and touched that part of the grand stand—a faint glow warmed her cheeks, while her eyes shone with the gladness of the moment. Many of the dandies, regarding her with marked persistency, asked who she was, and none knew until finally Editor-Rhymester Straws was appealed to. Straws, informed on all matters, was able to satisfy his questioners.

"She is an actress," said Straws. "So we are told. We shall find out next week. She is a beauty. We can tell that now."

Standing near the rhymester, story writer and journalist was a tall young man dressed in creole fashion. He followed the glances of Straws' questioners, and a pallor overspread his dark complexion as he looked at the object of their attention.

"The stroller!" he exclaimed half audibly. "Her counterpart doesn't exist."

He stepped back where he could see her more plainly. In that sea of faces her features alone shone before him clearly, insistently.

"Do you know her, Mr. Mauville?" asked the rhymester, observing that steadfast glance.

"Know her?" repeated the land baron, starting. "Oh, I've seen her act."

Without definite purpose the patroon, who had listened with scant attention to the poet, began to move slowly toward the actress, and at that moment the eyes of the soldier, turning to the saddling paddock, where the horses were being led out, fell upon the figure drawing near, recognising in him the heir to the manor, Edward Mauville. Construing in his approach a deliberate intention, a flush of quick anger overspread Saint-Prosper's face, and he glanced at the girl by his side. But her manner assured him she had not observed the land baron, for at that moment she was looking in the opposite direction, endeavoring to discover Barnes or the others of the company in the immense throng.

Murmuring some excuse to his unconscious companion and cutting short the wiry old lady's reminiscences of the first public trotting race in 1818, the soldier left the box and, moving with some difficulty through the crowd, met Mauville in the aisle near the stairway. The latter's face expressed surprise, not altogether of an agreeable nature, at the encounter, but he immediately regained his composure.

"Ah, M. Saint-Prosper," he observed easily, "I little thought to see you here."

"Nor I you!" said the other bluntly.

The patroon gazed in seeming carelessness from the soldier to the young girl. Saint-Prosper's presence in New Orleans could be accounted for. He had followed her from the Shadengo valley across the continent. The drive begun at the country inn, he looking down from the dormer window to witness the start, had been a long one, very different from his own brief flight, with its wretched end. These thoughts coursed rapidly through the land baron's brain; her appearance rekindled the ashes of the past; the fire in his breast flamed from his eyes, but otherwise he made no display of feeling. He glanced out upon the many faces below them, bowing to one woman and smiling at another.

"Oh, I couldn't stand a winter in the north," resumed the patroon, turning once more to the soldier, "although the barn burners promised to make it warm for me!"

Offering no reply to this sally, Saint-Prosper's gaze continued to rest coldly and expectantly upon the other. Goaded by that arbitrary regard, an implied barrier between him and the young girl, the land baron sought to press forward. His glittering eyes met the other's. The glances they exchanged were like the thrust and parry of swords. Without wishing to address the actress, and thereby risk a public rebuff, it was nevertheless impossible for the hot blooded southerner to submit to peremptory restraint. Who had made the soldier his taskmaster? He read Saint-Prosper's purpose and was not slow to retaliate.

"If I am not mistaken, yonder is our divinity of the lane," said the patroon softly. "Permit me." And he strove to pass.

The soldier did not move.

"You are blocking my way, monsieur," continued the other sharply.

"Not if it lies the other way."

"This way or that way, how does it concern you?" retorted the land baron.

"If you seek further to annoy a lady whom you have already sufficiently wronged it is any man's concern."

"Especially if he has followed her across the country," sneered Mauville. "Besides, since when have actresses become so chary of their favors?" In his anger the land baron threw out intimations he would have challenged from other lips. "Has the stage then become a holy convent?"

"You stamped yourself a scoundrel some time ago," said the soldier slowly, as though weighing each word, "and now show yourself a coward when you malign a young girl without father, brother"—

"Or lover," interrupted the land baron. "Perhaps, however, you were only traveling to see the country."

"Have you anything further with me?" interjected Saint-Prosper curtly.

The patroon's blood coursed, burning, through his veins. The other's contemptuous manner stung him more fiercely than language.

"Yes," he said meaningly, his eyes challenging Saint-Prosper's. "Have you been at Spedella's fencing rooms? Are you in practice?"

Saint-Prosper hesitated a moment, and the land baron's face fell. Was it possible the other would refuse to meet him? But he would not let him off easily. There were ways to force, and, suddenly the words of the marquis recurring to him, he surveyed the soldier disdainfully.

"Gad, you must come of a family of cowards and traitors! But you shall fight or—the public becomes arbiter!" And he half raised his arm threateningly.

The soldier's tanned cheek was now as pale as a moment before it had been flushed. His mouth set resolutely, as though fighting back some weakness. With lowering brows and darkening glance he regarded the land baron.

"I was thinking," he said at length, with an effort, "that if I killed you people would want to know the reason."

The patroon laughed. "How solicitous you are for her welfare and mine! Do you then measure skill only by inches? If so, I confess you would stand a fair chance of dispatching me. But your address? The St. Charles, I presume."

The soldier nodded curtly, and, having accomplished his purpose, Mauville had turned to leave when loud voices in a front box near the right aisle attracted general attention from those occupying that part of the grand stand. The young officer who had accompanied Susan to the races was angrily confronting a thickset man, the latest recruit to her corps of willing captives. The lad had assumed the arduous task of guarding the object of his fancy from all comers simply because she had been kind. And why should she not have been? He was only a boy. She was old enough to be—well, an adviser. When, after a brief but pointed altercation, he flung himself away with a last reproachful look in the direction of his enslaver, Susan looked hurt. That was her reward for being nice to a child!

"A fractious young cub!" said the thickset man complacently.

"Well, I like cubs better than bears!" retorted Susan pointedly.

Not long, however, could the interest of the spectators be diverted from the amusement of the day, and soon all eyes were drawn once more to the track, where the horses' hoofs resounded with exciting pattar as they struggled toward the wire, urged by the stimulating voices of the jockeys.

"How did you enjoy it, my dear?" asked Barnes, suddenly reappearing at Constance's box. "A grand heat, that, though I did bet on the wrong horse! But don't wait for us, Saint-Prosper. Mrs. Adams and I will take our time getting through the crowd. I will see you at the hotel, my dear," he added as the soldier and Constance moved away with the desultory fag end of the procession. On either side of the road waved the mournful cypress, draped by the hoary tillandsia, and from the somber depths of foliage came the chirp of the tree crickets and the note of the swamp owl. Faint music, in measured rhythm, a foil to disconnected wood sound, was wafted from a distant plantation.

"Wait," said Constance.

He drew in the horses, and silently they listened. Or was he listening? His glance seemed bent so moodily, almost, on space she concluded he was not. She stole a sidelong look at him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said gayly.

He started. "I was thinking how soon I might leave New Orleans."

"Leave New Orleans!" she repeated in surprise. "But I thought you intended staying here. Why have you changed your mind?"

Did he detect a subtle accent of regret in her voice? A deep flush mounted to his brow. He bent over her suddenly, eagerly.

"Would it matter—if I went?"

She drew back at the abruptness of his words.

"How unfair to answer one question with another!" she said lightly.

A pause fell between them. Perhaps she, too, felt the sudden repulse of her own answer and the ensuing constraint. Perhaps some compunction moved her to add in a voice not entirely steady:

"And so you think—of going back to France?"

"To France!" he repeated quickly. "No," and stopped.

Looking up, a half questioning light in her eyes took flight to his until suddenly arrested by the hard, set expression of his features. Abruptly chilled by she knew not what, her lashes fell. The horses champed their bits and tugged at the reins, impatient of the prolonged pause.

"Let us go!" she said in a low, constrained voice.

At her words he turned, the harshness dropping from his face like a discarded mask, the lines of determination wavering.

"Let us go!" she said again without looking up.

He made no motion to obey until the sound of a vehicle behind them seemed to break the spell, and mechanically he touched the horses with the whip.

They penetrate the scalp thoroughly, carrying with them all the necessary properties to safely regenerate all the impoverished parts. They rebuild the lost tissues of the scalp and renew the growth of the hair in every case. A few applications will make the hair fairly sparkle with new life and vigor. "To say a pleasant word to anyone was almost impossible."

"I was troubled with female weakness for eight years; and suffered more than I can tell," writes Mrs. Gust. Moser of Orando, Deerlodge Co., Mont. "My disposition was affected to such an extent that to say a pleasant word to anyone was almost impossible.

"I had two operations performed by one of the most skilled surgeons of the West, but did not get relief. Then, against my doctor's strict orders, I commenced taking Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and also followed the advice given in the Common Sense Medical Adviser.

"I continued this treatment for three months, and to-day am as healthy and well as a woman can be. I cannot thank Doctor Pierce enough for his kind letters to me."

Womanly diseases, as a rule, spoil the "disposition," because of the extreme nervousness and suffering they cause. Happiness as well as health is restored to the woman whose diseased condition is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

After eight years of suffering and two fruitless operations, three months' use of "Favorite Prescription" restored Mrs. Moser to perfect health. This great remedy for woman's ills, establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Impairment of hearing robs one of many of the joys of life, exposes to danger, interfers with capacity for usefulness, limits ability to transact business and earn a living. Many annually abandon their plans, ambitious and hopes on account of loss of hearing.

In nearly every case of partial or complete deafness there is another feature that to many is more troublesome than the difficulty of hearing—the distracting head noises. These make such an impression on some as to almost drive them insane. The everlasting buzzing, ringing, snapping, rumble or roar, distracts them by day and prevents rest at night.

Nine cases out of ten of head noises and progressive hardness of hearing are due to catarrh of the middle ear or of the tube leading from it to the throat.

It should be understood and constantly borne in mind that to restore the hearing and silence the distracting noises a treatment is required that will allay inflammation in the eustachian tubes, reduce the congestion and swelling and stop the secretion of mucus so that the tubes will be keep open for free passage of air into the middle ear. No locally applied medicine will affectually do this, only a searching constitutional alterative and resolvent will cure catarrh in the deep recesses of the head.

Two acquaintances of the writer were run down and killed by the cars in one year. Both had catarrh of the head, which had extended up the eustachian tubes, leading from the throat to the middle ear, and were quite hard of hearing. In both cases the corner's jury decided that they came to their death because of inability to hear and heed signals that were intended for them. What happened to them is of frequent occurrence and in three cases out of four might have been prevented by the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. These tablets cure all kinds of catarrh. They can be bought at any drug store for 50 cents a box.

That Stuart's Catarrh Tablets do effectually cure catarrh of the eustachian tubes and the head noises and deafness resulting therefrom is attested by the following:—

Mrs. Jane Barlow, the famous mediate, says: "I finally had to give up personal attention to my customers and in consequence many of them went elsewhere. I was in despair for specialists seemed powerless to help me. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets cured me in just a little while so completely that now I hear as well as ever."

Army Surgeon C. S. Beverly, became so deaf from catarrh that he was forced to resign his position, and abandon his profession. He says: "Of course my inherent professional prejudice was hard to overcome but knowing the great benefit you had received, my dear General, through the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, I used them. The great and almost immediate relief I experienced was truly astonishing. I am now entirely cured and have no fear of the disease returning. I go back to my old post next month."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done it, do do it, will do it. Try them and be convinced. They are for sale at any drug store at 50 cents a box. It will put you to very little trouble or expense to prove what they will do for you. Send to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for their free book about catarrh. A postal card will bring it. Write to-day.

CURLING.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in the curling rink last night, at which no less than about sixty members were present. In the absence of the president, Mr. R. Neill, the vice-president, Mr. W G Morrow, occupied the chair, and explained that the meeting had been called for the purpose of arranging the rinks for the season. He spoke of the very large number of new members who had joined, which showed that curling was getting a firm hold among the pastimes of the town.

TURNBULL'S GRAND HOLIDAY DISPLAY.

Christmas Decorations of a Modern Store.

STRIKING INTERIOR EFFECTS.

Magnificent Window Dressing — Brilliant Electric Light Displays in the Evenings—Multitude of Appropriate Gifts.

Some things speak for themselves. In this case it is the striking Christmas decorations in The Turnbull Company's triple stores. The daylight display is captivating enough and thrills one with the festal spirit; but in the evening, when the full current is turned on, and two hundred and twenty-five brilliant electric lamps are a-blaze, the holiday shopper is fascinated by the rare witcheries of the sight. A penpicture of the countless attractions, the multitude of appropriate gifts, and the skilful craft of the ingenious store decorator, cannot be attempted here. Therefore, don't miss this sight. You'll have to visit the premises if you want to get a satisfactory mental photograph of the captivating sight.

Besides, Turnbull's is a safe place to spend a dollar, and a safe place to spend hundreds.

The illuminated designs, brightly festooned arches, rich combination of drapings, and unique effect, are, of course, more vivid and enticing at night. You wander through the store under rows of electric lamps wherever you go, and admire the beautiful exhibition. A Colonial effect has been interestingly carried out throughout the main store. It is no exaggeration to say that the genius of the whole work is entitled to rank with the best store dressing in any city of Canada. The gallery designs, between the shelving and the ceiling are a most tasteful arrangement. On the north side of the store, the varied recesses show an early display of spring goods—dainty muslins, laces, grenadines, etc.—the first shipment of which has recently been received. On the south side, in the recesses of the first section, are displays of beautiful white linens, appliques, fancy squares, table covers, etc. The second section is admirably filled with a notable display of comfortables and fancy cushions, in art sateens, etc.—uncommonly good gifts for wintery-weather like we have been having. At the back, the wide entrance to the carpet section is hung with a rich red draping design, which contributes to the striking effect.

In the Carpet Department is shown an extensive display of luxurious floor coverings, also a pretty recess displaying luxurious table covers and Oriental rugs that really tell the story of magnificence in the weavers' art.

The centre of the store is prettily arched off into eight different sections—each section displaying its own wares—neckwear, gloves, handkerchiefs, fancy belts and hosiery, corsets, children's white wool coats, etc., leather chatelaines, satchels and such like.

A sight worth seeing is the Novelty Department, containing a rare display of Saxe china, Tiffany glass, fancy china ware, Blue Royal Bavarian ware, perfumery, etc. The Fancy Goods Section contains a multitude of appropriate presents and Christmas favours — cushion forms, fancy cushion tops, slipper soles, towel rings, fancy work requisites, etc.

While the interior looks charming in its Christmas dress, the magnificent window dressing contributes immensely to the general results. The large windows contain appropriate tokens of regard and affection, arranged in an ingenious manner. One half of the mammoth south plate glass show window has a fanciful display of fashionable kid gloves and pretty Christmas handkerchiefs—the handkerchiefs being arranged to show a windmill effect. The other half of the window contains a beautiful display of dainty new neckwear and silk parasols, with fancy and ornamental handles, resting on a pale green ground. The whole of the north window is given over to a glittering exhibition of Saxe China, and other pretty goods, with a pale yellow ground.

These decorations have occupied a good many spare moments during the past month, and demonstrate what the Turnbull Company's own decorators can do in marshaling and placing their Christmas wares in the most effective manner.

The store will be open every evening next week before Christmas. One point should be emphasized: No fancy prices here because it is Christmas. The purse with a large heart and a lean purse may have a merry and joyous Christmas, because the mission of this store is to suit all tastes in the selection of holiday gifts.

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Havelock Dec. 15th, 1903.

Mr. John Barlow spent a few days at his home here last week.

Mr. W Woods, of Toronto, was the guest of Mr. Thomas Woods, last week.

Mrs James Donley left for Toronto last week, where it is expected she will be for the next couple of months.

Mr. E. Dorricott made a flying visit to his home in Toronto on Tuesday last.

Mr. John Dill had the misfortune to be the loser of a sum of money and a ring, amounting to about $60. He thinks that it left his possession in a rather mysterious manner and is going to have the matter investigated.

The illustrated entertainment given by the Ladies' Aid Society in the presbyterian Church last Friday evening was a complete success. Everybody there enjoyed themselves immensely, and went home satisfied with the evening's programme.

The rink which the band have taken up is expected to be ready the first of next week.

The 40th Military Band has advertised a concert in the Opera House on the night of the 21st inst. The Citizens Band was looking forward to giving a concert arc und that date.

The hard weather which we have been having lately has dampened the ardour of the Electric Light Company, but if a little more work and push had been put into the thing about a couple of months ago, we would likely have had the arc lights now. The ground is in a very poor condition to put up poles along the road in such severe weather.

The last meeting of the present council was held Tuesday night, the 15th inst., composed of J. Thompson, J Campney, J. Brynns, Wm. Cooper, F. Haig, Councillors, and J. Knox, Reeve.

The business including the failures and successes were discussed and taking the whole into consideration, we must give them credit for having a very successful year.

One of the School Trustees, Mr. R. A. Craig, of the firm of Craig & Barrett, tendered his resignation.

A motion was made, seconded and carried, that Mr. S. J. Joyce would get another rebate of taxes on his property, which amounts to something around $2.00.

JAPAN REJECTS RUSSIA'S REPLY.

The Situation in the Far East is Critical.

Semi-Official Statement From Conference of the Elder Statesmen Gives News of Determination That Japan Will Oppose a Strong Front to Russia—Russia Trying to Evade Onus of Deadlock.

Tokio, Dec. 18.—The conference of the elder statesmen of Japan, including the Marquis Ito, and the Cabinet Ministers Wednesday resulted, according to a semi-official statement, in a determination to oppose a strong front to Russia, in view of the latter's unsatisfactory reply to the Japanese proposals.

Another report says it is understood that, although the Russian reply was considered highly unsatisfactory the conference decided to make another and probably last attempt to arrive at a friendly settlement.

The situation is considered grave. Even the most sober section of the Japanese press declares it is high time for action.

Rejects Russia's Reply.

London, Dec. 18.—The Daily Mail's Kobe correspondent learns that at a conference of the elder statesmen of Japan endorsement was given the Government's determination not to recede from the demands on Russia concerning the Far East formulated June 28 last. This indicates, says the correspondent, the rejection of Russia's reply, and he adds that it is expected the Government will urge Russia to consider. This, however, does not necessarily mean that the negotiations have reached a hopeless stage, according to the correspondent.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that, according to local mandarins, the Pekin Government has again warned the provincial authorities to prepare for immediate hostilities, owing to the offensive action taken by Russia and her allies regarding Far Eastern affairs.

Trying to Evade Onus.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 18.—The reticence of the Foreign Office here has increased since the despatch of the reply of Russia to Japan, and the officials decline to confirm or deny reports of the character of the reply printed abroad. The feeling in diplomatic circles yesterday was not so optimistic as it has been. The diplomats admit they are very much in the dark.

It is believed that the unfavorable impression apparently created on the Japanese Government by the reply is due to Russia's unwillingness to place the settlement of the Corean and Manchurian questions on the same footing. Russia desires to cover only the former with the treaty, leaving the latter on a sort of understanding. Further negotiations will be necessary if Japan insists, with the alternative of their entire suspension. If the negotiations are broken off it will not necessarily mean eventualities.

WAR ON COLOMBIA.

Hostile Acts Committed By U.S. Cruiser—Protest by Colombian's Commander

Colon, Dec. 18.—The United States cruiser Atlanta returned here Wednesday from the Gulf of Darien. Her commander discovered on Dec. 15 a detachment of Colombian troops numbering visually about 500 men, but according to their statements totalling 1,500 or 2,000 men at Titumati on the western side of the gulf, just north of the mouth of the Atrato River and due east from Yaviza.

The commander of the Atlanta sent ashore an officer, who conversed with the Colombians' commander. The latter protested energetically against the presence of American warships in Colombian waters, insomuch as war between Colombia and the United States had not been declared, and politely requested the Atlanta to leave the gulf because it belonged to Colombia. Commander Turner of the Atlanta ignored the request, and the Atlanta returned to Colon to report to Rear-Admiral Coghlan.

The Colombians are clearly busy with protective and strengthening measures.

The Panama Said Discussed.

Washington, Dec. 18.—The Senate yesterday was the scene of a most important debate on the Isthmian Canal question as affected by the President's recognition of the independance of the Republic of Panama. The discussion began with a speech by Mr. Hoar on his resolution of inquiry and lasted several hours. In addition to Mr. Hoar's address there were speeches by Mr. Gorman and Mr. Foraker.

10 Years For Rowe.

London, Dec. 18.—A. S. Rowe, the absconding secretary of the Great Fingall Consolidated Company, who was arrested at Toronto, was sentenced in the Old Bailey yesterday to ten years penal servitude for embezzling over $500,000 of the company's funds. Rowe fainted when his sentence was pronounced.

Dreyfus Will Be Colonel.

Paris, Dec. 18.—The Liberte confirms the report that the Council of the War Office has considered the details of Dreyfus' reinstatement in the army, and that the regiment he will command with the rank of lieutenant-colonel has been chosen.

Berne, Switzerland.—M. Comtesse, a member of the Bundesrath from Neuchatel, and M. Ruchet, a member from the Canton De Vaud, were elected respectively President and Vice-President of Switzerland for 1904.

No Change in Steel Prices.

New York, Dec. 18.—Representatives of the steel plate pool were in session here yesterday and reaffirmed the present price, namely, $1.60 per 100 pounds at Pittsburg.

Bryan Sees Tolstoi.

Moscow, Dec. 18.—William J. Bryan arrived here yesterday and went to visit Count Tolstoi. Mr. Bryan will proceed to St. Petersburg on Dec. 19.

ACCIDENTS OF A DAY.

Workman Killed at Niagara Falls By Fall of 75 Feet—Died Before Company's Surgeon Could Aid Him.

Niagara Falls, Dec. 18.—About ten o'clock yesterday morning, a Hungarian named Frank Jolienski, employed on the Dawson and Riley works at the wheelpit, fell a distance of about 75 feet. In falling the body struck a ledge about 40 feet down, and from there rebounded to the opposite side of the pit and struck on the rock bottom of the pit. Dr. W. W. Thompson, the company surgeon, arrived shortly, but the man was beyond human aid and died very shortly.

He has been employed as "nipper" at the works for the last two years, and being a very handy workman, did odd jobs around the machines.

Hamilton Policeman Injured.

Hamilton, Dec. 18.—Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock P. C. Hallisey was seriously injured. He was riding on the front seat of the patrol sleigh with Driver Cruickshank and they cut a corner, at John and King William streets, running into another rig. One of the shafts of the other rig was driven through the dashboard of the patrol sleigh, striking Constable Hallisey on the breast. He was taken to his home in an unconscious condition, but the doctor found there were no bones broken, and it is likely the officer will be on his beat again in a few days.

Jumped Through Cathedral Window.

Toronto, Dec. 18.—Frank Gunn, aged 18, jumped through one of the windows of St. Michael's Cathedral last night, and in the fall broke his leg. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital. How he came to be in the cathedral is perplexing the church authorities.

Had Both Feet Frozen.

Kingston, Dec. 18.—Nicholas Peterson, aged 70, attempting to cross Sharbot Lake on the ice, broke through, and with difficulty he dragged himself out, but was too exhausted to proceed. He lay on the ice all night, and was terribly frostbitten. When discovered on Thursday morning both feet were frozen. He is in Kingston General Hospital, and may lose his feet.

Three Swedes Suffocated.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 18.—Three Swedes, Martin Olsen, John Rusk and Lars Anderson, were suffocated in a fire that broke out in Pete Sundstrom's saloon at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and Mrs. Sundstrom, who jumped from a second storey window, broke her leg.

Buried in Excavation.

Syracuse, Dec. 18.—Joseph Campbell and James McDonald of Buffalo, were killed near Baldwinsville yesterday afternoon. A bank caved in while they were making excavations for the foundations of a bridge, burying them so deep that escape was impossible.

Killed While Blasting.

Dubois, Pa., Dec. 18.—Four Italians were killed and two probably fatally injured by a dynamite explosion at Cramer, ten miles from here, yesterday. The men were laborers on grading work for the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg Road and were blasting. An attempt to thaw out dynamite caused the explosion.

Ten Killed in Maine.

Bangor, Me., Dec. 18.—Maine's big game shooting closed Wednesday night. Only once since the records have been kept have more deer been brought to Bangor than in the season just closed, and in only two seasons has the moose killing record of 1903 been surpassed. There have been 18 accidents in the woods, 10 of them fatal, but only one on account of mistaking a man for a deer.

Caught Fire From Sparks.

Madoc, Dec. 17.—While engaged in threshing yesterday two barns of Richard Farrel, Madoc Township, caught fire from sparks, and were totally destroyed. All the live stock was saved except two horses and a number of hogs. The loss is estimated at $4,000.

UNION LABEL

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1903.

MR. WHITNEY THREATENED.

Mr. Whitney's cool behaviour towards Gamey has nettled that wing of the Conservative party which regards the Man from Manitoulin as a winner. The leader, the Globe says, is to be compelled to take Gamey to his bosom or take his collar off and get ready for decapitation. "The Stratton-Gamey issue," says The Toronto Telegram, "forces Mr. J. P. Whitney to take one side or the other." Mr. Whitney has been standing aloof from the malodorous gentleman from Manitoulin. He has not encouraged his assumption that he is the "works" of the Conservative party; has not welcomed his appearance in constituencies as an influential factor in the fighting line. The Gameyite section is, therefore, raging against him, and he receives his ultimatum as above, to smile or be knocked down. He will very likely smile, although no fears or penalties can make it otherwise than a perfunctory grin. If he surrenders he will feel that he is imperilling the future of the party, and if he does not surrender he will, for the time being at least, weaken his own position and strengthen that of the men who seek to oust him from his chair. That Gameyism will eventually land the party in disaster cool-headed Conservatives see, but when any of them dare to express this opinion they are promptly sandbagged by the strenuous partisans of the new political idol. When Mr. Burnham ventured to dissent from the methods of the Gameyites he was jumped on with hob-nailed boots, and when Mr. W. R. White said the other day that Conservatives did not want Gamey in North Renfrew he experienced similar treatemnt. The irrationals are on top, and, like a fever, they must work their way out.

It will be said that the Liberal party should not object to Gamey if his proceedings are calculated eventually to ruin the Conservative party. The general public do not look so far forward. All they see at present is that public life is being degraded by the appearance of this adventurer on the platform, with his threats of smashing in people's faces who tell the truth about him. So far as his going to North Renfrew is concerned, it would be a pity if he stayed away, so long as there are people, including himself, who think he can make the prospect of the Conservative party brighter in an election. The only way that can be determined is by actual trial. Much has been claimed for what was done by Gamey in Muskoka. When it is considered that almost no effort was made to oppose his falsehoods in Muskoka it can only be said that his influence in an election is being vastly over-rated by those who are thrusting him nolens volens on the Conservative party. The whole strength of Gameyism lies in the front of brass of the chief figure of the cult. If, because of the indisposition to handle pitch, he is allowed to make his statements uncontradicted he will assuredly affect the figures of an election. People are apt to believe in assertions strongly made. They find it difficult to believe that anyone would make such charges boldly in Legislatures and from platforms unless there is something in them, and it is only by exposing the chief actor's proved capacity for falsehood that the people get it into their heads that the man who daringly altered the bank deposit slip, and mutilated the books of the Crossin Company, is also quite capable of fathering monstrous lies in order to cover up his tortuous and infamous course. It is true that it is not a pleasant or even easy task to contend with this person on the platform, with his threats of smashing in faces, but it is an act of political sanitation, and whoever accomplishes it will be entitled to the public gratitude.

THE LICENSE LAW MUST BE OBEYED

Ontario Government is Determined to Stop the Illegal Sale of Liquor.

Toronto Star.

There is to be a change in the license inspectorship of South Wellington. Mr. W. S. Cowan is retiring after eighteen years service, and Mr. J. W. Oakes, one of the License Commissioners, is taking his place. Although Mr. Cowan's resignation is expected it has not as yet been received by the Provincial License Department.

"Are your instructions to inspectors more stringent than formerly?" was asked of Mr. Kudo Saunders, chief officer of the License Department, to-day.

"Our instructions are," returned Mr. Saunders forcibly, "that the law must be enforced. When seven o'clock comes on Saturday night, the bars must be closed, and there must be no more selling until Monday morning. When we receive complaints from any quarter that the law is not being enforced, we have a thorough investigation made, and if the complaints are found to have any foundation, and that foundation is not removed forthwith, the one to whom blame attaches must suffer the consequence. We have a law on the statute books, and it must be enforced to the line."

These Two Women were Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

READ THEIR LETTERS:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and a fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me.

"Better health was all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy.

"Six bottles brought me health, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound, and I advocate it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—MRS. B. A. BLANCHARD, 423 Broad St., Nashville, Tenn.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my gratitude for the restored health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought into my life.

"I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation.

"I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure that I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an emergency, and so I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds and was in excellent health, and am now.

"You surely deserve great success, and you have my very best wishes."—MISS ALICE BAILEY, 50 North Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant,—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the uterine system, positively CURING disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvellous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it can be relied upon to effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice.

SECRETARY-TREASURER PRESENTED HIS REPORT.

Mr. W. Cochrane Reviews the Work of the Past Year.

Murray Street Sunday School in Prosperous Condition—Liberal Contribution to Missions.

Following is the report of Mr. W. Cochrane, presented at the annual meeting of the Murray street Baptist Sunday School:—

To the Officers and Teachers of the Murray Street Baptist Sunday school:

In presenting my second annual report of the work of the Murray street Baptist Sunday school for the year 1903 I have endeavoured to cover more of the points of interest than I did a year ago. I regret, however, that the time at my disposal during the last two or three weeks has not been sufficient to make as careful comparisons as desired, but I trust that you will excuse any small irregularities that may be found.

The most important part of the work has been the religious, and in this there has been a marked increase during the year just closed. Prayer meetings have been held monthly after the regular session, and boys' meetings, addressed by the pastor, have been held frequently in Mr. Lee's class room. As a result of these efforts, as well as the work of the teachers in the classes some 27 scholars have united with the church, and at the present time out of 220 on the roll 91 are church members.

In the matter of attendance there has been also a marked increase. Last year our average attendance was 135, while this year we are able to report an average attendance of 151, an increase of 16. This increase, we believe is, to a great extent, to the adoption last January of a system of star classes. This system has proved very successful and has been the best method we have yet tried for keeping the scholars interested in the attendance. Since January 31st, the day on which we started the star classes, to the end of November the leading star classes have been as follows:

Miss Bradshaw, 25 Sundays.
Mrs. Wood, 24 Sundays.
Mrs. Elcombe, 21 Sundays.
Mrs. Gurney, 19 Sundays.
Mrs. Ellis, 17 Sundays.
Miss Webber, 16 Sundays.
Miss Distin, 13 Sundays.
Miss Kidd, 12 Sundays.
Miss Cochrane, 12 Sundays.

In regard to the counting of these classes I might say that on many occasions the scholars have all been present, but the teacher has been absent, and, as no substitute had been provided, or if the secretary had not been made aware of it, we were compelled to withold the honour from that class. This tends to discourage the scholars and also to cause some slight feeling against the officers in charge of the marking of the records.

Another thing that gives us great satisfaction has been the increased average attendance of the teachers and officers. Heretofore this has been the subject of much comment, but I think the average for the year 1903 has been very good, namely 25 out of 32 on the roll. It might be better, but as last year was only 22 with the same number on the roll I think that it is a matter of satisfaction to be able to report an increase of three. During the months of July and August our Sunday school session was held in the morning commencing at 10 o'clock. While the attendance for these months was, of course, below that of the other months of the year we believe that it was greater than if the school had been held in the afternoon. The attendance of scholars at these morning sessions was fair, the average being 95, but it is during this period that the attendance of teachers seems to be at the lowest and this year's average was only 19. The total average for these two months would undoubtedly have been much higher had it not been for the very disagreeable weather on the last Sunday in August. On this day there were only 36 present, so that we think with favourable weather on this day that our average for the months of July and August would have reached at least 95.

During the year three scholars have been present every Sunday, namely Bertram Cross, Amy Hardwick and Muriel Martin, the next highest in point of attendance are as follows: Ethel Hardwick, Charlie Hardwick, Annie Hardell, Geo. Martin and Geo. Cross have missed but one. Edith Hardwick and Bella Elcombe have missed only two. Mamie Montgomery and Minnie Cross have missed but three, Eliza Kilgour and Alice Hardwick have missed four and Maud Chapman, Miss Loudon, Luther Cross and James Ellis have missed five.

Among the officers and teachers, Mrs. Bastow and Miss Nicholls have been present every Sunday, Mrs. White and Mr. Lee have missed only two and Mrs. Martin, Miss M. A. Nicholls and Mrs. Montgomery five each.

During the year the primary department has grown beyond the capacity of the room and in September two classes were promoted to the main school, the girls' class being assigned to Miss Miller and the Boys' to Mr. Wellington. This was afterwards taken by Mrs. Wellington and since she has left town it is being taught by Miss Carbutt. Another class consisting of new scholars has also been formed and is being taught by Miss Cochrane. One of our best classes, and I think I might say our best class, taking into consideration the attendance, collection and interested manifested is Mr. Lee's Baraca class. This class has grown from an average attendance a year ago of six or eight to twelve or fourteen at the present time. Considering their numbers they have the best attendance in the school and by far the best collections. Not only are the young men interested when at the meetings, but when any of their number leave town they are still kept in close touch with the work of the former class mates. Among the other classes, as has been shown above, Miss Bradshaw and Mrs. Wood are in the lead for first place in attendance and throughout the whole school an effort is being made to keep the average up. One thing, however, is very noticeable to the secretary and treasurer and that is the exceedingly poor collection of the senior girls' classes. Frequently with an attendance ranging from seven to fourteen, the collection will not be more than five or ten cents. This is not as it should be and I sometimes think it might be a good plan to introduce some of the new scholars who have just been promoted from the primary department into these classes to set an example in the giving of collections.

During the year just closed we have lost Mrs. Lose from the library and Miss Kidd and Mr. Percy Blade from among the teachers. Miss Kidd has left town and her class has been taken by Mrs. Wilson, while Mr. Blade has gone into Mr. Elcombe's Bible class, his class being taken by Mr. Wellington, and on his absence from town, is being taught by Miss Vieve Hunter. Miss Smith has returned to us and is ably assisting Mr. Riddon in the library. We have lost four of our scholars by death, all out of the primary department, namely: Edith Asling, Eddie Asling, Arthur Asling and Lulu Williams.

Last December a barrel of clothing was collected and sent to Mr. White the missionary at Oshweken, near Brantford, and judging from the letter afterwards received from Mr. White, the articles were very much appreciated.

On Friday, July 10th, we held our annual excursion to Idyl Wyld. It was an ideal day and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. Dinner was partaken of at Idyl Wyld and a call was made at Jubilee Point on the way home to have tea. During the day races were run off for the scholars and these proved very exciting. Some 220 persons in all took in the trip and after all expenses were paid we had the small deficit of 92 cents. Considering that the excursion was held merely as an outing for the school we think that this is a very satisfactory result.

Before entering into the financial side of the work I wish to report the organization of a home department in connection with the school. This is under the charge of Miss Roberts and already has a membership of 62. These members are looked after by eight visitors, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. Blade, Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, Mrs. Geo. Chalmers, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Cochrane, Mrs. Chalmers Mrs. Batsford. Although organized but a short time this branch of the school already shows great promise.

The statement of receipts and disbursements during the year is as follows:

RECEIPTS.

Balance in Bank Dec. 1, 1902	$141 35
Total Sunday Collections	230 35

Donation from Mr. Geo. Cochrane in aid of library	10 00

Repairs to books and library shelves	21 95
Supplies for Sunday School	71 66
Excursion deficit	92
Balance in Bank	166 91
	$401 05

A few remarks on the above, I think will be in order. Taking first the amount received in collections, namely $230.35, last tyear the amount received was $177.30, which leaves a balance in favour of this year of $53.05. Nor is this entirely due to the increased attendance. The average collections per scholar per Sunday for the year 1902 was approximately 2 1-2 cents, while this year it is a shade over 3 cents. This, I consider a very fine showing. The amount given to missions will also bear comparison with what was given last year. This will read as follows:

	1902	1903	Inc.
Sick Children's Hospital	$ 6 56	$11 61	$ 5 05
Man and N. W.	7 64	5 11	47
Foreign Missions	29 84	33 17	3 33
Home Missions	30 96	35 00	4 04

St. Peter's Res. Bld. Fund	3 67	5 67	2 00
	$107 49	$142 05	$34 67

You will, however, have noticed that there was quite a large amount expended this year for supplies, $71.66. Last year it was only $46.13, an increase for this year of $25.47. This increase is accounted for to some extent by the organization of the Home Department and the necessity of ordering supplies for which we have not as yet received any collections. The additional amount paid for supplies was, however, absolutely necessary in order to keep abreast with the increased attendance.

In regard to the expenses in connection with the library, in the spring Mr. Raddon went to a great deal of trouble in fixing up the old books, ordering new ones and putting the library in proper shape. We spent for new books $61.46, to cover which we received donations of $60.00. There was also spent on the repairing of the old books and fixing of the shelves. This expense amounted to $21.95, which left $33.41 to be taken out of the general fund of the school.

Before closing this report, I wish to make a few suggestions to the teachers in the marking of their books. Some of the books are received by the secretary in a way which, if you will excuse a slang expression, would puzzle the best of Philadelphia lawyers. I would ask for the benefit of future secretaries, that when a scholar is absent that the letter "A" be inserted in the proper place; when the scholar is present that the mark be a figure 1. Should the scholar leave the class permanently scratch the name off the book and don't keep the rest of the class back from receiving the honour of a star class, and should the scholar who has left the class and his name been taken from the book, return for a Sunday it would be a great help to the parties making up the records of the scholar were marked as a visitor. Again I have noticed in my walks through the school that in some of the classes the scholars are left to mark the class books. This, of course, only causes more trouble for the secretary, and I would therefore ask that the teacher mark his or her own book and be responsible for the marks which have been inserted therein.

Dec. 12, bal. in bank, $15,089.01.

This report was on the whole extremely satisfactory, the receipts being about $2000 in excess of last year, while there was no increase of patrons. There was a large supply of milk of an improved quality. This with the excellent quality of cheese turned out by the maker, Mr. W. A. Anderson, who is also the secretary of the factory, accounts for the satisfactory results.

It is noticable that the quality of the milk is improving year after year, due in some parts perhaps to an improvement in stock and a better feeding, but very largely to a better care of milk, and for this condition perhaps the butter fat method of receiving milk is largely responsible. This improvement in the quality of the milk as shown by the fact that whereas in 1899 the year before the butter fat test system was adopted the quantity of milk required to make 1 lb. of cheese was 11.05 lbs, whereas last year the quantity required was only 10.57 lbs. The importance of this improvement of quality as shown by the fact that on the basis of this year's operations it represented an increased income to patrons of about $1,000 over what would have been received under the conditions that prevailed in 1899. There is still, however, room for improvement in the kind of cows kept, and in the care given them. Some of the patrons of the Keene cheese factory last year received as high as $43 per cow as their share of the profits of the factory, while others received as low as from $23 to $25 per cow. The standard (that is the average) quantity of milk yielded by a cow has been placed at 3,000 lbs., but in some cases in connection with the patrons of the Keene factory this standard has been treated with splendid contempt, some cows yielding as much as 5,000 lbs.

The whey was purchased by Mr. Christopher Howson at 50 cents per standard.

DO NOT WEAR A LONG FACE

It is a Great Handicap in All Business and Social Relations.

The man who looks as if he had lost his last friend is in no danger of being crushed by the jam of new ones unless he "cheers up." People are not going out of their way nowadays to associate with the man of mournful and melancholy appearance. They are afraid he will tell them his troubles and they steer clear of him as they all have plenty of their own.

The most universal cause of the forlorn and hopeless appearance today is dyspepsia. It unfits a man for every duty of life and causes him to become despondent and gloomy and necessarily his looks do not belie his feelings. He appears cast down and dejected and becomes a burden to himself and humanity in general.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's certain relief. They do the work that his stomach is unable to do and by relieving that organ of its burdens, permit it to regain its health and strength and again become active and useful in its functions. They contain all the essential ingredients that enter into the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they actually take up the work and do it just as a healthy, sound stomach would.

By this means a man can go right ahead with his work and eat enough to keep him in proper working condition. His system is not deprived of its necessary nourishment as it it in the case of the "starvation cure" or the employment of some of the first class chicken foods now on the market. Starvation, even if it were a good thing, could not be continued long enough to effect a cure; for a disordered and worn out stomach is not going to become strong and healthy in two or three days.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act naturally because they contain natural digestives. The principal component parts are aseptic pepsin, malt diastase and other ingredients with like properties that do the work regardless of the condition of the stomach. There is no unnatural or violent disturbance of the digestive organs as the result of their action. In fact the existence of the stomach is entirely forgotten, as soon as they have had time to begin their operations. They also possess very curative and healing properties and assist the stomach in getting well, while relieving it of its work. They perform the duties of both nurse and physician.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and there is very little danger of any druggist trying to sell you anything else that is just as good. They are so well established and have done so much good in the world that their name has become a household word, so the usual warning, "Accept no substitutes," is unnecessary in the case of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

What He Spoke About.

Dean Hole in impressing clergymen with the necessity of making themselves understood by their congregations often cited as a horrible example a famous classical scholar who thus addressed a handful of farm laborers in a country mission room: "In this beautiful country, my brethren, you have the apotheosis of nature and an apodeiknuesis of theropratic omnipotence." The dean was not surprised when he asked one of the flock what it was about to be answered, "It was about an hour and a half."

WANTS INTERPRETATION.

Carroll D. Wright Trying to Get the Commission Together Again.

Wilkes-Barre, Dec. 17.—Carroll D. Wright, umpire of the conciliation board provided by the Anthracite Strike Commission, is ascertaining the feeling of members of the Commission about another session. He wants it to decide whether the Schuylkill district miners should work eight hours, as they desire, on Saturdays, or nine hours, as the Commission's award directs. There are features of the award which are not quite clear, and Mr. Wright desires an authoritative interpretation of them.

THEIR FIRST ENEMIES.

The Thibetan Expedition Encounters Severe Transport Difficulties.

Calcutta, India, Dec. 17.—The British expedition which entered Thibet after having crossed the Jalep Pass at 14,380 feet above the sea level, and reached Riuchangong, on its way to the Clambo Valley, met with immense transport difficulties. The cold was intense, 36 degrees of frost being registered, and anthrax broke out among the bullocks. Native Indian troops, British artillerymen, a detachment of the Norfolk Regiment, two seven-pounders and a machine gun form the expedition.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—Jewish emigration to America is constantly increasing in proportions, in consequence of the scarcity of work.

Saratoga, N. Y., Dec. 15.—A cold wave is sweeping over the lower Adirondacks, the temperature having fallen 24 degrees in the last 24 hours.

Berlin, Dec. 15.—A thousand specifications of cruelty are laid against Lieut. Schilling of the 9th Regiment of Infantry, whose trial began at Metz yesterday.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The Republican Senators in caucus yesterday decided upon Rev. Edward Hale of Boston for chaplain of the United States Senate, beginning Jan. 1. Dr. Hale has accepted.

Susquehanna, Dec. 15.—To reduce expenses the shops on the Erie Railroad system were last evening closed until Monday, Dec. 21. In the meantime nothing except urgent running repairing will be done.

Justifying His Vote.

Lord Alverstone, who presided over the deliberations of the Alaska Boundary Commission, once charged a wealthy client $5,000 for a few pages of typewritten advice. The client ventured to suggest that this was rather a high price for half a day's work. "It's not half a day's work," said His Lordship. "It is part of my whole education—all my years at the Temple, all the years I have practiced, all the years of my experience. It is half a day out of the heart of my life."

What It Will Come To.

Girl of the Future—Will you have me, Algy, dearest? Honorable Algernon Moneybags—Weally, that is so sudden. I can't quite make up my mind. Girl of the Future—Surely, such a little thing as that cannot take long.—Funny Cuts.

WORLD NEW TO HIM.

B.C. Politician Sees a Locomotive for the First Time.

Among those who came to Vancouver during the closing days of November was Harry Jones, a veteran of Cariboo, who was recently elected to the B. C. Legislature. It was a unique experience for Mr. Jones. It was the first time he had seen a train, let alone traveled on one.

He is one of the pioneers of the province, and crossed the continent from New York to San Francisco in the days of the prairie schooner. Thence he went north in 1872 by ship with the rush of gold-seekers up the Fraser River, and has been in the interior ever since.

James Murphy, senior member for Cariboo, accompanied him, and explained the engine, train and dining car on the way down. Mr. Jones took the steamer to Victoria and saw an electric car for the first time. He says that he comes to the railway question with a fresh eye. He got on well enough without railways himself and is perhaps happier than those who travel thousands of miles a year on the iron road. One thing is certain: B. C. is good enough for him.

As he says: "Parliamentary capacity is not dependent upon seeing locomotive wheels go round. Some have seen too many trains and have got wheels in their heads."

A New Drummond Poem.

Some verses by Dr. William H. Drummond appear in the December issue of Red and Gun in Canada. In these verses—which the poet has called "Charmette," he describes a sporting retreat somewhere back in the Laurentians, which he has endowed with every charm, that it is possible for such a place to have. These are some of the verses describing "Charmette":

Away off back on de mountain side,
Not easy t'ing to fin' de spot,
W'ere de lake below she's long an' wide,
A nice leetle place I got.
Mebbe ten foot deep by twenty-two,
An' if you can see it I bet
You'll not be surprise w'en I say to you,
I chrissen dat place Charmette,

It's wonderful place, for sure, Charmette—
An' ev'y mos say to me,
I got all de pleasure a man can get
'Cept de wife an' de families,
But somebody else can have ma wife,
De families, too, also—
An' I'll stick to Charmette so long ma life
Was spare to me here below.

For we can't be happier dan we been
Over twenty years, no soree.
An' if ever de stranger come between
De leetle Charmette an' me,
Den all I can say is kip out de way—
For dynamite sure I'll get—
An' after day you can hunt all day
For me an' ma dear Charmette!

The Strathcona Title.

Apropos of Glencoe, where Lord Strathcona has bought a small property and built a big house, it was an open secret at the time of his elevation as a Jubilee peer in 1897, that he was anxious to assume the style and title of "Lord Glencoe." Such an appellation would have aroused some feeling in the famous Glen, where the chief of the Macdonalds of Glencoe, though poor, dispossessed, and exiled, still remains the chief. Sir Donald Smith had consequently to compose for himself the title of Strathcona, which (especially when joined to Mount Royal) has a satisfying and sonorous sound, more particularly in trans-Atlantic ears. It matters little that it caused the men of Glencoe to smile, for in truth, it is not a "strath" at all, but a narrow gorge or glen, through which Ossian's Cona (now the rushing Coe) hurries seawards. The heiress to the Barony is Lord Strathcona's only daughter, who is married, but has no issue.—M.A.P.

"Oh, yes! More."

"Eh?"

"The difference is that the simples were formerly the remedies, whereas now they are the patients."

Reassuring Him.

Mr. Newcomb—I was so glad to meet your mother, I didn't think she was so—er—exceedingly stout.

Miss Wantsman—Oh, yes. But I'm sure I'll never grow to be like her. I take after papa, you know.

Tobacco in Japan.

Tobacco is both cultivated and consumed on a large scale in Japan. The plant was introduced by the Portuguese in the seventeenth century, and the trade in it is a government monopoly. Tobacco is almost universally used in a small pipe.

Banyan Trees.

Banyan trees are remarkable for the fact that their branches droop down to the ground and take root as separate stems.

Dancing in Ancient Religion.

In ancient religion dancing came to be one of the chief acts of worship. Religious processions went with song and dance to the Egyptian temples, and Plato said that all dancing ought to be thus an act of religion.

Stilt Walking Is Ancient.

Strange stilts are those used by Japanese and Chinese boys. Instead of having side blocks, like the American boys, they have foot rests mortised on the stilt stick and projecting backward. These stilts can only be used where the Japanese boys' feet are bare, for the stilt stick must be grasped between the first and second toe of each foot.

Spanish boys are great stilt walkers, and they invariably use sticks that reach to the hips and are strongly bound there as well as at the ankles.

In some of the islands of the south Pacific ocean very rough sport is engaged in by boys on stilts. Perched high on their thin support and with their faces and skins grotesquely painted, these semisavage lads, sometimes as many as twenty at a time, meet and try to trip each other up or knock each other down.

Like most sports and games stilt walking is of very ancient origin. Cut in the stone which forms one of the oldest Pharaoh's tomb there is a crude picture of a man leading a procession and walking on stilts. This ancient stilt walker must have been very skillful, for he is holding no side sticks, but is using both hands in holding a great horn to his mouth, which he is apparently blowing.

Kings and Handicrafts.

George III., when not engaged in performing the operations which had so much to do in gaining for him the popular nickname of "Farmer George," amused himself at one period of his long life with the making of buttons and attained a very respectable degree of skill in the manufacture of the different varieties then most in fashion.

George IV., his son and successor, affected another sort of unkingly distraction for idle hours and particularly prided himself on the perfection with which he could "cut out" a pair of breeches. Outside the glorified ranks of the fashionable outfitters of the day, the Stultzes, the Meyers, the Schweitzers and Dandrons, only Beau Brummel was thought to be his rival at the shears, but for elegance and accuracy and style the king considered himself the Beau's undoubted superior. The unfortunate Louis XI. was an expert locksmith, with a general turn for mechanics, and spent whole days in his forge, as did one of his predecessors on the throne of France, Louis XIII.

The Story of a Vision.

A Scottish newspaper prints the following "remarkable and dreadful experience," which a correspondent says he heard from the lips of a fellow passenger, a member of parliament. This man had left home early in the morning, traveled about a hundred miles by rail and put up at a village hotel. Feeling fatigued, he retired to his bedroom at an early hour. He was in the act of undressing when there appeared to him what was evidently the ghost of his four-year-old son arrayed in the vestments of the tomb. A conviction that his son, whom he had left in the morning in perfect health, was dead urged him to drive to the nearest station in time to catch a train that passed at midnight. On reaching home early next morning he found that his boy had died about the time the vision had appeared to him.

MRS. MORROW'S PUPILS GAVE GOOD RECITAL.

An Excellent Programme Heard by the Audience.

In the Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Night—Miss Bryce of Keene, was Present.

A number of Mrs. W. J. Morrow's pupils gave a delightful recital in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last night, and although the audience was not large it was evident that those present fully enjoyed the programme, and the excellent way in which the contributors to it did their work. Many of the pupils have very good voices, while the others showed signs of good training, more of which will place them high up in the ranks of vocal artists.

The programme was opened by a solo from Mrs. McAllister, which was well received, and which was followed by a selection from Miss Wilson entitled "Happy Days." Miss Myrtle Clyde of Lakefield, sang "Sweet September Days," and showed the foundation of what should prove to be an excellent voice. "Sing on Sweet Birds," by Mrs. Calendar, of Norwood, was the fourth number on the programme, and it received merited applause. She was followed by Mr. Gilbert Scott in "A Queen of the Earth." Mr. Scott has a powerful voice, and with training should make his mark. "The Day is Ended," sung by Miss Josephine Sproule, was well rendered, and appreciated by the audience. This selection was followed by a solo from Mr. Jos. Legg, entitled "Eternity." This popular singer made a pronounced impression on the audience, as he ever does. Miss Ruth Dawson was the next contributor to the programme, and her two selections, an Irish folk song, and "Mighty Like a Rose," were heartily appreciated. The improvement in Miss Dawson's voice reflects great credit on the instruction she has received. Mr. A. L. Davis pleased the audience in "The Lord is King," which was followed by a selection, "Rejoice O Daughter of Zion," from from Miss Bryce of Keene. She was heartily encored, and graciously responded with a solo entitled "Love in Spring Time." Miss Bryce has an excellent voice, and it is indeed a pleasure to listen to her. Mr. A. L. Davis on request, replied with "Abide with Me," a song which was well received. The programme concluded with a duet by Miss Bryce and Mr. Jos. Legg, entitled, "O for Thy Wings, O Dove," both singers acquitting themselves with great credit.

TERM CONCLUDED.

T. C. S. Port Hope Boys, Returned Home Yesterday Evening.

The Christmas term of the Trinity College School, Port Hope, concluded yesterday and the following Peterborough boys returned on the 5.39 train: Douglas Hammond, George Lundy, Trevor Eardley-Wilmot, Alan Campbell, George Campbell and F. A. Dela-Fosse, Lakefield.

In the school room as well as on the athletic fields the Peterborough boys made a good showing. At the College sports they took no less than fifteen prizes, while the school record shows that in their studies they were equally successful.

Rev. Mr. Armitage, who has been rector of All Saints' church for the past seven years, will leave in about a month's time, notwithstanding the persuasive attitude of the members of his congregation in an effort to keep him. During his stay in town Rev. Mr. Armitage has been exceedingly popular, and his departure will be much regretted.

Dresden Beet Sugar Works Inspected by Deputation From Other Towns.

Toronto Star.

As a result of the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company's excursion to Wallaceburg and Dresden on Tuesday, the Dresden sugar factory, now closed down, may be removed to Peterborough. The building, of course will stay where it is, but the value lies in the plant, and the latter is likely to go.

This possibility obtained a warm reception from the excursionists as they walked down Dresden's streets to the factory. The Dresdenites were out in numbers, and they were in good voice as well.

"You are too poor to pay for a factory, and you want to steal ours," was one of the compliments tendered the visitors.

The scribe of the Star must be blessed with a sharp ear. He heard in Toronto a remark, which the members of the deputation did not hear in the streets of Dresden.

MEMBERS OF CHOIR SHOW APPRECIATION

Of Work of Organist and Choir-Leader—Pleasing Event at George Street.

Mrs. Mowat Given Set of Tea Dishes and Mr. Mulligan Presented With Gold Chain and Locket.

A pleasing incident occurred at the practice of George street choir last night. After the work for the evening had been gone through with, Ald. Edgcumbe on behalf of the male members of the choir presented the leader, Mr. G. W. Mulligan with a gold chain and locket in recognition of his faithful two year's service as choir leader. During this period the choir has gradually grown, both in number and in efficiency, and the members took the opportunity on the celebration of the second anniversary of Mr. Mulligan's advent as leader to show their appreciation of his interest in and work for the organization.

In replying the recipient expressed his thanks, and said it had been a genuine pleasure to be associated with the members of the choir. He also paid a high tribute to the cheerful assistance rendered by Mrs. Mowat, as organist.

The ladies of the choir also had a surprise in store for Mrs. Mowat, the organist, and this morning sent to her home a beautiful China set of tea dishes, also given as a memento of the second anniversary of her term as organist. The success which the choir has attained during this period has been in no small degree due to Mrs. Mowart's faithfulness to the work of the choir, and to her efficiency. The different sections of the choir have worked harmoniously together and under the present leader and organist gives promise of even greater achievements.

Mrs. Mowat was taken completely by surprise by the receipt of the ladies' present, and expressed her pleasure in her associations with the choir, and appreciation of the members' kindness.

WERE WEDDED AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Mr. Wm. Spenceley Married to Miss Mary Gill, of Nassau.

A wedding was celebrated at St. Luke's church yesterday afternoon at 2.30 by the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., the contracting parties being William Gaylord Spenceley, of Auburn, and Miss Mary Maria Gill, daughter of Mr. Alf. Gill, Nassau. The bride, who was attended by Miss Eva Lockington, of Nassau, was becomingly attired in a pale gray suit with white silk waist and hat to match, and was given away by her father. The groom was supported by Mr. Jas. Ellis.

The young couple will reside in Peterborough, fifth ward, in future.

BOUGHT VETERANS' RIGHTS.

Established a Ranch—Question as to Settlement Duties.

Mr. R. J. McWilliams of Peterborough and representatives of the Dickson Lumber Company, of Peterborough, waited upon the Commissioner Crown Lands yesterday to present their views in regard to some veteran and grant claims. Mr. McWilliams is the assignee of some veterans' claims on which he bought the rights, located some lots and turned them into a ranch. The question arose whether he had a right to do this, or was compelled to perform all the settlement duties on the land. The case involved a precedent and therefore needed careful consideration. A further question involved is as to the ownership of the timber. The Crown claims it and so does the Dickson Lumber Company, who base their claim on an old license.

The Deputy Minister will give his decision upon the matter subsequently.—Globe.

INJURED MEN ASK DAMAGES.

Suit for $5,000 Against Contractors and Township.

The Toronto News says:—"The Township of Thorah, Ontario County, and Messrs. F. B. Brown, Toronto, and John A. Aylmer, Peterborough, contractors, engaged in the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, are defendants in a suit being concluded before Chief Justice Meredith to-day, at Osgoode Hall.

Charles Vassar and David Finn, of Kirkfield, while driving from Beaverton to Peterborough, were precipitated into an excavation near an approach to the canal, and received injuries for which they claim $5,000 damages. They allege that both the contractors and the township authorities are responsible for the unguarded state of the road. The evidence was taken at Lindsay, and the Chief Justice is hearing the argument here to-day.

A LETTER FROM SANTA CLAUS.

My Dear Little Boys and Girls,—

I am back at the old Stand with my pack full of the most interesting Christmas gifts. You'll find me in the Children's section of the Peterborough Bookstore.

I made so many friends here that I wish to meet you all once more, just to give you a bow or a handshake, and to show you the great pile of gifts I have been making for you since last Christmas. You ought to come and take one peep into my sack. Oh! it's a wonderful storehouse, this pack of mine. My workshop is away up at the North Pole where the explorers are trying to get. Up there the nights are long—as long as the months are here, but by the light of the stars I work at my bench with millions of little fairies and busy little elves to help me.

You ought to see my doll factory, girls! It is the greatest shop of all.

Come in and see me when you get a chance and bring your mamma and papa along—I have presents for them too. Good-bye till I see you. You'll find me on the main floor at the back, next to Chambers street. Your loving friend,

PRACTICAL GIFTS FOR BOYS.

The Boys' Department is our stronghold — we mean to get a strong hold on the boys. To do this we select their clothing with all the care that we put into the clothing of their fathers.

Just compare Gough Bros.' clothing with other kinds and see where we get in our graft on the boys.

Everything in the wearing line that boys like for Christmas.

Warm overcoats, reefers, stylish suits, stout overcoats, heavy sweaters for skating, tams, caps, hats, gloves, shirts, ties, stockings, suspenders, collars, cuffs, a complete boys' department.

No present is better for Christmas than one that is of some use.

Nothing is more appropriate than some garment or article of apparel.

Gough's furnishing department includes pretty much everything that a man or boy wants in holiday toggery.

CLOSING CONCERT AT ASHBURNHAM

Kindergarten Pupils in Fifth Ward School Enjoy Themselves.

A Pleasing Programme—A Dramatic Representation of Mother Goose.

The little children of Ashburnham Kindergarten delighted their friends yesterday afternoon at their Christmas closing exercises with an excellent programme. The Kindergarten room was beautifully decorated and much admired by the adult audience, but to the juvenile eye there was but one point of attraction—the present-laden Christmas tree.

The large audience present bore ample testimony to the fact that parents are evidencing more interest in this very important department of school work and giving it their hearty support and co-operation. The building was packed and for over an hour the little folks entertained them with a pleasing programme of which the following were interesting features:

Solo ... ... Miss Prudence Long
Family of Flowers (all under 4 years of age)
Tulips—Myrtle Harnott,
Myrtle Wesley,
Dorothy Langfeldt,
Nettie Record,
Kathleen Conroy,
Prudence Long
Recitation ....Hazel Chrowe
Recitation .... George Dodds
Recitation ..... Hunter Lewis
Solo ... ...Georgina Long
March Games, etc:
Dramatic Representations of Mother Goose Rhymes,
Mother Goose—Miss Susie Duffis
Queen—Miss Alice Neill
King—Master Neil McAllister
Page—Master Charlie McAllister
Page—Orville Wilson
Maid—Miss Minnie Cross
Goosey Goosey Gander, Hunter Lewis
Old Mother Hubbard—Laura Parker
Little Bo-Peep—Miss Kathleen Conroy,
Little Jack Horner—Arthur Lipsett
Jack and Gill—George Dodds and Prudie Long
Humpty-Dumpty—Bruce Beavis
Hie Diddle-Diddle—Lorne McIntyre

Miss Alice Neill acted the part of Queen with becoming stately grace, while the manly dignity of Master Neill McAllister fully justified the title of "King."

At the conclusion of the first part of the programme the chairman, Mr. J. W. Kelly, Principal of the Ashburnham Schools, made a brief speech in which he highly complimented Miss Williamson and her assistants, Misses Bell and Rogers, on the excellence of their work as evidenced by the efficient way in which the children performed their parts. He also remarked that this would probably be the last distinctly Ashburnham Kindergarten closing there would be as next year they would be a part of the City of Peterborough, but that he felt sure that the Board of Education of that city would have no reason to be ashamed of the educational institutions of Ashburnham when union took place.

Short addresses were given by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. Potter and Rev. Lewis, when at that juncture Santa Claus arrived and it was "Children's Hour."

After the tree had been relieved of its burden of Christmas presents, Santa hastened on his way, while the audience remained to sing the National Anthem, after which they too departed, feeling that this was one of the most successful entertainments in the history of the Kindergarten.

Long live the names of Pestelozzi and Froebel.

AN ART EXHIBIT OF RARE BEAUTY.

Mr. R. M. Roy's Show Cases Contain Specimen of Photographer's Art.

To those who are interested in art, the show cases of Mr. R. M. Roy just now will be of special interest. In them will be found specimens of the photographer's art, equal to any produced in a photo studio anywhere. Something new is shown in a sepia finish, and it promises to be exceedingly popular this season.

For those who are looking for something to give for Christmas, the exhibit of calanders, with genuine photographic mounting will be of interest. Mr. Roy's work is thoroughly modern, and the artistic effects which he has been successful in producing places him in the front rank of photo artists.

STOCKING STUFFING AT JOBE'S

Santa Claus' pack is a big one, and the following are the lines he has ordered for stuffing the stockings on Christmas eve, at only ten cents a pound:—

Humbugs, acid, or lemon drops, raspberries, mixed fish, walnut taffy, peanut crisp, maple cream, mixed cream, marrow bone, American taffy, chocolate creams, chocolate taffy, pure Jobe candy, pure bourbound, butter Scotch, kisses, etc.

Special—One pound, our own hand-dipped bon-bons, only 30c. Also a fresh shipment of Nasmith's chocolate creams, butter cups, fruit tablets, etc.

P. S.—Don't forget that Jobe receives Nasmith's bread fresh from Toronto every morning, at both stores, Nos. 422 and 445 George street. See Jobe's candy windows.

The Gladdest Day of the Year

Have you chosen your Christmas calendars, booklets and cards? Have you seen the beautiful display, conveniently laid out at the Peterborough Bookstore? Dainty drop calendars for 5 cents and 10 cents—you'll wonder how they produce them for so little money. Christmas cards—who can't afford half a dozen—from 2 cents to 25 cents—lovely missives with expressive sentiments—very appropriate for enclosing with parcels. The "Gibson" calendars and Tuck's art calendars, are real gems. A. H. Stratton & Co.

A GOOD MUSICAL DEMONSTRATION

By Kindergarten and Primary Grade Pupils of Miss Alice Roger.

The musical demonstration given by Miss Alice Roger's Kindergarten and Primary Grade Pupils, under her direction, in St. Paul's Sunday School room, last evening, in aid of the Y.M.C.A., was well attended, and some promising singing was heard, which reflected great credit on the teacher. The programme was divided into two parts, and although the several selections were of a simple character, (rightly so for such youthful talent), the pupils did exceedingly well and their efforts were heartily appreciated by the audience. The programme was composed as follows:—

COLLEGE RESIDENCE

THE DAYS OF TWENTY YEARS AGO AT TORONTO UNIVERSITY.

Demands For Rooms Always Outran the Accommodation—Residence Students the Gentlemen of the University—How "Scotty" Played the Role of the Ghost and Had the Tables Turned on Him.

In the old days, twenty years ago, Toronto University had a residence, housing forty students, the pick of the land, says a writer in The Toronto Sunday World. Parents who knew the ways of English boarding schools, and some whose information was got only from "Tom Brown's Schooldays," and could afford it, sent their sons first to Upper Canada College, and then, on their matriculation, to University residence. Reared in homes that exuded an atmosphere of refinement, trained on college fields in all manly exercises, and imbued with high ideals of life, these residence students were par excellence the gentlemen of the University.

Applications for rooms in residence outran the accommodation. Residence was popular. It became the custom for an Upper Canada College student, long before he had matriculated, to apply for a room in residence. Even after he had entered the University, and had become a resident, the rivalry for rooms lived on. His chum, let us say, was Brown, but Jones roomed next to Brown. Then it became the object of our student's life to get the room Jones occupied, so that he might be near Brown. Perhaps Jones was a senior, and the term was nearly over. Then our student would apply for the room already occupied. The first applicant, other things being equal, got the room. With this preliminary, let us come to the story.

In the fall of the year 1884, Tom Darling was taken ill with typhoid fever. He was a third-year man, and one of the most popular in residence. He was a stone wall as half-back in the Association football team, and was needed to help in a certain match, now drawing near, that would decide the championship of the league. As the days went by that kept Tom in his bed, the inquiries from students regarding his health became so numerous that the Dean of residence daily posted up, on the outer door of the Third House, a bulletin specifying the exact condition of the patient. In a week it was announced that Tom could not get well. There was sorrow in the student body everywhere. The residence men were particularly saddened, and an unusual quiet fell upon them. Tom passed to his reward on Nov. 1, 1884. His room, No. 84, on the second floor, faced the quadrangle, and was draped by the students for the three days from his death till he was buried. From the quad one could look up to the window in the hall off which Tom's room ran, and all day see the students enter the death chamber to take a last look at Tom.

The funeral over, the resident students in knots of five and six gathered in some fellow's room, and in subdued tones talked of the exploits of the dead. In room No. 1, in the First House, had met "Scotty" Henderson, Phil Cane and Mac Young. Scotty was a tough bit of a Welshman from Oshawa, quick-tempered and known to everyone as the fastest sprinter at college. On this particular night his gloomy face showed he had a grievance. He was on the point of airing it to his fellows, when he was interrupted by his door being opened. Big, rawboned, blue-eyed Charlie Caldwell, a freshman, half entered and waited an invitation to join the three. His appearance was like a red rag shaken before the eyes of an infuriated bull.

Scotty jumped up, ran over to Caldwell, and shouted in his face, "Get out of here, you cad! We don't want any sacrilegious juvenile mixing with us. Go down and herd with the waiters." And, suiting the action to the word, Caldwell, being too surprised to resist, Scotty bodied him out of the room and locked the door.

When Caldwell's long, easy-going steps had died away along the hall, Phil Cane and Mac Young interrupted the angry Scotty's promenading about the room, to ask what it was all about. "What has the kid done?" they asked.

Tersely, punctuated with highly-colored denunciation of the meanness of Caldwell, Scotty informed the two that the freshman, on the very day of Tom Darling's death, had made application for room 84 in the Third House in order that he might be near John McLennan, who had No. 86. "Asked for Tom's room before the poor old fellow was dead," snorted Scotty. "That's what the low-born cad did."

One night, at the end of the week, Scotty broke into Phil Cane's room, where Mac Young sat half buried in a huge armchair, with his feet on the mantel over the roaring fire in the grate. Phil was working. Mac was smoking. Scotty was excited. He had a scheme. He proposed that very night to "scare the leather-livered Caldwell out of a year's growth" by playing ghost. He dilated on his method of revenge for the slight offered to his dead chum, till he won over his two comrades to take a part in it.

Let us leave Phil and Mac at the door of Caldwell's room at 11 p.m., and go with Scotty as he scurries along the corridor to the physical laboratory, joining the First House. Scotty had laid his plans deep. Joe Bowers, the lecturer in physics, was in the laboratory, and greeted Scotty with, "Well, how goes the game? Got everything ready?" For answer, Scotty threw down a bundle containing some old clothes and a sheet, and remarked, "Phil and Mac are wrestling with the Kid this very minute. We'll scare him to death." The two worked on for an hour, with phosphorus, paint and flour. Scotty got into his old clothes. The sheet was draped about him. His face and hands were whitened with pipe clay till they looked as if cast in plaster of Paris. Flour was sprinkled so prodigally into the Welshman's hair that every time he breathed it fell in showers about him. Phosphorus was rubbed on face and hands. The palms were smeared, till when the light was turned out as an experiment, and Scotty clawed the air with his outstretched hands, two eyes of fire leaped up and revealed the grinning, horrid, human ghost. "You'll do," said Joe, as Scotty walked out of the laboratory door and down to the Third House.

Phil and Mac were still at the door of Caldwell's room. Caldwell was sound asleep. When Scotty left them they had gone into the freshman's room, but could not rouse him. Perhaps they did not try very hard. Anyway, a happy thought caused them to cease their efforts. They would also play ghost, for Scotty's benefit. They stole back to their rooms, and were soon back by Caldwell's door with two Snider rifles, loaded with blank cartridge. Trust two privates in "K" Company of Q. O. R., just after the Thanksgiving sham fight, to possess at least two blank cartridges. The loaded rifles were hid behind the curtains of the open window at the end of the hall looking out upon the quadrangle, within ten feet of Caldwell's room. Then they waited. Caldwell snored away. Scotty tarried. At last their sharpened ears heard the pit-a-pat of Scotty's slippered feet along the stone corridor, coming toward the Third House. They met him at the outside door. They were properly impressed with Scotty's grotesque make-up.

"Did you give him the proper thrills?" asked Scotty, eagerly.

Mac replied that all known devices had been employed to put Caldwell in a fit state of mind to be easily scared.

"But," he added, "Scotty, don't you think you had better call the whole thing off? Caldwell is a decent sort of fellow, and he is now as frightened as can be."

"Not by a dash sight," retorted the valiant Scotty, and he rushed upstairs to the first landing, turned to the left and stood before No. 84, in which Caldwell lay dreaming he was already long-distance champion and oblivious of the intentions of Scotty. Phil and Mac were at Scotty's heels. Phil urged, in whispers now: "Don't do it, Scott. Caldwell's got his rifle in bed with him, and he swears he will shoot any ghost that gets into the room. He is just fool enough to do it, too."

"Rifle?" gasped Scotty, then, recovering himself, gave vent to a tirade of bravado that began well, but ended with his half-reluctantly exclaiming, "Well, perhaps it would be too bad to scare Caldwell, after all." It was evident that the story of the rifle had made Scotty a quitter, and his two chums became anxious. They would have to act, or Scotty would exaggerate the rifle into a cannon and disappear. The more Scotty talked about the possibilities of that rifle, the more he felt for Caldwell.

Then, as the three stood by Caldwell's door, two of them had an inspiration. Scotty was turning to go downstairs and shed his horrid habiliments, when his comrades took him bodily, ghostly though he was, and, in spite of his wriggling resistance, pushed him into the middle of Caldwell's room and closed the door.

"Scare him," they sibilated through the keyhole. But Scotty had no "scare" left, and was making anxious efforts to get behind a chair or something to escape Caldwell's rifle.

The two outside had by this time secured their rifles, and again failing to coax Scotty to scare the man in the bed, they took a hand. They let out a chorus of blood-curdling warwhoops that rang through the Third House and out into the corridor, like claps of thunder on a clear day. At the same time they opened Caldwell's door softly and fired their rifles into the room, point blank.

The "bang—bang" of the old Snider was the last straw for Scotty. He jumped out from where he had been hiding into the middle of the room, shedding his grotesque garments in a frenzy. "Don't shoot!" he shouted, and his voice trembled in fear. "Don't shoot, you —— fool. It's me, Scotty Henderson. I'm no ghost. Put up your bloody rifle." The rifle shoots had aroused Caldwell, and he was sitting up in bed, half awake.

"What's that? Scotty?" he asked, in a quiet voice. He hadn't grasped the situation.

"Your darn old bullets went right by my ear. You might have killed me," explained Scotty. He was still scared.

What more compromising remarks Scotty might have made were never known, for by this time the whole house was clamoring at Caldwell's door to know what was up. Bearing candles, they came in with Phil and Mac at their head. The smile on the leaders' faces and the still half-awake condition of Caldwell seemed to clear Scotty's brain, for he turned his back on his two chums with, "You think you're d—— smart, don't you?" They were bigger than Scotty, or there would have been bloodshed.

Then the climax came. Phil was head senior of residence and was, therefore Mufti. He organized a Mufti's Court at once, in Caldwell's room. Scotty was chief witness, and Caldwell was the culprit. The whole story came out, and even the freshmen laughed when Scotty's share in the episode was revealed. Caldwell was severely censured for his breach of good form in applying for a dying man's room. He apologized most humbly, for he was a full-blooded gentleman, though thoughtless. The Mufti sentenced him to a fine that was equal to the price of beer, cheese and crackers for the whole Third House. Caldwell paid, and the ghost walked.

Vacuum.

The space above the mercury in a thermometer is not a perfect vacuum. There is not infrequently a small portion of air left in such space, and there is always an atmosphere of the vapor of mercury. Physically speaking, it is perhaps impossible to procure a vacuum. It is most likely that even if a real vacuum could be procured for an instant air or other vapor would at once begin to be disseminated from the sides of the vessel in which it was made, and it would thus instantly cease to exist.

It is true that Dexartes denied the very possibility of a vacuum and says, "If a vacuum could be effected in a vessel the sides would be pressed into contact," but it is hardly correct to say, "Scientists say that a vacuum cannot exist." What scientists do say is what Galilei said, "Nature abhors a vacuum." As the statement of a fact is true, Nature does, to the best of our knowledge, abhor a vacuum. She never suffers it to exist to the extent of allowing any space which is perceptible to our senses to be vacuous. Vacuum, in scientific speech, simply means a space from which air has been expelled.

A Dance Without a Smile.

They have a singular kind of dance conducted on the greens of country villages in Russia. The dancers stand apart, a knot of young men here, a knot of maidens there, each sex by itself, and silent as a crowd of mutes. A piper breaks into a tune, a youth pulls off his cap and challenges his girl with a wave and a bow. If the girl is willing, she waves her handkerchief in token of assent. The youth advances, takes a corner of the handkerchief in his hand and leads his lassie round and round.

No word is spoken, and no laugh is heard. Stiff with cords and rich with braids the girl moves heavily by herself, going round and round, and never allowing her partner to touch her hand. The pipe goes droning on for hours in the same sad key and measure and the prize of merit in this "circling," as the dance is called, is given by spectators to the lassie who in all that summer revelry has never spoken and never smiled.

Early Combines and Corners.

"Engrossing" was an offense punishable in England by fine and imprisonment, and the laws against it struck at those—called "engrossers"—who planned to gain control over necessities, such as grain or food stuffs in considerable quantities, either by purchase or otherwise, with the intention of raising prices.

The statute book holds quite a series of enactments designed to prevent anything in the nature of what we know as a "corner" or "combine." "Regrating" was a criminal offense, and so was "forestalling." The former consisted of buying and selling the same day in the same market or near it, and the latter implied the purchase of merchandise on the way to market or before the hour at which the market commenced, with the intention of selling at a profit, while it was also "forestalling" to circulate rumors calculated to raise the prices of commodities.

Though these laws have fallen into desuetude, they were in force in our grandfathers' time. At Preston, for instance, there were prosecutions almost up to the accession of Queen Victoria.

The Days.

The days are ever divine. They come and go like muffled and veiled figures sent from a distant friendly party, but they say nothing, and if we do not use the gifts they bring they carry them as silently away.

The Mystery of It.

"I can't understan'," said Uncle Eben, "how it is dat some folks kin be too proud to work an' at de same time humble enough to let de fam'ly give 'em board an' lodgin' free."

Discontent.

"You're discontented."

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Well, I've noticed that the contented man doesn't often get ahead in this world."—Chicago Post.

PRAISE FOR THE ESQUIMAU.

An Industrious Chap Who Deserves a Helping Hand.

The natives of the far North are a fast-dwindling race. Their sun is setting. Probably their midday sun never rose higher than the midwinter sun rises in this latitude.

Most of the Eskimos in Alaska are gathered at the missions, but the traveler will find a few in villages of two or three or half a dozen igloos in places convenient for fishing, as fish is the staple diet of these people. Starvation and disease have left but a remnant of once populous tribes.

Contact with the white race has had a great deal to do with their deterioration. They like whiskey, and like all other native races, are not naturally industrious. Before the coming of the white man stern necessity made them provide for the immediate future. The sea supplied them with most of their food, and there were wild berries and various kinds of game on the land to vary their fish diet. By instinct inherited from a long line of ancestors, they are fishermen and hunters, but by contact with the Caucasian they are makers of curios and traders. In their new avocations they have become dependent to a great extent upon the white people.

But the higher race is not responsible for all their ills. The unsanitary state in which they live is not conducive to longevity. The impure air in the native winter huts, the lack of personal cleanliness, and much of the food the natives eat would shorten the days of the hardiest people.

The Eskimo has some qualities of character to be admired. He has often shared his last bit of food with starving prospectors or wrecked sailors. He is bright and ingenious, simple minded as a child, with a happy disposition that takes no thought of the morrow. He is bad only when under the influence of liquor.

The Government should make some provision for the Eskimo. He can be made self-supporting, possibly a contributor to the wealth of the world, by placing him in a line of work for which nature fitted him. Provide him with modern appliances and means for fishing and whaling, and with proper management he will become a producer of wealth.—From the Nome News.

No one can be called educated who has not self knowledge. It underlies all true wisdom and saves one from calling that virtue in himself which he calls vice in another.

Nicaragua Laborers.

The expense of feeding native laborers in the gold mines of eastern Nicaragua is 19 cents a day. In addition to their food the men get in wages, according to the kind of work they do, sums ranging (in our money) from 26 cents to $2.69.

Kidneys and Liver Affected by Colds.

Backache and Pains in the Legs the Common Symptoms—Cure Comes With the use of.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Exposure to damp, cold weather is a frequent cause of kidney disease. Sitting in a draught so as to chill the feet and legs is frequently enough to bring on congestion of the liver.

Colds settle on the liver and kidneys as well as the lungs. The results are diseases of the most dreadfully painful and fatal sort.

As yet there has never been discovered a preparation equal to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a prompt and thorough cure for derangements of those great filtering organs.

Pains in the back, headache, urinary disorders, biliousness, liver complaint, dyspepsia, and constipation soon disappear when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used.

Mr. C. Noyes, for many years, section foreman, and now flagman for the G. T. R. at Peterborough, Ont., states:—"For twenty-one years I was section foreman on G.T.R., and was exposed to all sorts of weather. As a result my kidneys became affected and there was scarcely a day that I was not troubled more or less. At times I would have sharp shooting pains through my back and would get so used up that I felt like giving up work. During this time I was also a great sufferer from constipation. As I heard so much about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for kidney disease and constipation I began using them, and can say that I was entirely cured of my old troubles in a short time. I cannot say anything too good about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and never lose an opportunity of recommending them."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 5

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

CHAPTER XIX.

ABOVE in his room Barnes, with plays and manuscripts scattered around him, was engaged in writing in his note and date book, wherein autobiography, ledger and journal accounts and such miscellaneous matter mingled indiscriminately. "Today she said to me, 'I am going to the races with Mr. Saint-Prosper.' What did I say? 'Yes,' of course. What can there be in common between Lear and Juliet? Naturally she sometimes turns from an old fellow like me. Now, if she were only a slip of a girl again, with her short frock, her disorder of long ringlets, running and romping—

"A thousand details pass through my mind, reminiscences of her girlhood, lightening a lonesome life like glimmerings of sunshine in a secluded wood; memories of her mother and the old days when she played in my New York theater, for Barnes, the stroller, was once a metropolitan manager! Her fame had preceded her, and every admirer of histrionic art eagerly awaited her arrival. Then this incomparable woman fell ill.

"'You see? I have ruined you,' she said sadly.

"'I am honored, madam,' was all I could reply.

"She placed her hand softly on mine and let her luminous eyes rest on me.

"'Dear old friend!' she murmured.

"Then she closed her eyes, and I thought she was sleeping. Some time elapsed when she again opened them.

"'Death will break our contract, Mr. Barnes,' she said softly.

"I suppose my hand trembled, for she tightened her grasp and continued firmly, 'It is not so terrible, after all, or would not be, but for one thing.'

"'You will soon get well, madam,' I managed to stammer.

"'No. Do you care? It is pleasant to have one true, kind friend in the world—one who makes a woman believe again in the nobility of human nature. My life has been sad, as you know. I should not regret giving it up. Nor should I fear to die. My child—what will she do?—poor, motherless, fatherless girl—all alone, all alone?'

"'Madam, if I may—will you permit me to care for her? If I might regard her as my child?'

"How tightly she held my hand at that! Her eyes seemed to blaze with heavenly fire. But let me not dwell further upon the sad events that led to the end of her noble career. Something of her life I had heard; something I surmised. Unhappy as a woman, she was majestic as an actress. The fire of her voice struck every ear. Its sweetness had a charm never to be forgotten."

A knock at the door rudely dispelled these memories. For a moment the manager looked startled, as one abruptly called back to his immediate surroundings; then the pen fell from his hand, and he pushed the book from him to the center of the table.

"Come in," he said.

The door opened, and Saint-Prosper entered.

"Am I interrupting you?" asked the soldier, glancing at the littered table.

"Not at all," answered the manager, recovering himself and settling back in his chair. "Make yourself at home. You'll find some cigars on the mantel, or if you prefer your pipe there's a jar of tobacco on the trunk. Do you find it? I haven't had time yet to bring order out of chaos. A manager's trunks are like a junk shop, with everything from a needle to an anchor."

Filling his pipe from the receptacle indicated, which lay among old costumes and wigs, the soldier seated himself near an open window that looked out upon a balcony. Through a door at the far end of the balcony a light streamed from a chandelier within, playing upon the balustrade. Once the figure of the young actress stepped for a moment out upon the balcony. She leaned upon the balustrade, looked across the city, breathed the perfume of the flowers and then quickly vanished.

"Can you spare me a little time tomorrow morning, early, before rehearsal?" said Saint-Prosper finally.

"Yes," returned the manager in surprise. "What is it?"

"A foolish piece of business. The patroon is in New Orleans."

Barnes uttered an exclamation of annoyance and apprehension. "Here! What is he doing here?" he said. "I thought we had seen the last of him. Has he followed—Constance?"

"I don't know. We met today at the races."

"It is strange she did not tell me about it," remarked the manager without endeavoring to conceal the anxiety this unexpected information afforded him.

"She does not know he is here." And Saint-Prosper briefly related the circumstances of his meeting with the land baron, to which the manager listened attentively.

"And so she must be dragged into it!" exclaimed Barnes at length resentfully. "Her name must become public property in a broil!"

A frown darkened the soldier's face, but he replied quickly: "Need any one know? The land baron has not been seen with her."

"No, but you have," returned the manager, suddenly pausing and looking down at the other.

The silence between them lasted for some moments. Barnes stood with his hands in his pockets, his face downcast and moody. He felt that events were happening over which he had no control, but which were shaping the destiny of all he loved best. In the dim light the rugged lines of his countenance were strongly, decisively outlined. Turning to the trunk with a quick, nervous step, he filled a pipe himself. After he had lighted it he once more contemplated the soldier, thinking deeply, reviewing the past.

"We have been together for some time, Mr. Saint-Prosper," he said at length. "We have gone through fair and rough weather and"—he paused a moment before continuing—"should understand each other. You asked me when you came in if you were interrupting me, and I told you that you were not. As a matter of fact, you were."

And, walking to a table, Barnes took up the notebook.

"A garrulous single man must tell his little secrets somewhere," he continued. "Will you look at the pages I was writing when you came in?"

Saint-Prosper took the book, and while he was turning the leaves that were hardly dry the manager relighted his pipe, over which he glanced nervously from time to time at his companion. Finally, when the soldier had finished the perusal of the diary, Barnes turned to him expectantly, but the other silently laid down the little volume, and, after waiting some moments for him to speak, the manager, as though disappointed by his reticence, breathed a sigh. Then, clearing his throat, in a voice somewhat husky he went on sulkily:

"You will understand now why she is so much to me. I have always wanted to keep her from the world as much as possible; to have her world, her art! I have tried to keep the shadow of the past from her. An actress has a pretty face, and there's a hue and cry! It is not notoriety she seeks, but fame—fame, bright and pure as sunlight!"

"The land baron will not cry abroad the cause of the meeting," said the soldier gravely. "These fashionable affairs need but flimsy pretexts."

"Flimsy pretexts!" cried Barnes. "A woman's reputation—her good name"—

"Hush!" said Saint-Prosper.

From the door at the far end of the balcony Constance had again emerged and now approached their room. A flowing gown of an early period surrounded her like a cloud as she paused before Barnes' apartment. At the throat a deep falling collar was closely fastened, the sleeves were gathered in at elbow and wrist, and from a "coverchief," set upon the dusky hair, fell a long veil of ample proportions. With the light shimmering on the folds of her raiment she stood looking through the open door, regarding the manager and Saint-Prosper.

"Oh, you are not alone?" she said to the former. "You look as though you were talking together very seriously," she added, turning to Saint-Prosper.

"Nothing of consequence, Miss Carew!" he replied, flushing beneath her clear eyes.

"Only about some scenery!" interposed the manager so hastily that she glanced, slightly surprised, from the one to the other. "Some sets that are"—

"'Flimsy pretexts!' I caught that much! I only wanted to ask you about this costume. Is it appropriate, do you think, for the part we were talking about?" turning around slowly, with arms half raised.

"Charming, my dear; charming!" he answered enthusiastically.

"If I only thought that an unbiased criticism!" Her dark lashes lowered; she looked toward the soldier half shyly, half mockingly. "What do you think, Mr. Saint-Prosper?"

At that moment her girlish grace was irresistible.

"I think it is not only appropriate, but"—looking at her and not at the costume—"beautiful."

A gleam like laughter came into her eyes, nor did she shun his kindling gaze.

"Thank you," she said and courtesied low.

CHAPTER XX.

THE mist was lifting from the earth, and nature lay wrapped in the rosy peace of daybreak as the sun's shafts of gold pierced the foliage, illumining the historic ground of the Oaks.

Beneath the spreading trees were assembled a group of persons variously disposed. A little dapper man was bending over a case of instruments, as merry a soul as ever adjusted a ligature or sewed a wound. Beribboned and bemedaled the Count de Propriac, acting for the land baron, and Barnes, who had accompanied the soldier, were consulting over the weapons, a magnificent pair of rapiers with costly steel guards, set with initials and a coronet. Member of an ancient society of France which yet sought to perpetuate the memory of the old judicial combat and the more modern duel, the count was one of those persons who think they are in honor bound to bear a challenge without questioning the cause or asking the "color of a reason."

The count laughed and turned away with a businesslike air.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?"

At his words the contestants immediately took their positions. The land baron, lithe and supple, presented a picture of insolent and conscious pride, his glance lighted by disdain, but smoldering with fiercer passions as he examined and tested his blade.

"Engage!" exclaimed the count.

With ill concealed eagerness Mauville began a vigorous, although guarded, attack, as if asserting his supremacy and at the same time testing his man. The buzzing switch of the steel became angrier; the weapons glinted and gleamed, intertwining silently and separating with a swish. The patroon's features glowed, his movements became quicker, and, executing a rapid parry, he lunged with a thrust so stealthy his blade was beaten down only as it touched the soldier's breast.

Mauville suddenly followed his momentary advantage with a dangerous lunge from below. Involuntarily Barnes looked away, but his wandering attention was immediately recalled. From the lips of the land baron burst an exclamation of mingled pain and anger. Saint-Prosper had not only parried the thrust, but his own blade, by a rapid riposte, had grazed the shoulder of his foe.

Nor was the manager's surprise greater than that of the count. The latter, amazed that this unusual stratagem should have failed when directed by a wrist as trained and an eye as quick as Mauville's, now interposed.

"Enough!" he exclaimed, separating the contestants. "Honor has been satisfied."

"It is nothing!" cried the land baron fiercely. "His blade hardly touched me." In his exasperation and disappointment over his failure Mauville was scarcely conscious of his wound. "I tell you it is nothing," he repeated.

"What do you say, Mr. Saint-Prosper?" asked the count.

"I am satisfied," returned the young man coldly.

"But I'm not!" reiterated the patroon, restraining himself with difficulty. "It was understood we should continue until both were willing to stop!"

"No," interrupted the count suavely, "it was understood you should continue if both were willing!"

"And you're not!" exclaimed the land baron, wheeling on Saint-Prosper. "Did you leave the army because"—

"Gentlemen, gentlemen! let us observe the proprieties!" expostulated the count. "Is it your intention, sir"—to Saint-Prosper—"not to grant my principal's request?"

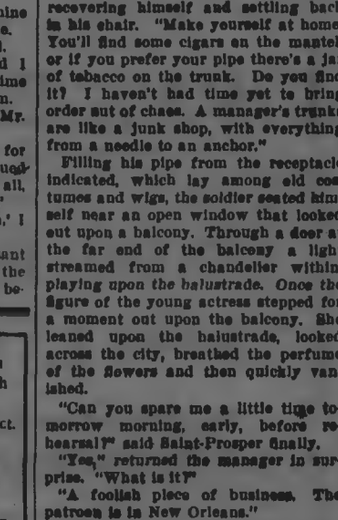
A fierce new anger gleamed from the soldier's eyes, completely transforming his expression and bearing. His glance quickly swept from the count to Mauville at the studied insult of the latter's words; on his cheek burned a dark red spot.

"Let it go on!"

The count stepped nimbly from his position between the two men. Again the swords crossed. The count's glance bent itself more closely on the figure of the soldier, noting now how superbly poised was his body, what reserves of strength were suggested by the white, muscular arm! His wrist moved like a machine, lightly brushing aside the thrusts. Had it been but accident that Mauville's unlooked for expedient had failed?

But the land baron's zest only appeared to grow in proportion to the resistance he encountered; the lust for fighting increased with the music of the blades. For some moments he feinted and lunged, seeking an opening, however slight. Again he appeared bent upon forcing a quick conclusion, for suddenly with a rush he sought to break over Saint-Prosper's guard and succeeded in wounding the other slightly in the forehead. Now, sure of his man, Mauville sprang at him savagely.

But, dashing the blood from his eyes with his free hand and without giving [illegible] Saint-Prosper met the assault [illegible]



Sickness steals more savings than the burglar. Slowly, coin by coin, the money that has been so hardly earned is paid out for drugs and doctors. Sickness is the worst enemy of the working man, and the common cause of the working man's sickness is disease of the stomach often involving the heart, lungs, liver, or kidneys.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will stop the stealing of the savings by sickness. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., when these diseases are caused by the diseased condition of the stomach and its allied organs.

$500 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Wm. Connolly, of 538 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio. "It got so bad I had to lay off quite often. You advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start and have not lost a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel tip-top and better than I have for ten years."

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—The opinion here is that the Russo-Japanese [illegible] helpless rage. In the soldier's hand the dainty weapon was a thing of marvelous cunning. His vastly superior strength made him practically tireless in his play. Not only tireless; he suddenly accelerated the tempo of the exercise, but behind this unexpected, even passionate, awakening the spectators felt an unvarying accuracy, a steely coldness of purpose. The blades clicked faster; they met and parted more viciously; the hard light in Saint-Prosper's eyes grew brighter as he slowly thrust back his antagonist.

Mauville became aware his own vigor was slowly failing him. Instead of pressing the other he was now obliged to defend himself. He strove to throw off the lethargy irresistibly stealing over him, to shake the leaden movements from his limbs. He vainly endeavored to penetrate the mist falling before his eyes and to overcome the dizziness that made his foeman seem like a figure in a dream. Was it through loss of blood or weariness, or both? But he was cognisant his thrusts had lost force, his plunges vitality, and that even an element of chance prevailed in his parries. But he uttered no sound. When would that mist become dark and the golden day fuse into inky night?

HOCKEY.

A meeting of representatives from the hockey clubs in Group 2, Junior O.H.A., was held at Port Hope yesterday to arrange the schedule of games for the season.

The following referees were appointed: Peterborough, W. E. Wasson, Jas. McCabe; Cobourg, C. McCallum, J. Davidson; Port Hope, W. McMillan, Geo. Brown; Belleville, B. McMillan.

The schedule of games was arranged as follows:—

Mr. Jas. Darris received a severe cut from a hockey stick in the hands of a player last evening, which necessitated the attention of a physician. The occurrence was an unfortunate one, and in the opinion of a great many of the spectators, could have been avoided.

• • • •

Last night the rink was devoted to hockey, both the T.A.S. and Peterborough teams having a good workout. Some of the juniors and intermediate players showed surprising form, and under good training should develop into fast men.

A practice of the Peterborough club players will be held to-night. The following teams are requested to be on the ice at seven o'clock.

A referee will be on the ice and a good hard practice will be had.

VanEvery is showing up well in goal, and if he continues the pace he has set, will make a valuable man.

That Belleville has a pretty good opinion of the ability of Peterborough players is evident by the following in the Intelligencer: "One thing is sure — every encouragement and chance for practice should be given the boys. There's a husky bunch in Peterborough this winter, including one of last season's champion Paris seven, and they are getting into such fine condition that you could hardly drive a tack into their legs. There will surely be barrels of things doing when the Petes and the Busy Bees come together."

• • • •

Mr. Alex. Kempt, one of Norwood's star hockey players, left on Thursday morning last for Midland, where he has secured a situation for the winter. Alex. and J. Miller, who are also in Midland, will play with the "Middies" this season. Before leaving Mr. Kempt with a number of his friends, were entertained at the home of his late employer, Mr. W. A. Johnson, merchant tailor.—Norwood Register.

The Port Hope Guide says: The first practice of the season was held at the covered rink last night, and a large number of the puck chasers turned out. The practice, considering it was the first of the season, was exceedingly good, a number of the players showing up in splendid form. The ice was as smooth as glass, and with the exception of a little patch at the north end, could not have been improved.

• • • •

The Warkworth Journal commenting on the Trent Valley Hockey League meeting says:—

"Eighteen teams were represented and admitted to the League, among which was our own village. We take this opportunity of congratulating the boys on their energy in pushing to the front in this sport, and predict for the team a brilliant season. The team has never been so strong as it is this year and the residents of Warkworth will have the privilege of witnessing first-class hockey. Support the boys and give them a chance to make a good showing in the League, which we are satisfied they will."

• • • •

An Eastern Ontario paper says:—"Hockey clubs everywhere are composed of the prettiest girls in town," and now the executive of the Ladies' Club in that fellow's town is overrun with applicants who want to catch a place on the team.

BASKET-BALL.

It is expected that the League game between the Arrows and Athletics White, will be played to-morrow night at 9 o'clock.

The West Endors of Toronto will probably play the Athletics, White, here on Christmas eve.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sydney, Dec. 17th. — With a team that no one thought would do more than moderately well when they started their Australian tour, Mr. P. F. Warner has won the first test match by five wickets.

When the game was resumed this forenoon England required 73 runs to get to win, and had six wickets in hand. It looked an easy task, but there is ever a doubt in cricket, especially with the Cornstalks, who always finish hotly.

However with the loss of one more wicket and in less than an hour and a half the necessary runs were secured and England had won a brilliant victory.

The feature of the match was the plucky way in which the Australians rallied in the second innings, and made a great match of what was at one time looked upon as a walk-over. The scores were:

Australia, First innings, 286; second innings, 485; total 771.

England, First innings, 577; second innings, 195 for five wickets, total 772.

DEAN O'CONNOR'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

Fiftieth Anniversary of Ordination of Well Known Priest.

Highest Clergy Unite in Honouring an old "Peterborough Boy."

The following despatch refers to an important event in the life of a well known Roman Catholic priest, V. Rev. Dean O'Connor, of Marysville, who is an uncle of Mr. J. P. Shevlin, town, and was born in Peterborough—corner of King and Aylmar streets, and was, by the way, the first white child to be born in this town:—

Kingston, Dec. 17.—To-day the Very Rev. John Stephen O'Connor, of Marysville, Ont., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his entry into the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church. Archbishop Gauthier and many of the clergy and prominent men of Ontario were in attendance at the ceremonies which began at ten o'clock with high mass. Afterwards a grand banquet was held.

Dean O'Connor was born in Peterborough on February 17, 1828. He was educated at the Regiopolis College, Kingston, and the Grand Seminary, Montreal. In 1853 he was ordained and attached to St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, where he remained three years. Afterwards he was stationed at Cornwall, Alexandria, Perth, Chesterville and Marysville, where he has been for the past four years. Dean O'Connor is a popular prelate, and of great learning and piety.

WAR IMMINENT FOR RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

Situation in Tokio More Unfavourable Than on Thursday.

Many More Russian Warships Going out—Trying to Draw a Herring Across the Scent of the Bear's Intentions at St. Petersburg—Urge Delay and Present Status Quo for Years.

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The situation here yesterday was more unfavorable than Thursday. The publication in the principal papers here of the letter of Mrs. Anita Newcomb McGee, President of the Association of Spanish-American War Nurses, offering to the Government of Japan, through the Japanese Minister at Washington, the services of trained nurses in the event of war with Russia has produced an excellent impression and is warmly appreciated as a mark of the traditional American friendship of Japan.

Russia's Ships For East.

Bizerta, Tunis, Dec. 19.—The Russian naval forces now anchored here, consisting of a battleship (name not given); the armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi of 5,883 tons displacement; the turret ship Oslabya of 12,675 tons displacement; the cruiser Aurora of 6,630 tons displacement, and five torpedo boats, commanded by Admiral Wirenius, will be reinforced in a few days by six torpedo boats and proceed hence to the Far East.

Not an Ultimatum.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—The opinion here is that the Russo-Japanese negotiations will proceed. It is pointed out that there is no reason why Japan, if not satisfied with Russia's reply, should break off the negotiations, as the reply is in no sense an ultimatum, leaving the way open for counter proposals. It is suggested as an expedient in case no agreement can be reached, that an arrangement might be made to maintain the present status for a number of years.

Hope For Solution Still.

London, Dec. 19.—A special despatch from St. Petersburg says: "Optimistic anticipations of a pacific solution of the Russo-Japanese crisis are still entertained in the leading Russian official circles, in spite of some disquietude on the part of the public and alarmist press reports."

Situation in Seoul.

Seoul, Dec. 19.—The attitude of the Russians here indicates a possible determination to prevent Japan from gaining a foothold in Corea. The Russians insist that Japan in possession of Corea would be a constant menace.

The Premier still studiously avoids an answer to the questions of United States Minister Allen in regard to Wiju. The latter is now pressing the matter, and has asked for another audience.

The Russians are inclined to resent American activity concerning Wiju, and say that the Americans are playing the Japanese game. The Russians do not object to Americans coming in and trading with Manchuria, but assert that the opening of Yongampho and Wiju might lead to the admittance of Japanese.

They say that Americans now enjoy a large trade with Manchuria, which, except in the matter of flour, will largely increase in the future, and insist that the present attitude of America only injures a friendly customer and favors a manufacturing rival.

U. S. DECLARED WAR

Morgan So States in His Panama Resolution in Senate.

ROOSEVELT AND COLOMBIA

President's Course Respecting Republic of Panama is Contrary to the Law of Neutrality—If U.S. Will Not Recognise Colombia's Rights Under 1846 Treaty, or Go to the Hague, She Will Fight.

Washington, Dec. 19.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Morgan introduced a resolution declaring that the President has no right to wage war against any foreign power without the consent of Congress, when such country is at peace with the United States; that the provision of the canal treaty between the United States and Panama guaranteeing the independence of the Republic of Panama is in effect a declaration of war with Colombia; that the intervention of the United States in preventing Colombia to suppress the secession of Panama is contrary to the law of neutrality and the law of nations.

Colombia Will Fight.

Paris, Dec. 19.—The "United Colombian Committee" here gave out a statement yesterday saying that Colombia would, first seek through a commission to induce the United States to recognize Colombia's rights under the treaty of 1846; second, if the commission fails, Colombia will ask for the submission of the question to The Hague Arbitration Court; third, if its submission to The Hague Court is refused, Colombia will go to war and rely on the Latin Republics to come to her aid.

Advised Not to Court Danger.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 19.—Dr. C. F. S. Caracristi, a promoter of concessions in the Gulf of Darien, says that the proposed visit of certain American investors to that country has been called off because of the receipts of letters from a high Colombian official, saying: "Under present conditions Americans should not court danger in Colombia." The expedition was to have sailed this week.

SEASONABLE PROSPERITY.

Thank Heaven, we can be optimistic this Christmastide. True, there are some born under a blue-ruin star, who tell us that "hard times are coming,"—so is Christmas, and Christmas is a good deal nearer than hard times. Speaking of Christmas reminds us that the season in Peterborough this year affords evidence enough to snow under the prophets of evil. The town of Peterborough never swung into a Christmas-tide of such rich reality of prosperity, as the Christmas season of 1903. For several years past we have been enjoying high prosperity, and half fearing that next Christmas could not repeat the golden story of the present. If we have felt that way, our unfaith has been splendidly rebuked.

Instead of hard times coming, we can't even find the word in the bright trade lexicon of this Christmas season. Many of our local merchants state that the trade of last Saturday was 50 per cent. in advance of any former corresponding Saturday. Not only were the purchases large, but numerous along a general ability to buy. Nor were necessities and staples the bulk of the buying. The large sums spent in what to the classes of purchasers constitute luxuries, showing a possession of money, and a willingness to spend it, born of the buoyant air of prosperity we all breathe these days. All this is very gratifying at this special season, for all can enter into the material enjoyment of the period, which is a hollow mockery unless the true Christmas spirit is behind inspiring it. This year of grace, Christmas in its widest sense should come to all in Peterborough. Prosperity the past year has brooded over us all; business has been active, and abundant employment has followed in its train,; and except where improvidence or ill-health has intervened, there should not this Christmas be an empty, or even bare larder, in Peterborough—and even with these sad conditions, there should not be one, if the more highly favoured feel in their hearts the glow of the true Christmas spirit, which is nothing if not divinely altruistic.

WHY IS IT, MR. WHITNEY?

(Toronto Star.)

Some time ago one of the poets of the Conservative party wrote a song about Mr. J. P. Whitney, in which he was described as one

"Bold enough to be honest,
And honest enough to be b d."

The poem did not ring through the land at all, and has been forgotten, through no fault of the gifted poet, for he produced a neat enough bit of verse. Mr. Whitney is just now proving that he is not "bold enough to be honest" in his relation to his follower, Mr. R. R. Gamey.

There is an election in North Renfrew, and the question arose as to whether Mr. Gamey should be sent there as one of the speakers of the Conservative party. Mr. W. R. White, a leading member of the party, and a resident of the riding, stated in a public interview that the man from Manitoulin was not wanted there at all. Among Mr. Whitney's political advisers some thought Gamey should be sent into the riding, while others thought he should be put into the background, and that the party should not advance him and become responsible for him. Feeling ran high on the subject among those who surround Mr. Whitney.

It has been settled, and Mr. Gamey has gone into North Renfrew. The party carried Muskoka, where Mr. Gamey was featured, and lost Sault Ste. Marie, where Mr. Gamey was better known, which probably influenced the determination to send him down to North Renfrew.

It will be observed, however, that there is no "boldness" in Mr. Whitney's endorsation of Mr. Gamey. He accepts the use of him. He asks the electors to be guided by him. But as for Mr. Whitney himself he does not associate with the man. He arranges meetings throughout the riding in such a way that he will never rub shoulders on the same platform with him. The list of meetings is published, and Mr. Gamey goes one way through the riding, while Mr. Whitney and the lieutenants with whom he associates go another way. It was the same in Muskoka. Mr. Whitney kept Mr. Gamey at a distance. When the leader of the party started from the Soo for Muskoka he motioned Mr. Gamey from Muskoka to the Soo.

If Mr. Gamey is a suitable person for the Conservative party to foist on the electors of North Renfrew, how is it that Mr. Whitney will not be seen on the same platform with him? The only satisfactory reply to this question will be a change in the programme in North Renfrew by which the two men will appear at the same meeting.

TIMBER WEALTH OF WESTERN CANADA.

A Correspondent Writes of the Property of the Big Bend Lumber Co.

A correspondent writing in the Lindsay Post, describing a trip through Western Canada, has this to say of the Big Bend Lumber Co.,'s property, in which local men are interested:

"On my way out to the coast I stayed over at Revelstooke, a small town in the mountains, for four days, and through the courtesy of Mr. Theodore Ludgate, (who by the way, is the general manager of the Big Bend Lumber Co. at Arrowhead, I was shown over the plant of the company. They are erecting a very fine saw and shingle mill at Arrowhead, which they expect to have in operation early in the spring. They also intend putting in a large planing mill and dry kiln at once. This, when completed, will be one of the most up-to-date and best equipped plants for the manufacture of lumber and lumber stuffs to be found in the Kootenay district of British Columbia. They will have a decided advantage over the Coast mills catering for the trade of the prairie section of the Northwest, being about four hundred miles shorter haul by rail. This is a very important item in the saving of freights. There are also large tracts of exceptionally fine timber on the Arrow Lakes convenient to this mill, the property of the Big Bend Lumber Company.

CANADA'S NEW LAKE MARINE.

Vessels Among the Finest in Fresh Water.

GREAT TONNAGE INCREASE.

The Carrying Capacity on a Single Trip is now Over Four Million Bushels —List of New Vessels.

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 16.—While the progress of Canada in almost every line during the past few years has been remarkably great, there has been no way in which it has been more marked, especially during the past three years, than in the almost phenomenal growth of the merchant marine trade of the upper lakes. This growth can be said to have commenced in the spring of 1901, and since that time has been so rapid that the fleet travelling between Lake Superior and the Lower Lakes port has doubled in numbers, while the carrying capacity is about three times that which it was at the beginning of this three year period, a fact of which Canada can justly be proud.

Two years ago shippers found it necessary to petition for a temporary suspension of the Canadian coasting laws so that the American vessels might engage in the trade, and relieve the blockage at the ports of Fort William and Port Arthur, where all the grain from the west is transhipped on its way to the markets of the east. Since that time, however, there have been enough boats added to the Canadian fleet to handle the grain, although the shipments being offered are increasing very fast, and it will be necessary for the vessel owners to keep continually adding to the carrying capacity of their fleets on the lakes.

The first of the new companies to go extensively into the lake carrying business during the past few years was the Algoma Central Steamship Line, one of the companies organized by E. H. Clergue.

They brought a fleet of carriers out from England, and placed them on the lakes duringt he season of 190. They were the Monkshaven, Paliki, Leafield and Theano. To these they added the schooners H. A. Barr and J. J. Barium, purchased from United States concerns, and the tow barge Agawa, which was built at Collingwood. The Agawa is 379 feet in length, and is one of the finest boats of her type on the lakes. The Barr was subsequently lost on Lake Erie. It was the intention of the Algoma Central people when they put the ocean type of boats on the lakes to take them to the ocean and engage in the trade there during the winter months. This was tried the first winter but was accompanied by so much trouble and so little fortune, in competition with the other lines operating continuously on the Atlantic that the idea was given up the first season.

THE TURRET FLEET.

Last year the Canadian Lake & Ocean Navigation Co., with headquarters at Toronto, entered the trade, and they also went to England for their boats, for the double reason that they could get them there somewhat cheaper, and use them in bringing over cargoes, and because they could not wait for the Canadian shipyards to supply the demand. The boats were not constructed to order in England, but were purchased from the companies operating them. This company bought the four boats which comprise what is known as the Turret fleet. They are of a type distinctly different from anything on the lakes, their construction being somewhat like a combination of the whaleback and the ordinary steam barge, with the engine rooms amidships. These boats were the Turret Court, Turret Chief, Turret Crown and Turret Cape. Three more were added by the Canadian Lake & Ocean Navigation Company this season, being the J. H. Plummer, A. E. Ames and H. M. Pellatt. The Turret boats boats have a carrying capacity of about 165,000 bushels of wheat each. The other three are intended principally for the package freight business. All very in size from 250 to 280 feet. Boats larger than this cannot pass through the Welland Canal.

MACKAY'S BIG FELLOWS.

The Mackays of Hamilton, R. O. and A.B. Mackay, have four vessels in the trade, the Strathcona, Donnacona, Wabcondah and Neepawah, the latter two being recently purchased in England, where they were constructed for this firm. The Mackays, although they are better known thus, operate their boats under the name of the New Ontario Steamship Company. They are largely interested in the New Ontario Dock & Coal Company at the Soo.

Other steamers newly placed on the lakes during the last two seasons are the Neebing, owned by Marks & Co., of Port Arthur; the Tadousac, owned by the Victoria Harbour Lumber Company; the Wexford, owned by the Western Steamship Company; the Newmount, owned by the Farrar Transportation Company; the Simla, owned by the Calvin Company, Kingston, and the Midland King and the W. D. Matthews, owned by the Midland Transit Company. The Montreal Transit Company have the steamers Fairmount and Westmount, and the tow barges, Hamilton and Quebec. The Matthews and Midland King, both of which came out late this season, are the largest and finest Canadian-owned carriers on the lakes. They compare favourably with the best of the American-owned, and have a carrying capacity each of 5,500 tons.

GREAT CARRYING CAPACITY.

In approximate figures the total carrying capacity of the boats in the upper lake trade is now something more than 4,000,000 bushels of wheat. Previous to 1900 it was but a little more than 1,250,000, and the increase in that time of 2,750,000 shows the rapid growth in the trade, and that it has almost trebled in the carrying capacity of the boats engaged in it. The number of boats has more than doubled. Those now in commission, not including three C. P. R. and four Sarnia passenger steamers, which go up Lake Superior and also carry grain, number fifty. Of these thirty-two have been added during the last three seasons, and of the thirty-two nine have been built in Canada, namely, the barges Agawa, Hamilton and Quebec, and the steamers Iroquois, Simla, W. D. Matthews, Midland King, Tadousac and Advance.

Seven passenger boats on the routes between Owen Sound and Fort William and Sarnia and Fort William, and which are not included in the figures above given, can carry wheat to a combined capacity of about 850,000 bushels. Besides this they control by far the larger part of the passenger traffic on the upper lakes. It is a fact that most of the passengers who go through the American Soo canal are taken by Canadian-owned steamers.

BETTER THAN AMERICAN BOATS.

One noteworthy feature about the Canadian-owned boats is their substantial construction. Those built in Canada and England are in this regard somewhat ahead of the product of the American shipyards, where there seems to be a tendency to sacrifice seaworthiness for carrying capacity. The reason so many of the Canadian boats are not larger than they are is because it is impossible for a boat of more than 280 feet in length to pass through the Welland Canal, and it is evident that one of the first things necessary in the improvement of the Canadian waterway is the enlargement of this canal. Until that is done it will be imperative to construct boats much smaller than they are otherwise required, and therefore not as profitable as might be.—Globe.

DOURO—ENNISMORE.

Celebration of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin.

December 8th, Festival of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin, was as usual, a red letter day in the parish of Douro. On that day forty of the little ones received for the first time Holy Communion. Rev. Father Kelly officiated. The reverend gentleman has officiated on many such occasions, because he has been a parish priest for twenty-five years in the County of Peterborough. On this account there is a proposal on foot to have all those who have made their first communion under his administrations, meet together in July of next year. What a happy reunion it should be! How rejoiced they should be to shake hands on such a solemn occasion, with him who has been all these years their staunch and steadfast friend—to whom during all these years their hearts have gone out in love and loyalty—of whom they now speak so kindly and reverently as their grand old man, saying with the world's bard:

"Time cannot wither him,
Nor custom stale
His infinite variety."

DISGUISED CATARRH

A Stealthy, Insidious, Weakening Enemy to Women—Many Thousand Women Suffer Needlessly From This Cause.

There are a multitude of women, especially housewives, and all other women obliged to be on their feet constantly, who are wretched beyond description, simply because their strength and vitality is sapped away by catarrhal discharges from the pelvic organs. These women get up in the morning tired, drag themselves through their daily duties tired, only to go to bed at night as tired as before.

MRS. EVA BARTHO.

MISS LOUISE MAHON.

MRS. KATE MANN.

MRS. ANNA MARTIN.

Mrs. Eva Bartho, 122 East 128th Street, N. Y. City, N. Y., writes:—"I suffered for three years with what is generally known as leucorrhea, in connection with ulceration of the womb. The doctors advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Reading of the value of Peruna, I thought it best to give this well-known remedy a trial, so I bought three bottles of it at once. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am to-day in perfect health, and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Miss Louise Mahon, 3 Glen Baillie Street, Toronto, Ont. Can., Secretary of the Kings Daughters and Secretary of Lady Macdonald Circle, No. 76, all women heart of disease, writes:—"I feel it a duty I owe to benefit to be derived from taking Peruna, we would have many happier and more healthful women. My health has never been too robust, and I am easily fatigued and can not stand much. About a year ago I was so run down that I had to take to my bed, and became weaker and weaker. A friend advised me to try Peruna, and I have great reason to be grateful, for in two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was perfectly well, and I now find that my health is much more robust than formerly, so that I take Peruna once or twice a month and keep well."—Louise Mahon Peruna is such a perfect specific for each case that when patients have once used it they can never be induced to quit it until they are permantly cured. It begins to relieve the disagreeable symptoms at once. The backache ceases, the trembling knees are strengthened, the appetite restored, the digestion made perfect, the dull headache is stopped and the weakening drains are gradually cured. These results certainly follow a course of treatment with Peruna.

Barbara Alberty, corner Seventh and Walnut streets, Appleton, Wis., writes as follows in regard to Peruna:

"For years I have suffered with backache and severe pains in the side. I doctored so much that I became discouraged. A school friend told me how very much Peruna had benefited her and I sent out for a bottle, which did more to relieve me than all the other medicine I have ever taken. I used it faithfully for two weeks and it completely cured me. I have not had any pains since, anywhere, but feel like a new woman. I am truly thankful for what Peruna has done for me."—Barbara Alberty.

Mrs. Kate Mann, 302 Bathurst Street, Toronto, Ont. Can., Vice President of the Ladies Aid Society, writes:—"I am pleased to give praise to Peruna for the blessed relief I found through its use. I suffered for years with backache and dragging down pains and often had to go to bed and stay there when I was so busy that I could ill be spared. It was therefore a simple godsend to me when Peruna was brought to my notice. Every drop seemed to give me new life, and every dose made me feel much better, and I promised myself that if I found that it cured me I would advocate it so that other suffering women should know of it. I have been in perfect health for one year, I enjoy work and pleasure because in such fine health, and no trouble seems too heavy to bear when you are in good health. Peruna has simply been a household blessing, and I never will be without it again."—Mrs. Kate Mann.

Mrs. Anna Martin, 47 Hoyt St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:—"Peruna did so much for me that I feel it my duty to recommend it to those who may be similarly afflicted. About a year ago my health was completely broken down, and headache, dizziness and irregularities, and life seemed dark indeed. We had used Peruna in our home as a tonic, and for colds and catarrh, and I decided to try it for my trouble. In less than three months I became regular, my pains had entirely disappeared, and I am now perfectly well."—Mrs. Anna Martin.

Mrs. Wm. Hetrick, Kennard, Washington county, Neb., writes:

"I am fifty-six years old and have not felt well since the Change of Life began ten years ago. I was in misery somewhere most of the time. My back was very weak, and my flesh so tender it hurt me to lean against the back of a chair. I had pain under my shoulder-blades, in the small of my back and hips. I sometimes wished myself out of this world. Had hot and cold spells, dizziness and trembling of the limbs, and was losing flesh all the time. After following your directions and taking Peruna I now feel like a different person."—Mrs. Wm. Hetrick.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Peruna can be purchased for $1 per bottle at all first class drug stores.

RAIL TO NEW LISKEARD.

Rolling Stock is now Under Construction—The Extension to the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The Toronto News has the following special correspondence from North Bay:

"Chief Engineer Russell, of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, whose headquarters are at North Bay, gave your correspondent a very interesting interview to-day with regard to the present condition of affairs, on the construction of the line, and the plans that have been made for the completion.

There only remains 85 miles of grading to be finished between here and New Liskeard on Lake Temiskaming. The main grading work has been done from the northern end of the line, but grading outfits were also sent in to New Liskeard by the Mattawa-Kipawa branch of the C.P.R., and these have been busy working southward all summer from the lake. This work will be kept up all winter, and it is expected that it will be pretty far advanced by next spring.

In May the track laying will be taken hold of and rushed along as fast as possible. At present the rails are laid for 57 miles northward from North Bay, and 35 miles of this are ballasted. Next spring this part of the work will be resumed, and Mr. Russell expects confidently to have the tracks laid as far as New Liskeard by September. The ballasting will follow the track laying closely, and by the end of November at the latest the railway will be ready to be handed over complete and finished.

Work is now sufficiently advanced for it to be thought necessary for rolling stock to be thought of, as a preliminary step towards the operating of the line, and already orders have been given to provide for this. Four ten wheeler locomotives have been ordered from the Kingston Locomotive Works, one of which is expected to arrive here within the next few days. A temporary engine house has been got ready, and the engines will be stalled there for the present. Rhodes, Curry & Co., of Nova Scotia, are filling an order for 125 flatcars and 50 boxcars, which are expected to be completed before long, and all of which are to be of 60,000 pounds capacity. In addition to these, a requisition has been sent in for three first-class coaches, four second-hand coaches, two baggage and two express cars, with a view to being ready to handle the tourist trade next fall. Everything is to be thoroughly up-to-date, and it is expected that the tourist traffic will be heavy from the start.

EXTENSION TO THE G. T. P.

With regard to the extension of the line from New Liskeard on north to the proposed junction with the Grand Trunk Pacific, Mr. Russell said that preliminary survey parties were now in the field as far north as the height of land, and that they would be out all winter. During the autumn the necessary provisions were taken in and cached in the most convenient places, so as to be available during the winter months, when it would be nearly impossible to get supplies in. Ample provisions have been laid down, so that there may be no interruption to the work. These preliminary surveys have been run up the Blanche River from Lake Temiskaming to the height of land, and will be continued from there on north down the White Clay River to the Black River, on which the junction with the Grand Trunk Pacific will approximately be made. Before long, arrangements will be made to follow these surveys up with location parties, which will definitely locate the exact route of the railway, and thus prepare the way for construction, which will be gone on with so soon as the Ontario Legislature votes the necessary funds.

Mr. Russell has prepared a large map of the northern country through which he is constructing this railway. This map had been recently traced in his office, and is probably the first one to show the new townships which were surveyed this year north of the height of land. From it one can get a splendid idea of the enormous area of the new territory, which is being opened up, and of its bewildering network of lakes and rivers. The maximum grade on the line north from New Liskeard will be one-half of 1 per cent., whereas on the other part it went as high as three-quarters of 1 per cent.

THE FIRST LOW WASH OF THE IMMIGRATION WAVE.

The tide of immigration has at last turned our way, and the great Northwest is being quite rapidly peopled, says the Brantford Expositor. The opening up of that rich territory of almost boundless extent marks an epoch in the history of Canada. It is the dawn of a new era. The wealth which will be produced from that great district in increasing measure each succeeding year as development proceeds, will radiate all over the country—and nearly every industry will be benefitted by it. Had we no other resource than that rich territory, a prosperous future would be assured to us. The rapid settlement of these fertile lands means that correspondingly rapid progress will be made in manufacturing industries that supply the wants of the farmers and ranchers.

We will now ask you to look at the figures—and note please the progress made during the last seven years. First we will take immigrants:—

Seven years, 1890 to 1896 inclusive	271,216
Seven years, 1897 to 1903 inclusive	366,946
Increase last seven years	95,730

Next we will examine the record as to the importation of settlers' effects, which is as follows:

Total value of settlers' effects imported for seven years, 1890 to 1896, inclusive	$15,876,440
Total value of settlers' effects, imported for seven years, 1897 to 1903, inclusive	25,697,806
Increase last seven years, under Liberals	$9,821,166

Now, look please at the record of homestead entries. For the year 1896 they numbered only 1,578—whereas last year they were 31,239. During the seven years 1890 to 1896 inclusive they totalled 22,845, as compared with 75,530 for the succeeding seven years, 1897 to 1903 inclusive. Further and still more striking it is an actual fact that nearly 13,000 more homestead entries for land were made during the seven years the Liberals have been in office than during the whole eighteen years of Conservative rule. Examine the figures:

Total for 18 years, 1879 to 1896, inclusive	62,061
Total for 7 years, 1897 to 1903 inclusive	75,530

What better evidence could you want as to the vigour, the wisdom and the success of the Government's immigration policy?

But, we have another test to submit, namely the record of land sales made by railway and other companies holding grants of lands made to them by the Conservative party when they were in power, and also sales by the Hudson Bay Company.

During the last four years such sales were:

Acreage	7,700,212
Value	$26,632,130

Whereas the record for the last four years of the Conservative Government was:

Acreage	411,608
Value	$1,144,580

We quote only four years periods in this instance because the returns of such sales were not published by the government prior to 1893.

If you would not sweep back the wave of progress keep the Laurier Government in power.

PATRICK UPTON IS DEAD.

Lived a Month After Fearful Injuries Inflicted By Fanny McGarvey With an Axe—The Inquest.

Strathroy, Dec. 19.—Patrick Upton, who was frightfully injured by an axe in the hands of his niece, Fanny McGarvey here on Nov. 6 last, died yesterday morning. The end was never in doubt by the attending physicians, although the vitality of the man astounded them, and his case will go on record in medical circles. Three wounds were inflicted upon his head, all between three and four inches deep, and his brain has been exposed for more than a month.

The trial of Miss McGarvey, which has been frequently postponed in anticipation of a change in Upton's condition will be brought on at once.

Miss McGarvey had been keeping house for Upton, who was single, for the past nineteen years, and it is said that at times she was subject to spells of mental aberration. According to her own statement, she attempted the life of Upton in order to save him from some horrible torment which had appeared to her in a vision. This is also borne out by members of the family, who claim that she has been slightly demented for a number of years. Upton drove to Strathroy from his home seven miles from town, on the afternoon of Nov. 7, and called at the McGarvey residence, where he partook of supper with the family.

At the conclusion of the meal the party sat around the kitchen fire in social conversation. Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGarvey, their three children, Miss Fanny Appleton and Miss Fanny McGarvey were in the room. McGarvey was lying on a lounge to the right of Upton, who was sitting in a chair before the fire. Misses Appleton and McGarvey were seated at the left and slightly to the rear of him. During the conversation, the accused, without a moment's warning or the least provocation, arose and producing a shorthandled axe from beneath her cape, approached Upton before her purpose was grasped by those present, and taking the weapon in both hands, brought it down with terrific force upon his head, inflicting a wound from which his brains oozed out. Upton fell across his chair, and received two more heavy blows before his assailant could be overpowered.

An inquest was opened at Strathroy yesterday afternoon, when the following jury was sworn in: George Lamotte, James Wright, J. D. Meeklson, H. N. Evely, R. Freele, A. Stevenson, R. J. Avery, L. R. Smith, S. McCandles, J. A. Newton, Sam Keyser, Joseph Tull, H. Mihell, Robert Thompson and E. J. Malone, all of Strathroy.

Fannie McGarvey will be taken to Strathroy Monday for the preliminary trial.

The funeral of the deceased will take place Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock.

SHOT AND POISON.

Meth Used By Leonard Spread a Barnardo Boy in Committing Suicide.

Ellesmere, Dec. 19.—A most determined case of suicide occurred on the farm of Alex. Sterling, near here. The victim was Leonard Spread, Mr. Sterling's farm hand. Spread took the horses to the blacksmith shop and had them shod Thursday after dinner, brought them home and put them in the stable. He was not seen again until yesterday morning, when his body was found in the granery with the top of his head blown off. He had at first taken Paris green, as the drinking cup at the pump was covered with it. Spread then got the shotgun, deliberately loaded a shell and went to the granery, where the deed was committed. Mr. Sterling, on his arrival home on Thursday at dusk, found the horses all right, but supposed that the man had gone to a neighbor's. Spread was a "Barnardo boy," and was about 20 years old. Coroner Britton, upon investigation, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

CANADA IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Report of Canadian Trade Commission Shows Large Increase.

London, Dec. 19.—Mr. Jardine, Canadian Trade Commissioner to South Africa, now in London, on being interviewed last night, said that South Africa would soon recover if white settlers would work as hard as Canadian farmers, Manitoba hard wheat flour proved the best against all competition, but Canada was doing a large trade in agricultural implements and carriages. Imperial sentiment had offset hundreds of American agents. Had the cattle disease not prevented, Rhodesia would be a splendid agricultural district. Koch is settled there, and for two years had been trying to eradicate the plague.

$7,000,000 TO NEW POPE,

Money Was Confided to Cardinal Gotti By Leo XIII.

Paris, Dec. 19.—The Rome correspondent of The Figaro says that Cardinal Gotti, Prefect of the Propaganda, and one of the executors of the will of Leo XIII., was received by the Pope Thursday, and informed His Holiness that he held a large sum of money confided to him by the late Pope, with the mission that he should hand it to the new Pope four months after his election. The amount is said to be about $7,000,000.

A Jet Black Sparrow.

Alvin Stewart of Linton writes The Globe: I noticed in your paper some time ago an account of a robin which had appeared somewhere in northern Ontario, but I think I have a somewhat greater curiosity than that. We have a jet black sparrow at our place. I think they are quite rare, as we have never seen nor heard tell of one before. It is a little larger than the common sparrow, but not less destructive. At a glance one would think it was a blackbird or swamp robin, but it has no red feathers under its wings, and it has the same chirp as the sparrow.

REACHED A CLIMAX

Conservative Meeting in Renfrew Broke Up in Disorder.

GAMEY HAD TO STOP SPEAKING

Apparently He Has Received a Hint That His Language is Too Rough For North Renfrew—Mr. Stratton Explains the Administration of His Department—Minister Discusses Gamey's Audacity.

Pembroke, Dec. 19.—The Conservative meeting at Strauaman's schoolhouse, in the Township of Alice, broke up in disorder last night. The gathering from the start was inclined to be noisy and grew worse as time went on. The building, which was very small, was packed, and many more were outside struggling to get in. The result was that the speakers were continually interrupted, and the interruptions reached a climax when Mr. Gamey was half way through his story. He had just told about the alleged payment of $8,000 when the uproar became so great that he could not make himself heard. The Chairman forced his way to the door and threatened to have the disturbers put in the lockup, but it was useless, and Mr. Gamey was obliged to bring his story to an abrupt finish. He has apparently received a hint that his language was too rough for North Renfrew, for he was fairly moderate last night. He did say: "I would do it again if I were in the same position, only I would do it a blamed sight better," and at another time: "The Premier of this Province is a coward and a hyprocite or he would have gone into the box," but these expressions are mild compared with those earlier in the campaign.

Mr. Dunlop, who was the first speaker, received a good hearing, but Mr. Werdenhammer, editor of The Canadischer Bauernfreund, who was brought from Waterloo, Ont., to address his fellow-countrymen in German, was repeatedly interrupted, and the interruptions reached a climax under Mr. Gamey.

The meeting broke up about 10 o'clock.

MR. STRATTON AT BEACHBURG.

Minister Explains Working of His Department and Government's Policy.

Beachburg, Dec. 19.—The electors of Beachburg ought to be well primed on political issues now, and there is still another week before polling. They were addressed by the Premier on Friday, by Mr. Gamey on Tuesday, and by Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mr. Hale, the Liberal candidate, last night. The Town Hall was again crowded, and the addresses were followed with the greatest interest. Mr. Stratton explained the working of his department, the responsibilities of a Minister, and showed how the administration of licenses, public institutions, asylums, health boards, vital statistics, incorporation of companies, all demanded unremitting attention of a personal character. The license branch was important, but difficult and thankless, and he claimed that there had been a great improvement in its administration, and that the Province had a record for sobriety and morality in advance of any other. He showed the difficulty of enforcing a law for which there was not universal sympathy, and which was alleged by some to interfere with the "liberty of the subject." The enforcement of the liquor law depended on the moral support given the department by the different localities. It was impeded by the apathy and indifference of many who professed sympathy with it. Another obstruction was the loud-mouthed agitator, who prostituted the cause of temperance to party purposes, with the result that the department was blamed when blame did not rest on its shoulders.

Mr. Stratton, after dealing with the general policy of the Government, took up the Gamey charges, and said that he was glad that the individual who represented Manitoulin had preceded his own visit. He was glad that the electors had had an opportunity of seeing and hearing Mr. Gamey, so that they could form their own conclusion as to the truth of the case. Mr. Gamey had shown most daring audacity. He then reviewed the whole case.

Mr. Hale, who has attended all the principal meetings during the week, was the first speaker, and made an excellent impression. After dealing with the general policy of the Government, he spoke of the timber policy, and strongly approved of it as a practical lumberman.

Found Dead on the Ice.

Toronto, Dec. 19.—Yesterday afternoon some boys found the body of Hugh Calgey lying on the ice on the Don River. Deceased was an inmate of the House of Providence. He left that institution, and it is supposed that he wandered until tired and laid down and died. There were no marks of violence on the body. He was 65 years of age.

Steam Barge in Danger.

Trenton, Dec. 19.—It is reported here that there is now and has been for the last two days a steam barge lying near Presque Isle lights. CANADA'S CRUISERS.

Views of Our Relations to Imperial Defence Inspired Thereby.

London, Dec. 19.—(C.A.P.)—The National Zeitung, of Berlin connects the Canadian Government's proposed two cruisers with the secret meeting held by the Imperial Defence Committee when the presence of Sir Frederick Borden indicated the recognition by the British Government of the right of the colonies to co-operate in the important question of Imperial defence.

The Post says the appointment of Sir Frederick Borden on the Imperial Defence Committee realizes Laurier's suggestion. "Call us to your councils," adding that one of Borden's objects in his visit was the transference of Canadian militia officers to India and that one result should be the stationing in India from time to time of a battalion of the permanent Canadian force."

Chamberlain is Surprised.

London, Dec. 19.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Chamberlain has written a letter stating that he had no idea when he first introduced the Canadian preference that it would prove so beneficial to British trade.

Consular Appointments.

London, Dec. 19.—(C.A.P.)—The King has approved the appointment of W. Holloway as Consul-General of the United States at Halifax and of A. L. Eakins as Consul for Cuba at Yarmouth, Canada.

More Chamberlain Experts.

London, Dec. 19.—(C.A.P.)—The following additional experts have consented to serve on Joseph Chamberlain's commission: Henry Birchenough, who was sent to South Africa as a special commissioner of the Board of Trade to inquire into British trade in that country; A. Corah, in the hosier trade, and R. H. Reade, a flax spinner of Belfast, Ireland.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia For sale by all druggists.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, are generally so well pleased with the benefits derived that they tell the good news to their neighbours. POSTPONED INDEFINITELY.

Australian Elections Considered Discouraging to Fiscal Reformers.

London, Dec. 19.—The News, referring to the Australian elections, says it has produced for the hour and his commission probably a majority of moderate protectionists, and certainly anti-Imperialists, with not the slightest prospect of endorsing the preference.

The Chronicle's Melbourne correspondent wires that the tariff is not likely to be amended, and that preferential trade will probably be postponed indefinitely. The returns show Free traders, 40; protectionists, 35.

The Standard says: "The result rests on the maxim, 'Australia for Australians,' and the control has passed to that section associated, on the whole, with the most rigid protectionism. The Australian workingmen are willing to accept the advantage our fiscal innovators offer, but there is no whisper of any return. Much the same moral is suggested by the undisguised reluctance of Canadian Conservatives to refrain from increasing the rigor of the regulations giving the Canadian manufacturer a monopoly of the colonial markets."

G. T. DEPOSIT MADE.

One Million Pounds of Their Guaranteed Stock—Legislation Needed.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—The following official statement was issued last night by the Government: The Grand Trunk Railway Company have deposited one million pounds of their guaranted stock as security for the carrying out of the agreement entered into last session between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific, subject to ratification of their shareholders at a general meeting. Inasmuch as the contract requires cash or Government securities for the deposit, legislation will be required to confirm the acceptance of the securities which have been deposited, though such securities are worth to-day more than par, and their value is unquestionable.

STUDENTS' WILDLY STAMPEDE.

From Twenty-Five to Sixty Are Reported Killed.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 19.—Walden University, a colored institute, was burned last night. Students, male and female, jumped from windows. From 25 to 60 are reported killed and injured. The number of injured is estimated at 50, and every ambulance in the city has been brought into requisition.

The fire broke out in the Tennessee Central College for young women, a department of Walden University. The building was four stories high. It had no fire escapes, and a wild stampede followed the alarm, the inmates jumping from the windows.

Bank Deposits in Stockings.

Down in the Bank of New Brunswick there is a room which is not known to the general public, but which has proved itself a great convenience to a certain class of depositors and the usefulness of which fully justifies its existence.

This is what is known as the stocking room, and is used by ladies who carry their money in safer receptacles than pocket books or chatelaines. The room is not used every day, but now and then it happens that a lady approaches the receiving teller's box and announces that she wishes to put some money in the bank. When the teller waits for the money the lady displays some slight embarrassment and explains that she can't get at it right there in the long room where there are a lot of people.

This is where the stocking room comes in handy and after spending a few moments in it the depositor returns triumphantly with the roll of bills in her hand.

The room is not in such demand as in the case in some larger cities, but is nevertheless quite frequently found convenient.—St. John Sun.

Will You Help a Sick Friend?

He Would Do That Much for You.

Get My Book for Him Now.

Which Shall I Send?

Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book No. 2 on the Heart.
Book No. 3 on the Kidneys.
Book No. 4 for Women.
Book No. 5 for Men (sealed).
Book No. 6 on Rheumatism.

Send me no money.

Only tell me which book to send.

You certainly know of someone who is sick. Some sufferer who will be grateful for the help my book offers.

And that book tells of a way to help. Tells of a way so certain that I as a physician, offer that help on trial. The book tells how for thirty years in hospitals and at bedsides I searched for a way to cure deep-seated and difficult diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness, the inside nerves were weak.

Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power.

Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation.

Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen—that would vitalize these nerves.

That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in a hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to the sick ones everywhere was my thought.

I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me—like an inspiration.

"I will offer it to the sick on trial," said I. "Then they will know I am sincere—that my prescription is unusual."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me.

Now to any Sick One

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Can be Taken at my Risk.

For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near you who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month. Then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubt as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do.

No matter how prejudiced, you cannot resist an offer like this if you are at all sick. If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it. Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help.

Get my book now—to-day.

CANADA'S NIAGARA PARK.

An American Exchange Gives Some Information About the Reservation.

The establishment of a great reservation on the Canadian side of the Niagara River is a remarkable instance of the creation of such a public domain practically without cost to the public. Queen Victoria Park, as the reservation is called, embraces a strip of land extending the entire length of the river from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario, a distance of about thirty miles, and complements the original reservation on the American side established by the State of New York.

Queen Victoria Park was established by the Provincial Government of Ontario, and the method by which it was accomplished, practically without cost to the public, is interesting. It appears that the lands were paid for by the issue of debentures secured by the property and revenues of the park. The revenue from improvement and maintenance and for meeting the interest and sinking fund requirements was then assured by granting certain franchises and privileges within the park. One of these franchises was for an electric railway running twelve miles, enabling tourist to visit every place of interest at a small cost. For this franchise a revenue of $10,000 a year is received. Another franchise for restaurant privileges, taking visitors under the fall by elevator and for taking photographs brings a like sum.

Most important, however, are the three concessions granted to power companies to take water from the river above the falls for the generation of electricity. It was a fortunate after-thought that led the commissioners to add the sites thus utilised to the park holdings. Thus the greatest electrical development in the world is to be carried out under requirements that call for the approval of every detail by the commission—the work especially designed in a way to do the least violence to the environment of the great cataract, all construction on the surface artistically harmonised with the surroundings. For these three franchises the present rental is $60,000 a year, while a royalty on every horse power to be developed will yield a total revenue when all the works are in full operation of about $250,000 annually. The establishment of this great park on our northern border, says The Buffalo Courier, is a matter of no small importance to the people of the United States, who jointly with the Canadians are interested in the preservation of one of the most marvelous works of nature.

A Meeting to be Held To-night in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

To-night at the Y.M.C.A. Hall a meeting will be held when the question of forming a federation for majority rule will be discussed. The meeting is the outcome of the lecture delivered Wednesday night by Mr. Walter H. Roebuck on the "Initiative and Referendum," and it is expected that the labour unions as well as other organizations in town will become affiliated with the proposed federation. The plan to be adopted is that of canvasing the candidates for municipal honours and asking from them pledges to support the proposal to inaugurate the system of the Initiative and Referendum in municipal affairs.

Mr. W. S. Robinson has been elected secretary, and it is probable that at the meeting to-night a President and Executive Committe will be elected. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

PREPARING FOR CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS

Children's Shelter Inmates Will be Given a Joyous Christmas Tide.

The inmates of the Children's Shelter on Charlotte and Stewart streets will doubtless enjoy the Christmas season almost, if not quite as heartily as any children more favourably circumstanced. There are at present six children being cared for by the Shelter, and all are in good health, comfortable and well cared for, and with the provisions now under way for the celebration of Christmas, it promises to be a pleasant day for the children. Mr. and Mrs. Henry, in whose care the children are, have preparations under way for a Christmas tree which will be erected Christmas afternoon for the amusement of the children. Mrs. Henry, the matron, gratefully acknowledges a donation of a beautiful bed comforter from the Ladies' Aid of Bridgenorth, and a large quilted bed comforter from Mrs. William Croft, of town. A large number of donations of cast off clothing have also been made, for which the matron is very thankful.

It is pleasing to know that even children of the town are taking an interest in the Shelter, and are contributing to its support. Last week a bazaar was held by two little girls at the residence of Mr. Robert Neill, conducted by Miss Jean Neill and Miss Robina Cummings, and from it the sum of $22.39 was realized, which has been donated to the Shelter.

For those who have means at their disposal a donation to the Shelter will help to bring Christmas cheer to some to whom the yule-tide has perhaps in the past meant but little.

SATURDAY A LARGE MARKETING DAY.

Quantities of Poultry—The Market Hall Thronged With Persons.

Probably no pen has described Christmas weather, no matter how idealized, as delightful as that which is being experienced this year in Ontario. The jingle of bells of different tones mingled with the dull thudding of horses hoofs on the frozen snow and the swish of the sleigh runners give warning that after months of heat the "time draws near the birth of Christ" and that the year, throughout the course of which all have experienced joys and sorrows, gains and losses and during which so many important events have occurred, both national and international, will soon be ended. This is the busy season of the year and perhaps the Saturday before Christmas is the busiest of the busy season. And to-day was no exception. The streets were crowded with townsfolk and the inhabitants of the country, many of the latter, perhaps, driving twenty or thirty miles to purchase presents for their friends. The shops were all crowded while the town Market Hall was even more than that. There was a big supply of poultry especially, and the demand was equally great. Turkeys and geese were there in abundance and for over two hours the market was a dense throng of persons anxious to buy. Prices were high at the beginning and remained firm throughout the day. The chief were as follows: Butter 19 to 20 cents; geese $1; turkeys $1.35 to $1.80; chickens per pair 60 to 65 cents, and eggs 22 to 24 cents.

LAST RELICS OF PRIMITIVE AGE

Fifth Ward Sustains the Loss of Unique Inhabitants.

It will doubtless be a surprise to many residents of Peterborough to learn that within the borders of the town, to be more explicit, in the fifth ward, during the last week three bears have been shot.

Of course it might not be a matter of policy to circulate this information abroad, particularly as Peterboroughites take considerable pride in the growing metropolitanism of this town, but the facts have to be faced. It is to be hoped that the animals shot this week will be the last remaining relics of the primitive past, and that from this time forth these denizens of the forest will find Peterborough too lively for their abode. To the unerring aim of Dr. Amys, one of the trio of bears owes his sudden demise. It might be added that the animals were the property of Mr. Conroy. The bears, in sympathy with the attitude of the Russian bear, had developed bellicose tendencies which threatened to disrupt the entente cordiale between them and certain small boys.

"VERDI NIGHT" WITH FIFTY-SEVENTH BAND.

Exceedingly Successful Musical Evening.

Both Band and Vocalists Scored Gratifying Successes.

The concert of the 57th Band last night giving the public a delightful "night with Verdi" was in every way a grand success. Public appreciation of this splendid organization has not been wanting from time to time, but last night it was expressed in a most emphatic way by the presence of a large audience, representing the best in social position and the highest in artistic temperament. The reception given the contributions of the band, were not only hearty but enthusiastic, and the applause awarded came from full hearts. To say the band in the way it did its excellent work was deserving of all the applause it received, is putting the fact mildly. The success of the Verdi evening is especially gratifying to the Examiner. One is always pleased to have one's judgments justified, and when the Examiner, which was favoured with the privilege of hearing some of the rehearsals, assured the people that the Verdi night concert of the 57th Band would be one of the best high-class musical entertainments ever presented in Peterborough, it felt that the usual risky role of prophecy would in this instance be a safe one and so it proved. When one takes into consideration the superb work of the band and the excellent vocal contributions of Miss Helen Davies and Mrs. K. Bardley-Wilmot, one is struck with very pleasant evidence that, musically, Peterborough is splendidly self-contained. That such a concert could be put on by purely local talent was a surprise to many. The musical capabilities of Peterborough are large, and if we could arrive at some means of developing our existing local talent to the extent possible, we should hold a very enviable place in the musical world.

The band was under the white light of criticism for about two hours of hard work, and every moment was a pleasure to the audience. It would not be honest to say that the playing of the band was without fault. There are spots on the sun. But the general character of their work was of a very high order and immensely creditable to both conductor and members, and the little flaws which a keen observer might note were not more conspicuous than some attending the work of every great musical organization. There were thirty members of the band under the baton last night but when occasion demanded there was only one member in the band. The ensemble effects were invariably excellent. The precision of attack, delicacy of shading, and smooth crescendi, were as pronounced features as the fidelity of interpretation of the several contrasting numbers.
